● No matter what the future brings, the people of this State have the satisfaction of knowing that the electric companies of Indiana have been building ahead as rapidly as possible since V-J Day . . . getting set in advance . . . anticipating the increasing electric power needs of Indiana's farms, homes and industries.

The Indiana Electric Companies, under their experienced managements, have always made sure there'd be plenty of power available, when and where needed in Indiana. Since World War II they have been undertaking the greatest program of electric facility expansion in the State's history.

If Indiana's industries should have to change over from their expanded peacetime production to production for defense, it is reassuring to know that the electric generating capacity of Indiana's electric companies is now already twice as great as it was in 1940 . . . will have been increased still more in the next two years, as present facilities, now under construction, are placed in service.

Additional Indiana electric power generating, transmission and distribution facilities are being planned right now by the Indiana electric companies—involving the investment of many more millions of dollars. How soon they can be built and placed in service will now principally depend upon the availability of necessary materials.

Around the Town

With the Editor

I got a letter from Mr. Henry C. Springer, Butler attorney, this Wednesday in which he passed on the information that the Public Service Commission will hold a hearing at Auburn in the Commissioners Court on October 5 in reference to the "adequacy or inadequacy of telephone service in St. Joe and Butler."

The remainder of the letter states-

"I do not have the exact hour but will receive it later and will advise you.

"In the meantime, if the telephone subscribers of St. Joe want to be heard in reference to services, they should arrange to be present at that time and I should like to be advised who the witnesses will be."

So, there you are. If you are a telephone subscriber and want to be a witness at the hearing, just leave your name at the News Office, or, if you happen to be in Butler between now and the date for the hearing, just drop in at Mr. Springer's office and leave your name.

I glanced out the window next to the linotype Wednesday afternoon and noticed a pert young lady in white shorts approaching the News Office. I took a second look — because I didn't recognize her — and went on with my work.

Imagine my surprise when she walked in the front door and asked, "Are you Ted Haberkorn?"

Trying to hide my joy in realizing that a stranger knew my name, I replied—

"Yes."

It turned out that the young lady was Ruth Ann Maxwell. She had been in nurses training in Ft. Wayne with my sister-in-law, Ruth Schafenacker, of Ft. Wayne, and wanted said in-law's address.

In order to relate the incident to said in-law accurately and have the name correct, I asked, "What was your maiden name?"

She replied, "Doll."

—She sure is.

NOTICE

Myers Elevator and Coal Co. will be closed all day Saturday, September 16, for the DeKalb Co. Fair.

Partee-Christoff

The wedding of Miss Florence Christoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Spero Christoff, of Ft. Wayne, to Thomas Charles Partee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Partee of Spencerville, took place Saturday at 10 a.m.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. Msgr. John A. Bapst in St. Peter's Catholic Church, preceding the nuptial mass celebrated by the Rev. Daniel Peil, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white taffeta gown featuring appliques of slipper satin in a leaf design around the marquisette yoke. The appliques were repeated in the circular skirt which ended in a long train. A finger-tip veil of nylon illusion was caught to her satin-helmet trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Victoria Christoff attended her sister as maid of honor in a pink tafetta gown with matching mitts and a modified helmet trimmed with twisted cording. Her flowers were red roses and blue delphinium.

Mrs. Harvey Stump, Miss Christine Deloff, Miss Gloriann Naumcheff and Miss Mary Jane Novachoff were bridesmaids. They wore American beauty taffeta gowns and carried pink roses and blue delphinium.

Paul B. Partee attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Joseph Dahm, Richard Lahmeyer, Leslie Logan, Jr., Joseph Parks and David Wehrenberg.

A reception was held from 2 until 5 p.m. at the Van Orman Hotel.

The bride and groom are now honeymooning in Florida. When they return to Ft. Wayne they will make their home at 3439 Ralston St.

LATEST U. S. GOVERNMENT BEST SELLER NOW IN THIRD PRINTING

Public demand for the Government's newest best seller entitled "The Effects of Atomic Weapons" has been so great that two printings have been sold out in less than a month since the book was released, the Government Printing Office announced today. The first printing of 10,000 copies was sold out August 14, the first day the book was available.

A second printing of 20,000 copies is now gone, and a third printing of 15,000 copies will be off the presses in a few days. Orders for the book, which sells for $1.25 per copy, are still pouring into the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D.C.

The information contained in this publication answers many of the questions the public is asking about atomic weapons and what effects they would have if put into use. It is of primary interest to persons engaged in civilian defense, the building trades and others vitally interested in what happens when an atomic bomb explodes.

The book was prepared by the Atomic Energy Commission from non-confidential scientific and technical information. It is the most informative and authoritative book on atomic weapons which can be made public and is the most significant document on atomic energy to be published since the Smythie Report.

NEW TRENDS SEEN IN MIXED FEEDS

Manufacturers of mixed feeds are keeping pace with agricultural science. During 1949 certain trends in the composition of mixed feeds were observed in feed registrations, according to the recently published bulletin, "Inspection of Commercial Feeding Stuffs" no 360, of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Purdue University.

Among these trends were the introduction of animal protein factor supplements, referred to as the APF supplements, in certain feeds, especially swine feeds, and the great increases in registrations of medicated poultry mashes containing sulfa quinoxaline and nitrophenide.

To check the chemical analysis and ingredients guaranteed by feed manufacturers on their tags, 4,279 official samples of commercial feeding stuffs were collected by authorized inspectors in 1949. These samples were obtained from lots of feed being offered for sale by feed mixers and feed dealers, and from lots which had been sold to feed purchasers. Of these samples, 87 percent were mixed feeds and the remainder were ingredient feeds. The total number of feed manufacturers or registrants represented was 959. Only eight percent of the samples examined were classified as being seriously misbranded or misrepresented.

The Purdue bulletin further explained that of the 343 misbranded samples, 59 percent were deficient in crude protein, 14 percent were deficient in crude fat, 19 percent contained excess crude fiber and 17 percent were deficient for other reasons. Some of the samples were deficient in more than one component.

The number of shipments or lots of feed withdrawn from sale because of lack of Indiana State tags was 270 and the amount of feed was 383 tons.

TOO MANY STRAWBERRY PLANTS SPOIL PATCH

The same story holds true in the strawberry patch as with cooks in the kitchen, says W. B. Ward, Purdue University extension horticulturist. He points out that too many strawberry plants this fall will mean few quality berries next year.

The strawberry bed should be well-established by this time of year, and sufficient plants should be set so that the runners are well-spaced and not overcrowded, he adds.

Fall is also a good time to give the berry plantation another thorough cultivation to eliminate the weeds and grass. When cultivating at this time of year, runners should be spaced about one to every eight to ten inches in the row, Ward recommends. The row may be as wide as 18 to 20 inches. All excess runner plants should be cut out.

Replacements should be made for any blank spaces in the rows where plants have died during the summer.

The horticulturist discloses that some commercial growers have found the field crop rotary hoe a good tool to go over the strawberry acreage quickly. It will enable good work in weeding, spacing the plants and cultivating, all in one operation.

Rites Held For H. H. Squires

Final rites for Horatio H. (Hort) Squires, 70, a retired farmer who died Sunday afternoon, were conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Gerig Funeral Home in Auburn. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

Mr. Squires, a member of the DeKalb Alcoholic Licensing board and a resident at 336 W. Nineteenth St., Auburn, died at 3 p.m. Sunday in the home of his brother-in-law, Frank Cutter, at 357 W. Fifteenth St., Auburn. His 71st birthday anniversary would have been Tuesday.

He died from cancer following a lingering illness extending over the past year. Eight months ago he was admitted to a Columbus, O., hospital for major surgery. After release from the hospital his condition failed to improve.

At Wednesday's rites, the Rev. Raymond Foree, pastor of the Auburn Baptist Church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Joseph Ferguson of east of Auburn. Burial was in Roselawn Cemetery.

A native of Fairfield township, he was born Sept. 12, 1880, near Corunna, the son of the late Dr. James W. and Mina Buchanan Squires. His father was practicing physician in Churubusco and in Ft. Wayne.

He married Josie M. Eckert in 1899. From 1918 until three years ago when they moved to Auburn, the couple resided on a farm a mile and a half northeast of Concord. They had no children.

FISH OF INDIANA

CHANNEL CATFISH

DESCRIPTION: The Channel Catfish is the most slender of all our catfish. The head is narrow and small, the eyes are nearer the upper surface of the head than the lower. The ground color is normally blue, never yellow. The young are spotted, but many lose the spots after attaining a few pounds in weight. This Catfish has 25 to 29 rays in the anal fin. The Blue Catfish has from 30 to 36 rays.

DISTRIBUTION: The Channel Catfish is found in most rivers of the state and a few of our gravel bottom lakes.

HABITAT: It prefers the deeper, clearer water of our gravel or sand bottom streams. They are usually found in those parts of streams where there is plenty of current.

FOOD: This fish feeds on both animal and vegetable matter. Prefers worms, insect larvae, clams, snails, crayfish and minnows, algae and other vegetable matter.

STOCKING: The Fish and Game Division is carrying on a stocking program at present and increased production is planned for the future.

SPAWNING AND PROPAGATION: The Channel Catfish can be raised under artificial conditions in hatchery ponds. Old nail kegs or milk cans for the purpose of spawning are placed in ponds.

SEASON AND BAG LIMIT: No closed season or bag limit but must be 10 inches in length.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

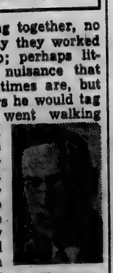
By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Mark 3:31-35; 6:3; I Corinthians 15:7; Galatians 1:9-13; Acts 12:17; 15.
DEVOTIONAL READING: James 1: 19-27.

Brother to Jesus

Lesson for September 17, 1950

THEY WENT fishing together, no doubt; very likely they worked together in the shop; perhaps little James was the nuisance that small brothers sometimes are, but like all small brothers he would tag along when Jesus went walking over the Nazareth hills. As a man in later years he became influential and famous; indeed it was he who probably wrote the book in our New Testament called "James." But as a boy, his neighbors saw nothing remarkable in him. So completely commonplace was he, that as Mark 6 shows us, the natives of Nazareth couldn't believe that one of James' brothers could amount to anything.



Dr. Foreman

FOR years and years James grew up with Jesus, boy with boy. They lived under the same roof, ate from the same dish. James may even have worn his big brother's outgrown tunics. All his childhood days he knew the care and love of the same mother Mary that Jesus had. Through all those "silent" years when Jesus lived and worked in Nazareth, James lived and worked beside him.

And yet, the strange thing is that when Jesus left the carpenter shop and went about "doing good" as Peter said, James did not believe in him. It seems clear from the story in Mark 3 that both Mary and the brothers (not James only) had the idea that Jesus was out of his mind. They came to get him and would have stopped his ministry at that point, if they could. John also mentions the fact that Jesus' own brothers did not believe in him.

It seems strange, yet the reason may not be hard to find. Perhaps it was a case of the old proverb, "Familiarity breeds contempt." Perhaps James had a sort of inferiority complex about himself, maybe he agreed with the villagers' low opinion about him, so that he could not believe that his brother could be the Christ. In any case it is plain that if miracles could ever have compelled belief, Jesus' miracles would have convinced James . . . but he was an unbeliever right through the day of Calvary.

Believer

PRECISELY what changed him was never known. Some anonymous writer in early times wrote a "Gospel of James"—a piece of fiction never accepted by the church as genuine. What we do know is what Paul tells us; that after his resurrection, Jesus "appeared to James." It may well be that James was convinced by the risen Christ as he had never been by the Carpenter of Nazareth.

Be that as it may, as time went on and Christians began to multiply in Jerusalem, James appeared as the leader of the Christians' Home Church. At the important conference held in Jerusalem to decide the church's first great controversy, it was James whose speech was the "last word" before the decisive vote.

Quality of Leadership

JAMES was not an accepted leader merely because he was a brother of Jesus. There were other brothers who remained quite obscure. James was a recognized leader because of his personal qualities. The reader is invited to study these out for himself. But there is one interesting and unusual combination of qualities in this man, strictness with himself, together with flexible generosity in dealing with others.

In Acts 21:17-26 it is clear that James kept all the laws of Moses himself and expected other Jews to do the same. To the end of his life he was personally a rigid conservative. But when it came to other people, he was far more tolerant.

When the question arose, How much of Jewish law shall we expect Gentile Christians to observe? James agreed to the startlingly small nucleus of laws that the Jerusalem conference set forth as the absolute minimum for all. James did not wish his own conscience to bind every one else. He did not expect every one to be bound by his own pattern. He had high standards and he lived by them. But he did not use his own standards as a club with which to beat others over the head.

What Does He Mean? ? ?

President Truman seems to be having trouble in letting the people of this country know what he means in his various statements.

We have been informed by our president that our own way of life will undergo drastic changes in the future. Does he mean that controls and taxation which are clamped on industry and individual alike as in World War II, will again be in force, this time permanently? Does he mean that his plan for socialized medicine, now of secondary importance while we are engaged in "police action", will be forced on John Q. Public when the time comes for peaceful considerations? Does he mean that, in his opinion, the democratic party will remain in power through the next national election — with the help of the thousands upon thousands of unnecessary employees on the government payroll

Some time ago Mr. Truman referred to Joseph Stalin as "good old Joe." Yet he also states that we must go all-out to fight communism. Who is Mr. Stalin — only Mr. Communism himself.

More recently Mr. Truman stated that he could foresee the day when every U. S. family would have an income of at least some six thousand dollars a year. If he meant that, why did he use the terminology "drastic changes" on a later occasion? It was a poor choice of words if he did mean the same thing.

Still more recently Mr. Truman had to apologize to the U. S. marine corps for what he admitted was an unfortunate choice of words — he referred to the corps as a police force for the the navy and said that as long as he was president, it would remain that way. He apologized, saying that he didn't mean it just that way.

Does Mr. Truman know what he means?

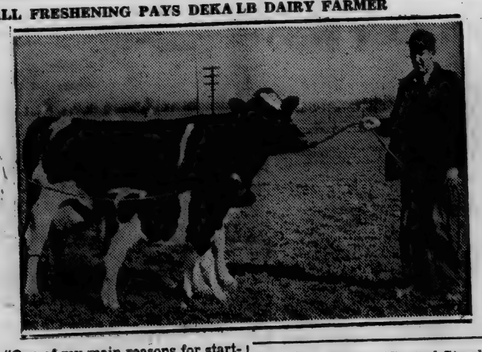
FALL FRESHENING PAYS DEKALB DAIRY FARMER



"One of my main reasons for starting fall freshening was that it would give me a chance to take a vacation in the fall," Paul Post of DeKalb county relates jokingly. He adds that he hasn't taken the vacation yet, but he's closer to it than he was before.

The advantages of fall freshening are the subject of this month's educational circular being distribtued to dairy producers in this district by the Northeastern Indiana Milk and Cream Processors. The circular was prepared in cooperation with county agents, dairy fieldmen and the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Service.

Post, who is shown here with two of his registered Holsteins, farms 146 acres near Auburn. He believes he has received real dividends from the fall freshening program since his herd has the highest butterfat average in the county, 474.9 pounds per cow.

The DeKalb county farmer has been using fall freshening for four years. He has his cows bred from about Christmas to March so that they will freshen from September to December. In addition to the "vacation" possibility, Post likes the program because his cows give more milk during the period of high winter prices and he has more time to take care of the calves in the fall than in the spring. During hot weather and the fly season, the cows udders aren't distended, thus helping mastitis control. Post says milk production from his herd has been increased from ten to fifteen per cent.

Purdue dairy specialists point out that a study of production records shows definitely that fall cows will produce as much as 800 pounds more milk per year than spring freshening cows. Fall cows carry peak production through winter, if properly fed, and there is a second stimulus for production in the spring when they are turned out to pasture.

They add that three times a day milking of high producing cows is practical and profitable for fall cows because of the more uniform distribution of labor when other work lets up. Production is thus increased ten to fifteen percent and udder trouble is lessened.

WATERFOWL SEASON BEGINS NOVEMBER 3

The open season for hunting migratory waterfowl in the Mississippi Flyway, which embraces Indiana among other states, has been set by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service for a thirty-five day period beginning at noon (Central Standard Time) November 3 and ending one hour before sunset December 7.

In a short time the Division of Fish and Game, Indiana Department of Conservation, will announce the exact hours and minutes of sunrises and sunsets during the hunting season allotted. Further details will be included.

The regulations set forth by the U.S.F. and W.L. prohibit the use of automatic loading or repeating shotguns capable of holding more than three shells. It is also a regulation that a plug, which must be placed in every weapon of the type mentioned above, must be incapable of being removed without completely dis-assembling the gun. Regulations also do not authorize the taking of waterfowl lured or enticed by means of grain or other feed or with the aid of live duck or goose decoys.

HINTS ON REFINISHING

Many an unsightly piece of furniture has been made attractive and useful again by refinishing.

Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent, suggests that the first step in refinishing old furniture is removal of all the old varnish. An effective remover may be purchased at a hardware or paint store.

Sometimes traces of varnish may be down in the wood too far to be reached by the scraper and do not show when looking down upon the piece of furniture. To test for these streaks, the homemaker should place the piece between her and a strong light at eye level, or she should stoop and look across it. If there are shiny streaks of varnish still present, they should be removed with medium steel wool dipped into the remover. While scouring, she should follow the grain of the wood.

A round vegetable brush is helpful in removing old finish from carving or grooves on turned areas, or a rag may be placed over the end of the scraper and a corner of that used for cleaning these indentations.

Some articles of furniture may need repairs or reconditioning before the new finish is put on. Handles or knobs may need to be replaced or polished. Miss Moore recommends sanding the furniture with the grain of the wood to smooth and remove ink or other dark spots before applying the finish.

The homemaker should decide which type of finish she will use. It may be oil, seal varnish or shellac finish. Finishes developed by several applications of oil or seal, then wax, are easy to apply and are suited to many pieces. Properly applied, they give a mellow satiny luster to the surface, never a shiny gloss. This finish is not recommended, however, for pieces subjected to heat and water spotting. Spar varnish should be used on these.

Flat varnish is quick to develop, but is less durable. If the article of furniture does not have hard use, it may last quite well. The clear lacquer finish found on much furniture is not suited to home use as it sets so quickly that it must be sprayed on the wood.

Around the Town

With the Editor

Clocks in St. Joe will be turned back one hour to central standard time Saturday, September 23, at midnight—if you don't forget it.

St. Joe business men and others in this locality who participated in the 4-H livestock auction at the DeKalb County Fair were paid a compliment Tuesday morning. A St. Joe farmer, who prefers to remain anonymous, stopped in at the News Office and said he would like to express his appreciation of the support local 4-H members received. He thought it was a fine gesture and it made him proud to say that he was from St. Joe when several St. Joe'ers were named as buyers of 4-H stock.

Speaking of the fair reminds me that there is an increasing amount of money NOT being spent at the county fair. I don't know how others feel, but I would much rather pay fifteen cents or a quarter or whatever it takes to shoot baskets for prizes or toss pennies and nickels into dishes for a prize if the pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters were going to some DeKalb County organization instead of an outside group who do it for a living. Maybe it isn't possible to build up a fair around local activities—it seems like it should be—but if it could be done, I'll bet county residents would support the fair better than it has been supported in the last couple of years—and have fun doing it. The rides such as the ferris wheel and merry-go-round have to be brought in because it isn't practical for organizations to operate them only once a year. But do we have to have these other outsiders running the concessions?

The St. Joe Valley Conservation Club has a big day planned for the whole family next Sunday when they open the club grounds just a few blocks west of Keller's Garage. There'll be turtle races, horseshoe pitching, trap shooting and other games, and refreshments. And I think maybe the Colonial Four of Ft. Wayne will be there to do some singing. Don't miss it—everybody'll have fun.

Wednesday was Davey's third birthday. As usual he and Mike were anxious to leave the supper table. They were just outside the door when Mommy brought in a cake with three little candles on it. I called to them to come back in. Mike saw the cake and came in first. Then Dave flung open the back door and rushed in with, "Oh-h-h-h-, HAPPY BUFFDAY TO ME!"

BUSINESS MEN AND FIREMEN TO MEET

There will be a combined businessmen-firemen meeting at the town hall next Monday, September 25.

Meeting time will be 8 p.m. CST.

Firemen and business men are urged to attend. Plans will be made for this year's Halloween party.

Homecoming In Leo Sept. 30

A gala homecoming celebration will be held at Leo, northeast of Ft. Wayne on State Road 1, on Saturday, Sept. 30, 1950, at 10 a.m.

The Cedar Creek Township Fall Festival will be held at Leo for the first time in history. In previous years homecomings for the vicinity were held in the city of Grabill, the mailing address of most of the residents of the township and in the village of Cedarville. Proceeds from the Grabill and Cedarville events were used to equip the Community Parks.

The proceeds from this year's Festival are to be used to finance the new lighted softball field at the school grounds in Leo. Plans include the installation of traffic signals at the crossroad approaches to the school to make it more safe for the busses in transit and for the children who walk to and from school. Present enrollment of the grade and high school is 500 and includes some from St. Joseph, Milan and Jackson townships (DeKalb County), as well as all those of Cedar Creek.

The Leo Merchants Association, headed by Mr. David Bertsch, is cooperating with the board of directors of Lion's Field, Inc., to sponsor the township wide affair. President of the board, Mr. Henry Lantz, announced that business men and friends from each of the three towns and surrondiung territory are helping whole-heartedly in making this year's project the most successful, realizing the need and value of adequate recreational facilities and safety devices for the children of the community.

Mr. Virgil Amstutz has charge of advertising space at the site on the school grounds. Exhibitors from all over the county have planned interesting displays.

A large food and refreshment tent will be staffed by members of Ladies Aid, Eastern Star, American Legion Auxiliary, W.S.C.S. and Home Economics clubs. Mr. William Warner and Mr. Richard Spencer are the co-chairmen.

A parade will signal the start of the day's program, moving at 10 a.m. with Mr. William Witmer in charge. 22 Allen County high school bands have been invited to take part in the parade and the Band Contest scheduled for the highlight of the afternoon's program.

Attendance prizes, donated by friends, will be awarded every hour to any person holding the lucky number and wearing a Leo Lions Badge. Registration and entertainment is in charge of Mr. Russell Steinar. Mr. August Stamand is chairman of prizes.

Thirteen Sinclair dealers of Fort Wayne, Monroeville and Leo are the sponsors of an interesting WGL radio station broadcast at 11 a.m.

Entertainment for children of all ages, including bicycle judging and racing, greased pole climb and contests will follow from 11:30 through 2 p.m.

Highlight of the afternoon will be the contest of marching and playing bands with Mr. John West, Leo music instructor, in charge. Five competent judges have been invited to decide the winners of the cash prizes of $50, $25, $15 and $10.

Special entertainment throughout the evening will be climaxed by the Grand Prize Drawing at 10 p.m.

Joe Taylor and his Indiana Red Birds will do their regular Saturday WGL broadcast at 11 a.m. and then rebroadcast from tape recording at 12:30 to 1 p.m.

Taylor and his Redbirds are popular for their Western style music. Patty Corbat, one of the few feminine square-dance callers in the country, is featured with the group. The program includes his newest original recording by London Records entitled "My Gal's A Square-Dance Caller."

Other stars are Vaughn Marschand, Huntertown trumpet player; Francis Geels, talking fiddle player; Bill Allen, the only man able to play harmonica, guitar and string bass at the same time; and Connie Smith, 1947 national guitar champion.

Potato Growers To Vote Sept. 25-30

Potato growers of DeKalb County will be asked to vote in a referendum during the week of Sept. 25 to 30 on a federal marketing order for potatoes, according to word received at the county office of the Production and Marketing Administration, Arthur H. Lautzenhiser, committee chairman, says. The voting will be done by mail and ballots have been mailed to all producers of potatoes during 1949 who raised three acres or more.

As explained by the PMA chairman, a federal marketing order has been in effect in four other North Central states — Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota—since 1947. Under this order a committee of growers and handlers recommends that only potatoes of certain quality and size be marketed. The secretary of agriculture usually accepts their recommendations and issues the necessary orders.

Growers in the four states recommended that the important potato producing areas of Northern Indiana and Iowa be included in the area where the marketing order is effective. After public hearings last spring, the secretary of agriculture decided to accept the recommendation, subject to approval of the growers themselves, in Indiana and Iowa, and in the other four states as well. Growers in all six states will express their wishes in the referendum.

Government price support is closely related to the referendum and the marketing order, Mr. Lautzenhiser says. A federal law enacted this year requires that price support be made available on potatoes only in those areas where growers have voted in favor of marketing orders. A two-thirds majority of the voters must favor the marketing order, either on the basis of the number of growers or the volume of potatoes produced, for the marketing order to go into effect.

Votes cast by the growers in all six states will be counted together, Mr. Lautzenhiser says. Production figures available at the county PMA office in Auburn show that the four states now covered by the marketing order produced about 65 million bushels of potatoes last year, compared to something over three million in Indiana and one million in Iowa.

DeKalb County had 68 growers producing three acres or more in 1949.

LONGER SEASON ON PHEASANTS THIS FALL

A five day period during which hunters may blaze away at cock pheasants has been announced by Kenneth M. Kunkel, director of the Indiana Department of Conservation. Mr. Kunkel conferred at length with Henry P. Cottingham, director of the Division of Fish and Game and attaches of Pittman-Robertson before arriving at the decision to open the season for five days. Pheasant hunting days will be from November 10 to November 15, dates inclusive. However, as all sportsmen realize, the law prohibits Sunday hunting and inasmuch as the 13th of the month will fall on Sunday, shooting that day is out.

Prior to official sanction of the dates mentioned above a public hearing must be held on the matter. The public is invited to attend the hearing in the offices of Director Kunkel, 311 West Washington Street at 10 a.m. CST on September 29.

Mr. Cottingham explained that the reason for extending the season this year is due to a crowing pheasant count held this summer by means of which it was shown that the pheasant population has increased. The season last year was a three-day one. Dates for such a season are set by discretionary order.

November 10 will also usher in the open season on rabbits, quail and hungarian partridge.

"Little By Little"

Little by little time passes by --
Short if we sing it, long if we sigh;
Little by little age edges in --
Not relished, of course, but it's no sin.
Little by little we're slowing down,
Longer it takes us to get around.
Little by little our hair disappears,
Don't add to our looks, but no call for tears.
Little by little we mold our lives
With the helping hand of our faithful wives;
Little by little we add to our store
Sad memories of loved ones gone before.
Little by little our barque draws nearer
That other shore that ever grows dearer.
Why should we mourn because of the change?
Nothing that's happened is overly strange;
We've already passed our "three score and ten,"
We should be ready for the last call when
We lay down our tasks for that Heavenly Home,
Where "praise be to God" we'll nevermore roam.

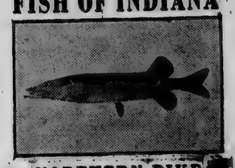
FISH OF INDIANA



NORTHERN PIKE

DESCRIPTION: The Northern Pike is an elongated slender type of fish of a bluish-greenish grey with more or less purplish luster on the back and sides. Has irregular rows of small round yellowish and gold spots. The top of the head is dark olive green; mouth slender and large. One of the most consistent marks of identification is that the entire cheek is scaled while only the upper half of the opercle is scaled and the lower half is bare.

DISTRIBUTION: Found mostly in northern Indiana in the larger streams and most lakes.

HABITAT: It is a strong active fish and prefers clear, cool, clean water and sluggish streams.

FOOD: The food is largely other fishes, frogs, crayfish, mice, and even young ducks.

STOCKING: The Division of Fish and Game does not stock this species. Does very well naturally.

SPAWNING: It is known as an early spring Spawner. They prefer to spawn in marshes and shallow streams. The young hatch in about two weeks and spend the summer months in the weeds along the shore.

SEASON AND BAG LIMIT: Open June 16th.-April 30. Bag Limit—6; No length limit.

World Evangelist

Lesson for September 24, 1950

IT IS is not only the ignorant and the prejudiced who claim that Protestant Christianity did not start till the 17th Century. Even Protestants can make this mistake. The real founder of Protestantism is Saint Paul. What the Reformers of the 17th Century did was to re-discover Paul. The doctrines of Protestantism are not some peculiar invention of Luther, nor a vagary nor a quirk, still less a heresy; they are simply Christianity according to Saint Paul. If for no other reason, Paul is one of the most important figures in Christian history, perhaps in all history.

The World is My Parish

THERE is another reason why Paul is important. It is not too much to say that if it had not been for him, there never would have been any Christianity, as a world-religion. It would have died as a Jewish sect.

What the history of the world would have been in that case, God only knows. But although our so-called Christian era is still not exactly Christian, it is vastly different from what it would have been if Christianity had been no more (say) than Essenism, a word you would have to look up in the enelycopedia, an antique and forgotten sect.

To many un-named Christians, but to Paul more than any other one person, we owe the fact that ours is a religion with a world-outlook.

First Great Missionary

PAUL was not a typical Christian any more than George Washington was a typical American. To this day, missionaries can hardly be called typical Christians. They are far too few, and their quality is far too high, to stand for the "average" Christian—who in fact does not even understand missionaries, as a rule. Nevertheless, the missionary now as in Paul's time is the burning-point of Christianity, the front-line patrol, the cutting edge . . . . What made Paul a missionary makes missionaries today.

One thing was his vital experience of Christ. Jesus, for Paul, was not somebody he had read about in a book, he was not a statue on an altar or a picture in a museum, he was not a definition in a catechism. Jesus was Some One he had met on the Damascus Road.

Second, Paul loved people, all kinds of people. (After his conversion, not before!) He could see in the most pitiful little moron of a slave-girl, the meanest jailer, a sister or brother for whom Christ died, as he put it. Nowadays you sometimes hear church people saying about others outside the church, "They're not our kind. They wouldn't make good Presbyterians (or Baptists or what ever the speaker's church may be)." It never occurred to Paul that anybody would not make a good Christian, if only Jesus Christ got hold of him.

Furthermore, Paul had a world-horizon. There are hole-and-corner Christians and there are world Christians. Paul was a world-Christian. He "thought big." To this day, the wide-horizon, big-thinking Christians are either out there on the mission field, somewhere, or they are supporting missions with all their might.

Bibles Across the Sea

THERE is one thing which you, reader of these lines, can do right now, if you have some of this world-vision. This week, today, you can help in a great missionary enterprise which is not confined to any denomination.

Over in Japan, General MacArthur says, Christianity and the Bible are the dykes holding up the flood of Communism. Dr. Shiro Murata, a Japanese Christian, also says: "The eyes of Japan are fixed on two books. One is Das Kapital by Karl Marx. The other is the Holy Bible. Japan is at the crossroads."

A campaign is being conducted this year to send to Japan five million Bibles and Testaments. The Japanese can read; they have the largest non-Christian population in the world reading one language. Through your local church, or even by yourself, you can contribute to this great undertaking to bring the Bible to people sorely needing it.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Kidding Himself

Only One Needed

Last week we referred to "thousands and thousands of unnecessary employees on the government payroll."

Now we'll get down to cases and point one out to you. We would like to know why it is necessary to have two representatives of the Collector of Internal Revenue situated at Auburn, one of whom seems to have lost his knowledge of simple mathematics. You would not be unreasonable in expecting such a representative to be fairly expert in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division.

In the course of adjusting a local tax return, the representative had to figure one percent of a certain figure. Did he just move the decimal point to the left 2 places? No. He had to multiply .01 times that certain figure. And on two other occasions mistakes in addition were made, one an overcharge in tax of ten dollars.

In addition, this individual could not furnish information concerning an employer's requirements for withholding and social security taxes and for filing for an employer's account number. He would have to ask Mr. So-and-So at Auburn, his immediate superior, and give the St. Joe resident the information later.

Do you wonder why it costs so much to "run" the U. S. government?

We haven't anything against this individual personally. He's probably a nice guy, maybe got a family and a couple of kids to support.

BUT—!

THEY WOULD READ YOUR AD TOO, IF IT APPEARED HERE

SPORTSCOPE By JOE MAHONEY

It Sparkles Plenty

"Oh, look at the bubbles!" That will probably be your family's first reaction when they spy this novel and attractive fruit gelatin dessert. Using ginger ale as an ingredient, you can mold bubbles right into the gelatin, creating a special "sparkley" effect that the family will love.

"What a grand flavor!" That will be the next exclamation of pleasure, when your family tastes fresh pears, top of the season, molded in this wonderful taste combination of ginger ale and luscious raspberry-flavored gelatin.

"This is an idea for my recipe file!" And that's what you'll say to yourself when you see how easy it is to prepare a gayly original dessert that adds real freshness and charm to your late-summer menus.

GINGER PEAR MOLD

1 package raspberry-flavored gelatin
½ cup hot water
1½ teaspoons lemon juice
1½ cups ginger ale
1 cup diced fresh pears

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add lemon juice and ginger ale gradually. Chill until slightly thickened. Then fold in pears. Turn into 1-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with pear halves, green grapes and green leaves. Makes 6 servings.

FELLOWSHIP BANQUET NEXT WEEK

Speaker for the evening will be Mr. Seng, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church of Ft. Wayne. Vocal selections will be given by John Smith of Auburn.

Hints On Health

INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

BEGINNING PUPILS

THOUSANDS of Indiana youngsters have just started to school for the first time. Some are eager, hopeful and courageous; others are shy, diffident and maladjusted. For all, it is a new adventure.

Some of the children will adjust, and others will not. It depends largely upon their physical and emotional health. Through the "summer round-up" program, sponsored by the Indiana Congress of Parents and Teachers, most children were examined physically before entering school. Physicians, dentists, parents and educators cooperate in finding and correcting defects. The records of these examinations, if accurately kept, will be helpful in the future.

Good health is important to good emotional balance. The child who must hold a book close to his eyes may need treatment by an eye specialist in order that he may be able to see the blackboard. Lacking such treatment, the child may be labeled slow or dull. The pupil with a tired, listless look may be getting improper food, and the youngster who avoids friends may need encouragement to overcome his shyness. The aloofness may be a feeling of inferiority resulting from some environmental factor in the home.

A good physical examination is the best insurance for good health for the school child. The doctor will see that the child is protected through immunization against such diseases as diphtheria, small pox and whooping cough.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The first meeting of the Ladies Literary Club for the year 1950-1951 was held at the home of the new president, Mrs. Maurice Kline, on September 13.

Dinner was served at 6:30 and during the dinner hour Mrs. Stanley Means, acting as Master of Ceremonies, conducted a "radio program" calling each member to the microphone for an informal chat.

After a short business session, the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. Lora Leighty of Auburn and Mrs. Reusch of South Bend were guests. There were 23 members present.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Fred Hart.

WINNERS 4-H CLUB

On September 11 the Winners 4-H Club met at the home of Tahoma Jean Laughman. All members were present and answered roll call with "What I'm exhibiting at the county fair." Secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved. Pledges were led by Tahoma Jean Laughman. Devotions were given by Rev. Hamilton and group singing was led by Kathleen Anthony and Tahoma Jean Laughman. Old and new business was discussed. Record books were given a final check. Health and safety reports were given by Franklin Johnson and Jerry Leonard. Several party games were played after which cake, jello and cool-ade were served by Tahoma Jean Laughman and Lola Mathes.

ERNEST LESIUK TO SPEAK ON WOWO

MULTIFLORA, LIVING FENCE NOW AVAILIBLE

The Indiana Department of Conservation through its Pittman Robertson Wildlife restoration project announces that they are again going to furnish up to one mile of living fence free to Indiana farmers.

Multiflora Rose as a fence for Indiana farms has several advantages over the old wire fence. It does not spread or sap the ground and requires no pruning or trimming. It can be planted either in the fall or spring. Planting sites should be prepared now for fall plantings. All fall plantings should be heavily mulched with straw, manure or sawdust.

Multiflora Rose is very beneficial to Indiana wildlife by furnishing excellent nesting cover, food and protection from predators.

Persons desiring applications to receive shrubs may write to Pittman-Robertson Project 6-D, 311 West Washington Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Answer to Question No. 1:

1. The odds are 1,000 to 1 that a mother will survive childbirth and 1,000 to 31 that her baby will be born alive. In 1936, deaths during childbirth were almost six times as frequent as they are today and infant mortality was almost double. One important reason for the improvement is that only 40 per cent of babies were born in hospitals in 1936, whereas 85 per cent are born in them today.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. Today there is much less heart trouble than there used to be in youth and early middle age. But, because we Americans are living longer, the number of persons with heart trouble is increasing for the total population —since heart disease is primarily an ailment of the middle and old age brackets.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. A roentgenologist is a doctor who specializes in X-ray. The X-ray is one of medicine's greatest aids in diagnosis and treatment and its use has contributed much to the increased life span of Americans. A technician may take an X-ray picture but it takes a physician trained in X-ray to interpret it properly.

BETA NEWS

The Beta Club had its first meeting September 12 to decide on future projects and dates for Beta meetings during the year. The executive committee met later to check school records for prospective members of which ten were acceptable.

The ten students excelling in citizenship, scholarship and leadership were Joan Cook, Shirley Crothers, John Leonard, Jim Knop, Bill Wilder, Ed Hook, Shirley Ritenour, Alice Easley, Cleo Gerig and Nancy Vendrely.

The club decided to continue sending S.H.S. News to the St. Joe News.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF—

Jack Hollabaugh would get to school on time?

Mr. and Mrs. Paschen could remember on what corners in Fort Wayne they are to meet?

Nan Vendrely would have a date with someone from Spencerville?

Maxine Hoover could remember which nights belong to who? Otherwise it's congested.

Dorothy Nusbaum couldn't daydream about Bob Hoover?

Madolyn Reid would go with only one? Namely Don.

Pat Akey wasn't going steady? Just which one of you would be first, Jack?

Adair Reed would change brands of lipstick, Jug?

Bud Vendrely could not flirt with all the girls?

Jerry Baker wasn't the only boy in French class?

Ed Hook was a little taller? Please girls, don't rush!

Don Lohse didn't have to work nights?

Midge Hollabaugh could not check up on the goings-on at Nan's Stand?

Shirley Ritenour could make up her mind between Toby and Jack Hughes?

THIS 'N THAT

Nan Vendrely, did you enjoy your ride Friday night in that nice red Chrysler convertible? Nan, when you leaving for Korea?

We just can't keep track of Dorothy Nusbaum. Eddie Hook took her home from the fair, but it looks like Bob Hoover is really her man.

We see a diamond on the third finger left hand of Mabel Schaftner; we hear it belongs to David Kessler. Hum! Very nice, so they say! !

The steady couples that lasted through the summer are: Bud Vendrely and Pat Angel; Alf Paschen and Pat Akey; James Shilling and Ruth Easley. Glad to see you all among us! !

Why was Midge so emphatic about having the Club Thursday hayride on the 23rd and then showed up stag? Ohio State go back early?

It didn't take Jim Long long to find a girl, did it, Peggy Koch?

Adair, why don't you show us all the movie? We hear it is quite educational! ! Are we right or is this just a rumor about you and Gene?

Tell us all about the navy, Pat Akey. We hear you have first hand information from that old salt water man himself, Harley Graham.

Some new couples that we spotted on the Club Thursday hayride were: Lois Kimes and Don Sheefel, Mary Wisel and Donald Mann, Pete Timmerman and Pat Hughes.

And what's this about Dale Butler and Shirley Engle, and Carolyn Kimes and Arthur Warner? We learned a lot of things on that hayride that we didn't know before! !

Just how did you happen to fall out of the wagon Saturday night, Nancy Vendrely? Did you find it was safer on the tractor?

Norman Wible: "Miss Reed, who was the man I saw you with last night?"

Miss Reed: "My, what terrible English."

Mr. Finger: "You can't sleep in my class."

Don Lohse: "If you didn't talk so loud I could."

THE AMERICAN WAY

Non-Voter: The Real Culprit

Roger Babson Says . . .

Commenting on the importance of newspapers and newspaper advertising in his copyrighted column in the Sanders newspapers in Livingston County, New York, Roger W. Babson, well-known business and financial adviser, recently said:

"I have just been reading a most interesting advertisement of a great steel company. In effect, it constitutes a report of the progress this company has made in its production of steel plates for ships, bombs and other war materials. This company has nothing whatever to sell to the general public, but it chooses to buy considerable newspaper space to give the people some most encouraging facts.

"The public has come to rely upon advertisements. In countless instances people make it a practice to read the ads first and the news stories second.

"Too many readers accept their newspapers as a matter of course. Newspapers are, however, as important to their communities as are municipal conveniences and other services. Probably no single item would be missed more from our daily lives than our local newspaper. A newspaper is the greatest buy in the world. All newspapers, regardless of size, are highly educational. Unlike other great institutions of learning, however, they are not endowed and must be self-supporting. Naturally, what keeps a paper going is its advertising revenue. Everyone should help on this as a civic duty.

"Newspapers are vastly more important to retailers, manufacturers and the community itself than merely increasing sales. All kinds of civic and social organizations rely upon free notices of their activities. We all have more of a stake in the business of advertising than we realize. Our papers not only give us the community news but the growth of our communities depend upon the prosperity of our local newspapers. Washington certainly owes a debt to all newspapers whether editorially they are for or 'agin' the administration.

"Successful manufacturers are carrying on a most sensible campaign of paid publicity with no chance of now getting their money back thru immediate increased sales. I hope more local firms will take advantage of the opportunities to advertise which are offered today. Yes, I am optimistic for advertising for those who will stick to it 'rain or shine.' Sensible continuous advertising is the best investment there is."

Henry J Joins Low Priced Auto Field

Low initial cost plus great operating economy and exceptional performance are the 1-2-3 features of the all-new Henry J sedan models which go on display at Kaiser-Frazer dealerships across the country tomorrow.

Buyers will have a choice of the four-cylinder Henry J and the Henry J Deluxe, six-cylinder model offering greater styling refinements. Both engines are new high-compression "Kaiser Supersonic" L-head types.

Edgar F. Kaiser, K-F- president, said prices, to be disclosed tomorrow, will be the lowest in America for a full size sedan, thus marketing the first full scale new competition in the low priced auto market in nearly a quarter-century.

The local unveiling will be at Keller's Garage in St. Joe, it was announced by Don Keller, head of the local K-F dealership.

The company reported that in the most extensive pre-marketing tests ever given a new automobile, the Henry J demonstrated its ability to leap from zero to 50 miles an hour in 10 seconds, and to 60 in 14 seconds.

An impartial report on remarkable operating economy was furnished earlier this month when the six-cylinder model delivered 34 miles to the gallon in gasoline mileage tests conducted by the American Automobile Association. The tests, held on the recently opened New Hampshire Turnpike, were supervised by David L. Gundry of the certified test committee of the A.A.A.

The new model provides the largest luggage capacity of any passenger sedan. It offers a maximum cargo area of 50.3 cubic feet achieved through a utility feature which allows the rear seat back to be folded forward and anchored in place as part of the trunk floor. The convenience of the folding seat feature eliminates need for the traditional rear trunk opening.

The 174-inch overall length of the Henry J, together with an overall width of 70 inches, provides spacious seating room for five adult passengers with ample head room and leg room for six-footers.

Both Henry J sedan models are available with overdrive.

Original Styling, Utility Mark Henry J Models

ORIGINAL STYLING and functional design throughout identify the Henry J and Henry J DeLuxe, Kaiser-Frazer's newest 1951 models. Less than 60 inches in height, the low-priced sedans are smartly styled without "frills" or excessive ornamentation. A major utility feature is the arrangement of the rear seat, which folds forward to make a level cargo floor and provide a spacious 50 cubic feet of storage area. Sue Doyle, Detroit model, demonstrates the convenient accessibility of the cargo floor. Illustrated is the six-cylinder deluxe sedan.

Arrival of the Henry J models marks K-F's first challenge in the low priced field. Including them, the company is now nearing production of its first half-million cars. Popular and medium priced models in the 1951 Kaiser and Frazer lines have been in production since last spring.

Inefficiency in public office is a pet peeve of many Americans. Too little is said and done about it.

Mrs. F. R. Bowman.

Thanks for the compliment. "Too little said and done" is certainly true. How many readers have voiced ther sentiments to their congressmen recently—or ever? Not very many.

In a little over a month we will have an opportunity to "do something about it" when November elections are held on the 7th of that month. As the cartoon on this page states—"It only takes ten minutes to vote." Those who are eligible to vote and DON'T are as un-American as the communists or any other "ists" who try to over throw our government. Fulfill your obligation as an American — VOTE! !

DEVOTIONAL READING: Luke 10:25-37.

Christian Living

Lesson for October 1, 1950

READER, do you have your New Testament handy? Get it down and let us go over a few paragraphs of it together. What we are looking for is an answer to this question: Is there anything special, anything different, noticeable, about the Christian way of life?

Act on the Word

FIRST, look at James 1:22-27. "Be ye doers of the Word," he says, "not hearers only." Moffat's modern-English translation says: "Act on the Word instead of merely listening to it." At the end of this section James offers the only definition of religion given in the entire Bible. Note that it is altogether in terms of action, behavior, life both inward and outward.

Dr. Foreman

"Act on the Word"—he means the Word of God, of course. In verse 21 he has already told us the Word is like a seed sown in our lives, a seed expected to grow . . . Now look at Phil. 1:27-30. If you have the King James version, which is over 300 years old, that word "conversation" in verse 27 will mislead you.

What Paul wrote (in Greek, of course) was not conversation, but a word meaning manner of living. Moffatt brings out the meaning more pointedly: "Do lead a life worthy of the Gospel of Christ." What God wants us to do as Christians is to live like the best sermons we hear. Live lives that match the story of Jesus.

Life of Grace

NOW turn to the story of Barnabas in Acts 11:19-26. Barnabas was commissioned by the mother-church to inspect and report on the new congregation at Antioch. Were they Christians or not? Barnabas saw two things about those people, and he was glad: it was a congregation of believers, and he saw also the grace of God.

Christian living is a life of faith and a life of grace. It is a life tied with God, blessed by the grace of God. Now this is not automatic. It is not something that happens whether we wish it or not.

Observe what Barnabas told those new Christians at Antioch: "Remain faithful to the Lord with steadfast purpose" (v 23, Revised Standard Version). The Christian life is one of devotion, a life of steady purpose, it is no drifting, sinking life, it sails by the Star of God.

World Not Christian's Orange

NOW turn to a group of passages too full, as all of these are, to be gone over here in detail. You will have to take time yourself to read and think seriously about them: Matt. 5:1-20; 18:21-35; Romans 12:9-21. The theme running through all these is the same: The Christian's life is marked by a special kind of attitude toward other persons.

There are different ways in which people regard others. The criminal looks on all men as his enemies. He is out to beat them down. "Git er git got" is his motto. The "average citizen" who is no Christian, and even some who claim to be Christians but never got the hang of it, are not so brutal as the criminal, but their main idea about other people is much the same, though they are more polite about it.

As one of these has said: "The world is your orange—squeeze it!" What can I make, what is my cut, what will you give me, where do I come in, how can I use you? But the Christian's attitude to other people is totally different. What it is — well, read these passages from Jesus and Paul, and find out.

Without Ceasing

THERE is one more point about the Christian life. It keeps on. It grows. Look up I Thessalonians 5:15-23. Listen to the note of perseverence singing through it all. There is a preacher who sometimes says: "You cannot be a Christian today. You can begin today, because that takes only an instant. But you cannot be a Christian today. That takes a lifetime."

The phrases of Paul—"ever follow . . . evermore . . . without ceasing . . . hold fast . . ." were not mere phrases. He had lived them.

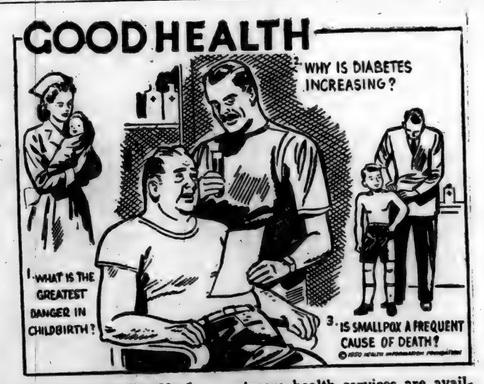
Twelve members and one guest responded to roll call. Elizabeth Hart had the opening number. After the business meeting Mrs. Pluma Hamilton read an article entitled "Educators Get Together." Mrs. Belle Wodcox gave some contests and sang the Song of the States.

Refreshments of homemade ice cream and cake were served by the hostess and daughter.

The next meeting will be held October 3 at the home of Mrs. Pluma Hamilton.

GOOD HEALTH



Answer to Question No. 1:

1. Hemorrhage has been the outstanding cause of maternal death but it is being conquered. Many hospitals have adopted blood transfusion programs so that childbirth is now much safer. For instance, after the Woman's Clinic of New York Hospital put in such a program only one death from hemorrhage occurred in 14,000 deliveries.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. For the same reason that cancer and heart diseases are increasing — we now live long enough to develop such ailments. America has made astounding progress in recent years and, as one disease after another has been conquered and more and more health services are available to our people, medicine has been faced with the problem of attacking a new group of diseases. The attack on diabetes has triumphed—it can be detected early and often prevented, provided you follow your doctor's advice.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. Not any more. Smallpox has been all but eradicated as a cause of death in the United States and in some areas is so rare a disease that many young physicians have never encountered a case. Diphtheria, typhoid fever, and whooping cough are other diseases which have been reduced radically by preventive techniques which are a commonplace nowadays.

FISH OF INDIANA

WHITE BASS—STRIPED BASS

DESCRIPTION: The average fisherman has little trouble in identifying the White Bass. The general color is a silvery white, slightly tinged with yellow below; the sides have narrow dusky lines, about five above the lateral line, one along it, and a variable number below. The spiny dorsal fin contains 9 to 11 rays, the soft dorsal 13 to 15; the anal fin has three spines, the first short, about half the length of the second, and the second distinctly shorter than the third. The lower jaw extends considerably past the upper one. The silvery color and two separate dorsal fins distinguish it from the Black Bass.

DISTRIBUTION: This fish is found in rather limited areas of the state. Most common in Shafer and Freeman Lakes at Monticello and Tippecanoe Lake in Kosciusko County.

HABITAT: A fish of the lakes and deeper rivers. Perfers clear water. Travels in schools and responds to night fishing.

FOOD: Feeds mostly on smaller fishes, crayfish, the larger insects and their larvae.

STOCKING: Some stocking has been done in the past but no program is carried on at present.

SPAWNING: Usually in April or May; leaves the deeper water for the quiet water near shore. The eggs are not laid in nests as are those of the sunfish family, but are deposited in midwater, slowly sinking until coming in contact with objects to which they adhere.

SEASON: June 16 to April 30. Keepers 10 inches. Legal Bag Limit 6.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE?

● Is it really 'free' . . . something for nothing? Or will it cost you more than you're paying now?

If Socialized Medicine comes in, going to the doctor as you know it will be a thing of the past. The government pays for every call, every patient, every pill.

But, as a taxpayer, you foot the bill.

For example, if the payroll tax is 4 per cent, a truck driver making $3,000 contributes $120—over and above his already staggering tax burden. If it is 10 per cent, which is more likely, it means an extra deduction of $300 from his pay.

And all you get for the money is second-rate medical care—cheap medical care palmed off at a high price.

Our Nation's health is at an all-time high under the present system. Let's keep it that way.

Let those who represent you in Washington know you are against government control of medical services.

Remember, it's your health . . . and your money.

Modern American Family Minus Electricity

What would you do without electricity in your home? Well—you could use candles. And build fires. And entertain each other. And substitute elbow-grease for all the jobs electricity does automatically.

You'd be surprised how much it would cost, in money, time, and trouble. In fact, it almost takes a cartoon like this to remind us how much electricity does—and how little it costs.

In your whole family budget, electric service is about the smallest amount—and the biggest bargain. What else gives you such value in comfort, health, ease and fun—and at such low cost?

FARM FIELDS NEED WINTER OVERCOATS

Winter preparation on the farm now includes a "winter coat" for the fields. No farmer would have his family unprotected and neither would he fail to protect his land if he were aware of the danger, says R.O. Cole, extension conservationist at Purdue University.

The land needs protection against erosion during the winter as well as in the spring. A good covering has an indirect benefit to the soil, that of helping to maintain the proper earthworm population and soil structure.

Cole cites recent studies at several midwest agricultural experiment stations which showed that the use of a covering, even of insulative material, helped both earthworm population and prevention of erosion. The scientists determined the benefits by measuring the rate of water seepage into the soil, the time that water remained and the size of the air spaces between the particles of soil.

Among the materials which were tried as covers, a hay mulch was more effective than asphalt roofing. This mulch, Cole explains, reduced the depth and the frequency of freezing and thawing. These processes in turn affected the water-holding capacities of the soil.

While this study gave a new approach to cover crops, the idea of growing cover crops is as sound as ever. Cole recommends that rye, ryegrass and sweet clover be included in crop rotations. Although it is difficult to seed cover crops, in standing corn or in a rotation including corn, soybeans, wheat and clover, the protection to the land justifies the effort and work, he declares.

Around the Town

With the Editor

I got it from the grapevine that Vernie Collins was enjoying a coke at the filling station one morning last week after taking a load of kids to school in the school bus. The 8:30 bell was ringing when Vernie suddenly put the coke down and rushed out exclaiming, "I forgot my second load of kids!"

Anyone who hasn't taken a ride through the country around St. Joe in the last week or so sure is missing something. Old Mother Nature has tinted her children with colors no artist can imitate.

It seems odd — the most beautiful times of year, as far as nature is concerned, are spring and fall — signs of both life and death.

I didn't get to mention the men behind the success of the Conservation Club's opening. Club president Elmer McKay gave me the following names of men who served so well:

Entertainment — Forrest Brattain, chairman; M. E. Siminton and George Tustison.

Junior division—Von Tharp, chairman; Walter Reinhart; Howard McMaken; Dick Crow; Robert Sechler and Francis Sible.

Range—Raloh Johnson, chairman; Robert Coburn; Henry Benner; Merle Guilford and Harold Yeiser.

Refreshment — Lester Coburn, chairman; Cliff Billow; Haden Ankney and Wilburn Yeiser.

Grounds—Harvey Carr, chairman; Frank Leighty; Harry Laux; Ray Littlefield; Maurice Woodring and Robert Ridgway.

Publicity—G. L. Haver, chairman, and Ted Haberkorn.

Wayne Wagner gave me a list of the St. Joe business men who supported the 4-H auction at the county fair. Here they are: Yeiser's Standard Service, Keller's Garage, Jiggs' Motor Service Shamrock Fountain, Roy Reidenbach Standard Oil Bulk Dealer, St. Joe Barber Shop, Chuck's Cafe, Kinsey Hardware, Jackson's Clothing Store. St. Joe Grocery, Dunten's Market, West End Grocery, St. Joe News, John L. Haverstock, Realtor and Auctioneer, Holsom Dairy, Olen Waltz, Co-op Tank Truck Dealer, Myers Elevator, St. Joe Valley Pickles and the Roy I. Bowser Store. These firms paid $111.62 over and above the market price at the auction in giving the 4-H'ers a boost.

John Haverstock, who assisted in auctioning the stock, mentioned that it seemed every other sale went to St. Joe. Wayne told of a little incident in the course of the day which bears that out.

There was an Auburn business man sitting in back of him who made the remark, "I didn't know there were that many people in St. Joe." Wayne turned around to answer to the effect that when St. Joe went out to do something, they really did it. The remark had its effect. The next four sales went to the gentleman in the rear. And one of the pigs he bought belonged to — Donna Mae Wagner.

Stanley Means Seriously Hurt

Stanley Means, 46, prominent DeKalb County farmer residing southeast of Auburn and husband of Rose Means, teacher of the third grade in the Harrison School in Auburn, was seriously injured Monday morning when he was run over by the heavy rear wheel of the tractor he was operating.

He was taken to the Souder Hospital where his injuries were found to be a broken left wrist and two pelvic fractures. Thus far no internal injuries have been found.

Mr. Means was thrown from the seat of the tractor when the front wheel locked. He was thrown into a ditch and the tractor and a manure spreader toppled over on him after the rear wheel passed over his body. He was pinned beneath the implement.

Mr. Leonard Fisher, a neighbor, and Donald Yeiser and Roy Bowser who were working nearby succeeded in removing Mr. Means from beneath the tractor. The accident occurred across the road from the Means farm.

To Observe 75th Annivers'y

St. Mark's Lutheran Church of St. Joe will observe the 75th Anniversary of the founding of the church with appropriate services and program on Sunday, October 8. The hours of services for this day will be: Sunday School 9:30; Chief Service 10:30. There will be a pot-luck dinner at 12:30 and greetings and program will be at 2:30.

On August 7, 1875, a church organization was formed under the title St. Mark Evangelical Luheran Church. The following citizens were behind the founding: John Boyle, Samuel Widney, Isaac Lawhead, Jane Lawhead, James Widney, John Widney, Nancy Widney, Daniel Reasoner, Sarah Reasoner and Smith Rhodenbeck. Part of the constituion reads: "Whereas, the Holy Scriptures teach the necessity of assembling ourselves together for public as well as private worship; and we the undersigned citizens of DeKalb Co., Indiana, being desirous of promoting the cause of the Redeemer, and to se cure salvation for our neighbors ourselves and families, believing that the Bible (Old and New Testament) to be inspired of God, and our only true rule of faith and practice, and believing also that the doctrines of God's Word are taught in a manner substantially correct and its ordinances properly administered in the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, as presented by the General Synod . . ."

The building was dedicated on the present location May 9, 1880. It has been enlarged and improved since that time. The ground was donated by John and J. D. Leighty who had purchased 100 acres of land with the intentions of starting a village and securing a station stop on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad which was then under construction. Others gave willingly of their money and time and manual labor. And the House of the Lord was erected for this community.

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 8-14

Hoosier farmers will join in the national observance of Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 8-14, according to F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University. Emphasis on prevention of needless fires will be stressed in gathering of both rural adults and youth during the week. Suggestions for discussions of the topic are available from the farm safety office at Purdue.

Prevention of rural fires has been a major part of the work of the State Safety Committee and received special attention at the annual Summer Agricultural Conference at Purdue. One of the aims of the committee has been the encouragement of communities to either improve present or acquire adequate fire fighting equipment. The need for a supply of water on every farm, such as a pond or extra well, has been stressed as the first step towards prevention of fire damage.

Willsey adds that needless fires can be stopped by regular inspection of farm property. This point has been given particular attention by the hundreds of 4-H club members who have carried on farm safety projects. Club members have been alert to detect fire hazards and to remove them immediately.

The safety specialist gives a number of simple rules for fire prevention. These are: Don't overload wires. When adding electrical devices such as motors or corn driers, get an expert to check whether new circuits are needed. Prohibit smoking in the barn or where flammable liquids are stored. Have lightening rods of the proper type installed on major farm buildings. Make a careful inspection of heating equipment and see that chimneys are in good repair for the winter months.

News Sponsors New Contest

In the 1948 general election Indiana ranked 12th in percentage of eligible voters who voted, with 64.7%.

This year the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce is heading a Citizenship Participation program designed to create a greater interest in governmental affairs. The goal is to "Make Indiana First in '50" in turn-out of voters.

Locally in conjunction with this program, the St. Joe News is sponsoring a contest for all age groups. How to enter? Just write a 300-word or less theme on "How We Can Be Better Citizens." Mail it or drop it off at the News Office. That's all—no box-tops or anything to buy.

Three cash prizes will be awarded —$5 first prize, $3 second prize and $2 third prize. Contest closes Saturday, October 28, 1950.

Three hundred words isn't so much writing. You'd be surprised how they roll off the pencil once you start. Why, the total of the words so far in this little article is one hundred sixty-nine.

So, come on, get out your pencil and paper and be a vote-getter. Remember, there are just three weeks to go. —And anyone can enter.

It's Doughnut Time

Long Johns and Bismarcks are two members of the popular doughnut family. They're exceptionally fluffy and tender because they are made from a sweet yeast dough.

Doughnuts are one of the best breads invented to go with hot fragrant coffee, rich cocoa, or just plain chilled milk. Both cake and yeast-type doughnuts are available in variety from the bakers, but they are fun to make at home now and then. Doughnuts are appropriate for informal parties at which they are guaranteed to disappear by the dozens.

A bit of nutmeg is added for spice to the sweet yeast dough used for yeast doughnuts, Long Johns and Bismarcks. Today's recipe tells how to use the one dough for plain doughnuts with the hole, twists, Bismarcks, and Long Johns. When cool, roll plain doughnuts and twists in granulated sugar, or cinnamon and sugar. Sprinkle Bismarcks with powdered sugar and frost Long Johns with confectioners' sugar icing.

To check the temperature of the fat used for frying doughnuts without a thermometer, drop a one-inch cube of bread into the hot fat. If it browns in 60 seconds, the temperature is right for frying doughnuts.

YEAST DOUGHNUTS

2 packages yeast, compressed or dry
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind (if desired)
¼ cup melted shortening
5 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
½ teaspoon nutmeg
Fat for frying

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and nutmeg. Mix well. Add softened yeast, eggs, and lemon rind. Beat well. Add shortening. Mix well. Add more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled. Punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll out to ⅜ inch thickness and cut with doughnut cutter for plain doughnuts. For twists, roll small portions of dough under the hand and twist the dough back on itself. For Bismarcks, roll the dough ⅛ inch thick and cut into pieces 1 inch wide and 3 inches long or cut with a biscuit cutter. Let rise until doubled, and fry in deep fat (375° F.).

Makes about 3 dozen doughnuts.

NYLA SUE WASHLER DIES AT FORT WAYNE

Nyla Sue Washler, aged 22 days, died Saturday night at the St. Joseph Hospital in Ft. Wayne where she had been a patient for two days. She had been in ill health since birth on September 8, 1950.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Washler of St. Joe; three sisters, Luella of Ft. Wayne, Marilyn and Ruth at home; three brothers, Phillip, Edwin and Stanley, all at home; and the maternal grandfather, Mr. William Hablawetz.

The body was taken to the Perkins & Reeb Funneral Home in Hicksville where it remained until the funeral hour. Services were held at 2:30 CST Monday, October 2, at the home. The Rev. Albert Swenson of the Newville Evangelical United Brethren Church officiated. Burial was in the Newville Cemetery.

Answer to Question No. 1:

1. Probably not, but the chances are that someone in your family may be. There were 16,659,973 patients admitted to hospitals in 1949, a peacetime record more than 6,000,000 above the figure for 1940. An important reason for the increase is the rapid spread of hospitalization insurance, now estimated to exceed 60,000,000.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. No, it's just standard. And even with 20/20 vision you may need glasses for close work, such as reading or sewing. If you're having trouble with your vision, check with your doctor.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. They can make a lot of noise but real weeping doesn't begin until the baby is three months old, at which time the tear glands are fully developed.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

DEVOTIONAL READING: I John 5: 1-12.

Giving Yourself

Lesson for October 8, 1950

"WHEN a girl throws herself away on a man, she generally takes pretty careful aim."

That may be so; but more than a few persons throw themselves clean away without taking aim at all. They amble through life, they do not march. They have no personal five-year plans, not even five-week plans. They stumble from one day to the next, they live from hand to mouth. They care for nobody and few care for them. They may be found on Skid Row, living from one handout to another, or they may be found in the Silver Spoon Club, with plenty of money but no idea how to spend it and hardly enough energy to waste it.

A Man Gives Himself

MOST people, however, do give themselves to something. Every man who amounts to something, gives himself in one way or another. There was a college student once who practiced nineteen hours a day on the piccolo, it was said. Naturally he couldn't stay in college at that rate, so they got rid of him. But he landed, as you might expect, in one of America's finest orchestras.

If you want to succeed in music, give yourself to music. If you want to succeed in a law course, give yourself to your books. Men usually give themselves to what they think is of greatest value. Some give themselves; that is to say, they devote themselves to their own comfort and happiness.

That is cheap and selfish, of course, but there is a kind of transferred selfishness which is almost as common; giving oneself to one's family to the exclusion of everything and every one else. A good man will love his family, a good mother her children; but there is a kind of ingrown family affection and mother-love which is blind to community needs.

Down the River

THERE are bad ways of giving oneself. A prophet once said of King Ahab, he sold himself to do evil. That is still done. Some give themselves up to liquor and gambling.

There have been quite selfless and tireless advocates of atheism, and communism, and all varieties. Men have worn themselves thin in the service of Hitler and of other tyrants.

If the energy and persistence, for example, which is spent in trying to prevent the humane use of unwanted animals in medical research, were spent in intelligent support of preventive medicine, how much better the world would be!

Say Yes to Christ

SO the question is not so much, Shall I give my life? The question is, To what? To whom? For three months these Bible studies consider "Growth in Christian Living." All growth starts at some point; and Christian growth starts at the point where the Christian gives himself to Christ and his cause.

Consider what "commitment to Christ" means. It is not sentimental devotion to his memory, it is not singing songs about him or to him. (Not that such songs are wrong!) It is not following a historical character, though Jesus was and is a real person. It is saying "Yes" to Jesus Christ. It is giving one's highest devotion, one's first loyalty, to the Son of God.

It is devotion to the living Christ, ever-present; to the One whose reign is destined to be over all. It is devotion to Christ's cause; to his Kingdom, his control, his way of life. It means growing into his mind; it means becoming more and more like him, wanting to be like him, till at last Paul's words come true again: "For me, to live is Christ."

You Get More than You Give

IT IS a mistake to think that if one gives his life to Christ, then he cannot give his life to anything else. The astonishing truth is, when a person first gives himself to Christ, he finds that Christ gives back far more. Christians can be, and are, devoted scholars and business men and mothers and doctors and farmers. The more truly one is committed to Christ, the better he is likely to be at his job, whatever it is.

P. T. A. TO HOLD WHITE ELEPHANT SALE OCTOBER 17

The finance committee of the Concord Twp. P.T.A. is sponsoring a White Elephant Auction immediately following the regular P.T.A. meeting in the high school gym on October 17.

Begin now to find and make ready for sale your White Elephants — that unused dish, piece of furniture that is good but in the way, extra tools, the Christmas tie you never wore because it was too gaudy, good clothes your child has outgrown (clean and pressed), surplus canned food, cabbage, potatoes, onions, pumpkins, even home baked goods, etc., etc. No Junk, Please.

Men who have longed to be auctioneers should start practicing now for the Amateur Auctioneer Contest. This contest should produce much merriment.

The success of this, the first project, will do much toward determining how much the P.T.A., working through its project committee, can and will do for the school this year.

Come! Bring a White Elephant! Buy a White Elephant!

TWO MORE STEPS IN APPEAL OF WICOFF

Two more steps were taken Friday by attorneys representing Dale C. Wicoff of Spencerville in perfecting his appeal from a conviction in federal court at Fort Wayne of a part in the recent Spencerville bank swindle.

Mr. Wicoff, sentenced to 18 months in a federal penitentiary, is the only one of the defendants in the Spencerville case who is now free on bond. Others are serving their sentences imposed in court at Ft. Wayne.

Attorney Winslow VanHorne of Auburn appeared before the U. S. Court of Appeals for the seventh circuit in Chicago on Friday and filed two petitions which were granted. He presented the transcript of the record in the case. It was ordered that the printing of the transcript be waived and the cause will be determined on a typewritten transcript of the record. The transcript contains all of the entries made by the court at Fort Wayne and a verbatim report of evidence at the trial.

The court also granted an extension of time for the next step in the appeal, the filing of a brief by the attorneys for Mr. Wicoff. The brief will contain the contentions of the attorneys why the conviction should be set aside and is to be ready by Nov. 10. After the brief is filed, the U.S. attorney, Gilmore S. Haynie of Fort Wayne, will file an answer to the contentions of Wicoff and his attorneys and then the defense has the right to make a reply to the government's answer. After this procedure oral arguments will be held and the appeals court will then decide whether to set aside the conviction or affirm the verdict in the lower court.

Mr. Wicoff, whose teaching contract was cancelled by Vinton Miller, trustee of Spencer Township, before the start of the 1950-51 term of the Spencerville school, is still residing at Spencerville. He taught agriculture in the Spencerville high school and also a veterans' vocational training course.

Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

JUST as with any other type of craftsman's tools, the proper adjustment and careful operation of a corn picker is one of the most important things to keep in mind during corn-picking time. In some cases, the close watching of this operation can reduce losses enough to pay for harvesting the crop.

One of the greatest losses of grain on the farm is caused by careless operation of corn pickers. Mechanical picker studies conducted at several agricultural colleges show that picking losses range from two and a half to 13 per cent, depending on the type of picker, the kind of corn and the season of the year.

With a yield of 70 bushels per acre, a 10 per cent loss at $1.50 per bushel would amount to $10.50 loss per acre. That would more than pay for the harvesting operation.

Dropped ears may be recovered by gleaning or by livestock. Shelling losses, though, are not easily recovered unless the field is hog-tight. Hogs will save some shelled corn if the weather is good.

Shelling losses can be reduced by careful adjustment of corn picker rolls. Another factor that will save picker losses is to keep the picker on the row. Ears are knocked off and lost when a picker gets a little off the row. Low ground speeds and careful driving should be the watchword of every operator.

Corn picker elevators should be shut off when making turns or when picking on the contour. Otherwise corn will miss the wagon. Corn along the ends, across waterways and along ridges should be gleaned by hand in order to save as much grain as possible.

According to experimental studies, mounted pickers have a greater tendency to lose corn than do pull-type pickers. Lowest shelling losses were found with the single-row pull-type machine.

Around the Town

With the Editor

The power of suggestion is strong.

Last week at the Junior Class cafeteria supper I was looking around the gym after finishing my helpings and noticed the Duker family . . . and sure enough Clyle was still eating. I'm pretty sure he was digging in when we walked in, and twenty minutes later — chomp, chomp, chomp.

I kept watching him and made some remark to Esther about his capacity for food. Finally I had to get another sandwich. As I waited for it, Mike ran up and said, "Mommy wants another hot dog too!"

Earl Kinsey and Herman and Mayola Zuber sat across from us at the potluck dinner served Sunday noon for the 75th Anniversary Celebration of the local Lutheran Church. After finishing the main course, Earl looked over the assortment of desserts on the serving table and asked, "Whose cake is that in the middle?"

Esther said, "I baked it."

He promptly jumped up, grabbed his plate and said, "You did? Well, I'm going to get some before it's gone."

(Just braggin' on the little woman's cooking.)

With all the new cars now being driven by St. Joe'ers, it's hard for some people (me) to be satisfied with their old buggies. Frank Sechler in his Buick, John Haverstock in his Plymouth, Mose Yeiser in his Mercury, Harold Yeiser in his Ford, Ed Storer in his Ford, Bump Kinsey in his Mercury, Bob Ridgway in his Ford, Mutt Coburn in his Ford, Elmer McKay in his Olds—ah, me. I'd like a new one, too. But there's one thing that bothers me—paying for it.

Never underestimate the power of a woman. I tried on a plaid jacket and a plain one at Jackson's Clothing Store this week. I kinda liked the plaid. When I had on the other jacket, Vera Jackson said, "You look nice in that one."

So I tried 'em both on again.

—I'm wearing a plain jacket.

Something to think about. . .would you accept the treatment you gave others today?

Group Protests Phone Service

An estimated 30 persons, residents of the Butler and St. Joe communities and subscribers to the Indiana Associated Telephone Corp. service, testified last Thursday before the Indiana Public Service commission in Auburn that toll service over the Associated lines was "inadequate."

The hearing was held in commissioners' court in the Auburn courthouse.

The main grievance from the witnesses was the alleged inadequate toll service from Butler to Auburn and from St. Joe to Auburn. The witnesses said they were forced to wait undue lengths of time to get their calls through to the Auburn exchange. Associated operates three toll lines to Auburn and, according to their traffic manager, contemplates installation of two or more by November 1.

H. Clark Springer of Butler, attorney for the town and representative of the group, told the commission that two years ago the corporation was granted a rate increase and promised improved service which never materialized. He said the subscribers were insistent that if the proposed rate increases of from 60 to 75 percent are granted, the corporation "must assure" improved service.

The Public Service Commission is not expected to act on the evidence presented at the hearing in Auburn for several weeks.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Time to Quit Griping

It's Your Government

One of the most overworked excuses used by those who do not go to the polls at election time is that "my vote doesn't mean much." Persons using that excuse can be placed in the same category as those who never write their congressmen to express their views on national problems because "it won't do any good."

The thing to remember is that you and your neighbor are the ones who put the representatives in office, representatives whose purpose is to serve the people who put them in office. Should their services prove unsatisfactory, you have the opportunity to put someone else in office by means of elections. If the people of this country are to continue to be the government, the people must participate in elections and keep the men and women they elect informed as to their wishes and opinions.

Abraham Lincoln said: "I appeal to you to constantly bear in mind that not with politicians, not with presidents, not with office seekers, but with YOU is the question: Shall the liberties of this country be preserved to the latest generations?"

Lincoln's challenge to the people on the problems of his time holds true today.

Study the issues in our election . . . learn about your candidates . . . and vote as you believe best for local, state and national offices. ALL are important.

Vote—and vote thoughtfully.

Your vote is your voice in government. Think . . , then let it speak!

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE IS Socialized MEDICINE

How many of these names have you heard:
1. Government Health Insurance
2. The Wagner Plan
3. National Health Insurance

Don't be misled by any of them. They all mean the same . . . all add up to Socialized Medicine.

Simply, Socialized Medicine is a government-controlled compulsory sickness tax—forced on you whether you like it or not.

Every Nation that has tried it totters on the brink of bankruptcy—and the government takes the workers' spending money in extra taxes.

Our Nation's health is at an all-time high under the present system. Let's keep it that way.

Let those who represent you in Washington know you are against government control of medical service.

Remember, it's your health . . . and your money.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Psalm 19:7-11; Acts 8: 26-39; II Timothy 3:14-17. DEVOTIONAL READING: Luke 24: 25-32.

Using Your Bible

Lesson for October 15, 1950

THE BIBLE must be approached in three ways: with the head, with the heart and with the will. With the head for understanding, the heart for appreciation and reverence, and the will for obedience. That was the first question Philip asked the Ethiopian: Do you understand what you are reading? Not, do you enjoy it, or do you believe it, but do you understand it? If not, then the reader can neither fully believe nor rightly enjoy it.

Dr. Foreman

The King James Version

THE BEST and simplest help in understanding the Bible is to read it in the language we speak. Now unfortunately it was not written in that tongue, but in Hebrew and Greek. We have to read it in translations. There are scores of translations in English alone.

The most widely sold of these is the one known by various names: the King James, or the Authorized, or the 1611, version. This was first published in 1611, being essentially a revision of the Bishop's Bible, a still earlier translation. The name "authorized" is misleading, however, for it never was authorized by church or state. It is a noble example of 17th century English and has had a wide influence wherever English-speaking people have gone.

The fact is, however, that people today do not speak 17th-century English any more, and very few of us even read it. Consequently the Bible, in this King James version, has a quaint Shakespearian sound, and the difficulty of the language is one of the main reasons why the average American today finds it hard to read.

Furthermore, the King James is inaccurate in many places. At the time it was published, the translators were working from Greek manuscripts which are now known not to be either the earliest or the best available. For these reasons, fresh translations of the Bible were greatly needed.

20th Century Translations

THESE modern-English translations of the Bible haven't changed the Book; they are simply helping the reader to get back to the ideas of the original apostles and prophets; they are putting the Bible again into the language people actually speak.

Some of the more important versions may be noted here. Practically all the churches of Protestant North America have been co-operating through the International Council of Religious Education, in producing what is called the "Revised Standard Version" of which the New Testament is already out, and very popular too. The whole Bible in this version is due to be off the press by September 1952.

This is an excellent version for church or liturgical use, as it keeps close to the King James rhythm wherever it can; for the King James version, whatever its fault, has a rhythm about parts of it (notably the Psalms) which has never been surpassed.

Two other translations have been before the public, and have won many friends, for a score of years now: Moffat's, and the American Translation by Goodspeed, J.M.P. Smith and others. (This latter includes the Apocrypha, to which most Protestants are strangers).

THE average reader, used to taking his Bible in snippets of a verse or two, or a chapter at most, at one time, will find that he can sit down with one of these modern translations and just read on and on, fascinated by the book he has discovered for the first time.

One of the "hardest" yet most important parts of the Bible, for instance, is the Epistles section of the New Testament. Every one of these epistles is a short letter, but how few persons ever read one straight through! Let the reader who is puzzled by the Epistles get a copy of "Letters to Young Churches," a translation by J. B. Phillips, and he will find that dark part of the New Testament simply opening up and shining.

The work of translating will go on and on as long as language keeps changing; let us thank God for all those who in our time have been making the Word of God again an open book for all men.

Who Runs America?

the Congress? the President?

OR YOU AND THE MAN NEXT DOOR?

RUNNING AMERICA is the joint job of 150,000,000 people. It's the biggest job in the world today—keeping it running for liberty and for freedom. And the whole world's watching to see whether Americans can do it!

IN MUCH OF THE WORLD today, the people have resigned from running their own countries. Others have been quick to step in—first with promises of "security"—and then with whips and guns—to run things their way. The evidence is on every front page in the world, every day.

FREEDOM COMES UNDER ATTACK. The reality of war has made every American think hard about the things he's willing to work and fight for—and freedom leads the list.

But that freedom has been attacked here recently—just as it has been attacked in other parts of the world. One of the most serious threats to individual freedom has been the threat of Government-dominated Compulsory Health Insurance, falsely presented as a new guarantee of health "security" for everybody.

THE PEOPLE WEIGH THE FACTS. In the American manner, the people studied the case for Socialized Medicine—and the case against it.

They found that Government domination of the people's medical affairs under Compulsory Health Insurance means lower standards of medical care, higher payroll taxes, loss of incentive, damage to research, penalties for the provident, rewards for the improvident.

They found that no country on earth can surpass America's leadership in medical care and progress. They found that able doctors, teachers, nurses and scientists—working in laboratories where Science, not Politics, is master—are blazing dramatic new trails to health for Americans—and for the world.

THE "GRASS ROOTS" SIGNALS CONGRESS. In every community in the Nation, people stood up to be counted on this important issue. Thousands of local women's clubs, civic groups, farm, business, religious, taxpayer, medical, educational and patriotic organizations spoke out—giving the great United States Congress its unmistakable Grass Roots signal from home!

And ever watchful, ever sensitive to an alert people, The Congress saw that signal, and heard the people speak out, loud and plain. That's democracy in action. That's the American way!

Today among the 10,000 great organizations on militant public record against "Compulsory Health Insurance" are:

General Federation of Women's Clubs
American Farm Bureau Federation
National Grange
Veterans of Foreign Wars
National Conference of Catholic Charities
American Protestant Hospital Association
American Legion
National Association of Small Business Men
United States Chamber of Commerce
National Association of Retail Grocers
National Retail Dry Goods Association
American Bar Association

• Doctors of this Nation are grateful that the people refused to be wooed by the fantastic promises of this un-American excursion into State Socialism. • Doctors of America are dedicated to serve their fellow citizens at home and their comrades in uniform, wherever service to this Nation may take them. • And the thing they stand ready to fight for—to sacrifice for—to die for—is not the alien way of life of Socialism, but the prideful security of a free and self-reliant people!

THE VOLUNTARY WAY IS THE AMERICAN WAY!

• Throughout the Nation, free men and women, working and planning together, are finding the American answer to every question of medical service, care and cost. Hundreds of Voluntary Health Insurance Plans are in healthy competition—sponsored by doctors, insurance companies, hospitals, fraternal organizations—by industry, agriculture and labor. • Today in America—70 million people are protected by Voluntary Health Insurance! • Throughout the Nation, families are insuring themselves against the major costs of illness—at reasonable, budget-basis prices. Voluntary Health Insurance takes the economic shock out of illness. Protect your family now. • For information, ask your doctor—or your insurance man.

An American's greatest heritage is the right to learn the facts—and to speak his mind. Maintained with honor and used with sincerity—that right will guarantee forever that now . . . 9 years later . . . 2,425,000 kilowatts

by 1953 . . . 3,380,000 kilowatts

The defense program is stepping up the demand for electric power. Civilian use of electricity is going up. You ask if the supply of electric power is increasing, too . . .

This is the answer: Thanks to new plants and additions to older ones, customers of this company and its American Gas and Electric System affiliates now have nearly twice as much electricity available to them as there was at the time of Pearl Harbor, less than nine short years ago.

And the System has 1,000,000 kilowatts of new capacity coming on the line by the summer of 1953. Of this, 450,000 kilowatts will come into service in 1951, another 350,000 in 1952, and 200,000 in 1953—making a total of 3,380,000 kilowatts available in the seven-state area the System serves.

Never—in war or peace—wherever the lines of this company and its affiliates extend—has electricity been too little or too late.

Apple Butter

OLD timers who recall with a tinge of nostalgia the smell and taste of the apple butter that used to be made in their childhood, would enjoy being around when the Bert Reedy family, Albany, Ill., re-enacts their family tradition of making apple butter in a huge copper kettle the same way their grandparents used to make it each fall. Younger folk who have never smelled the tantalizing odor of apple butter cooking would equally enjoy the fun of an apple butter party in all its phases from peeling and coring to cooking and stirring — but best of all, they'd like the sampling!

GRANDPARENTS tell about a handy gadget seldom seen today, that peeled, sliced and cored an apple all in one operation. Donald Reedy and Raymond Reedy are shown here using the tool.

THE OLD COPPER KETTLE full of steaming and gurgling apple butter, is center of attention as Mrs. Harry Reedy stirs, Mrs. Archie Reedy adds cinnamon, and her husband pours in sugar.

OFFICIAL TASTER is Mrs. Bert Reedy, who has made many batches of apple butter and knows just how much sweetening and seasoning is needed for perfect flavor. Her son, Archie, holds the big spoon.

GOOD FARMING PRACTICES have paid off for E. G. Mellick, who owns this fine set of farm buildings (right photo) and 722 acres near Somerset, Ohio. Friends say he is always up to date on farm machinery and is usually the first in the area to try anything new. He was first to buy a combine, first with a hay baler, first with a tractor, etc. His modern equipment explains how he can farm 722 acres with the aid of a couple farm hands and his son Robert, although he is a semi-invalid. Mr. and Mrs. Mellick are shown in the photo below.

DON'T LET COST OF PRODUCTION

Milk Your Dairy Profits

NO matter how much milk your herd produces . . . and regardless of the ups and downs in milk prices, the amount of profit you'll make by the end of the year depends in a good measure on your cost of production!

Take the case of two dairy farmers with the same sized herds, same level of production, and selling in the same market at the same milk price. One finished the year with a nice return on his labor, investment and feed cost. The other barely managed "to break even". Cost of production made the difference!

No one can accurately forecast the exact price of milk six months from now . . . or a year . . . or five years hence. But whatever the price, efficient, "cost-conscious" dairymen will come out on top, while others, with equal opportunity for profit, may wind up broke and out of the milk business.

Don't let cost of production "milk" the profits out of your dairying operation! This doesn't mean you should "skimp" on feed, forego the services of a veterinarian when you need one, or put off buying work-saving, money-making equipment. You can always afford to spend money to make money! But it's just good business to take advantage of every cost-cutting idea that will let you wind up the year with the profit you deserve for all your hard work and efforts.

The pictures below show several ways you can cut costs on your farm without lowering production to earn greater profits this year and in years ahead!

Feed Waste!

Use MORTON'S Fine Choice TRACE MINERALIZED SALT

Livestock make better use of their feed . . . get more out of it—when they get all the salt they want, plus trace minerals. The trace minerals, with salt, stimulate the enzyme, vitamin and hormone functions that convert feed nutrients into meat, bone, blood, milk and wool. It costs but a few cents more per animal per year.

FREE FOLDER For important information on feeding salt and trace minerals, write Morton Salt Co., P. O. Box 781, Chicago 90, Illinois.

MORTON'S Fine Choice TRACE MINERALIZED SALT

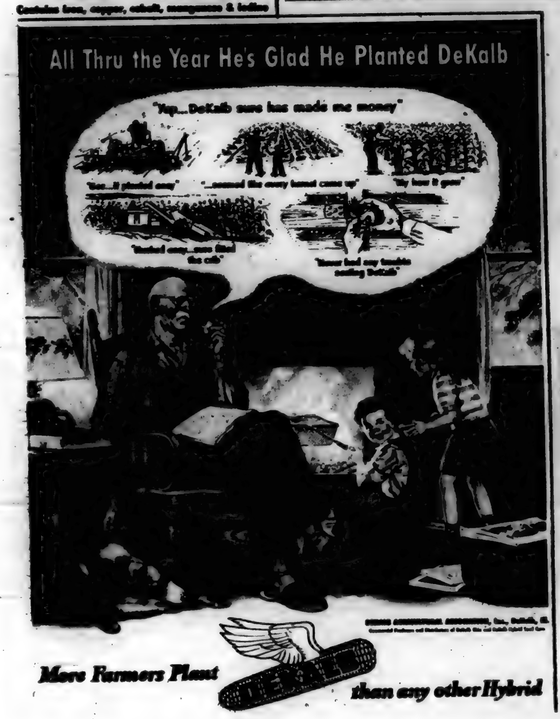
Contains Iron, copper, cobalt, manganese & iodine

Why waste lots of valuable whole milk on calves when you can raise fine, healthy replacement heifers for your herd on commercial calf starters? With them, you can raise your calves on less than 200 lbs. of whole milk, and the extra milk you sell is more than enough to pay for the calf starter and leave you a net profit.

With the big swing to artificial insemination, many farmers are losing money by keeping a bull on the farm. Unless a farmer is breeding about 40 cows a year, it is generally cheaper to join an artificial breeding association, than to buy or raise a bull and feed, house and care for him. Also, few farmers can afford to buy bulls of the calibre used in bull ring associations.

Another way you can cut costs and increase profits is to plan your breeding program for more fall calves. DHIA records show cows calving in fall often average 20% more milk and fat than cows calving in spring. Besides producing more, cows freshening in fall produce their biggest flow of milk when supply is short and prices highest.



Production costs go down when quantity and quality of home grown roughage goes up. Good corn and grass silage and high quality legume hay can supply a major share of the nutrients cows need for high milk production. By improving quality of the roughage you produce, you can save on home grown grain as well as commercial supplements.

Pasture is a big money-saver on the dairy farm . . . especially high quality, nutritious pasture. By planning a good pasture program which includes a variety of high-yielding legumes and grasses, you can conserve your soil and at the same time, reduce your feed bills. Many farmers now have quality pasture 8 or 9 months a year.

Disease throws more cows out of the herd than old age. Mastitis is one of the worst offenders. Maintain herd health by practicing sanitation, vaccinate for Bangs, and keep on guard constantly against outbreaks of mastitis. Make a "strip cup" test like this before milking each cow so you can catch mastitis early and control it.

You're throwing money away, unless you feed grain and commercial protein supplement according to each cow's production. Weigh the milk of each cow yourself or better yet, join a dairy herd improvement association, and feed according to production. Milk and feed records will also show you which cows are money-makers and which are "boarders". By regular culling, you can eliminate the poor producers and boost profits over feed costs.

...time-tested prescriptions developed by Dr. David Roberts over the course of more than a half a century ... prescriptions which have played a large part in helping to improve and maintain the health of America's finest dairy herds.

Give HERD TONIK for RUNDOWN COWS

Forced milk production tends to run down a certain percentage of a herd, especially when pastured or when vital "trace" elements are lacking in soil or feed. Herd Tonik contains these elements . . . helps to energize cows and increase milk flow. Try Herd Tonik on a cow that is not doing well. The improved condition will convince you that your entire herd needs Herd Tonik.

Give LAXOTONE for SICK COWS

Loss of appetite or refusal to eat usually means a cow is suffering from some ailment. LAXOTONE, given dry on the tongue, helps to relieve this condition. At the first sign of Mastitis, give LAXOTONE. We can also supply Penicillin.

COW COMFORT PAYS OFF in Bigger Milk Checks

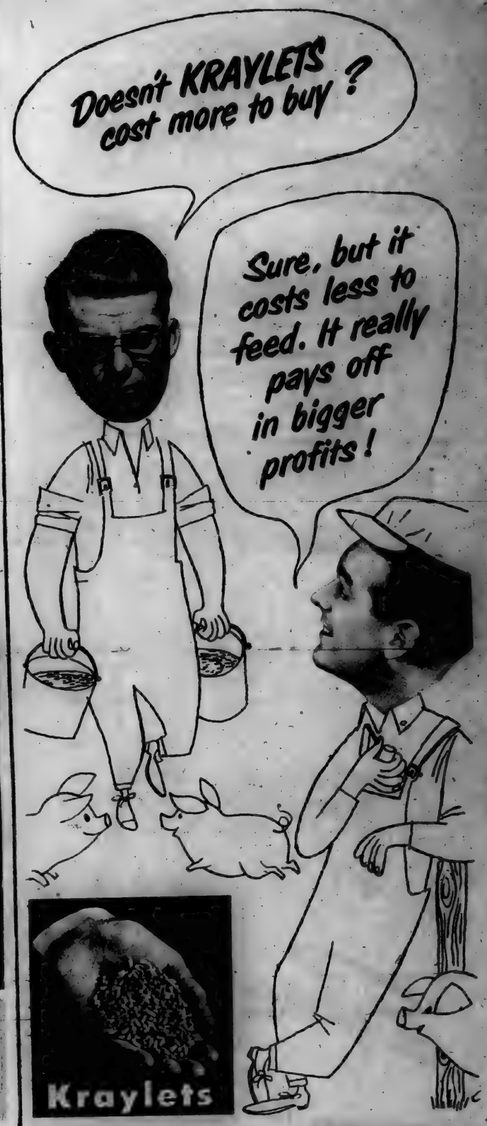
IT takes more than good feeding and good breeding to earn top dairying profits. Good management is also a "must". To be a good manager, you have to have real affection for your cows . . . and provide for their comfort and convenience as carefully as you provide for your own.

This doesn't mean, necessarily, that you have to make "pets" of them. But the man who has no "cow kindness" in his heart will pay the penalty in reduced milk checks. Chances are, he'd be better off in some other business.

For cows are sensitive creatures. The farmer who "belts" a cow for switching her tail during milking, may cut her milk flow in half for several days. The farmer who ignores the fact that his stalls are too short for his cows' comfort, may pay the price in a flare-up of milk-stealing, cow-ruining mastitis.

The pictures below show some of the ways you can provide extra comfort for your cows that will pay off in healthier cows . . . more and higher quality milk . . . and greater dairy profits.

Cows seem "happiest" when they're out on good, rich pasture with plenty of shade, drinking water and protection from flies and other insects. By improving your pastures and lengthening your pasture season, you can save on feed, reduce barn chores, and keep your cows comfortable and contented.



Why is this ointment so effective in treating mastitis*?

Millions of cases have been successfully treated with it!

Look inside the quarter!

Note how Squibb Ointment disperses penicillin throughout a treated quarter! One tube of Squibb Ointment, containing a dye instead of penicillin, was instilled into one quarter of a cow's udder. The cow was killed 17 hours later—the udder removed and frozen—and the above cross-section photograph taken.

Here are your reasons for asking for Squibb Penicillin Ointment:

- Thorough dispersion throughout entire treated quarter, reaching the infection no matter where it may be in the quarter.
- Attacks mastitis* organisms over a period of from 48 to 72 hours—without interfering with regular milking hours.
- Effective in 9* out of 10 cases of mastitis—usually with only one tube.
- Stops milk check losses by getting infected cows quickly back to production of salable milk.
- Stable, non-toxic, non-irritating.
- Clear ointment—won't discolor milk.
- Easy to use. Improved tip on tube inserts into teat. Ointment flows readily from tube into infected quarter. Treatment is a matter of seconds. No syringe required.

Squibb "Instant-Use" Penicillin is sold in drug stores only. Ask your druggist for it. It's inexpensive! Keep this proved ointment always on hand in the barn. Treat mastitis* at the first sign—stop its spread—save yourself many dollars. Write for folder on MASTITIS. E. R. Squibb & Sons, Veterinary & Animal Feeding Products Division, Dept. RG10 745 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

*Due to Streptococcus agalactiae, the cause of the largest percentage of all mastitis cases.

SQUIBB—A NAME YOU CAN TRUST

This 4-H Club farm boy has a natural liking for livestock that will pay off in bigger milk profits when he develops a fine dairy herd of his own. To really succeed with dairying cows you have to like them and enjoy working with them.

Good milking methods are important for "cow comfort". Keep your milking machine clean, in good working order with proper vacuum and pulsation rate, and don't leave the machine on the cow any longer than necessary to get all of the milk without hand stripping.

Cows are more comfortable in a clean, well-ventilated, draft-less barn like this, and show their appreciation with more high quality milk. Note that plenty of bedding is used to protect the cows' udders when they lie down or get up, and the length of stall is ample to protect against injury from gutter edges.

This nice herd of Guernseys is comfortable and contented with a feed trough filled with high quality hay or well-balanced dairy feed. Stanchions and stalls "fit" the cows, and automatic fountains provide a constant supply of cool, clean, fresh drinking water.

Clipping makes life easier for both you and the cows. Unclipped backs and flanks are a nesting place for irritating insects that keep cows restless and unhappy. Clipping cows makes your job of keeping them clean and free of insects, easier and more efficient. It also helps you produce quality milk.

Calves need "all the comforts of home" too. These calves are gaining nicely in their ventilated, draft-less, sunlit pen. Provide plenty of clean bedding and don't over-crowd. Also, provide all the water, salt and bright hay calves will eat, in addition to a good calf starter.

During fly time, spraying is of major importance in keeping cows comfortable. For larger herds, an efficient power sprayer is a time and work saver. Use one of the newer fly sprays, but not DDT which can contaminate the milk and make it unfit for human consumption.

Weird Snacks AND BLACK CATS

BY SUSAN LOWE

HALLOWE'EN calls for weird snacks concocted with a touch of magic, for Hallowe'en is the one time in the year when fantasy becomes reality. It's a time when goblins and ghosts slink out of dark places . . . when black cats and broken mirrors bring fun in their wake . . . when witches with sooty brooms ride in the open . . . when gypsies find fantastic fortunes and dire happenings in the occult art of reading tea leaves. It's a night when pig-tailers and middle-agers alike unbend and have a rollicking good time.

For an eerie aspect in refreshments, you might climax the fun on Hallowe'en with a choice of beverages: Ghostly Brew — hot chocolate with marshmallow pumpkin faces; Witches Brew —iced beverage of cider, orange juice and ginger ale; or Black Magic — coffee. With this you could offer sandwiches with Goblin Faces or Dark Moon Sandwiches of steamed brown bread. For something different combine raisins, apple and celery in an Evil Eye Salad. Choose a bewitching dessert, possibly Tingling Tarts in the form of pumpkin tarts with ginger meringue or Wheels of Fortune, the traditional Hallowe'en doughnut.

If you'd like to add mystery to your party and unveil the future, make some Gypsy Cup Cakes . . . before the batter is baked, plant a small charm in tinfoil in each cake. Your guest's future is predicted by the symbol found in his cake — a button means a bachelor; a thimble, a spinster; a coin, a legacy; a wedding ring, a wedding; an engagement ring, an engagement; a paper clip, a success in business; a bead, a romance; a small bell, fame; an airplane, travel; a horseshoe, good luck.

So tote out your favorite pranks and your spookiest dishes and invite in all the gang for a party that will cast a Hallowe'en spell throughout the entire year.

GYPSY CUP CAKES hold the key to your future with a treasure hidden in each Raisin Orange Cup Cake —

RAISIN ORANGE CUP CAKES

1 cup seedless raisins
½ cup shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
2 tsp. grated orange rind
2 eggs
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ cup milk
Butter-sugar frosting
Orange food coloring
Seedless raisins
Prune strips

Rinse raisins and drain. Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy; add grated orange rind, raisins and beaten eggs and beat. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt alternately with milk and blend. Place a charm in each cup cake in the manner described in story, and bake in greased cup cake pans in hot oven (425 F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Cool. Frost with butter-sugar icing, tinted orange. Make Halloween faces with raisins for eyes and prune strips for mouth. Makes approximately 15 cakes.

Pirate's Treasure Chest

By SUSAN LOWE

THE pirate's map in our pantry shows clues pointing straight to a chest of hidden treasure in my kitchen — treasure old and new. And to me it's as precious as the gold and rubies that were hiddden in days of yore. For you see, my treasure chest contains a priceless collection of recipes.

Some of these were handed down to me by my mother and her mother's mother before her. Others were brought with my father's family from Scotland. Still others have been given me by friends. Some I've cut from magazines; there are even those I've concocted myself — but each recipe is a treasure in my chest.

Among the most prized are my pastry files and profiles. There are chiffon pies, and chocolate-chip pies . . . there are ice cream pies and deep-dish pies . . . there are graham cracker crusts and crumb crusts made of cereal. For that matter, one could do a thousand things with pie crust itself — such as using orange juice in place of water in making the crust. Some folks add a trace of nutmeg to the crust of an apple or peach pie — one-fourth teaspoon does the trick. For a party touch, finely chopped nut meats — walnut, pecan or Brazil nuts — may be worked into the pastry.

Cheese pastry is another favorite. You can make it by simply blending one cup of grated cheese into the pastry for a two-crust pie. You'll find it heaps of fun to use in making pastry cups, cheese straws and miniature turnovers.

The pastry cups are made by cutting the cheese pastry into rounds with a cookie cutter and fitting into muffin tins. After baking, fill with chicken, tuna or sea-food salad. Decorate with a slice of stuffed olive or pickle.

Cut rolled pastry into 5 x ¾ inch strips for cheese straws. Place on ungreased baking sheet, twisting each strip several times. Bake at 425 F. for 10 to 12 minutes; serve warm.

Pastry files and profiles — each recipe is an added treasure in our pirate's chest!

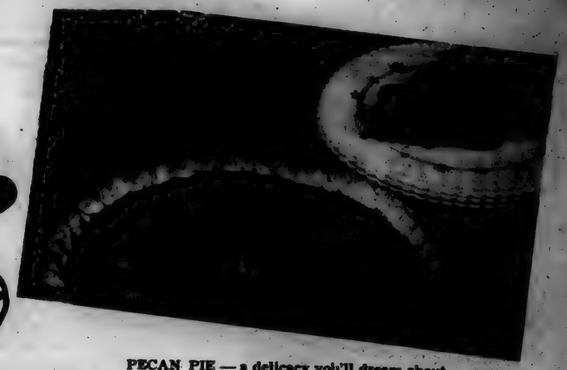
NEW AMONG RECIPE TREASURES is this Chocolate Coconut Spiral Pie. You can use any favorite chocolate pie filling recipe. When chocolate filling has thickened, add ¼ cup nut meats. Cool lightly, stirring once or twice. Turn into pie shell. Chill. Top with whipped cream. With a spoon, make a spiral groove in cream and fill with toasted coconut.

CHERRY PIE WITH CRISSCROSS TOPPING — has a profile that rates with both the young fry and the old fry —

CRISSCROSS CHERRY PIE

2½	cups drained canned pitted red cherries	¼	cup tapioca
1	cup cherry juice	¾	cup sugar
1	tablespoon butter	½	tsp. salt
2	tblsp. quick-cooking	1	recipe pie crust

Combine tapioca, sugar, salt, cherries, and cherry juice; let stand 15 minutes or while pastry is being made. Line a 9-inch pie pan with pastry rolled ⅛ inch thick. Fill pie shell with cherry mixture. Dot with butter. Moisten edge of pastry with cold water. Cut strips from additional rolled pastry and adjust in lattice across top of pie. Flute rim. Bake in hot oven (425 F.) 45 minutes or until done.



PECAN PIE — a delicacy you'll dream about —

PECAN PIE

3	eggs, beaten	2	tblsp. butter, melted
½	cup molasses	1	tblsp. all-purpose flour
½	cup white corn syrup	1	cup chopped pecans
1	tsp. vanilla	1	9-inch unbaked pie shell
½	tsp. salt

Combine eggs, molasses, corn syrup, vanilla, and salt. Add butter. Mix nuts with flour and stir into mixture. Pour into an unbaked 9-inch pie crust. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 F.) for 40 minutes or until firm. Yield: 8 servings.

Around the Town

With the Editor

I didn't mean to miss any new-car owners last week, but there are so many it's hard to keep track. The Hofers have a new Ford, the Coles a Dodge and the Sechlers (Robert) a Chevy.

Milt McGrath of Spencerville made the observation Monday night at the Republican dinner that husbands aren't safe with television sets in use. As an example, he attended the Notre Dame-North Carolina football game and managed to get himself surrounded by girls, girls, girls.

—Wha' hoppen? His sister-in-law saw his beaming face on her TV set.

Everything turned out OK, tho'. The "girls, girls, girls" were part of a cheering section — he says.

The Tri Mu Sunday school class ladies did a swell job of serving the Republican dinner. There were a hundred dinners served but you wouldn't know it with the quick service rendered. Let's see, there were Bernice Sechler, Harriett Baker, Ethel Haverstock, Billie Mason, Jean Davis, June Baker, Effie Belle McCann, Audra Collins, Lois Strombeck, Mary McElroy, Violet Kline, Mildred Ridgway, Ruth Collins, Irene Duker, Marvella Dilley, Esther Haberkorn and Marcia Sible, who certainly does a thorough job of cleaning up at the end of such an event. —I know, I missed somebody.

The only thing "wrong" during the evening was a slight distraction which may be overcome someday, when somebody invents a rubberized soap to keep knives and forks from making noise when washed.

Whasamatter? Don't you want a couple of easy bucks or so? So far I've got a total of no letters on "How We Can Be Better Citizens." Next Saturday is the last day for entering the contest. Winners will get $5 first prize, $3 second prize and $2 third prize.

Say, if nobody else is going to try, I'll write three letters and win the ten bucks myself!

DEKALB POTATO GROWERS ELIGIBLE FOR SUPPORTS

Potato farmers in northern Indiana counties, including DeKalb County landowners, have been placed under a federal potato marketing agreement, making potato growers in those counties eligible for government price supports.

The result of the vote taken in the Middle States area during the period Sept. 19 to 25 was announced Friday by the government Production Marketing association. Seventy-five percent of the affected growers in the Indiana counties and Iowa voted in favor of being included in the program already in effect in Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota.

According to A. H. Lautzenhiser of Franklin Township, chairman of the DeKalb P.M.A., the vote means that all potato growers who stayed within their alloted acreage this year will be eligible for protection under the price support program. Present support price is about $1.10. The majority of the principal growers in northeasternn Indiana stayed within their allotments and will qualify for the support program, he said.

The government says the program is designed to stabilize grower prices by keeping low grade and smaller potatoes off the market.

The vote of Indiana growers was not given, but there had been considerable opposition to the plan in this state.

The opposition was primarily by the growers in northwestern Indiana. Authorities said the growers there felt that they could more easily dispose of their potatoes on the open market of the Chicago area in competition with growers in areas more distant, such as Maine.

Northeastern Indiana growers, however, were said to favor the agreement.

Indiana counties affected included all those north of the line across the state formed by Warren, Benton, White, Carroll, Cass, Miami, Wabash, Huntington, Wells and Adams counties.

Capacity Crowd Attends Dinner

One hundred persons attended the Republican dinner rally sponsored by the Young Women's Republican Club of Concord, Spencer and Newville Townships last Monday evening in the basement of St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Janice Bowser of Spencerville, president of the club, presided at the meeting. Candidates were introduced by Gene Browand of Auburn, G.O.P. county chairman, and Mrs. Mabel Lyons, county vice-chairman.

Speaker for the evening was Mrs. Mary Benadum, Muncie attorney, who lashed out at the desire for power and money that has characterized the administration of the past seventeen years. Scoring the trend set up by the Democratic forces toward Socialism, Mrs. Benadum declared that we are getting away from the "principles of good old Americanism. There is a price to pay for freedom, and each of us must expect to have his toes stepped on once in a while," she asserted.

Mrs. Benadum condemned the "something-for-nothing" fallacy and pointed out that the subsidy program hits the consumer twice, additional taxes to pay the subsidies and higher prices for commodities with price support levels.

The dinner was served by the Tri Mu Sunday school class of the Lutheran Church.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SEMINAR AT BUTLER BIG SUCCESS

The above poster, distributed by the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce, affiliated local chambers of commerce and state-wide trade and professional organizations, strikes the key-note of this year's Citizenship Participation program designed to create a greater interest in governmental affairs.

The poster points out that Utah, Colorado, Delaware, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Idaho, Illinois, West Virginia, Massachusetts and Rhode Island had a greater percentage of voters turn-out for the 1948 general election than did Indiana. Since Indiana ranked 12th in this indicator of citizen interest, the goal for this year is to "Make Indiana First in '50."

The St. Joe News is participating locally, distributing the above poster in the businesses of St. Joe and Spencerville. The News is also distributing locally a non-partisan folder titled "Let's Talk Politics."

RATS WILL GET IT

It's going to be unhealthy for rats in DeKalb County starting Nov. 3, county agent Ernest J. Lesiuk reported last week.

Another of the annual county-wide rat killing campaigns is scheduled to get underway on that date with the disribution of prepared poison baits to farmers and others who cooperate in the campaign.

The new poisin, warfarin, will be available as well as red squill. Mr. Lesiuk explains that red squill is effective in getting a quick kill of rats as it can be placed along rat runways. Warfarin should be left out for a few weeks or longer to get the best results. The use of red squill to get a quick kill of most rats, followed by warfarin bait to clean up all of the rats and mice, is the advocated way of combating rats during the campaign.

Both the red squill and warfarin baits will be available at a non-profit price as a means of getting rid of rats on all properties at the same time. The high price of food materials makes it a paying matter to kill these rodent pests before winter sets in, according to Mr. Lesiuk, who adds that never before have farmers and townspeople had this opportunity to completely remove the rats and mice through the use of the two poisons.

Townspeople who are bothered with rats and mice should contact the agricultural extension office in Auburn for details about the bait distribution.

Growing in Prayer

Lesson for October 22, 1950

LIFE MAGAZINE, which does not set up as an authority on religion some years ago carried a story about a little girl who was going to be confirmed in the Episcopal church. In describing the requirements for confirmation, the reporter said she had "graduated from 'Now I Lay Me' to the Lord's Prayer."

Most Christian ministers, including those of the denomination in which she was confirmed, would agree that (1) if that is as far as she had "graduated," she still had a very long way to go in learning about prayer, but (2) the little girl had got about as far as thousands of "Christians" ever go. They learn the Lord's Prayer when they are children and that's that. When they grow up they don't actually pray, themselves; they leave it up to Grandma or the preacher—or the tiny tots who "sound so cute" saying "Now I Lay Me."

Dr. Foreman

The Lord's Prayer

THIS is not meant to say anything against the Lord's Prayer, or to imply that we are wrong every time we use it. But our Lord did not mean that prayer to be used as a magic formula, he did not intend it as a substitute for our own free prayers. We know this is so, because in the first place he himself never used that prayer again, and in the second place, although dozens of prayers by Apostles and others are recorded in the New Testament, the Lord's Prayer, as such, is never used. Then what is the Lord's Prayer?

It is his suggestion as to the lines along which, and the spirit in which, we ought to pray. (See the book by William Douglas Chamberlain on the Lord's Prayer, "The Manner of Prayer."

One truth suggested by the Lord's Prayer is that we are not alone in the world. Every verb, every pronoun referring to the one who prays, is in the plural—OUR Father . . . forgive US . . . lead US . . . We have to remember that God is Father of others, not of ourselves alone; that we dare not be selfish in asking special favors of him for ourselves.

Maturing in Prayer

PRAYER at its lowest level is nothing much more than "Gimme." The untaught pray-er may even talk to God as if he were a personal servant, a kind of celestial bell-boy on call whenever we ring for him.

The growing Christian will grow in prayer as in all things; he will grow to the point where, even when he prays as an individual, he will be remembering how many ties bind him to other individuals; he will pray less and less for his own necessities and more and more for what he may share with others.

The beginning Christian, the childish Christian, will pray as a child prays. If his prayers were all arrows they would all point toward himself. As for the mature Christian, if his prayers were visible arrows they could be seen pointing into all the world; he will have those in every land for whom he prays, for his heart bears their names in love and faith.

Learning God's Will

A GOOD deal of worrisome argument has gone on over the question: Can prayer change the will of God? We shall be less bothered by that question when we discover two truths.

One is that in the Lord's Prayer, and in the Bible generally, we have already revealed to us the lines along which God's will moves; and the other is that prayer itself is a means of learning God's will.

If we know that God's will is against something, then, if we have any sense, we know there is no use in praying for that thing. If we know God's will desires something, then we can be confident that our prayers in that direction will be heard with favor.

A study of the Lord's prayer, from this angle, will teach a Christian how to pray in accordance with God's will. Paul knew this. When he prayed that his Philippian friends' "love may abound more and more," he knew very well that this was precisely in line with the will of the Father who is eternal Love.

CARD OF THANKS

To the many friends, neighbors and loved ones both near and far, who in so many ways, from the warm handclasp to the magnificent flowers, have helped to lighten our sorrow, dear memories of you will always linger near us.

To his Masonic brothers, so dear to him, who were ever ready to aid and comfort us,

And to the Masonic Order of Auburn, Ind., who bestowed upon him highest honors in draping his casket with the immaculate Lambskin Apron - words fail us to express the gratitude that fills our hearts today.

But may we share with you the few lines that were dearest of all to him.

Most Sincerely,
Mrs. W. G. Erick

My Father's Little Blue Masonic Pin

In summing up life's blessings, we're enjoying here below,
It seems our unseen blessings are the ones we love the best, but know
The least about, yet cherish longest; for they grow dearer day by day.
When the bloom of youth has faded and your hair is silvery gray,
'Tis then they come to bless you beside the firelight's glow,
And that Golden gift, called Memory, takes you back to long ago.
For when children gather 'round you in their gay and joyous whirl,
They love to hear of things you did when just a little boy or girl.

One of my fondest memories that helped my web of life to spin,
Clings 'round my father's little blue masonic pin.
How I loved it - almost again I stand before the bureau, and mother says
Now if the pin I let you wear, you must do your best, you know.
Then with loving hands she deftly ties the ribbons midst my curls
And in the lace about my throat, she pinned the little emblem set with pearls.
To me who was a dreamer, it held a charm of magic rare.
Just as to little children does the rainbow in the air.
Today - in retrospection the meaning of the blue, is -
If we just let God have his way, dreams come true.

One Christmas eve the piece I spoke was Annie and Willie's prayer;
For I never dared to wear it, except on occasions rare.
Smiles come when I think how once at public installation,
My recitation was - She wanted to be a Mason.
Just between my eyes I had a boil, and surely was a sight,
But that mattered little to me if wear the pin I might.
I learned how Jesus, as a carpenter, used the compass and the square.
How in His work of winning souls they were so much needed there.
How He loves the little children, and above them keeps the stars,
And at the ending of life's journey, when we reach those Gates ajar,
He'll say - Welcome Home, my children, but will not ask us which Has been your past location - the palace or the ditch?
How He said to His disciples - Go forth and if friends welcome you,
Tarry a while and bless them - if not, pass on to strangers who, for My sake will be true.

What I glean from this golden emblem, on the little pin of blue
Is - we also need to use the level to make our dreams come true.

It surely seems most fitting, from 'neath the ocean's surge and swirl,
To grace this golden emblem, should come eleven dainty pearl.
They tell us of God's boundless love - and how we should ever keep Their purity before us, as a message from the deep.
Or I'll give to you their message, in words I'd choose from all the rest
And have so often quoted to those who know me best.
To thine own self, be true. And it must follow as the night, the day.
Thou cans't not then be false to any one.
And countless blessings seem to cling 'round the blue, the gold and pearl
As Memory takes me back again, to just a little girl.

LUNCH ROOM

Should St. Joe have a lunch room? If St. Joe should have one, why hasn't somebody started one before this? The point is that we are arranging to have a lunch only because nobody else would do so and not because we particularly wished to become involved in the restaurant business.

A few years ago when we purchased the Leighty building the Fountain and Drug side was operated by Mr. and Mrs. McMaken and they had a lunch in connection with the other business. When we rented to the present operators they also had a lunch in addition to the fountain and package drugs but later discontinued the lunch business. We are now going to have the lunch re-established, continue fountain service and expand the package drug business.

HIGH PRICES

We quote the following from our I.G.A. weekly news letter.

"Every I.G.A. store has a definite program to work toward. We will do plenty of business. Profits will be satisfactory if we all realize that this is the most crucial time in the lives of most of us as far as business is concerned. We must be competitive. We have made great strides to bring independent business to its present standards, but our built-up prestige can and will be lost if we go off the deep end and hike prices when not necessary. Let's keep ahead of the gains we have made. Build business but build it right. Our profits and the prestige of our I.G.A. stores will stay on a firm foundation so long as we maintain competitive prices and keep them plainly marked on our merchandise."

As an example of our policy we call attention to soap powder. A case of 24 boxes raised 90c wholesale. We raised our selling price from 25c to 29c per box. Just what was necessary to cover our extra cost. Further we want to call attention to a seldom mentioned fact; several items are actually lower than before the Korean crisis—namely pork, lettuce, celery, bananas, canned cherries, canned grapefruit or orange juice, oranges, lemons, potatoes and others which I don't remember on the minute. We have lowered all the above prices in line with the market. We believe that no store—chain or independent—undersells us on an entire grocery order. We only solicit customers on the basis that we can help our customers families to live better on their grocery budget.

another reason why millions of women are changing to Electric cooking...

ELECTRIC COOKING IS cleaner, safer

No other cooking method is as Clean & Safe as Electric Light!

You'll like an electric range for the same reasons you picked electric lighting for your home: you just know it's cleanest, safest, most MODERN!
Electric ranges cook without flame or soot. Kitchen air stays cool and fresh because an electric range—and only an electric range—makes heat without gobbling up oxygen from the room.
Millions have switched to electric cooking just as millions turned from old-fashioned lighting years ago. Unexcelled safety and cleanliness are two big reasons—any woman who cooks electrically can tell you many more. So can your appliance dealer. See the new electric ranges at this show room now.

Low cost, too!
at our low electric rate, about $2 worth of electricity cooks meals for the average family for a whole month.

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC COMPANY

Out front with the finest yet priced with the lowest

These days you can't tell from the price tag how much quality a car holds. Ford, for example, is still priced with the lowest . . . yet in other respects it's in the fine car class. Take its styling, for example; for two years in a row Ford has been the recognized fashion leader.

Like America's finest cars Ford offers you a V-8 engine. No other low-priced car does. Nor does any other car at any price offer you a choice of V-8 or Six engines. And remember, Ford's V-8 costs hundreds less than most sixes—Ford's Six costs even less.

Over 20,000 Ballots For Election

Over 20,000 county and a similar number of township ballots have been printed, County Clerk Ralph Bruce of Auburn reported Saturday and will be ready for distribution to precinct inspectors on the Saturday preceding the Tuesday, Nov. 7, general election in DeKalb County.

And the state ballots, over 20,000 in number, will be picked up in Indianapolis Sunday at state election board headquarters by Mr. Bruce.

The three ballots, state, township and county, will be distributed to every voter who calls at the polls in DeKalb County on election day.

In addition the voters in precincts in Franklin, Troy, Wilmington and Stafford townships will be given a referendum ballot upon which they will designate approval or opposition to the proposed school consolidation plan for the northeastern section of the county.

The state ballots, printed by the state election board, will include the names of U. S. senatorial candidates and names of nominees for state offices. Included on the county ballots will be the candidates for the U. S. house of representatives, candidates for legislative seats in the Indiana general assembly and county offices.

The township ballots include candidates for trustee, justice of the peace and members of the township advisory boards.

State election laws require that ballots totaling one and a quarter times the number of votes cast in each precinct in 1948 be distributed to the inspectors for the polls. Mr. Bruce said 12,189 voters appeared at the polls in 1948.

He said 21,115 regular and absentee ballots were printed. Of these 534 were absentee ballots and 20,280 regular ballots which will be available at the polls.

Union No. 8 precinct and Keyser No. 6 precinct will receive the most ballots, 876 each, while Jackson, northwest, will get only 60.

Spencerville High School News

What's all this maroon and white that's been seen in the halls these last few weeks? It looks like the Juniors finally received their class sweaters.

On Tuesday of last week the Seniors went to Ft. Wayne to have their pictures taken. Most of them stayed and went to the show in the evening.

The Sophomore girls added their artistic touch to the Home Ec room by hanging the curtains which had been down since school started. It looks much better. They have also been tempting the students with the aroma of fritters, soulfles and potato chips.

The Junior and Senior Home Ec class made a trip to Hart's Nursery recently. Mr. Hart showed the class his many varieties of trees, plants, shrubbery and flowers that he has. He showed the class a slice of a palm tree and also the roots of a cyprus tree that he had boiled, skinned and polished.

When they were ready to leave he gave them their choice of a shell which he had brought back from Florida. He also let the class have samples of his flowers if it wished.

AUBURN QUARTET TO SING AT KOKOMO

Auburn's "After-Glo Four" quartet emerged victorious in northern Indiana's annual barbershop quartet elimination contest which was held at the Kendallville high school auditorium at 2 p.m. Sunday. Of the eight competing groups, four were chosen to go to the regional competition which will be held at Kokomo on Oct. 28.

The contest is being sponsored by the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. The host for the Sunday event was the Kendallville chapter of the SPEBSQSA.

The Auburn foursome, winners of the state Moose Quartet singing competition this summer, was the first one of four to be chosen for the trip to the regional contests. The other three singing units were the Harmony Hoosiers of Elkhart, the Sentimental Four of Ft. Wayne and the Nobleaires of Kendallville.

Each of the eight contesting groups were allowed to sing at least two minutes and not longer than three. The Auburn quartet chose "I Ain't Got No Body" and "Shine."

Members of the "After-Glo Four" are Wayne Thomas, first tenor of Auburn; R. G. Turner, lead of Auburn; Max Rufner, baritone of Waterloo; and King Oberlin, bass of near Butler.

LOVE 'EN STUFF (mostly stuff)

Miss H. heads our list this week. It seems she has been going with a male from Auburn. Aren't the Spencerville boys good enough? At least, that is what they ask you in the correspondence you receive from them, isn't it, Midge? (Reference—third paragraph of note received October 16th.)

We have added a new couple to our steady list. Mr. Lohse has put his mark on Madolyn. (a ring, that is. Now she can let it lay on the typing table, instead of he!)

NEWS—Freshies Class Party—Joe Long carried Pat Hook's "sax" up town after the party. Joe, did it take two hands to carry the "horn?"

We would like to know who Ted Hollabaugh took home from the class party. Will anyone having info please let the Beta Staff in on it?

What's this we hear about the Sophomore girls getting ready for the show behind the bushes in the cemetery?? Girls, what did you use for a mirror?

Adair, how did you ever keep your mind on the show with Wade beside you, Jug in front of you and Bob Webb right behind you???

Dick sure can pick pretty sweaters, can't he, Ruth? (Chartreuse, no less!!!!)

Some other steadies have been added to our list—P. Akey is sporting a '51 class ring now—Al Paschen's, of course! Helen Kruse is also carrying a weight around her neck. A ring that is! The lucky boy is Jack Surfus of Huntertown.

What are Dale B. and Eddie H. going to do now that all the Junior girls are going steady? Don't give up boys. There are other pebbles on the beach!!!!

The Seniors had fun after they got their pictures taken Tuesday. They went out for supper and then saw a show. Some new couples were: John Leonard and Joyce Baker (how about Joan, John?) Also Lucy Warstler and Harvey Lahr. Nice going, kids.!!

Was Shirley Crothers over at Larry Wagner's Monday night just to see the TV set? We have heard that it's necessary to turn out the lights in order to see well. How about that kids???

How are the two cute little blonds, Cleo Gerig and Frank Dwyer, getting along these days? ?

Ruth Friend has a bad case of T. B. of the heart! (We mean Tommy Brent of Ashley.)

Gloria S. and Peg Koch have some new flames, too. Tom H. and Dale A. of Ashley. Man, those Ashley boys really get around!!

Who is Pat Hook's latest? Sonny or Harvey? ? Come on, tell us, Pat.

"Kay Kirkwood" has become an interesting name to a certain Spencerville Miss. How about that Senie?

The Junior boys have composed a few lines which gives one something to think about. Quote: The girl who thinks she is "too good" for anyone may be right, but she may be left!! unquote.

What's this we hear about S. R. and C. K. going to Rural Youth with Jack Hass, Joe Long, Pete T. and Norm Weible???? Wha' hoppen to Jack Hughes, Shirley?

Why doesn't Midge get her sleep at night instead of in 5th period Assembly????

Adair Reed really gets around—one night with Eddie and the next with Bob Webb. What about Jug??

John Leonard must really have had a bad day Tuesday 'cause on Wednesday his eyes were so bloodshot that Mr. Finger told him if he (John) opened them very far he would bleed to death!!! Joyce—please don't keep John out so late!!.

YEISER'S SERVICE STATION BURGLARIZED LAST WEEK

Burglars entered Yeiser's Standard Service in St. Joe sometime late last Wednesday or early Thursday morning and stole merchandise valued at over $85 and $3 in cash.

The burglars stole two Goodyear batteries, a set of tire chains, 13 cartons of cigarettes, six boxes of cigars and a box of candy. In addition they took an estimated $3 in coins from a box on a shelf.

What's Your Intake?

Lesson for October 29, 1950

FEW PEOPLE would care for a diet of sawdust, mixed with old bacon rinds and with carbolic acid for a drink. Yet some people who are very careful of what goes into their stomachs are astonishingly careless about the intake of their minds.

Dr. Foreman

What goes into your mind counts for more, and lasts longer, than what goes into your mouth. What you eat can kill you—your body, that is; but what you think, what you read, what you hear, can kill your mind. It can even kill your soul. You can afford to be particular. Down at the Cracked Cup Cafe they give you no choice. If you don't like the 50c dinner you can walk out; and if you are at all particular you will walk out. But at the best restaurants you are offered a wide choice, and the experienced diner-out will read the menu carefully before ordering.

Are you a Christian? Then don't feed your mind at the mental equivalent of the Cracked Cup Cafe. Go to a better spot. The beauty of food for the mind is that the best costs no more. The best foods for the table are rather expensive; the best mind-foods, soul-foods, are not.

Ear-Gate

IS WHAT you listen to, good for your mind? What's your intake, by ear? A woman who had roomed in another woman's house for some time was looking for a new place. Her old room was inexpensive, sunny, convenient, clean; there was nothing wrong with the room. But she had to listen to the landlady every day, and from her she never heard good of any one.

"If I stay there any longer I shall go crazy," the roomer confided to a friend. "She'll get me to thinking the way she does, and she thinks everybody's a crook."

In Tennyson's "Idyls of the King" is that fine rule of the Round Table: "To speak no slander — no, nor listen to it . . . " Listening to slander, trash, mean and malicious gossip, day after day, is bound to have a serious effect on any one's mind.

Eye-Gate

THE STRANGE thing is that Christians can be seen taking the greatest of pains picking out the right food for their dogs and cats, and yet never exercising the least choice in what comes into their minds by ear or eye. They will let the radio run on hour after hour, they look at whatever the television puts on the screen,—the dirty with the clean, the trash with the jewels (if any). They read the newspapers from front to back, or vice versa, they read all the comics whether they are amusing or not. But when it comes to picking out something good for their minds, really going to the trouble of selection, and paying out folding money for it, how many, even Christian people, will do it?

It would be interesting to compare what most people spend on quite unnecessary stuff like soft drinks and cigarettes, with what they spend for books in a year's time. Would you like to sit down with a great and good man or woman and let him talk to you by the hour, to give you the best of his mind and heart? It can always be done — with a good book. Not, usually, the best sellers!

An intelligent Christian woman recently had to move almost a thousand miles; when you move that far and have to pay by the pound for what you take, you screen your stuff pretty carefully. "I am throwing away all my best sellers," she said. "There's not a one worth wasting freight on." She was right about most best-sellers. But the old-time, long-time, all-time best seller of them all is the Christian Bible.

Is Your Mind a Vacant Lot?

IT IS MORE than a question of what you read and see and hear. An even more serious question is: What do you think about? Good reading, even the Bible, was never meant to be a substitute for thought. One of the great books of ancient times was "Consolations of Philosophy," written by a man in jail without a book in his cell. But the fine books he had read were in his head and heart, and when he became a political prisoner, alone and poor and friendless, his mind was still a garden. What is your mind—a garden, or a desert, or only a vacant lot littered with junk?

Twice THE ELECTRIC POWER
... and More to Come!

● The electric power capacity of Indiana electric companies has been more than doubled since 1940, bringing the present total to approximately 1,900,000 kilowatts. Another 600,000 kilowatts will have been added by the end of 1953.

This map, indicating only the major facilities of Indiana's interconnected electric power system network, shows how power from the huge generating stations is transmitted, over high-voltage electric lines, to every part of the State. Through the Indiana companies' own interconnections and those with out-of-State systems, power can also be readily exchanged, helping to assure electricity when and where it is needed by Indiana industries, stores, farms and homes.

From 1940 to the end of 1953, the electric companies of this State will have invested more than 500 million dollars to expand this POWER-FULL electric network for the growing needs of Indiana's citizens and communities. The money necessary to carry on this major expansion program requires the sale to the investing public of large amounts of additional stocks and bonds.

Fortunately, electricity is ready now to help Indiana do its part in maintaining our nation's defense.

Around the Town

With the Editor

"Red" Tharp jumped me last week because I didn't mention HIS new car. I asked him what he was driving—he said, "Austin." He must have been kidding because he walked across the street and got into a Ford.

Then as I entered the News Office, John Crothers hollered at me. I turned around—and he didn't have to say another word. HE'S got a new Chevy as do Bob and Joe Walters, I think. At least I noticed a couple of 'em sitting by the grocery. And later as I was talking to someone on the street Walter Stewart drove by in his Ford and I thought, "There goes another one I forgot. —It just occurred to me, Lew Walter is driving a new Chevy.

—Nuts, I give up.

It's funny how the human mind works. Mine does once in a while. For instance, whenever I see Mrs. Lillian Buckingham I have the strangest urge to greet her with, "Hy'a, Buck!"

And when Mrs. C. O. Duker is in the crowd, I want to pull a homemade gag on her, inspired by a popular song:

Me: Say, Irene.
Her: Yes?
Me: Goodnight!

The painting bug has bitten a few merchants in the past few weeks. Frank Leighty put a new coat of white paint on Dunten's Market. After that he dolled up the electric shop. Les Meek got ambitious then and grabbed the paint bucket to give the barber shop a coat.

Say, I'll let you in on some inside information about that chili supper at the Lutheran Church here next Tuesday evening. I don't know who is fixing the other items on the menu —but I do know that the little woman and Ethel Haverstock are preparing the vegetable soup. And here is a tip if you want some of it. The supper begins at five o'clock so you'll have about one hour to get some because I'm coming at six o'clock and after that there will be a continuous line at the soup kettle formed by me.

Yum-m-m-m-m-m.

Keller-Mast

Mrs. Margaret E. Mast and Harley B. Keller were united in marriage at 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22, in the Newville Church of Christ parsonage by Joseph Shenault, minister.

The bride chose a rust velvet street length dress with gray accessories, complemented by a corsage of yellow roses.

Miss Patricia A. Davis, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor. She chose autumn green with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bride.

Russell Walter, friend of the groom, served as best man.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Roberts from 2 to 4 p.m. Guests were served by Miss Georgia Davis, Mrs. Robert E. Davis and Mrs. Jessie Harris.

BURGLARY IN ST. JOE CLEARED

Sheriff Frank Carpenter reported late Saturday that several burglaries in Fort Wayne, Steuben County and the break-in Oct. 18 at the Yeiser Standard Service Station in St. Joe were cleared by the confession of three Fort Wayne young men, two of them federal parolees.

The sheriff said he was informed by Fort Wayne police and state police that the three, Charles Jenkins, 20, Richard Holsworth, 21, and Harold Leo Harris, 19, were apprehended Friday night at Fort Wayne.

Jenkins and Holsworth were on parole from federal prison at the time of their arrest. Police said both Jenkins and Holsworth will be returned to prison. Jenkins was on a two and a half year parole and Holsworth two years. Harris will be arraigned in court at Fort Wayne on burglary charges, police said.

Sheriff Carpenter said police had information on a 1948 Buick which the trio was believed to be driving. A few days ago, following a burglary at Columbia City, the license number of the car was turned over to police by a witness. The number was traced to the trio.

ABOUT THE REFORMATION

by W. H. Baker, Pastor

On Oct. 31, 1517, All Saints eve, Dr. Martin Luther, professor in Wittenberg University and Priest of the Church, nailed 95 Theses for discussion on the door of the Church. This was a customary procedure in those days without the printing press. A regular budget was provided for such academic discussion. And Luther wrote that he "begs that those who cannot be present will communicate in writing."

Luther merely meant to announce a public debate, to which all the faculty and students of the university were invited. And of course he hoped that it would result in purifying the Roman Catholic Church. We are told that in two weeks of their slow means of communication, the content of these Theses was known in all parts of the land, and in a month throughout Europe.

In the Castle Church reposed some 18 thousand sacred relics, which would be displayed on All Saints Day, Nov. 1. The penitent might earn 127,000 years of Indulgences by praying before them. Letters of Indulgences were being sold by John Tetzel to raise money for building St. Peter Cathedral in Rome, as well as to pay for a triple Bishopric that had been purchased.

Luther's statements expressed the long-felt need for reforms in the Church, and God had raised up Martin Luther with knowledge, ability, courage and piety to lead God's people from darkness to the light of the Gospel.

The Bible contradicts the claims of John Tetzel and others regarding repentence, faith, purgatory, indulgence and even the Pope's relation to these things. And the Bible is entirely silent about the resurrection and ascension of the Virgin Mary which the pope is now requiring to be believed.

When Luther criticised some of

Contest Winners' Entries

Winners of the contest sponsored by the St. Joe News have been announced. Entrants wrote a 300-word theme on "How We Can Be Better Citizens."

The following prizes were awarded: $ 5(1st prize)—Mrs. Evalyn Shafer, RR3, Butler; $3 (2nd prize)—Mrs. Margaret Drerup; and $2 (3rd prize)—Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick.

Mrs. Shafer's entry is the following:

"Section I of Amendment IV of the Constitution of the United States states: 'All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside.'

"Under our form of government, the citizens, through duly elected representatives, constitute the government itself. We may say we are to this extent subject to our own jurisdiction.

"How then, may each citizen make himself a proper person to exercise jurisdiction over himself and others?

"Through APPRECIATION and ACTION.

"APPRECIATION of our country and our privileges as citizens comes through KNOWLEDGE. We need to inform ourselves of our history, background and ideals, that we may fit today's problems into the total picture in the best way to serve all citizens now; and to carry forward those traditions, customs, purposes and ideals that have made — and will keep — us GREAT.

DYNAMIC ACTION insures each citizen against becoming one of those in whom history stagnates - not through whom it flows. Dynamic action should be directed:

1. To being the very best person in every way that we know how to be, manifesting this in our daily lives. Our Bible and our churches tell us how.

2. To expecting and demanding from those who serve us in government this same integrity of character and performance.

3. To searching for, performing faithfully and supporting loyally any and all services that advance the general welfare.

4. To voting at every opportunity for those citizens who seem best qualified to exercise jurisdiction over citizens.

"So - let APPRECIATION, sparked by knowledge, spur us to constructive ACTION in making us better citizens, lest we have imposed upon us ideals foreign to our traditions and desires."

Mrs. Drerup wrote:

"We enjoy the privileges of living in a land of freedom and opportunity for all. As citizens we have definite responsibilities. We owe allegiance to our God, our families and nation. Some of our most important duties are:

(1) Do our daily work in the best way we are capable, seeking always to improve.

(2) Take care of our possessions to overcome waste and deterioration. Conserve and beautify our material resources.

(3) Make honesty and integrity our way of life. In all matters be fair and square.

(4) Pay bills promptly, live within our income, and put aside some savings for future needs and emergencies.

(5) All of voting age should make it a point of honor never to miss an election. Free elections are the very foundation of our Republic.

Vote for the men we believe best qualified for the office. If we don't know the candidates, endeavor to learn enough to vote intelligently.

(6) Keep our representatives informed of what we want the government to do. Only then can they do the will of the people.

(7) Each of us has a certain power for good or evil. Let us use this influence, whether large or small, to strengthen our American principles against the inroads of ruinous isms. We can't be inert, mentally lazy, indifferent and expect to keep the liberties we now have. It demands real work, sacrifice and courage to pass on our priceless heritage from the great pioneers of the past to the generations yet to come. It can be done; multiply the good we each do by 150 million.

"And in everything, be kind. Not condoning wrong-doing but rather, by example and encouragement, helping others to be their best selves. In humility and charity remember that no one is perfect but we all strive for perfection."

Mrs. Borthwick's entry:

"Once I read a story—a busy mother, when her baby became hungry and tired, smeared a drop of thick molasses on his thumbs and gave him a feather.

"He at once became so intrigued pulling the feather from one thumb, only to find it stuck on the other one that he forgot he was tired and hungry and the mother could finish her task - the baby worn out, would drop asleep. Later a son of that mother, remembering the trick, used it in principle, to divert the attention of the voters from a million dollar graft to an unimportant issue involving his political opponent.

"It is happening today. Those who would destroy our American way of life are smearing our thumbs with molasses, the molasses of indifference, and giving us a feather to play with. We'll wake up some day to find we are tired and hungry, tired of exorbitant taxes, crooked politics, working to support the ideologies, visionary philosophy and impractical theorizing of national and international leaders.

"How can we be better citizens?

"Spend as much time studying candidates up for election as we spend studying the base ball scores, be as informed on national and international affairs as we are on the affairs of 'Blondie and Dagwood,' spend as much time voting for the candidates we want as we spend criticising the candidates we don't want. Wake up America! The day may not be too distant when we WILL wake up to find ourselves hungry - a feather stuck on our thumbs in the molasses of indifference, we'll fold our hands across our empty stomach and sanctimoniously warble, "I'm not to blame, I didn't vote for it.' No, neither did you vote AGAINST it.

"A slogan goes, 'America WILL vote.' I add MY slogan, AMERICANS MUST VOTE!"

Residents of DeKalb County are invited to participate in the parade which will feaure music by five high school bands. Torches will be furnished for those in the parade. Refreshments will be served at the court house after Mr. Smith's address.

ROAD REPAIR FIGURES GIVEN

Ray Zimmerman, Superintendent of the DeKalb County Highway Department, has issued some interesting figures on the road work accomplished as the construction season draws to a close. As you will recall, the bad weather of last winter and spring played havoc with both the gravel and hard surface roads in Northern Indiana.DeKaib, along with surrounding counties, faced a big task to get the roads back into shape for the traveling public. All black top surfaces had to be patched and material hauled to the weak spots on our gravel roads. This work was necessarily started several months late, due to the wet spring. 43,559 cu. yds. of gravel have been used in patching and resurfacing, as of October 1 .The total is close to 50,000 yards. This work will continue until weather prevents.

Twenty-seven cars, or 245.978 gallons of asphalt oil have been used in patching and new construction. 10.3 miles of new blacktop have been added to the county system and the winter will begin with this type of roads in good condition. 35 miles have been ditched, graded and graveled and the berms have been cut and gravel applied on 75 additional miles. 38.6 miles of blacktop were repaired and sealed at a cost of approximately $650 per mile.

If weather conditions will permit, the ditching and maintenance work will proceed. The department employs 27 men. There is money in the highway fund to care for the payroll and to purchase material for the balance of the year.

Two new trucks and a loader have been added to the equipment.

Five bridges have been repaired at a cost of $9,373.00 and a multiplate arch required an expenditure of $2,667.00.

Mr. Zimmerman and his working force are trusting that the approaching winter season will not cause the deterioration in our roads as did the 1949-50 season. He further states that the cooperation of the land owners and the traveling public has been exceptionally good.

Why Vote A Minor Party Ticket?

1. Because it is the democratic way. In our American form of government every citizen has an "inalienable right" to express himself at the polls according to his own preference. This is a fundamental concept in our political structure.

2. Because a minor party so often has spear-headed the matter of social reforms. This is particularly true of the Prohibition Party which has a long and glorious record in that respect. Then, major parties are too inclined toward political expediency and strategy rather than honest-to-goodness prophetic leadership.

3. Because one's vote does count for something even in a minor party, far beyond mathematical calculation. It forever indicates where one stands with clear conscience and without reservation. The very fact that major parties have absorbed some of the Prohibition Party planks is but one illustration of the effectiveness of a minor party platform.

4. It would be a rare individual, indeed, who would discount the Quakers, or the Salvation Army, in the field of religion, merely because they are numerically small. By the same logic, a citizen should vote for the Prohibition ticket because of what it is and what it stands for.

5. In combating the Liquor Traffic and all its attendant evils, the Prohibition Party is the only political party in the American field solemnly pledged to their utter abolition.

his people for their wicked lives and refused them Communion, they showed him their Indulgence letters. Luther said that they were not worth the paper they were written on, and decided that the whole matter of indulgences needed to be examined and clarified.

The challenge of the Theses to existing practices and doctrines started a movement which led to the Reformation. Hence the date October 31, 1517, as the beginning of the Reformation.

Your Worst and Best

Lesson for November 5, 1950

"Within my earthly temple there's a crowd:
There's one of us that's humble, one that's proud;
There's one that's broken-hearted for his sins.
And one that, unrepentant, sits and grins.
From much perplexing doubt I could be free,
If I could once be certain which is me."

FROM some anonymous rhymester comes this complaint, which any of us might have truthfully written if we had thought about it. Which is me, anyway? I seem to have three selves. One is a good deal better than my everyday or ordinary self. On rare occasions he will do something or other so good it surprises even my best friends — it "isn't like me." On the other side is another self, much worse than my everyday personality. He too surprises me by acts or thoughts so dreadful I am afraid of him and ashamed too. Yet both these "other selves" are "me" too.

Dr. Foreman

Life is a Fight

THE TRUTH of the business is that life, when a man takes it seriously, is a fight. It is a war between your best and your worst self. Your two other-selves are there every moment, like ghosts, or rather like a bright angel and a dark one.

It is always possible to become a better man than you are; also, alas, it is possible to become far worse than you are. No man stays the same through life. He is continually pressing upward, or plunging downward, or varying between the two. There has been only one person, Christians believe, who actually fulfilled all the good that was possible for him. The possibilities for evil in his life remained only possibilities—he never let them come to pass.

The possibilities for good, on the other hand, became real. His dark angel remained only a ghost; his good angel was simply his real self. At no point in his life was he forced to say to himself, "I wish I had . . . I wish I had not." And yet, even for him life was a struggle. We do not believe he sinned. We do believe he was tempted; and if the temptation was real, then he could have sinned. No man can be really tempted to do what he cannot do. Yes, the Master had his fight. But the point is: he won.

The Way to Win

CHRISTIANS are not exempt in this war of good against evil. We are not "carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease" any more than Jesus was. We do not drift into the Promised Land. We have to fight our way uphill.

Yet Christians are expected to win. That is, God stands beside each Christian in his fight, and God's power is for the Christian's use. As Saint Paul says, with each temptation God provides a "way of escape." Our prayer "Lead us not into temptation" can always be answered. Sometimes it can be answered by ourselves. That is, we cannot leave the fight to God.

But we can win as Jesus won: sometimes by standing and doing battle where we are, sometimes simply by leaving temptation behind. For often the best thing to be done is to retreat. Get as far as you can from whatever tempts your worse self. Don't stand debating between right and wrong when you know which is which. Turn your back on the wrong . . . run, don't walk, to the nearest exit!

Is Alcoholism a Disease?

ONE OF the common temptations of millions at all times is alcoholism. It is popular to speak of this as a "disease;" and yet it is the only disease of which victims have actually cured themselves.

Dr. Brady, whose medical column is well known, reminds us that nobody ever got over migraine headaches, or heart disease, simply by deciding to be well. But men and women have got over alcoholism, essentially by deciding to be well, and sticking to that decision.

Alcoholics Anonymous, that well-known group of former victims, who have been very successful in helping slaves of this habit to become their best selves, use much the same methods we find in the New Testament: (1) staying out of temptation's way, (2) overcoming evil with good; and (3) laying hold of the "Power, not ourselves, that makes for righteousness."

What is YOUR Future?

Let's face a few facts—the Government owes nearly TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY BILLION DOLLARS and is making no attempt to live within its income. The Democrats squander money right and left. Just the other day they furnished another office in Washington at a cost of $2,500.00—they purchased two waste paper baskets for $13.00 each. Those are small items . . . every day they waste thousands and thousands of TAXPAYER'S MONEY!

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hertzfeld of Montpelier called on friends at Spencerville Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Ellen Barr of Chicago visited her sister-in-law, Mrs. Cora Stewart, and family over the week-end. She returned to her home Sunday.

Mrs. Ellen Barr was a Sunday dinner guest of her niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Edwards and son called on their mother, Mrs. Mary Stemen Sunday afternoon. Later in the afternoon they called on Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stemen and family.

Mrs. Maurice Miller and baby, William Ted, were brought home from the Community Hospital Saturday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fredericks was taken in Walters ambulance from the Sanders Hospital to a convalescing home in Butler Monday by Mr. Fred High.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hollabaugh and Mr. and Mrs. George Beams visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones of Battle Creek, Mich., on Thursday of last week. They were royally entertained by the Joneses at the Post cereal plant where Mrs. Jones serves as hosess. They were taken on a tour of the plant and saw Post Toasties made from corn to the finished product, boxed and ready for shipment. Mrs. Jones is the former Majorie Hollebaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beams had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Beams at Hicksviille Sunday, October 29. Forest, a patient at the T.B. hospital in Lima, is home for a three-day leave. He is very much improved and expects to be dismissed in about six weeks. Others present were Howard Beams and family from Fremont, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jaffre were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jaffre at the George Beams home.

The October meeting of the Loyal Womens Sunday School Class of the Lutheran Church was held Wednesday, October 25, at the home of Miss Grace and Pete Houk. It was family night and twenty-five were present. The home was appropriately decorated for Halloween. Addie Miller, Pearl Goldsmith and Lizzie Goldsmith had charge of the program. This consisted of devotionals and a Bible quiz. "Happy Birthday" was sung for Mrs. Alma Hart and Mrs. Izetta Chaney. The invitation extended by the hostess said that this was to be a "hobo party" and there were some hobos and masked ladies in the group. HUNTERS—WATCH FOR BANDED FOWL

During the migratory waterfowl hunting season which opens in the Mississippi flyway, a section in which Indiana is included, as of 12 noon Nov. 3 and continues to and including Dec. 7, many Indiana sportsmen probably will find some of the ducks and geese they have shot will have bands on their legs.

These hunters can render a great service by flattening the band, placing it in an envelope and mailing it to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington 25, D.C.

The service also would appreciate the hunter sending his name and address, kind of bird shot, where killed, the date and the band number. In return the hunter will receive information on the history of the banded bird.

LOVE 'N STUFF (mostly stuff)

We've been wondering where John Leonard gets all his stories. How about that, John?

Eddie Hook is sporting a pretty fancy geometry book. Where did all the lip prints come from, Eddie? Have you started to wear lipstick?

Bonnie Witt spends a lot of time at the post office these days. Must be she's expecting lots of letters from a certain someone. She's wearing wings, too.

Anyone wondering about the owner of a certain blue Hudson, just ask Emily Shull.

We didn't know that Carolyn Kimes had such a knack for speeches—and such LONG ones too! ! What's the matter, didn't you Home Ec girls appreciate it?

If you wonder why the Witt telephone line is always busy, you can just bet that Betty is talking with Carlton Curie! It must be nice.

Ed Hook, the television is fine and you don't have to turn the lights off to see it either. You might spend some of your lonely evenings watching it since all the Junior girls are either going steady or are "in training" (? ?) —S. C.

Larry Waggoner and Clarence Mathes, whose car were you in on Halloween night? It is reported that you were having a great time dodging trees.

Poem of the week—penned by Dale Butler.

She is rather short, and not very tall,
She's by far the prettiest of all.
Her lips are pure and red as a rose.
Will I get a date with her? Who knows.

Now, just who could Dale be talking about? Your guess is as good as ours, but we'll say it's Cleo Gerig. Could be wrong, but — well, ask Dale.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE?

● Is it really 'free' . . . something for nothing? Or will it cost you more than you're paying now?

If Socialized Medicine comes in, going to the doctor as you know it will be a thing of the past. The government pays for every call, every patient, every pill.

But, as a taxpayer, you foot the bill.

For example, if the payroll tax is 4 per cent, a truck driver making $3,000 contributes $120—over and above his already staggering tax burden. If it is 10 per cent, which is more likely, it means an extra deduction of $300 from his pay.

And all you get for the money is second-rate medical care—cheap medical care palmed off at a high price.

Our Nation's health is at an all-time high under the present system. Let's keep it that way.

Let those who represent you in Washington know you are against government control of medical services.

Remember, it's your health : : : and your money.

Interflowing Life

Lesson for November 12, 1950

AN AUSTRALIAN minister once remarked: "If ever a church could be found whose members treated one another better than people treat one another on the outside, the world would flock to its doors." In that exaggerated remark there is a pointed truth. As a matter of fact, that was the case in the early church and the world did flock to its doors. From six score people that church grew to 5,000 in no time, and in less than three centuries it was the religion of a world-empire.

Dr. Foreman

This Scrambling World

ON THE "outside" what is the rule? David Harum put it in a nutshell: "Do unto your neighbor what he would like to do to you." "Every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost." "Every man has his price." "Look out for Number 1." "Blessed is he that tooteth his own horn, for he that tooteth not his own horn, the same shall not be tooted."

People get tired of living in a world like that. Something tells them that the everlasting scramble is not the way to live, there must be a better way. Suppose they could look down the street and see that better way actually being put into practice by a little community of people?

They ought to be able to see it wherever there is a Christian church. But—is the average church that kind of community? Do the members treat one another (on Mondays, that is) with more understanding, consideration and affection than the local atheists or Nothingarians show toward one another? Indeed, is there anything whatever that seems to link these First Whatsis Church people together with a common bond?

Making Fellowship Real

IN A large city there will be a page or more of Smiths in the telephone directory. These all have the same name, but most of them don't know one another and don't care. Too often it is this way with Christians even in the same congregation. They all bear the same name, but that is about all.

What they ought to have is fellowship. This is not a mere word. It can be a real thing. It is like a two-way blood transfusion, in the realm of personality. It is interflow of life. It can be the source of the Christian's finest growth and service. Musicians develop musically through sharing with other musicians. Every "Future Farmer of America" is going to be a better and more enthusiastic farmer through his associations with the F.F.A.

So our Christian faith and life are kept glowing and growing through the fellowship of like-minded persons. One thing your Sunday school class, and indeed the whole congregation, may well consider seriously, even adopting it as your Project for the Year is this: What can we do to make fellowship more real in our church?

Wider Horizons

CHRISTIAN fellowship needs not only to be enriched; it needs to be enlarged. In a town or section where denominational lines run sharply across the population, there is too much cross-fire. Such a community has a hard time being a community. Many a denomination has been afflicted with the disease of pride. Loyalty to one's own denomination too easily replaces loyalty to the kingdom of God.

Whatever be your own church connection, there are unnumbered true Christians outside the bounds of your church. Do you know them? Do you worship with them from time to time? Do you encourage visitors from other churches? Not only in other denominations but across lines of race and color you can find a thrill in coming close to Christians who may even be much better Christians than yourself.

Young people in your church may be interested in a new organization which is interested in bringing together the thinking of young people in every land. Young Christians can bring to such a project the insight and the spirit of Christian Faith, and learn to know young Christians in other lands than ours. "Youth of All Nations" at 16 St. Luke's Place, New York 14, N. Y. serves as a clearing-house for the exchange of letters and will be glad to hear from you.

Red Raiders Split Openers

by Milton McGrath

The Spencerville Red Raiders opened their 1950-51 basketball season on last Wednesday night, playing Harlan at the New Haven gym.

The boys presented their new coach, Don Long, with an impressive win, 56-45.

Alf Paschen outplayed big Jim Harris and Ed Hook exploded as usual. Jack Hollabaugh kept the boys cool headed and turned in a good game. John Leonard, bad knees and all, let Harlan know he was around. Shilling, Mathes and Vendrely also saw action and made good performances. It was strictly a team victory.

The Red Raiders did no raiding at Butler Friday night. The Windmills were waiting and primed to win this one for their coach, Stan Pepple, who is scheduled to leave this week for service in the navy.

Set to give their coach a going-away present, Butler went all out and outplayed the Raiders throughout the game.

WATCH THOSE PHEASANT DATES NOV. 10, 11 & 13

Again the Fish and Game Division of the Indiana Deparment of Conservation wishes to call attention to the dates for legally hunting pheasant in Indiana.

These days are November 10, 11 and 13.

Through error, for which the department does not assume responsibility, the season was previously incorrectly announced.

Also remember that the season is open for the taking of cock pheasants only. SPARE THAT HEN.

To be legally hunted as of November 10 also are rabbits, quail and Hungarian partridge.

The bag limit for pheasants is one cock per day.

Possession, two after second day of hunting.

Tigers Drop Two

The St. Joe Tigers dropped a thrilling opening game at Waterloo last Friday night by the score of 44-41.

St. Joe had held first quarter and half-time leads before Waterloo pulled a second-half splurge to pull the game out of the fire.

The Wildcats cooled off somewhat in the final frame but the Tigers just didn't have that extra punch to get ahead.

They closed the gap to 39-37 once but again the Wildcats pulled away for five points at 42-37. The tempo continued to increase as time was running out and numerous fouls were called. St. Joe got right back into the game at 43-41 and had a shot at the basket with seconds to go but it was wild and a free throw was awarded DeWitt with 7 seconds to go. He converted and put the Wildcats out in front by three points as the game ended.

Harlan's Hawks proved too much for the St. Joe Tigers Wednesday evening and easily won a 70 to 44 victory after a slow start.

Jim Harris and Bob Kellams had a big night collecting 49 points between them. Bob Richmond hit the nets for 16 points on 8 field goals.

The preliminary game went to Harlan, 35 to 30, although St. Joe picked up steam in the second half to whittle down a Harlan lead at one time of 23-9.

Woodburn comes to St. Joe Friday night to face the locals. Next week the Tigers face Churubusco at Churubusco.

NEW SOYBEAN VARIETY

A new soybean variety has been announced by U.S.D.A. and Purdue agronomists. Named Blackhawk by the agonomists who helped develop it, it is well adapted to the muck and marshland area of northern Indiana. It has yellow seeds and a high oil content. It matures early, is lodging resistant and gives a high yield.

A. H. Probst, Purdue and U.S.D.A. agronomist, and Dr. G. H. Cutler, assistant chief of agronomy at Purdue University, have been in charge of tests of the new soybean in Indiana. It has been developed cooperatively between the agricultural experiment stations of the north central states and the U.S. Regional Soybean Labratory at Urgana, Ill.

Seed for Blackhawk soybeans will be available for Indiana farmers by the spring of 1952. It will be grown next summer by certified seed growers in the northern part of the state so that enough seed will be ready the following year for general distribution.

Tests of the new soybean in the muck soil area of northern Indiana have shown that it matures a day earlier than Earlyana, seven days earlier than Hawkeye, and ten days later than Mandarin (Ottawa). It has averaged 3.2 bushels per acre more than Earlyana and 4.1 bushels more than Mandarin (Ottawa), the Purdue agronomists report.

The power to re-arm

America has power, as never before—electric power so vital in re-arming as well as in meeting today's record-breaking civilian needs.

The business-managed electric companies have been building up the nation's power supply in history's greatest industrial expansion program.

Take the American Gas and Electric System for example. It consists of this company and five affiliated electric companies. There are nine major generating plants with two additional plants under construction, all interconnected with high-voltage transmission lines included in this integrated System.

Since 1942, we have increased generating capacity by 1,180,000 kilowatts so that customers of this company and its affiliates in the System now have nearly twice as much electricity available to them as there was at the time of Pearl Harbor.

And the System has 1,000,000 kilowatts of new capacity coming on the line by the summer of 1953. Of this, 450,000 kilowatts will come into service in 1951, another 350,000 in 1952, and 200,000 in 1953—making a total of 3,380,000 kilowatts available in the seven-state area the System serves.

The record-breaking expansion program that the System companies have completed since 1947 has already cost them $267,000,000. Over the next three years an additional $251,000,000 will be spent. All this is being done on their own initiative and enterprise and financed entirely by money from investors.

Above all, the power to re-arm is backed by the loyalty, skill, and experience of the 12,000 men and women who operate our system.

They will never fail this country in the hour of need.

CONCORD JR. HOME EC CLUB

The November meeting of the Concord Jr. Home Ec Club was held Monday night with Marcelle Storer. The president, Marcia Sible, disposed of old business and presented the new business. It was voted to send $5.00 to the DeKalb County Polio fund. The club joined the DeKalb County Roadside Council last week. Plans were made to go to Ellen Fetters' home on either Nov. 15 or 17 to watch her cover a chair, thus completing the project on reupholstering which was started earlier in the year.

Thirteen members responded to roll call with a recipe exchange. One guest, Jaynell Lake, later decided to become a member.

Marcia Sible and Dorothy Simanton gave the lesson on plastics. After the lesson, the club played bingo for prizes and the proceeds went to the club treasury. Refreshments of homemade ice cream and cake were served.

Around the Town

With the Editor

Are you one of those subscribers who have paid on their subscription in the last few months and are wondering why the expiration date on your paper hasn't been changed? Don't worry-I've got your date. Several people have written or stopped in and asked why the date hadn't been changed. It's because I've got about 250 or 300 of 'em to change and I just haven't been able to get to it.

Franklin Sechler and I were discussing the local cheerleaders, Jean Perkins. Connie Stewart and Anita Lawson, at the Woodburn game Friday night. We agreed that a worthwhile project for the girls' benefit would be to cut off the sleeves of their jackets so they don't have to push 'em up to their elbows every eleven seconds.

No, that isn't a Hollywood movie star you see in dark glasses on the streets of St. Joe. It's Don McElroy. He had an operation on his left eye last week to remove a growth on the eyeball and has to wear the blinkers for a week or two. If you haven't had a queer feeling in the pit of your stomach lately, ask him how the operation was performed. You'll get one.

At the Lions Club meeting Monday night the group about me included Bill Weninger, Everett Paschen, Lynn Fisher, Dale Wicoff, Claude Laub, Clyde Duker, Ralph Keeler and Derwood Ridgway. The main topic of discussion during the meal was the Spencerville loss to Ashley last week in the last minute of the game, along with comments on good sportsmanship, team play, referees, coaches, etc., etc. —All of which served to point out the commercial aspect "sports" in schools have taken. The game no longer belongs to the coach and his players. The purpose of sports, to furnish physical activity, teach good sportsmanship in that activity and promote school spirit, has been lost in a wild scramble to get a winning team. The fans have taken over.

It would be interesting if every fan could be coach or referee or player for a game and see how different the game is when you're on the floor, in basketball for instance, and take the riding and second-guessing the participants are subjected to.

—How'd I get started on this??? I could write another column or two but I've got to get to the rest of the paper.

First, here are a few thoughts you might remember during the present basketball season:

(1) You've got a coach—you're paying him to coach—let HIM coach.

(2) You've got official state referees—they call 'em as they see 'em—they aren't trying to cheat anyone.

(3) Practice good sportsmanship in addition to TALKING about it. A good sport is a good citizen.

Liquor License Hearing Friday

Winslow VanHorne of Auburn, attorney for the members of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church of St. Joe who are seeking an injunction to prevent the operation of a beer retail business by Charles (Chuck) McIntosh, reported last week that the case has been set for hearing on Nov. 17 in the Steuben Circuit Court at Angola.

The action was venued to the court at Angola from the DeKalb Circuit Court. Steuben Circuit Judge Donald Hunter of LaGrange will hear the case.

A few members of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church have fought for 2 years attempts to license a beer store or tavern in their community. The church members have charged that McIntosh's place of business is less than the 200 feet, required by law, from their church building. The DeKalb liquor licensing board, with one of the members, the late H. H. Squires, absent because of illness, recommended several months ago issuance of the retail wine and beer license to McIntosh. He is a former Auburn tavern owner. Present members of the DeKalb board are Harry Rainier, Lee Wise and Arthur M. Friend, who was appointed by the DeKalb County commissioners to replace Mr. Squires.

Later when the state alcoholic beverage commission granted a license to McIntosh, the church members countered with the injunction suit which is now pending.

Candidates File Expense Reports

Candidates in the general election Nov. 7 in DeKalb County, including both winners and losers, are now required to file reports of expenditures in the office of County Clerk Ralph W. Bruce.

A few candidates are exempted by law from filing expense reports. They include candidates for county council, township advisory boards, constables and any other candidates for offices in which the yearly salary is under $100.

The political parties who presented candidates to the voters at the election are also required by law to file statements of receipts and expenditures in compliance with the corrupt practices act of Indiana.

Even those candidates who had no expense must file reports.

Candidates and the party treasurers have 30 days following the election or until Dec. 7 to file the reports which then become public property.

Forms are furnished by the county clerk and a fine of $300 to $2,000, or imprisonment for not more than a year, or both, is provided for failure to comply with the act. Misstatements are held under the law of perjury.

The statements must be itemized and sworn to before an officer authorized to administer oaths. The candidate or party must list all money or other valuables contributed, expended or promised for any purpose in connection with the campaign.

The law specifies that the statement must report "any existing unfilled promises or liabilities made or incurred and showing the people to whom, the dates when and the purpose for which each and all sums or valuable things were paid, expended or promised or such liabilities incurred."

$1,000 For Local Polio

A check for $1,000 to help pay for medical care of polio patients in DeKalb County has been received by the DeKalb County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, it has been announced by Mrs. Dorothy Shugart of Auburn. The funds were provided by national headquarters of the March of Dimes organization.

Heavy polio incidence this year, following the worst epidemic in the nation's history in 1949, has exhausted the local treasuries of many National Foundation chapters. A late September rise in cases indicates there will be more than 30,000 cases before the year is ended, making 1950 the second highest polio year on record.

Up to Oct. 23 this year, the National Foundation had advanced $6,866,759 to chapters whose funds were depleted by both new and carry-over cases. Chapters able to do so have been asked to contribute what they can for epidemic aid to chapters in hard hit areas.

At present the DeKalb County chapter is providing funds for the care, in whole or in part, of six patients afflicted this year and is continuing to pay costs for the care of six stricken in former years.

FARMERS IN DEKALB COUNTY URGED TO HAVE SEED TESTED

County Agent Ernest J. Lesiuk urges all farmers in DeKalb County who will have seed to sell or sow next spring to get the seed tested during this fall or early winter.

Mr. Lesiuk offers to help farmers in this testing program by supplying the instructions for drawing samples and special seed envelopes for sending them to the state seed laboratory at Purdue for a free test as well as by furnishing information on other seed matters.

Seed that is advertised for sale by farmers is required to be tested and tagged and all seeds must be free of primary noxious weed seeds and must not contain excessive amounts of other weed seeds to be legally sold. Since the test is free, all farmers should take advantage of this service.

The tendency of farmers to postpone sending samples to Purdue until just before planting time usually results in a congestion of samples in the laboratory in February and March. Anticipatinng seed testing requirements and sending samples early is recommended. Care should be exercised in seeing that the sample is representative of the lot and is large enough for test. A teacupful of clover and grass seed and at least a pint of soybean or cereaal seed should be submitted.

PMA CHAIRMAN ANNOUNCES COMMITTEE ELECTIONS

PMA farmer-committe elections will be held in each of DeKalb County's 15 farm communities between the dates of November 15 to November 30. 1950, Arthur Lautzenhiser, chairman of the county committee announced this week.

Voting will be by balloting at election meetings, and any farmer is eligible to vote who is an owner, operator, tenant or sharecropper on a farm that is participating in any program administered during the current calendar year by the county and community PMA committees.

At each of the community elections farmers will vote for three farmers to serve as a community committee during 1951 and delegate to a county convention where a county committe will be elected.

"This provision in farm legislation which gives farmers an opportunity to elect their fellow farmers to administer farm programs is one of the most progressive steps in agricultural development in our times," declares Mr. Lautzenhiser. "Farmers of DeKalb County can demonstrate their support of this democratic way of administration by voting when elections are held in their communities.

"Even though the farmers in a community may be perfectly satisfied with the administration of the committeemen now in office, they should vote anyway. Failure to vote may be interpreted as a lack of interest in the program and in the democratic method of operation.

"I believe the farmers of DeKalb County do want a say in who administers farm programs and the way to show it is to get out and vote."

A notice will be mailed to each eligible voter notifying him as to the time and place of the election in his township.

Our Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

RIGHT now is a good time to review the importance of proper feeding of your stock during the winter.

For calves and yearlings going into feed lots this fall, the right kind of start is important. There are four things to watch to make sure stock losses are kept at a minimum.

First comes protection against shipping fever. Cattle should be vaccinated against this disease two weeks before they are shipped. If that hasn't been done, a special type of serum treatment may be advisable after they arrive.

Second, cattle need rest and dry feed for two or three days after they arrive.

Third, if feeder animals are turned out to fall pasture, they should be fed on dry roughage at first to cut down the danger of bloat.

Fourth, cattle on pasture should have access to salt, water and a mineral mix at all times.

In caring for hogs, unwise feeding may not be the cause of hog cholera, as was once thought, but it can cause serious digestive upsets. And when the hog is weakened in this way, it can become an easier prey to cholera. To avoid "new corn" troubles, veterinary authorities say that pigs should be started on new corn gradually, getting just a little at a time until they become used to it. Balancing the corn with protein, mineral and vitamin supplement helps prevent trouble. Many swine raisers have had good results from feeding some oats with the new corn.

Although feeding stimulants may make cows give more milk at first, this practice should be frowned upon because recent tests show milk production losses are caused from stimulants.

Helping Mother With Thanksgiving Dinner

Everybody wants to help when mother begins to prepare the holiday feast. Mother (as usual) does most of the work, but thinks it a splendid idea to have John and Ann help her out. Ann mixes the stuffing, and John makes his favorite fresh cranberry relish, the one that tastes extra-good with turkey. It's so easy to make, even very little boys and girls can turn out a delicious cranberry relish with hardly any help. Here's how to do it.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE RELISH

4 cups fresh cranberries
2 oranges, quartered and seeded
2 cups sugar

Put raw cranberries and oranges, skins and all, through the food chopper. Add sugar and mix well. Chill before serving.

If mother wants a bowl of fresh cranberry sauce on the table, too, she helps Ann make it this easy way in just 10 minutes.

10-MINUTE CRANBERRY SAUCE

2 cups sugar
2 cups water
4 cups fresh cranberries

Boil sugar and water 5 minutes. Add cranberries and cook 5 minutes until all the berries pop. Chill before serving.

Woodburn Edges Tigers

St. Joe's Tigers burst forth in the first half last Friday with a hard-driving attack to jump to a 35-19 lead at the gun ending the first half.

But they relaxed too hard during the rest period and couldn't get going again. The result was that Woodburn pulled a 50-47 victory out of the fire. St. Joe could score only 12 points in all of the second half.

Amstutz was the thorn in the Tigers' side scoring 20 points on 7 field goals and 6 free throws. Bob Richmond again led the scoring attack for St. Joe with 6 fielders and 5 charity tosses for 17 points. Walter came up with 11 on 5 buckets and 1 free throw.

St. Joe missed several free throws in the closing minutes of the game and lost an opportunity to tie or win the game at the free throw circle.

The preliminary game went to St. Joe 32-19.

SECHLERS PICKLES TO FACE STUCKYS OF WOODBURN NEXT WEDNESDAY

Pickles will play Stuckys of Woodburn on Wednesday, November 22, at 7:30 p.m. at the local gym.

Stuckys is one of the leading teams in the Vim league.

Several good teams will come to St. Joe during December to face the local independent team including the Huntington K of C on Dec. 2 and the Monroeville Hobos (former regional champs) on Dec. 16.

Pickles defeated Warners of Huntertown Wednesday night at the St. Joe gym. The score — sixty-some-thing to forty-something.

Ashley Trips Spencerville 50-48

by Milton McGrath

Spencerville played Ashley last Friday night at the Alumni Gym in Auburn and came out on the short end of a 50-48 score.

Fans who attended Friday's game saw a repetition of last year's Spencerville-Ashley game, the only exception being that last year Spencerville emerged the winner.

The Red Raiders had a 10-point lead in the fourth quarter, but saw it slowly melt as Ashley put on a torrid drive. Buchs led the assault. Poor rebounding and the lack of good passing resulted in Spencerville's loss.

An official's decision, which was debatable, gave Ashley a free throw which tied up the ball game at 48-48 with 7 seconds left to play. Ashley, with the ball in their possession, passed in to Ladd who held the ball for 3 seconds and then threw in a long shot, and that was the ball game.

Christian Worship

Dr. Foreman

SOME one has said that if the Christian church did nothing else but offer a regular opportunity for public worship of God, she would have justified her place in the sun. This is a rather misleading truth, for if a church did nothing but worship it would not be doing its whole duty, indeed it would not be a true church. As our Scripture plainly shows, worship disconnected from life is not only not good, it is sinful.

Why Worship?

WHAT is worship, and why do we worship at all? We might define it as a meeting with God, both conscious and desired. "He shines in all that's fair," and in truth we are in his presence all the time. But we are not conscious of him all the time. When we are conscious of him, then one of two things happen. Either we hastily shut our minds and run away from him in fear, which is sin. Or we linger, feeling it is good for us to be here.

And then it is worship. Or again, we might call worship conversation between man and God. Every part of it is either our listening to God speak to us, or our speaking to God in some way.

Why worship? We worship because we love God. Otherwise it would be a bore, at best, or a kind of self-torture at worst. We worship because we need God. If Jesus needed both public worship and private prayer, so do we far more. We worship because we need to know God's will.

Why Worship Together?

PUBLIC and private worship cannot be substituted for each other. Readers of the Bible know how they were intertwined in the experiences of God's people, and how our Lord himself, who used to attend the synagogue services regularly, also sought God on the hills alone. A man who never meets with God alone in prayer will not know how to come to public worship in the true spirit; and a man who habitually stays away from church for no good reason is not a person whose private prayer-life is likely to be a healthy one.

We need to worship together with other Christians. We need this experience to strengthen our own prayer-life. We need it to keep us from selfishness in our prayers. Intense, earnest prayer, and full of faith too, may be seriously wrong if it is essentially selfish.

In corporate, public worship we are reminded that none of us stands alone; that God has many children. We need to worship together because it is one of the very few things, perhaps the only one, that all human beings can do as one. No two of us are alike, yet we are alike in this one thing: We are all human beings in need of God. To worship together is to be reminded of this.

Why Worship As We Do?

IT OUGHT not to be surprising that men worship God in so many ways, for there are all sorts and conditions of men. But within the Protestant churches, our differences are not important. Essentially we have much the same "pattern" of worship. It will be helpful to you, the next time you are in church, to ask, at each part of the service: Why do we do this? What good does it do? Could it be left out without being missed?

As you visit other churches from time to time, take note of any differences, not in a spirit of criticism but considering whether you might learn from them. What do you and they have in common?

You will agree that there are hardly any parts of a typical Christian worship service which we could do without. We need the prayers, for in them we all pour out our hearts together before God. We need the hymns and psalms, because they express the beauty and the joy of our faith; most of them are prayers set to music. We need the Scripture reading, because in it we hear the Word of God. We need the sermon, because it applies the Word of God to our own lives and problems. We need the offering too . . . . why? But the offering is true worship only on one condition. Do you know what it is? After all, the real test of every part and variety of true worship is: Has this experience brought man and God closer together in spirit and in truth?

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

HAVE YOU A FAVORITE DISEASE?

"HE'S psychosomatic," is becoming as frequent a comment as "He's neurotic," was in the 1920's—and still is. Rightly, too, since it certainly is a very important medical discovery that emotional trouble can plunge people into conditions that are, to all appearances, physical illnesses.

But if you do go "psychosomatic," what diseases will your troubled nervous system create? Is there any relationship between the kind of personality you have and the psychosomatic disease you will be apt to favor? From a study of many hundreds of cases, it has been found that psychosomatic disease and personality type do tie up and in these ways:

High blood pressure: ambitious, intolerant people, too-hard working, intensely worried about their future security, without hobbies of a genial sense of humor, often overweight because of too little exercise, too much food and alcohol.

Hyperthyroid: touchy and temperamental people, shy, moody, perhaps artistic, sexually maladjusted, apt to be thin.

Stomach ulcer: aggressive, ruthless people, with strong likes and dislikes which are subject to change without notice. Apt to be hard faced and sullen eyed.

Colitis: submissive, frightened, week-willed people, often neat and overly conscientious.

A careful clinical diagnosis should be made to be certain these symptoms do not indicate a more serious organic disease.

HOME ECONOMICS OFFICERS ELECTED

The 1951 home economics officers were elected at the Home Economics Council meeting held on the afternoon of November 9 in the courthouse assembly room. Mrs. Grace Laub of Spencer Township, past county president, was in charge of the election. Mrs. Mildred Grogg of Grant Township was elected president, Mrs. Ruth Teutsch of Stafford Township was elected vice-president and Mrs. Mildred Bard of Fairfield Township was elected secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Grogg introduced the old and new presidents who will take office in 1951. The present presidents gave a report on the hospitality done in their club during the present year. Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent, reported on the home economics program selections made by the planning committee. The results of the program plans for 1951 are as follows: Project Lessons—One Dish Meals, Vegetable and Fruit Buying, and Floors and Floor Finishes. Home Agent Lesson—Good Grooming Demonstration. Special interest Meetings—Home Economics Picnic, Crafts-Ceramics, Lampshade School, Plastic Lesson, Slipcover Lesson and Cake Decoration School. Open Meetings—County Garden and Poultry School, Egg Show, Outlook Meeting, Home Economics Booths, Psychology of Family Living. Tours—Flower Garden Tour, Kitchen Tour, Family Tour, Vegetable Garden Tour and 4-H Home Improvement Tour.

Mrs. Teutsch invited the officers to her home for the Christmas party which will be held on December 14 at an all-day meeting. The meeting was concluded with the showing of colored slides of the home economics booths at the DeKalb County Free Fall Fair by the home agent.

It was announced that the proceeds from a recent cooking school sponsored by Unit 409 will be added to the Scholarship Fund for Orphans of Veterans.

The unit now has sixty 1951 paid members. The Blue Membership team is now leading by nine points.

Mrs. Darwin Savage, rehabilitation chairman, is making plans for a ward party in December for hospitalized veterans at the Veterans Hospital in Fort Wayne.

Two new committee chairmen have been appointed as follows: Mrs. Robert Souder, Americanism chairman, and Mrs. Robert Bobay, legislation chairman.

Three officers were installed: Mrs. Vernon Halter, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank Soule, sergeant-at-arms.

Five members were initiated: Mrs. Harry Schwartz, Mrs. Richard Lantz, Mrs. Robert Bobay, Mrs. Darwin Savage and Miss Barbara Martin.

Nurse Tells How Hadacol Was So Helpful To Her

Supplied Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin Which Her System Lacked

Mrs. Jennie Lee Adele, 412 N. 27 St., East St. Louis, Ill., a nurse, says she wishes she had found out about HADACOL sooner because since taking HADACOL she feels so good. Mrs. Adele was suffering a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Adele's own statement: "I have been a nurse for over 14 years. My food never seemed to agree with me. I heard one day how so many folks were being helped because of HADACOL. I tried it and after 3 bottles I could tell a big improvement. Now I eat anything I want—sleep well and I am full of energy."

Why HADACOL Gives Such Fine Results

HADACOL does not bring just symptomatic relief. HADACOL now makes it possible to actually relieve the cause of aches and pains in the shoulders, legs and arms, certain nervous disturbances, and a general run-down weakened condition due to deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in your system.

HADACOL not only supplies deficient systems with extra quantities of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin but also helpful amounts of important Calcium and Phosphorus—elements so vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

Why These Vitamins and Minerals Come In Liquid Form

There's a very good reason why HADACOL comes in special liquid form. These precious Vitamins and Minerals are more easily and quickly absorbed into the blood stream this way—ready to go right to work. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days.

Don't Be A 'Doubting Thomas'

After reading Mrs. Adele's wonderful experience with HADACOL—how can you doubt that this great new nutritional formula will help you if your system lacks Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin?

What HADACOL did for Mrs. Adele, it can do for you if you're troubled with aches and pains in the shoulders, legs, and arms, certain nervous disturbances, insomnia when due to an upset stomach, stomach distress and a general run-down weakened condition due to such deficiencies.

So what are you waiting for? Don't you see that HADACOL is the kind of product you need—the kind you should buy and the kind you should start taking immediately!

Sold On A Strict Money-Back Guarantee

HADACOL even helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to course through your body, carrying these great health-building elements to every body organ. No wonder HADACOL helps you feel wonderful.

Be fair to yourself! Give yourself a break if you have such deficiencies! Why continue to drag yourself around—a burden to yourself and your family—when relief may be as close at hand as your nearest drugstore if you suffer a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. This great HADACOL is inexpensive, too—costs only a small amount a day. Trial size, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

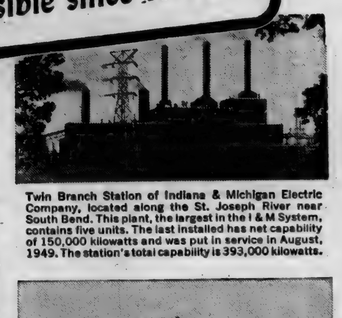
This Thanksgiving

—we're thankful we've been providing MORE ELECTRIC POWER as fast as possible since 1940



Twin Branch Station of Indiana & Michigan Electric Company, located along the St. Joseph River near South Bend. This plant, the largest in the I & M System, contains five units. The last installed has net capability of 150,000 kilowatts and was put in service in August, 1949. The station's total capability is 393,000 kilowatts.

● In the truly humble sense of American thanksgiving, the electric companies of this State are thankful they have been able to continue building the new electric power capacity necessary to serve the fast-growing needs of Indiana electric users.

In terms of capability, Indiana's power supply has jumped from 931,700 to 1,919,400 kilowatts between 1940 and 1950, and construction providing another 581,000 kilowatts will be completed by the end of 1953. During these same 13 years, the electric companies will have invested over 500 million dollars to provide the power required to meet the increasing electric needs of Indiana industries, stores, farms and homes. Obtaining this money requires the sale, to the investing public, of additional stocks and bonds.

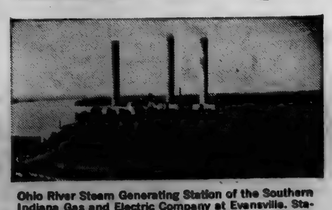
No matter what the future brings . . . of this you can be sure, the electric companies of Indiana, directed by thoroughly experienced managements able to expand their companies under America's system of free enterprise, will continue to build ahead . . . will continue to provide dependable electric power when and where needed, no matter what the job!

The Harding Street Generating Station of Indianapolis Power & Light Company in Indianapolis. Its four units have a total capability of 160,000 kilowatts, the last of which was placed in service in 1947.

The Michigan City Electric Generating Station of Northern Indiana Public Service Company, designed for a total capability of approximately 195,000 kilowatts by 1951. The first two 65,000 kilowatt units are already in service, and the No. 3 unit is scheduled for completion during 1951.

NOW—Twice the Electric Power AND MORE TO COME!

The Dresser Generating Station of the Public Service Company of Indiana is located on the banks of the Wabash, near Terre Haute. It has a total capability of 225,000 kilowatts.



Ohio River Steam Generating Station of the Southern Indiana Gas and Electric Company at Evansville. Station capability has been increased 75% since 1944. Another turbo generator, now being installed, will make the total increase 115% by 1951.

Around the Town

With the Editor

There's a new reporter working in St. Joe. —It's Mike.

He came into the shop last Thursday morning and said, "Hey, Dad, come and see the car that got hit by a train!"

I thought his imagination was running wild and tried to humor him with questions like, "Yeah, where at?" "Whose car was it?" "What train hit him?"

But he came right back at me with "Over here at the crossing," "Peenie's car," and "94-C." Just then I saw Jiggs round the corner with the wrecker, so I grabbed my coat and went out to investigate. Sure enough, Mike had his first exclusive.

If you don't know who "Peenie" is—I guess that's the way to spell it—an item appeared last week about Verne Coburn's car being struck by a train in St. Joe. Verne is "Peenie."

Mrs. S. W. Armstrong stopped in Monday afternoon and said that although it made her feel younger, I'd better correct the item which appeared last week about her "daughter's" baby. It's her granddaughter and Mrs. Armstrong is a GREAT-grandmother.

Oh, my achin' back! —And arms. —And legs. Saturday night I went over to the gym and shot a few baskets and played one quarter in a game between Maurie Kline's Holsom Dairy team and —well, I don't know what you'd call the other bunch. Sechlers Pickles has a first team which puts up a good battle in their games. But this team was more like a second team —subs. —Or nubs. Get it? —Second team? —Subs? —Pickles? —Nubs?

Well, anyhow, my tongue was hanging out at the end of ten minutes. I guess I'm not the athlete I used to want to be.

As Carl Carpenter put it last week. "I don't feel old—except when I sit down and then try to get up."

CULTURE CLUB

The Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. John Mason with Mrs. Russell Hauffer as co-hostess. Fourteen members were present and one guest.

The response for the evening was "an interesting place I've been."

Due to the absence of the president and vice-president, Mrs. Virgil Laux was elected to act as president for the evening.

The meeting was opened with all the members reading the club commandments. The lesson was given by Mrs. Albert Wade. Special work for the evening was "Gypsy Lore" given by Mrs. Olen Waltz.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hearsel Shockley on November 29.

Mrs. Esther Howard Dies Suddenly

Mrs. Esther Marie Howard, 48, wife of Elton Howard of St. Joe and a former resident of Garrett died unexpectedly Sunday at 5 p.m. in the Sacred Heart Hospital at Garrett of a blood clot. Mrs. Howard had been ill for several years and bedfast three weeks before entering the hospital Nov. 14, where she had surgery performed the same day. She was apparently recovering satisfactorily when the blood clot occurred Sunday afternoon.

Final rites were held Wednesday at the Zimmerman Funeral Home in Garrett. The Rev. Russell Shalley of the Garrett Nazarene Church officiated. Burial was in Union Cemetery, northwest of Garrett.

Mrs. Howard was born Dec. 30, 1901, at Lagro, Ind., and she and Mr. Howard were married in Fort Wayne Dec. 20, 1917. They moved to Garrett in 1934, Mr. Howard being a salesman for the Cook coffee company. They moved to St. Joe four years ago when they purchased a drug store.

Surviving besides the widower are a son, Elton, Jr. of Garrett, a daughter, Mrs. Garford Smith of St. Joe and the father, William Bowsman of Wabash.

Mrs. Howard was a member of the Ladies Aid of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginmen in Garrett. Her stepfather, W. E. Holbrook, of Ft. Wayne is a railroad man.

WIFE OF CLYDE RECTENWALL BUYS INTEREST IN PROPERTY

Mrs. Princess Rectenwall, wife of Clyde G. Rectenwall, the former cashier of the Farmers & Merchants State Bank at Spencerville, purchased her husband's interest in their property at Spencerville which was offered for sale Wednesday afternoon at a sheriff's sale in Auburn.

Sheriff Frank Carpenter reported that Mrs. Rectenwall placed the only bid on the undivided two-thirds interest her husband, now serving a federal sentence, held in their home.

The sheriff's sale was ordered by the DeKalb Circuit Court to satisfy judgment awarded last Feb. 4 to M. E. Rhodes of near Spencerville. Mrs. Rectenwall bid the entire amount of the judgment, a total of $1,285.97. The judgment was for $1,200 and costs.

The property included a modern home and one-half acre.

Tigers Smother Hicksville Five 61-44

The Tiger from St. Joe really roared Tuesday night when the St. Joe basketballers drove to an inspiring 61-44 victory over Hicksville.

St. Joe's aggressiveness throughout the entire game had the fans cheering. But what really brought them to their feet was the play of Burtis Dickman in the third period and Bob Richmond's long hook shots in the final quarter. Rebounding like a veteran, Dickman played the type of game everyone knew he could all along as he dropped in four fielders during the third period before fouling out in the final stanza. Then Richmond took up where Dickman left off and dropped in four of his high-arching specialties in the fourth quarter.

Jerry Keener got loose under the basket in the last quarter as Hicksville's defense cracked and he dumped in three buckets.

Although St. Joe lost Tharp, Dickman and Richmond on fouls, they didn't lose any of their spirit and had the situation well in hand at the final gun.

Bassett and Walters came through with 8 and 11 points, respectively, and played perhaps their best ball so far this season.

The Hicksville "second" team of 6-footers dropped St. Joe 40-21 in the preliminary tilt.

Injunction proceedings filed by members of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church in St. Joe against Charles (Chuck) McIntosh were taken under advisement by Judge Donald Hunter early Friday afternoon in the Steuben Circuit Court at Angola.

The case, in which the members of the church are seeking an injunction to prevent the operation of a beer retail carry-out business by McIntosh, was venued to the court at Angola from the DeKalb Circuit Court.

The case was taken under advisement by Judge Hunter to permit the filing of briefs and arguments in the case. The case has been set for argument on Jan. 4. The Steuben court recessed Saturday until January.

Winslow VanHorne of Auburn is counsel for the plaintiffs. The Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the church at St. Joe, testified for the plaintiffs.

Raymond Perry of Fort Wayne was counsel for McIntosh, who was the only witness for the defense.

Turkey Winners

The St. Joe Valley Conservation Club had a very successful trukey shoot last Saturday. The crowd was not large but they certainly liked turkey. The turkeys were all gone by two o'clock and more could have been disposed of. Chickens were given as second prizes and a few left over chickens were quickly disposed of after the turkeys were all gone.

Few of the local boys participated although they were given several chances to make up a squad of their own so as not to be in competition with the so-called hot shots. It appeared that local boys were not only afraid of outsiders but also afraid of each other!

A strong tail wind made the targets rather difficult and the scores did not average too high. However, more often than not it took ten straight to get a turkey and tie scores were likely.

The turkey winners and their scores follow: Dan Toms, 3 on 9x10, 10x10, 9x10; G. W. Carson, 4 on 10x10, 10x10, 10x10, 8x10; Schindler 3 on 10x10, 8x10; C. Lines 3 on 10x10, 9x10; Chas. Eby 1 on 9x10; A. L. Adams 3 on 9x10, 10x10, 10x10; Fred Gerkin 1 on 10x10; E. L. Hawkins 1 on 9x10; C. E. Allen 1 on 10x10; Ralph Johnson 1 on 10x10; Henry Ramey 1 on 9x10.

$400 Loot Taken From Hardware

A burglar or burglars broke into the Kinsey Hardware & Furniture Co. at St. Joe sometime early Sunday morning and stole merchandise valued at $400 after a futile attempt to crack the office safe.

The burglar gained entrance to the establishment by breaking the glass on a rear door and reaching inside to release the lock. Inside the thief used a punch in an unsuccessful effort to break open the office safe.

The burglar hauled away a carload of merchandise. A preliminary check disclosed that several table-model radios, a clock radio, tablecloths, towels, knives, wrenches, electric irons, low-priced watches, compacts and costume jewelry, various other tools and other assorted merchandise were taken.

According to investigating officers, a Fort Wayne woman who was staying overnight at a residence adjoining the hardware store reported she heard a disturbance at the rear of the store sometime between midnight and 1 a.m. Sunday. The next morning she saw the broken window on the south side of the building and notified the deputy sheriff.

SPENCER TWP. GIRL ENTERS VEGETABLE GROWING CONTEST

Miss Betty A. Witt of Spencerville will represent DeKalb County in the tenth annual production-marketing contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association.

Miss Witt is seeking the nation's junior vegetable growing championship and a share of the cash awards and scholarships provided by A & P Food Stores. She will compete with other teen-aged tillers of the soil throughout the country.

The contest is really an educational program, designed to help farm youths learn, use and develop new and more efficient methods of growing and selling vegetables. It offers a $500 award for the national champion, four $200 regional championships, thirty-three $100 sectional championships and four state awards in each state. Winners are determined by a judging board of college professors and officials of the United States Department of Agriculture. They will be announced during the NJVGA convention at New Orleans this December, where about 500 farm youths are expected to gather for the association's 16th annual meeting.

IT IS a right-handed world, only four out of every hundred persons are left-handed. Many left-handed children have started to school this year for the first time; other students are noticing this left-handedness, and making remarks about it.

It is no more abnormal for a person to be left-handed than it is for a person to be red-headed, or be born a twin, or to show any of the other influences of heredity.

The tragic part of left-handedness in many families is that the parents, unaware of the danger of their act, endeavor to make the left-handed child use his right hand.

The motor function of the hand is controlled from the brain. The right half of the brain controls the left side of the body, with the left side of the brain controling the right side of the body. The left half of the brain as a rule predominates in this motor function of the body—hence more persons are right-handed.

Attempts to alter nature's plan of motor function in a particular body frequently results in nervous disorders—and even mental confusion.

Therefore, if your child is left-handed do not try to change him. Left-handedness is not a handicap.

Mr. Dan Goldsmith, 3024 Curron Road, Louisville, Ky., owner of Coogla Cut Rate Store at 935 West Broadway, says there just aren't enough words in the English language to praise HADACOL correctly. He says he knows most folks don't realize what a change HADACOL can make in their life if their systems are deficient in Vitamins B¹, B₂, Iron and Niacin.

Here is Mr. Goldsmith's statement:

"Before I started taking HADACOL I was run down and nervous —and had a hard time sleeping nights. With my work in the store I have to spend sometimes 14 hours a day on my feet. Since I am in the retail business I saw how many folks were asking for HADACOL so I decided to try it myself. After the first couple of bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now I have all the pep and energy in the world, my nerves are steady as ever and I really do get a good night's rest. HADACOL is wonderful —I not only take it, but recommend it to all my customers. I praise the day Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc put HADACOL on the market."

HADACOL Is So Different

Thousands are benefiting from HADACOL . . . whose systems lack Vitamins B¹, B₂, Iron and Niacin. HADACOL is so wonderful because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these great Vitamins and Minerals to every body organ — to every part of the body.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance and if you don't feel better with the first few bottles you take — you get your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

GOOD HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 1:

1. The appendicitis death rate has been dropping at an astonishing rate. Metropolitan Life Insurance figures show that whereas 10.2 persons per 100,000 died of appendicitis in 1939, the rate was 2.2 in 1949. New drugs to control infection and improved surgical techniques are largely responsible but early recognition and early operation are important.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. Athletes' hearts beat slower than the average person's under comparable conditions because the heart of an athlete has been developed by exercise to do more work per beat.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. The National Tuberculosis Association estimates that there are 250,000 undiscovered cases of tuberculosis in this country. Every person in every community should have a chest X-ray picture. This is nearly 100 per cent reliable. In almost every community this can be done without charge. The tuberculosis death rate has been reduced 80 per cent in 40 years.

Red Raiders Nose Waterloo

The Spencerville Red Raiders and Waterloo Wildcats put up a terrific battle last Wednesday evening at Waterloo before the Red Raiders pulled out to a 60-55 win.

Eddie Hook, the county's leading scorer set a hot pace and poured 29 points through the hoop. Alf Paschen came up with 16 and Jack Hollabaugh 12.

The game was hard-fought with neither team ever holding more than a five-point lead. Waterloo held a 1-point lead at the end of the first period. Spencerville went ahead at the half, 35-31. Then the Wildcats went back into the lead, 47-46, at three quarters, but gave out with two minutes to go and the Raiders pushed ahead.

Tigers Lose To Churubusco

The St. Joe Tigers found the Churubusco Eagles and their trick floor too much last Friday evening and went down to defeat, 63-45.

The score was close all the way, with the Eagles building up their final lead in the last few minutes of the contest. It was 17-13 at the quarter, 31-26 at the half and 48-38 at the third quarter mark.

Herb Gaff led the first period assault with 11 points but Bob Richmond held him to just three in the last half. Paul Bonar was red hot under the basket, flipping in 25 points. Jerry Keener got 13 points to lead the St. Joe offense.

Cheerful Giver

Lesson for November 26, 1950

TAKE a good look at a piece of money. Let it be in any form at all; "hard money," "folding money," a check, a money order, scrip,—anything you can shove across a counter and buy something with. Let us say it is your own money, and that you earned it yourself. Just take a look at that piece of cash. Do you recognize it? You should; for it is nothing less than a piece of your own life.

Dr. Foreman

Money is Life

YOU got rid of something quite valuable to get hold of that piece of money. Time, certainly; you are poorer than you were 24 hours ago, poorer in time, for you have 24 hours less to live than you had then. But you are richer in money, for you did not have this money then, if it is the return for your work during that time. You lost time but you gained money; in other words the money represents time, which in turn spells life.

Look at it in another way: You put out a certain amount of energy for this bit of money. You plowed a field or you raised some chickens or you laid some pipe or you taught some children or you sold a bill of goods. Whatever you did to earn the money, it tired you a bit. You put out the work, — and the money came back to you. Money is time, money is energy. Furthermore, money is knowledge.

Why is a skilled workman paid more than an unskilled one? Not because he works harder or sweats more. He is paid more because his work is better, and his work is better because he knows more. Now, what would life be without time, energy or knowledge? Not much! So if a robber ever says to you: "Your money or your life!" you would be quite correct (even if untactful) if you said, "My dear felon, you repeat yourself; money is life!"

Life Comes from God

AMONG the many differences between a Christian and a non-Christian is this: the Christian knows too much to say, "My life is my own, to do with as I please." Consider those three elements of life: time, energy, knowledge. Time itself is certainly God's gift, the Creator's gift. None of us can make a moment of it. We can accept it, use it; or we can waste it; but it was given us in either case.

Energy cannot be created by you or me. Each of us has a certain (and a different) amount; we inherit it, we are endowed with it; but only God in the long run is the source of energy. To make a long story short, life is God's gift, not our creation. It is a blank page on which we write, an empty field in which we can sow as we will. But though the writing and the sowing are our own, the page and the field are God's. So the Christian recognizes this as the central fact of his life: I belong to God.

Now if that is true it is also true that our money is also, just as much as life itself, ours only as a trust from God.

Stewardship

"STEWARDSHIP" is the word which recognizes God's right in our lives; it is the word which describes the principle of life for those who honor God as source of all they are and have. When the proverb-writer says, "Honor God with thy substance," he has just said, "in all thy ways acknowledge him." No man is likely to do what is right with his money who habitually does wrong with his life. No man is going to admit his partnership with God in money matters who does not confess God to be the Lord of all his life.

Now there are two principles brought out in our Scripture about stewardship of money in particular. One is this: God looks on what we have, not on what we haven't. A widow who gives one tiny coin, if that is all she has, is more generous than a millionaire who has just given half a million to Charity. Second is the principle of willingness. The Lord loves a cheerful giver. Sour givers, regretful givers, stingy givers, no. But the Lord does love the man who gives with a smile.

It isn't how much you give, it isn't the fact that you give, it's HOW you give. Is your heart generous in the first place?

Letters to the Editor

Port Richey, Fla
Nov. 17, 1950

To our Indiana Friends:

We left Tuesday morning, Nov. 14, for Florida taking a somewhat different route than usual and missing the cities of Nashville, Birmingham and Montgomery. We had a delightful and pleasant trip all the way except some fog near Albany, Georgia.

We arrived here at 2:30 p. m. Thursday. We traveled 1151 miles averaging 19½ miles to the gallon of gasoline.

We saw much cotton to be picked yet, something I had never seen in any of our trips to the sunshine state. The weather here is warm. We had a little shower last night but this morning you would never know it had rained. Fruit seems to be plentiful but not too yellow. They need cooler weather to give it color. The fishing seems to be quite good. The commercial fisherman brought in two tons yesterday morning but today it is too rough to permit going out.

Tourist traffic is picking up each day and motels are filled each night.

This part of the state is growing by leaps and bounds. I was surprised at the new homes and tourist courts that had been built since we left last spring.

Living costs are no higher here than in the north.

Mrs. Anna Franks who was raised in our community came into the camp yesterday to stay for the winter season.

We are located on Highway 19 just to the right as you enter the town. We would be pleased to have you stop and call on us and by the way we have an extra bed and plenty of cats. "Nuf said."

Your Hoosier Friend

English Fruit Ring

Bake a feathery yeast batter, studded with fruits and nuts, in a fluted ring mold and you'll have special-occasion coffee cake.

Most grocers have candied citron, candied orange peel, candied cherries, and currants on hand for baking holiday fruit cakes. These special fruits can also be used to give yeast coffee cakes a holiday charm, and delectable holiday flavor, too.

Because of the thrifty enriched flour base, coffee cakes are an average budget sweet, yet guests consider them really special. The English fruit ring in the picture was baked in a fluted mold for its party dress. This fragrant bread may be baked with equal success in a loaf pan, 4½ by 8½ inches.

English fruit ring belongs to the group of yeast coffee cakes which requires no kneading. Thorough beating of the yeast batter results in its lightness and even texture. After baking, highlight with confectioners' sugar icing and garnish with chopped nuts.

ENGLISH FRUIT RING

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
¼ cup lukewarm water
½ cup milk
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
1½ cups sifted enriched flour
2 tablespoons chopped citron
2 tablespoons chopped orange peel
½ cup chopped candied cherries
½ cup raisins
½ cup currants
½ cup chopped nuts
Confectioners Sugar Icing
Chopped nuts

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add shortening, sugar, and salt. Let cool to lukewarm. Add softened yeast and egg. Mix well. Add flour to make a rather stiff batter. Beat until smooth. Let rise until doubled (about 1¼ hours). Stir down, and add citron, orange peel, cherries, raisins, currants, and chopped nuts. Fill into greased fluted ring pan. Let rise until doubled and puffy (about 1¼ hours). Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 35 minutes. If desired, ice with confectioners' sugar icing and sprinkle with chopped nuts.
Makes 1 fruit ring.

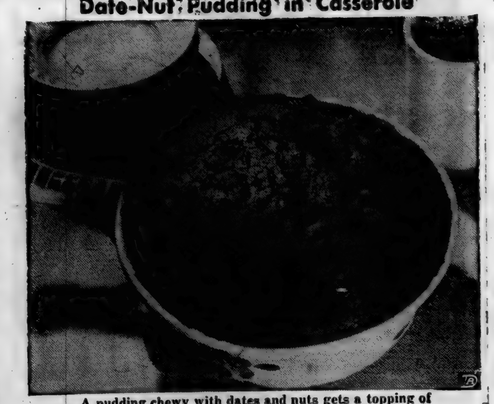
Date-Nut Pudding in Casserole



A pudding chewy with dates and nuts gets a topping of orangy sauce to please the family that likes its desserts on the sweet side.

There is a pudding to suit every taste, and one that should please just about everybody is a rather rich date-nut topped with either an orange or lemon sauce.

This pudding will please the one who makes it, too, for it's easy to put together. Cutting up the nuts and dates takes the most time, and that isn't much. The dates are easy to cut if you use kitchen shears and dip them into warm water now and then as you snip.

If you do not have a 1½ quart casserole, use an 8-inch square pan. Like most puddings, date-nut pudding is at its best served warm with sauce to match. Servings may either be spooned out into a sauce dish, or cut into squares, garnished with walnut or pecan half, and topped with sauce. Either walnuts or pecans are very good in this pudding.

Because it is made with enriched flour, date-nut pudding provides excellent vitamin values for the family, including three B-vitamins, food iron, and food energy. Dates and nuts supply additional nourishment.

DATE-NUT PUDDING

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup chopped dates
¾ cup boiling water
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 egg
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add nuts. Mix dates, water and butter or margarine. Beat egg and blend with sugar and flavoring extracts. Add to date mixture. Add flour mixture to date mixture. Pour into greased 8x8 inch pan or greased 1½ quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 45 minutes for square pan or about 1 hour for casserole. Serve hot or cold with orange sauce.

ORANGE SAUCE

½ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¼ teaspoon orange extract
¼ cup orange juice

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Gradually add water and stir until smooth. Cook over low heat until clear and thickened, stirring constantly. Add butter or margarine, rind, extract and juice. Serve warm or cold over date-nut pudding.

Makes about 8 servings.

Around the Town

With the Editor

I see where I got my name in the paper last week. The Auburn Star of Nov. 20 carried my few lines about the basketball season, which appeared here two weeks ago, in its sports column written by Karl Mavis.

Since another paper has mention this week, I might as well get the Butler Herald in on it, too. I got a big laugh out of the sub-head they used on one of the news stories last week. Headline: "Beer Case to be Opened January 4." Sub-head: "To Blow Corks In Steuben County."

I think he's kidding, but E. Howard says that one of these days he's going to pull his boat from the river bank, put it on sleds and pull it through the streets of St. Joe—with Phil Smith sitting in the boat throwing out a line with his casting rod.

Say, it would be a good idea, I think, if a bunch of St. Joe'ers got together and got tickets for the Zollner Piston-Syracuse Nationals basketball game on Thursday, Dec. 21. Why? —Because Pickles will play the prelim with Defiance in a Zollner-sponsored tourney. Torney games are played as preliminary tilts to the Piston home games. This year over 130 entries were received, according to Franklin Sechler, from which around 30 were picked to participate. —And Pickles is one of 'em.

Keep that date in mind — Dec. 21.

This younger generation. They don't wait for anything.

Marge and Phil Appleman, my sister and her husband, were home last week at my folks' Thanksgiving gathering. He is attending Michigan U. at Ann Arbor, studying to be a literary genius (ask him anything about Shakespeare, he knows it — last summer he completed a whole course on Bill in 6 weeks), and she is teaching 5th grade at Garden City, Mich. Anyhow, she related that he met her at her school one day for some reason, and her class got a look at him.

Wha' hoppen?

The girls rush up to her (when he's gone) and gush, "Oh, Mrs. Appleman, your husband is so nice looking!" And, "Oh, Mrs. Appleman, when is he coming back!"

HEART ATTACK CAUSES DEATH OF BUTLER MAN

Mr. White died unexpectedly last week of a heart attack at his home. The family reported that his condition was not believed serious although he was under the care of a physician for three years before his death. He had suffered from a kidney ailment and heart trouble but was not bedfast.

He was a native of the St. Joe community. For many years he was a farmer but had retired several years ago and moved to Butler where he resided on West Depot Street. He moved to Butler from a farm southwest of that town.

Rev. Joseph Ferguson of east of Auburn officiated at the services, and burial was the the Knights of Pythias Cemetery at St. Joe.

Couple Involved In Burglary Seized

A 24-year-old ex-convict and his woman companion, 20, who listed among the 20-odd burglaries they committed the $400 break-in at the Kinsey Hardware and Furniture Store on Nov. 19, were arrested Friday at Columbus, O., Indiana state police reported Saturday.

The pair was identified as Charles Odis Ralstin and Mrs. Frances Conner Buffinger, both residents of Fort Wayne.

Columbus police notified state police that with the arrest of the pair, loot valued at several thousands of dollars was recovered. Among the articles recovered was a part of the merchandise taken in the St. Joe burglary.

Police at the Ohio state capital reported that the couple already has been definitely linked to at least 17 burglaries. Ten committed in Columbus alone were attributed to the man and woman. Police said they also committed two burglaries in the Ohio county which includes Columbus and another in a Columbus suburb.

In Indiana, in addition to the burglary in DeKalb County, the pair is reported to have confessed to the break-ins at the Knapp Supply Company at Muncie, the American Laundry at Richmond and a hardware store at Corydon. Several hundred dollars worth of guns and other merchandise were taken at Corydon.

Police said some of the burglaries included "safe-cracking" jobs. At St. Joe, the pair was thwarted when a punch which they employed to shatter the lock broke in two.

The tip of the punch, left imbedded in the safe at the scene of the St. Joe burglary, led to the capture of the pair, police said.

Earl Kinsey found the tip of the punch in a hinge on the safe after a preliminary investigation by State Police Detective Russell Huffman, Deputy Sheriff George A. Milks and Auburn Police Chief C. H. West. The punch was identified as purchased at the St. Joe store the Saturday afternoon preceding the burglary.

Columbus police said the pair had a marriage license and were believed to have been married recently although both of them are married. Ralstin's wife lives at Muncie and his mother at Fort Wayne. He is on parole from Allen County and, according to police, has a long criminal record.

When arrested the pair had a stolen automobile taken at Bellefontaine, O. The stolen car was used in the local burglary.

According to local officials, the pair will be prosecuted in Ohio. Police at Columbus said the couple will be tried for the burglaries in the Columbus area.

Final Rites For Minnie Bleeks

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Bleeks, 73, were conducted Sunday at the Christian Church at Newville. Rev. Joseph Shenault officiated and burial was in Riverside Cemetery at Newville.

Mrs. Bleeks, who resided in Newville, passed away at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Dr. Bonnell M. Souder Hospital in Auburn. Her death was attributed to a heart ailment. She had been under treatment at the hospital for two weeks and had also been given hospital care about a year ago for the same ailment.

She was born in Newville Township on Feb. 17, 1877. She was married to Jay Bleeks, who survives and they spent all of their married life in the Newville area. Mr. Bleeks is a retired laborer.

Other survivors include two sons, Russell Reasoner, of Van Wert, O., and Louis Bleeks, in the army at Camp Carson, Colo.; a granddaughter and a sister, Mrs. Almond Reinhart, of Butler.

Before an altar lighted by candlabra and decorated with palms and white chrysanthemums, Miss June Frances Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin J. Smith of North Manchester, became the bride of Allen S. Haller Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Haller Sr. of Butler. The Rev. Harley T. Shady read the double-ring service which took place at the Methodist Church in Waterloo at 2 p.m. Thanksgiving Day. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

A 30 minute musicale was presented by Miss Karen Bisel, pianist, and Mrs. Ned McIntosh, soloist, who sang "O Perfect Love," "I Love You Truly," "Bless This House" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bridal gown was of heavy white satin. The molded bodice was highlighted by a sheer yoke outlined in seed pearls in a leaf design. The long fitted sleeves tapered to points over the hands. The skirt flared from the waist line and swept into a long train. A finger-tip veil of Swiss illusion was fastened to a tiara which was also in leaf design and outlined in seed pearls. Her white Bible was topped with white chrysanthemums and talisman roses. With streamers of narrow white sat in ribbons. Her only jewelry was a rhinestone necklace, a gift of the groom, and small gold star earrings each set with a small brilliant which had belonged to her maternal grandmother.

Mrs. Hobart W. Jones, sister of the bride, attended her as matron of honor in a cerise gown. It was styled with a short velvet jacket trimmed in silver sequins and wide flared taffeta skirt. She wore a single strand of pearls and pearl earrings, gifts of the bride, and carried pink chrysanthemums with matching head band.

Mrs. Jean Reinoehl and Miss Florence Shady acted as bridesmaids, the former wearing a burnt orange taffeta gown fashioned in straight lines with full gathered skirt and hip pep lums. Miss Shady wore aqua taffeta with wide lace-trimmed bertha and full skirt caught up with blue rose buds. Both carried yellow chrysanthemums with matching head bands and wore double strands of pearls.

Mr. Douglas Shull of Garrett served his cousin as best man. Guests were seated by Lavern Smith, brother of the bride, and Paul William Hough, friend of the groom.

The bride's mother attended the ceremony in a gray suit with tangerine and black accessories. The mother of the groom chose a teal blue suit dress with rhinestone necklace and earrings and black accessories. Both wore corsages of pink carnations and roses.

A reception in the church basement following the service. Serving the guests were the Misses Barbara and Bonnie Shaw, Sharlie Shull and Mesdames John Shaw and Frank Shull.

Mrs. Haller is a graduate of Waterloo High School and is now a sophomore in elementary education at Manchester College. The groom graduated from St. Joe High School and has been engaged in farming.

For going away the bride was attired in a hunter's green gabardine suit with black accessories with a corsage from her bridal bouquet. After a short trip the bride will return to her studies at Manchester College. The groom expects to join the armed forces soon.

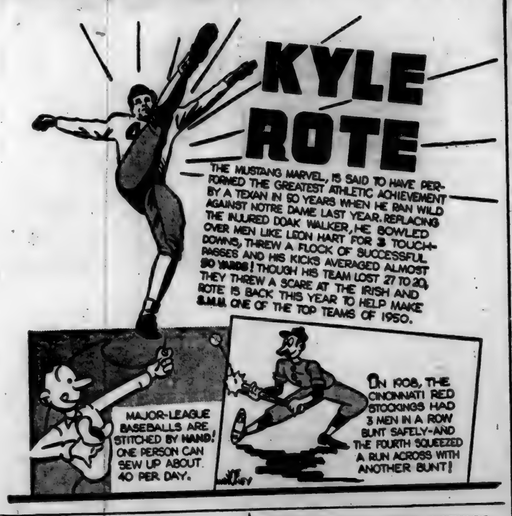
SPORTSCOPE By JOE MAHONEY



Spencerville Trounces Leo, 70-49

by Milton McGrath

The Red Raiders started off with a bang against Leo, leading by 14 points in the 1st quarter. The Leo boys went all out to tie the score and moved one point ahead early in the second quarter. That was the last and only time Leo led.

Spencerville, playing heads-up ball, started pulling away. The half score was 37-27. From the start of the second half till the end, the Red Raiders just kept outplaying Leo and adding to the score.

"Rocket" Paschen, playing his old game again, rebounding and generally getting "up" in the opponents' hair, turned in a sweet performance.

"Little" John Leonard, "Big" Mathes and "Jughead" Dwyer contributed mightily in defense and getting the ball thru the meshes.

"Powerglide" Ed Hook needed no gears for shifting into high and was a thorn in Leo's side all night.

"Cadillac" Jack Hollabaugh, with his passing and long shots, kept the boys rolling along.

Stewardship of Life

Lesson for December 3, 1950

"WHAT'S the death rate here?" asked the stranger. "Same as everywhere," retorted the native son,—"one to a person." Only one to a person, because there is only one life to a person. If you had nine lives or even two, you might afford to waste one (though it's doubtful). But with only one life you simply cannot afford to waste it. Of course you do waste it, in thousands of little ways; and some of these cannot be helped. But if a faucet leaks, that's no excuse for turning the water on full blast.

God Wants You

WITH all due respect to the arrangers of these lessons, the lesson for last week and this one seem to be in the reverse order from what is logical. It is very doubtful whether any one ever understood stewardship of money who did not understand stewardship of life first. Now in almost any church you may hear people singing,

"Were the whole realm of nature mine,
That were a present far too small;
Love so amazing, so divine,
Demands my soul, my life, my all."

Very good; wonderful. Surely these are a devoted brotherhood! But wait, what is this coming down the aisle? A man with a collection plate! Now we shall see . . . There's a man putting in a quarter, and there's a prosperous-looking lady laying out a five dollar bill. (She bought a $50 cat last week.) But who is putting in his soul, his life, his all? Oh well, they didn't mean what they sang. But isn't it more than half hypocritical to sing one way and "give" another?

The whole realm of nature is not yours to give; but you do have a life; and God wants it. More than he wants what we have, he wants what we are. God created you; God redeemed you; as Paul says, "You are not your own, you were bought with a price."

Not for Preachers Only

A COMMON mistake is to think that a Christian has a choice between being a preacher and not being one. If he decides to give his life to God then he will be a preacher; otherwise he keeps his life for himself.

This is absurd, when you think about it. God has the first claim on every man's life. To be a Christian is to recognize this claim. He has not a bit more claim on the preacher or the missionary than he has on the grocer or the farmer's wife. Stewardship of life means recognizing God's right, it means living your life in partnership with God.

"Who sweeps a room as to Thy laws Makes that and the action fine," sang a poet long ago. God certainly does not want all his children to be preachers. But he does want his children to live AS his children; and that means stewardship of life.

Stewardship of Time

PICKING up again a thought from last week: Time is the raw material of life. Stewardship of life means stewardship of time. It means spending each day as if God had personally said to you: "Here are 24 fresh, new, unused hours. I shall want them back. You cannot keep them. I shall look at them to see what you have done with them."

What do you do with your time? Does it count for God or against him? And yet — how many Christians there are who if asked to do some kind thing, some simple act of mercy or friendliness, something to help some one else, something that may cost them a little trouble, —how many will say, "Sorry, I'm busy, haven't the time!"

Gift Without the Giver is Bare

JUST put together four sentences from the four sections of the Scripture for this week, and you have the whole business of stewardship of life in a nutshell: "Having gifts, let us use them." "First they gave themselves to the Lord." "Honor such men." "My God will supply every need of yours." No one ever used for God in the service of man any gift which God did not more than repay. The gift without the giver is bare — and so is the giver. But giver and gift, devoted in love to God and man, are rich indeed.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

LUNCH BOX NUTRITION

MOTHERS who prepare lunch boxes to be taken to school should know what should be put in them in order to supply the nutrition and balanced diet needed by the child.

It may be assumed that breakfast and dinner are well-balanced meals containing adequate quantities of nutritious food. What, then, should the lunch box contain?

Milk should be included in the thermos bottle if it is not purchased regularly at school separately from the home-packed lunch. A growing child should drink a quart of milk a day. In addition to milk, the noon meal should supply some protein which can be given easily in the form of boiled eggs, meat sandwich or cheese. Fruits and vegetables should also be included. Lettuce and tomato, as salad or in the form of a sandwich, can be used.

Carrots, or any fruit, like apple, pear, peach or orange, can be included in the lunch box and they are easy to eat at school. These fruits and vegetables supply many desirable vitamins. Carbohydrates or starches which give needed energy quickly can be taken easily in the form of bread with the sandwich or potato salad. Some cake, candy or cookies in small quantities could well be included to top off the meal.

Real thought in preparing school lunches pays off in the health and vigor of the youngsters.

Letters to the Editor

(This column is offered to give the reader a chance to have his say. Any and all contributions are welcome—poetry, prose or what have you. All letters should have a signature to insure publication.)

Port Richey, Florida
November 1950

To my Indiana Friends:

We have been here a little over a week and nothing out of the ordinary has happened. The weather has been ideal. Mr. and Mrs. Zook from Butler arrived yesterday. The camp has but one vacant cabin and it will be occupied by the end of the week.

The people come from the following states: Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, New York, Kentucky and Wisconsin. The camp manager came from Canada and his wife is a native of Florida. So you see we have quite a diversified population.

In traveling about one is surprised at the vast amount of new homes being erected from Port Richey to Clearwater. Back in the wildest parts you see an immense amount of building. Most of them are modest three room homes used by people from the north during the winter season. For my part I would not trade my home in Indiana for the finest home in Florida if I were compelled to live here permanently, but the weather here in the winter just cannot be beat. Of course we have some cool days but they are rare.

Since two years ago six gas stations and five motels have been erected within a quarter of a mile of our camp and more are anticipating building. As we do not travel around much, having toured the state many times, and having plenty of time on my hands I may write an article contained in the following original poem:

As I sit here all alone
By my fireside at home
Those old happy days of glee
Come flocking back to me.

GOOD HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 1:

1. Scarlet fever is still a serious illness, but modern methods of treatment have brought the mortality rate to such a low level that it is no longer a major menace to life for children. New drugs have shortened the duration of the disease and have reduced complications.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. Insulin does not cure diabetes, it merely controls it. The exact manner in which insulin works is unknown, but according to medical experts it seems that the insulin acts like a spark to the mechanism which burns up body sugars. Diabetics can anticipate much longer life today, thanks to advances in research and the discovery of insulin, if they cooperate with their doctor.

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

HERE'S a reminder that no good dairyman should need, but you can drive through the country and see some farmers disregarding this bit of advice every day:

A cornstalk field is no place for high-producing dairy cows.

There are several reasons why dairy cows should be kept out of cornstalk fields. Pasturing of good cows in a field of cornstalks will result in the production of less milk and butterfat and there's also the risk of injury to the cow's udder.

If allowed to run loose in a cornstalk field, dairy cows will eat too much corn and as a result, when they are fed at the barn they won't eat enough of the high quality roughage they need.

The danger of udder injury results from sharp cornstalks left sticking out of the ground after the picker has run over a field. These stalks are usually about the height of a cow's udder, and they can cause serious bruises as the cow walks over them.

There's added danger if the corn has been sprayed with DDT. No less an authority than the Pure Food and Drug Administration says dairy products may be contaminated from DDT-treated feed. This could result in milk being rejected when it is put up for sale.

Another factor that would tend to keep good cows out of cornstalk fields is the weather. At this time of year it's often too cold for good dairy cows.

Around the Town

With the Editor

Last Friday as I worked on the paper, I stopped short when I heard the name "Clifton Draggoo" on the radio. Then I heard "St. Joe, Ind."

The Draggoo family, Clifton, Fern, Sally and Jane, appeared Friday morning on the program "Ladies Fair" with Tom Moore. They were the honored guests for the day.

They were given several gifts after each did some vocalizing. Clifton was a little nervous, I think. He said he would sing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Then he sang the second line first and "er-um-ah'd." The second try came out O.K.

I mentioned last week that Pickles will play on December 21 at Fort Wayne in a preliminary game to the Zollner Piston-Syracuse Nationals professional basketball game. Well, if you think you can make it that night and will do some hollering for the boys, get a ticket at the News Office. I'll have some on hand to take care of local fans.

—No, I ain't givin' 'em away.

Six pages this week - no time for talkin'.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST IMPATIENT FARMER DISMISSED

Charges of vehicle taking without permission, filed in the Auburn city court against DeKalb County's "impatient farmer," Cloyd Anderson, 31, of Newville Township, were dismissed last Thursday upon motion of the prosecuting attorney and the complaining witness.

Anderson was accused of swiping a county highway truck and snow plow a week ago Sunday to clear drifts from the road along his farm.

The charges were filed last Wednesday against Anderson after highway officials learned that Anderson had taken over the snow plow when highway workers returned to the branch garage at Spencerville for lights.

County highway supervisor Ray Zimmerman said the equipment illegally used by Anderson represented a $5,000 investment by DeKalb County taxpayers.

The charges were dismissed after the motion was filed indicating that the prosecuting witness did not prefer to press charges.

Tax School At Auburn

The kind of farm records that make income tax reporting easier will be the subject of discussion at a tax and farm account school to be held in the court house assembly room in Auburn at 7:30 p.m. on December 19, 1950. This school has been arranged by Ernest J. Lesiuk, county agricultural agent, and will be conducted by John O. Dunbar of the Agricultural Economics Department of Purdue University.

All farmers are invited to attend this meeting. Anyone present will be given a chance to ask questions and take part in the discussion.

Consideration will also be given to the new social security taxes that farmers will have to pay on hired help after January 1. Although many farmers will be affected by these regulations, others will be exempt. An explanation will be given of the situations under which farmers will and will not have to pay this tax.

Among the many questions to be considered in the school are:

1. What farm receipts are fully taxable? What receipts are not fully taxable?

2. How do current operating expenses differ from capital investment?

3. Why keep inventories? How can they be made and how can they save the farmer money?

4. How is depreciation figured, and what items can be depreciated?

5. What deductions are allowable under the law?

6. What can farmers do if their tax returns are questioned?

Even though many farmers employ a tax consultant to make out their tax reports, attendance at this school will help them get their records in shape so that their consultants can do a better job.

A displaced persons family from Europe has arrived in DeKalb County. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Janochkia and son, Mikia (Michael), 14, came from a displaced persons camp in Europe last week and the family is living and working at the John Haynes farm northeast of Garrett. As the family is able to speak only a limited amount of English, little is yet known about them.

Spencerville Beats Coesse

Spencerville traveled to Coesse last Friday night to meet a determined but small Coesse five.

The first half was a see-saw affair. First Coesse was ahead, then Spencerville, then Coesse, etc. The score was 24-23 at the half, Spencerville's favor.

At the start of the second half Coach Long had his boys come up with some smart basketball. With Coesse playing a zone defense on the small floor, Coach Long had his boys fast break to gain a six-point lead. Then Ed Hook and Jack Hollabaugh played catch at the ten-second line, inviting Coesse to come out and get them. Coesse refused. The game of bounce and catch went on till the 3rd quarter ended.

At the start of the 4th quarter the Coesse coach advised his team to come out and get the ball. That was all brother. Ed Hook and Jack Hollabaugh moved into free-wheeling while "Little" John Leonard and "Big" Alf Paschen jumped and rebounded everything that came their way. "Old Jug-head" Dwyer did a good job both on offense and defense. "Jumper" Shilling played a good defensive game, always outjumping his man and somehow coming out with the ball.

Another game won. Another team victory.

CONCORD JUNIOR HOME EC

Edna Perkins was hostess for the December meeting of the Concord Twp. Junior Home Ec Club. Marcelle led the Christmas Carols and Gladys Akey read the Christmas Story from the Bible. Marcia Sible gave a complete outline of the planned lessons for next year which she received at the last council meeting. From these each month's program is compiled. It promises to be a very interesting year with many lessons of interest for the modern farm homemaker. Now would be a good time to join a home economics club to derive the benefits from the interesting lessons being prepared by the county extension office and Purdue University. For example there will be lessons on slip covers, floor finishings, ceramics and pottery, making plastic purses, consumer buying of vegetables and fruits, freezing demonstration and other lessons of special interest.

The secretary's report was read by Marcia Sible as Gertrude Reinhart could not stay long due to her father's critical illness.

Thirteen members answered roll call with the response, "What I Want for Christmas." Zore Gordon was a guest of the club.

Billie Mason read "The Littlest Angel" which was enjoyed very much. An exchange of homemade gifts was then held.

Delicious refreshments were served with Rose Means assisting the hostess.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Carl Perkins on November 22. The meeting was called to order by the president and the collect was read in unison.

The lesson on "Health" was given by Mrs. Weldon Shafer who used the topics "Rural Health Today," "Heart Disease" and Nutrition." Mrs. C. O. Krise read an article on "Cancer" after which each member gave a "Health Hint."

Entertainment was conducted by Mrs. C. O. Krise. Mrs. Glen Cole and Mrs. William Staman sang a duet.

At the next meeting each member is to have some comment to give on some famous living person.

Sixteen members responded to roll call. The meeting was then adjourned to meet December 6 with Mrs. Leja Northrup.

Missionary To Speak At Church Of Christ

Coming to the Sunday morning worship services of the Church of Christ in St. Joe is the recently returned missionary from Italy, Mary Frances Phipps. Charles and Mary Frances are well-known among Christian brethren of this area. Because of Charles' ill health, they returned to the United States last spring for special physician's care. Their plans are to return to Italy in the near future. Both are graduates of the Cincinnati Bible Seminary. Having spent five years in Toledo with the establishment of the Monroe Street Church of Christ, they went to Italy late in 1947, returning in May of 1950.

Mary Frances will tell of their work at 11 a.m. at the Sunday morning worship service of the Church of Christ. All who can come are urged to do so.

They can be heard Monday, Dec. 11 at 6:45 a.m. CST on WONW, Defiance, 1280 K.C. on the daily program, "Morning Devotions."

CULTURE CLUB

The Ladies Culture Club met on November 29 at the home of Mrs. Hearsel Shockley with Mrs. Willard Hurni acting as co-hostess.

Twenty-four members were present and one guest. The response for the evening was "My Favorite Sandwich."

The meeting was called to order by reading the club collect. The lesson was given by Mrs. Willard Hurni on "What Makes a Juvinile Delinquent" and "Ruin for our National Parks." Devotions were given by Mrs. Dewey White.

Guest speaker was Mr. Franklin Sechler who gave a very interesting talk on "The History of the St. Joe Valley Pickles."

Later in the evening a handkerchief shower was given for Mrs. Herman Zuber who is leaving sometime this month to make her home in California.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Leslie Meek on December 13.

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

THE glory of the 51st annual International Live Stock Exposition is rapidly fading into history. On a visit this morning to the International Amphitheater where this great world series of agriculture is held I found nearly all evidence of this great event had been removed.

The show itself was a great pageant as thousands of head of livestock paraded through the ring, before the eyes of folks in town and from the farm.

Now that most farm folk are back in their homes, I am sure there is a great deal of thinking going on. What does the Live Stock show mean to them?

I'm sure many thoughts will be given this year to future farm programs as they reflect on the lessons learned in breeding of all types of animals at this great show.

The keynote of the show was the breeding of animals that use feed the most efficiently, making the greatest gain in the shortest time, and meeting the consumer's preference. There is no better time than now to reconsider this aim in the light of farm planning for 1951.

The wise farmer will apply all he has learned to make America a better place to live in, a better-fed nation and the future of American agriculture more secure.

Sharing Our Faith

Lesson for December 10, 1950

SCRIPTURE: Acts 8:1-13; 18:1-7; I Corinthians 9:16-17; II Corinthians 8:17-20; Philippians 1:12-18; 3:12-16.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Romans 1: 8-17.

A COMMON sight in cities of ancient times was the "libation." Statues of gods or goddesses stood at every prominent corner, in every yard; they were as numerous as billboards today. Before one of these statues some one would be pouring out wine from a cup or goblet, an offering of thanksgiving or dedication. Saint Paul even used the libation as a figure of speech to describe himself. My life, he said to his friend Timothy, is being poured out—there was not much left of it, but all of it, every drop, would be poured out as an offering to God.

Miser of Life or Spender?

PAUL was no miser of life. If life was a full cup, it was not a cup with a tight lid, not like one of your grandmother's jars of very special preserves to be saved and saved but never used. Paul was a spender of life. Whatever God had given him was to be poured out, not to be saved.

There is something in every one's cup of life; something that spoils if kept too long, something fragrant and beautiful when poured out in service.

The miser of life finds that life at last turns sour on him. The spender of life finds that as he has given, in the same measure it will be given him.

Faith Can't Be Hoarded

ONE very important part of the Christian's life is high-lighted for us in this week's Scripture: his faith. Indeed, faith ought not to be a part of life for the Christian. Faith is no more a "part" of life than sunshine is a part of the out-of-doors. Without the sunshine there might as well not be any out-of-doors. So without faith the Christian's life would be mere existence.

The question is: What do we do with our faith? Do we keep it for ourselves alone or do we pass it on?

Last summer a man tried to get a grocery store to take back 100 pounds of sugar which he had laid up during World War II. He had hoarded it till it was hard as rock and he could not use a pound of it. (The grocery would not take it back, and it served him right.) Faith is like that. It is sweet and good — but only if we use it and share it, not if we keep it to ourselves.

What Is Sharing Faith?

SHARING your faith means helping others to have a faith at least as strong as your own. All around us there are persons who have no faith at all. They are discouraged, blue, bewildered, at loose ends—in the sad old phrase, they are lost. Sharing your faith means sharing it with just such people.

With some things, the more you give away the less you have left; but the arithmetic of religion is different. The more you give away, the more you have. Shared faith is living faith; shared faith is growing faith.

There are more ways than one of sharing our faith. One way is to talk about it. A person can "give a testimony" in a prayermeeting, and share faith that way; but this is not the only way. A person who merely talks about faith is a little like a gardener who is proud of his own garden and brags on it, but never helps his neighbors with theirs.

How Can We Do It Every Day?

REMEMBER, what we are really trying to share when we "share the gospel" or "share Christ" is not an argument, a set of propositions. The big thing is not arguing other people into becoming Christians.

Very few persons have ever become Christians because some one talked them into it. Talk has its place, and every Christian should be eager to say a good word for Jesus Christ at every chance. But good words for Jesus have their best effect when they come from a life that is really His.

A Christian whose faith is something put on on Sundays with the "church clothes" is not going to have any great success as a soul-winner. We can't share faith we don't have; we can't share second-hand or imitation faith. A former Mohammedan, being asked what was the great argument that won wasn't any argument, it was the him to Christianity, replied, "21 lives of some missionaries."

Letters to the Editor

(This column is offered to give the reader a chance to have his say. Any and all contributions are welcome—poetry, prose or what have you. All letters should have a signature to insure publication.)

Phoenix, Arizona
November 27, 1950

Dear Friends Back Home:

It has been quite a while since we have written a letter to the St. Joe News. And so today I felt the urge to do so.

It just doen't seem possible we have lived out here over a year. In fact we were in business here one year Sept. 24th and have made many new friends. How time does march on.

When we were back home in August, we saw a lot of our St. Joe friends but not nearly all of them as we made a hurried trip and sold our home there and were gone just 12 days and had covered 4500 miles. So you see we didn't lose any time. We just couldn't be away from the store any longer.

By the news we have been getting lately, you folks must be having an old time winter. How glad I am that we are here, as I sure don't like cold weather. It has been real warm here. The radio weather report for today is 86 degrees and early this morning it was 43 degrees.

The roses and many other kinds of flowers are in full bloom. Yesterday our church was beautifully decorated with the flowers from the community.

The lettuce crop is being harvested now. When you buy head lettuce, ask your grocer for Arizona head lettuce. Ha! Ha! Just a commercial for Arizona vegetable growers.

Sept. 3rd we moved into our home that we bought here. It is just one mile from our store. It is a western type home made of cement blocks with stucco finish, cement floors and NO CHIMNEY.

We have plenty of room and like it very much. We also have a rental house, which is close by. It's a very nice frame house.

As I am writing this letter the sun is shining through the window so hot I think I will have to move but it makes you feel good.

Since we have been here several from back there have been here to visit us. I hope some of you folks will come this winter as it is a wonderful place to vacation and rest in the sun. We have plenty of house room so look us up and we will show you some beauty spots of the South West.

We can hardly believe that Christmas is so close with such warm weather as we are having. We are looking foreward to the Holidays with much joy as we hope to hear from many of you folks. Last year we received over 100 cards and letters from back there. It was good to be remembered. We are always glad to hear from all of you folks.

Our family joins me in wishing to all our many friends back there a joyful holiday season.

Best wishes to all,

Around the Town

With the Editor

"Hur-ry, hur-ry, hur-ry, folks! Step right up and get your tickets for the big game next week. They're going like hot-cakes."

The big game is next Thursday, December 21, at the North Side gym in Fort Wayne when Pickles plays a game against Defiance. The game will start at 7 p. m. —don't be late.

I've got - or had - sixty tickets and Franklin Sechler had forty. But over half of the hundred are gone already. If you want tickets, get them now because the unsold tickets - if there are any - must be returned to the Zollner ticket office by next Wednesday.

In addition to the home-town team you'll see the league-leading Pistons with their high-scoring rookie, Larry Foust, the newly-acquired seven-foot Don Otten, Duane Klueh, Boag Johnson, Jack Kerris, et al, play the Syracuse Nationals.

Well, I guess that's the way it goes. I don't like to see Herman and Mayola Zuber and Earl Kinsey leave us. But—that's the way it goes. Of course, we won't lose the fine hardware and furniture store we've had. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Amstutz will continue the good service and merchandising we've gotten used to. I have always admired Earl's taste in home furnishings and color schemes, and the quality of everything handled in the store.

I'll miss the quick wit of Herman who, regardless of what happens, always can tell a story that he's reminded of. He'd be a good one for the "Can You Top This" radio show.

I almost forgot, Edna Amstutz stopped in Tuesday. She said they wanted an ad this week about the drawing next Monday evening at the hardware held every Christmas season. But it slipped my mind to tell her that there seems to be some postal regulation which prohibits advertising a drawing. So the St. Joe News can't let you know about the drawing next Monday, Dec. 18, at 8 p.m. at the hardware.

Also on Monday, the Shamrock Fountain will have a closeout sale of all their merchandise and fixtures

We lose again.

Injury Fatal To Curtis Hursey

Complications resulting from a fractured hip, suffered in a fall on Nov. 25, caused the death of Curtis Hursey, 74, a retired farmer of St. Joe at 8 p.m. Friday at his home.

Mr. Hursey fractured his hip when he was thrown to the ground at his home during a snowstorm while he was attempting to hold his garage door open so that his wife, Anna, could park the family car. The wind blew the door violently, throwing the 74-year-old man to the ground.

He was taken to the Dr. J. A. Sanders Hospital in Auburn for treatment and was released from the hospital and taken to his home on Thursday, the day before his death.

Mr. Hursey had not been in good health for a number of years, not being able to work for the past 20 or more years.

The retired farmer had made his home in St. Joe for the past 24 years. He had been a farmer in Concord Township near St. Joe for 18 years previous to that time.

He was born near Fostoria, O., on Jan. 5, 1876. He was the son of Daniel Hursey and Lydia Barringer Hursey. In 1909 he was united in marriage to Anna Mann, who is the only survivor.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday at the Walter Funeral Home in Spencerville with Darris D. Hamilton officiating. Burial was in Alton Cemetery near St. Joe.

Blizzard Costs County $7,000

The crippling blizzard, which blanketed DeKalb County over the post-Thanksgiving holiday weekend, caused added expense for the county highway department estimated at nearly $7,000.

County Highway Supervisor Ray Zimmerman Monday said the estimate included cost of hiring additional equipment, repair on highway equipment resulting from the storm and overtime pay for county highway workers who were on the job for 16 and 18 hours daily during the first few days following the storm.

The high cost of the storm to county taxpayers was lower, however, than early estimates of the expense to clear heavy drifts from the 748 miles of county highways, all of which were closed by the storm. Early estimates of nearly $10,000 were made.

According to Mr. Zimmerman, a large part of the expense was for the four bulldozers which were hired in addition to the regular highway equipment. The power equipment, which included a bulldozer from a Hamilton construction firm, another from Edgerton and a third from Kendallville along with one owned and operated by a DeKalb County contractor, were operated around the clock for the first few days following the storm.

Another major item of expense was repair of county highway equipment which broke down under the strain of continuous operation.

Mr. Zimmerman said some of the workers on the highway department were on the job an average of 12 hours a day for nearly a week after the storm.

CONSERVATION CLUB HOLDS ONE SHOOT PER MONTH

The St. Joe Valley Conservation Club has discontinued the practice shoots held on the second Sunday of each month until further notice.

Phone Rate IncreaseGranted

A blanket rate increase has been granted the Indiana Associated Telephone Corporation by the Public Service Commission of Indiana, according to attorney H. C. Springer. The increase in rate applies to all the company's exchanges including Butler, St. Joe, Fremont, Hamilton, Angola, Orland and Pleasant Lake, and many other cities and towns throughout Indiana.

However, the commission recommended that no increase be made at Connersville, Valparaiso, Greencastle and Liberty because of inadequate service being rendered at those exchanges.

In their original petition filed with the commission on May 25 the telephone company sought an additional annual revenue of $1,102,178.40. However, the commission approved an increase in revenue of only $622,136, which is slightly more than half that which the company sought.

In reporting its findings the commission said:

"The rates and charges currently in force by Petitioner do not provide a just and reasonable return on the fair value of the property devoted to public use and it appears that Petitioner's earnings will be insufficient to provide a just and reasonable return and an adjustment should be authorized to establish a fair return on the fair value of the property dedicated to public use.

"A fair and just rate of return would be a six percent return on the fair value of its property actually used and useful for the convenience of the public in rendering telephone service to its subscribers, which the Commission now finds to be $15,000,000 which amount will be used as a rate base in these proceedings. In arriving at the above rate base due allowance has been given to telephone plant under construction, materials and supplies as shown by inventory and one month's operating expenses less depreciation and taxes as working capital and other considerations."

The Commission authorized 4.05 percent depreciation, while the company has been taking a depreciation of 4.91 percent. The petitioners are also to pay for the expense of the hearings, which amounted to $1,885.21.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Up To His Neck

Out It Goes . . .

The Indiana Public Service Commission has granted partial increases in rates requested by the Indiana Associated Telephone Corp. This is the second increase in recent years granted the company, and the local increases this time run up to 60 %.

It is interesting to note that a few exchanges were not given raises because of "inadequate service." What is involved in those two words isn't known to us. But it would seem that equipment would have some bearing on the service. If so, the Commission didn't investigate St. Joe thoroughly to find the crank boxes and dangling batteries and wires for which St. Joe business men are compelled to pay $6.00 per month base rate—compelled, that is, if they want telephones for their business needs.

Of course, they have the privilege of taking out their phones.

—And that privilege we will exercise. Until further notice there will be no telephone at the News Office.

BETA NEWS

Six members of the local Beta Club, Pat Akey, Ruth Brace, Margery Hollabaugh, Nancy Vendrely, Alfred Paschen and Bill Wilder, and two chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Jaffre, attended the Kentucky-Indiana-Ohio Beta Club Convention held at the Brown Hotel in Louisville, Ky., over the week-end of Dec. 1-3.

The club was running Margery as a candidate for Tri-State president.

Friday evening at the first general session, Nancy gave the Invocation. Several talent skits were given by different clubs concerning the Beta Club and democracy. The theme of the Convention was "Zeal For Democracy." Introduction of the candidates followed and Ruth, acting as campaign manager for Margery, gave a short speech in her favor. This was followed by more campaign speeches from other managers.

Saturday morning the officers attended conferences and gathered some new and useful information to be used in the club work. Election of officers was held Saturday afternoon. Each candidate was required to make a short speech before election. Margery was "right up there" all the time in the election, but a boy from Kentucky came out on top. The club was sorry she lost but it had a lot of fun campaigning anyhow.

Saturday night the convention came to a close with a formal dance and a banquet.

There were 400 students and teachers attending the convention. The members from Spencerville all had a wonderful time and are looking forward to going again next year.

Several "Beta's" got together Friday morning and cleaned the trophy case. Anything so significant as a trophy should be kept "spic and span."

WHAT IS "THE THING?"

Everyone has been asking that question lately. Here is what some of the students think.

Pat Akey—"Something that I can't fight."

Art Warner—"History."

Harvey Lahr-"The Widow's Weed."

Carolyn Kimes—"Dale Butler."

Cleo Gerig—"A time bomb."

Mr. Long—"Dale would be a pretty good guess."

Jack Haas—"Luella Parsons or Eleanor Roosevelt."

Ed Hook—"A combination of Madolyn Reid and Pat Akey."

Madolyn Reid—"Something conceited like Ed Hook."

Mrs. Zeigler—"It probably isn't as bad as it sounds."

Dale Butler-"Truman on a cruise."

Shirley Crothers—A good case of 'epizoodics'." (? ? ?)

Jim Long—"A 'thing' that shouldn't be talked about."

Midge Hollabaugh—"It's bigger than both of us. Why fight it?"

Nancy Vendrely—"Sidney Greenstreet in a bathing suit."

LOVE 'N STUFF (mostly stuff)

Eddie Hook is sporting an Ashley class ring with the initials D.C. (short for Dixie Castleman). Hmmmm. Tell us more, Ed.

We wonder if Bud Vendrely ran into a fence. He had to to get that scratched face someway or another. Did Pat have anything to do with it, Bud?

Dorothy Nusbaum, who is this Otto Molar from Central. We are all very curious.

Why did James Shilling fall down in conduct? Did Ruth have anything to do with it, James? ?

Wade Fry and Cleo Gerig make a real cute couple at the ball games.

Who is the St. Joe lad that Barbara S. has her eye on?

Who is "anonymous" who has been paying quite a bit of attention to Madolyn Reid? Is that the same one that has been writing all this flowery poetry for you, Maddie??

If Dale Butler isn't writing to one girl, it's another. For a while it was someone from Kentucky. Now it seems to be a certain Jane Aur from Butler. Do they answer your letters, Dale? And what's this we hear about your getting suddenly interested in Jo Pratt from Ft. Wayne South Side? It must be nice! !

Shirley Crothers is busy writing to someone in the service. Who is it, Shirley? Anyone we know?

We wonder how Maxine Hoover's party turned out. Did you have fun, Maddie and Senie???

Who is this "Peaches" that "you all" were talking about, Nancy Vendrely???

Drudgery has been banished from Indiana farms! And, at the risk of sounding immodest, we must frankly admit electricity is the reason.

We have been working collectively on the big job of rural electrification for more than a quarter of a century. Through unceasing effort most of the problems of providing electricity to Indiana farms and developing ways for the farmer to benefit economically from it have been gradually overcome. The electric companies of Indiana long pioneered rural electrification in our State, by (1) helping manufacturers to create time and labor-saving electric equipment for the farm, (2) by financing experiments at Purdue University to develop more and better ways for electricity to economically serve the farmer (still being done), (3) through educational and promotional activities of the companies to acquaint the farmer with the miracles electricity can perform for him, and through many other ways too numerous to mention.

Today, over 98% of Indiana's farms produce more, in less time, with less effort, because of modern electric service. No wonder, to Indiana farmers especially, the big $500 million expansion program of Indiana's electric companies is very good news. It means that, in the future, as in the past, there will be dependable electric power on the farm—for all of the more than 300 uses to which modern farmers are putting it today!

Raiders Whip Tigers

With Alf Paschen and John Leonard controlling the back boards in the first half and Ed Hook hitting in the final half, the Spencerville Red Raiders rolled over an outclassed St. Joe five by the score of 67-34 last Wednesday at the Spencerville gym.

It was evident that the Tigers had lost their "edge" gained in the Hicksville game because of a two-week period of rest between games. They lost the ball frequently in the game on their own bad passing and ball handling.

Spencerville led 16-9 at the first quarter and 28-17 at the half due to the rebounding of Leonard and Paschen, tallying 13 and 17 points, respectively, before the evening was over.

Tharp held Hook, DeKalb County's leading scorer, to but three points in the first half as Eddie couldn't get the range. But the percentages caught up with him in the last half and he poured in 15 points.

The third quarter score was 45-27.

Bob Richmond led the St. Joe scoring with 12 points, followed by Jerry Keener, who is developing into somewhat of a sharpshooter with both left and right-handed shots, with 10 points.

Ney Noses Locals

St. Joe travelled to Ney, O., Tuesday evening and dropped another close game after holding a 23-20 half time lead. The final score was 49-47.

Playing on a small floor hindered the Tigers as they couldn't completely solve the zone defense set up by the Ney five.

Bob Richmond carried the brunt of the first half scoring getting 16 of his total of 23 in the first half.

Walters tallied 13 points, ten of which came in the last quarter.

The game was lost again at the foul lane as St. Joe made but 9 of 20 free-throw attempts.

Winning Every Day

Lesson for December 17, 1950

SCRIPTURE: II Corinthians 11:16-33; 12:7-10; Philippians 3:4-11; II Timothy 4; James 1:2-4.
DEVOTIONAL READING: II Timothy 4:1-8.

THE idea that religion is the opiate of the people has been circulated only by those who know nothing about religion from the inside. The Christian religion is no kind of drug. You may hunt through the New Testament from end to end and find not a single expression reminding you of a drug store. What you do find, over and over again, is the idea that this life, for the Christian, is a fight, a race, a grueling test run. What Christianity offers (among other things) is power: power to run the race, to stand the test, to win the fight.

Dr. Foreman

Paul Knew How It Was

THE Christian life is a fight . . . but not a losing fight. Countless Christians have proved it by living it. We can pass up the number one example, Jesus himself, because some people might say that he had access to some source of power that ordinary men do not have.

Look, if you please, at Paul of Tarsus. There was a man who looked trouble in the eye many a day. In fact, there never was a single day when troubles left him free and easy.

Whatever we may say about Jesus, Paul certainly had no special "pipeline to heaven" which any other Christian might not have. Yet he lived, so to speak, on top of his troubles, not down under them. Even now, centuries later, Paul's struggles are still an asset for every Christian; each one of us can say, "Well, if Paul made it, I can."

On Many Fronts

AT the end of Paul's life he wrote those famous words, "I have fought a good fight." Our Scripture brings that statement down to cases. What was Paul's fight?

To his Corinthian friends he tosses off a rather hair-raising list of adventures, disasters and calamities through which he had passed. We don't need details. Just to name them is enough: famine, robbers, beatings, jail sentences, riots, three different shipwrecks . . . What a life! But Paul rode these things; they did not ride him.

Or again, there was his "thorn in the flesh." Nobody knows certainly what that was; but it was no doubt some kind of physical ailment or pain, and it did not go away. Pain is often far harder to stand than some exciting experience like a shipwreck. In the face of pain such as Paul suffered, one cannot fight back. All one can do is to take it. Yet Paul lived through this, too. It was part of his "good fight."

To the Philippians, again, he reports another sort of victory, though he makes no boast about it. He had conquered his besetting sin of conceit and pride. Paul was by no means a naturally humble man. Yet when a man can write as he does in Phil. 3:4-11, it is plain that he had crushed pride down and out. Perhaps Paul, like many another man, had found that his worst enemy was himself, his worse self.

In the second letter to Timothy, written at the end of his life, he tells of still other kinds of things that cost him a struggle—friends abandoning him, a trial that went against him. Yet these too he had not simply endured but conquered.

Available Victory

TWO thoughts come to us from all of this.

One is, that it takes a fight to make a man. That is to say if Paul had had a perfectly easy life, he would never have been the grand character we know. For him, and for many a Christian since, reverses, disappointments, suffering and pain, tragedy, sorrow and mistakes will contribute to creative spiritual experiences if these are met in the Christian way.

And that leads to the other thought: The Christian way to power, the Christian secret of living a winning life every day, is today exactly the same as when Paul said it was: the strength of God, "made perfect in weakness." The Christian never becomes God; but God's grace and power can live in the Christian.

It is not the Christian who lives the victorious life, after all; left to ourselves we should bog down. But God be thanked, he does not leave us to ourselves! It is not we who win, but He in us. This does not excuse us from the fight; God lives not in the lazy but in the loyal.

Letters to the Editor

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 6, 1950

St. Joe News

Dear Sir:

Please find enclosed check $1.50 for a years subscription to the St. Joe News. My reading is quite limited yet since my nerves and eyes have not fully recovered from the severe stroke I had four years ago last July. But I am very thankful I am able to get about and do as much as I can. I keep hoping and trusting that "The Great Physician" will restore me to better health soon. We have been getting along alone since Andrew was retired in July 1949.

We are having a little spell of winter now with quite a little snow and quite cold, only 3 above yesterday morning.

I don't think it can be a very Merry Christmas for any of us with the war situation like it is over in Korea and the tense situation over the whole world. Instead of a White Christmas is looks like a red Christmas with our boys so valiantly fighting and shedding their blood to save our country but so outnumbered by the red communists.

It has been almost 40 years since I left St. Joe and there has been many changes in so long a time but I still keep a warm spot in my heart for the old home town.

Best wishes to all.

Sincerely,
Mrs. A. G. Johnson

With the Editor

Take a look at your name stamped on this paper or on the wrapper the paper was mailed in. See those numbers next to it? That's the expiration date of your subscription. F'rinstance, if it reads "John Doe 6-51," John Doe's subscription is paid to June of 1951. Or, if it reads "John Doe 11-46" —tsk! tsk! tsk! ! !

All the dates should be O.K. now. Lew Walter came in a week ago Saturday afternoon and helped me get rid of that stack of renewals and new subscriptions I mentioned last month. So, if you've got a receipt that shows you're paid up for more than we gave you credit, let me know.

Saturday afternoon after all the selling was over and done with at the auction sale, I stopped in at the Shamrock and some little boy came in right on my heels — no, not one of my kids. The place was in a state of semi-confusion, what with merchandise being removed and people milling about and settling their accounts. Naturally, he got in the way, so Mr. Howard asked him to leave. The boy asked, "Can't I buy anything here?"

"No, everything is sold."

"Aw, I wanted to get my mom something for Christmas."

—It isn't the gift, it's the spirit.

Gerald Means was trying to talk Don Yeiser into going ice fishing Wednesday morning. He had caught five the day before—about so long—(maybe one inch of fish for each degree the thermometer registered below freezing).

I've never been ice fishing. It seems like a pretty cold proposition to me. But, according to Gerald, you don't get cold if you move around a bit—cut holes in the ice, bait your hook, etc. That "etc." must mean "walk around the lake" because I heard him make that remark later.

I think I'll just go on fishing for winter fish from the deep-freeze in the grocery.

Tigers Drop Another Close One, 39-38

The St. Joe Tigers' basketball machine sputtered in the last quarter Friday evening and couldn't stop the Hamilton Marines as the Steuben outfit nosed out a 39-38 win.

Coach Jimmy Tatlock's boys were out in front nearly all the way, holding quarter margins of 12-7, 21-20 and 36-27 but the Hamilton surge cost the Tigers numerous fouls and five St. Joe boys finished with four personals charged against them.

The Marines put a cap on the St. Joe basket in the final frame and only two free throws registered for the losers. The Tigers had three chances at the free throw line and five shots from the field after Hamilton shot into the lead but missed them all. St. Joe missed 11 free throws throughout the game.

Hamilton's double pivot paid off, with Howard bagging 17 points, seven of them from the free throw line.

The summary:

Hamilton	G.	F.	T.	St. Joe	G.	F.	T.
Howard	5	7	17	Tharp	0	1	1

Champ'n	1	1	3	Richm'nd	6	4	16
Totals	13	13	39	L. DeLong	1	0	2

Preliminary Score—Hamilton 47-34.

PICKLES WIN TWO

Sechlers Pickles basketball five won their ninth and tenth victories of the current season over the weekend. They topped a Huntertown five 64-50 Saturday night at Butler.

On Sunday afternoon at the Butler gym the Garrett Merchants were given a good thumping, 94-38.

Frank Clark was high point man for the locals on both occasions with 14 and 22 points. Jim Kinsey picked up 41 Sunday afternoon.

'51 County Fair In August

The dates for the DeKalb free fall fair in Auburn were set Thursday night for late summer in 1951. Members of the county fair association voted to hold the event the last week in August.

Approximately 30 members of the free fall fair association met Thursday night in the assembly room of the court house in Auburn at a special meeting called by President L. E. Freeman of East of Auburn.

Following a lengthy discussion, members of the fair board voted to open the 1951 edition on Tuesday, Aug. 28. The five-day event will close Saturday night, Sept. 1.

The change in the fair date, was a concession to the hundreds of DeKalb 4-H club boys and girls who show exhibits at the fair and to the school children of the county. The fairs normally have been held in September and sometimes have been held early in October.

Many 4-H leaders have urged for the past several years that the fair date be moved ahead of the opening of the Indiana State Fair at Indianapolis. There has also been pressure to hold the fair when school children will be able to attend during the daytime. It has been the custom to set aside the one day for the children on Friday of fair week and to dismiss the schools.

The change in the fair date is expected to result in increased activities at the fair for social children and in 4-H clubs.

A special board meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 26 to study the concession program for the fair next year.

FDIC Awarded Judgement

A summary judgment against Andrew J. Miller, Leo hatchery owner, for $26,313.12 has been granted the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. by Judge Luther M. Swygert in Federal Court in Hammond.

The court ruling states that this action is for money that Miller, the defendant, received, and the sum, in its entirety, is due and unpaid. The court ruling orders Miller to pay the amount of the judgment, with interest, from Oct. 9, 1949, together with court costs.

Miller, who was sentenced in Fort Wayne August 18 to serve three years, concurrently, on each of six counts of aiding and abetting in the Spencerville bank fraud, is one of the four to be sued by the FDIC. This is the first of the court's decisions in the motions for judgments.

Something for Love

Lesson for December 24, 1950

SCRIPTURE: Luke 2:1-20; Philippians 4:4-7.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Matthew 2: 1-15.

THIS is a true story but it also is a parable for Christmas.

Once upon a time there lived a lady who had everything. As Christmas time came on, her many friends racked their brains to think what they could give her. It would have been absurd to send her a check, for though she was not rich she did not really need money. There was nothing to speak of that she seemed to need for her house, for she had lived in one place for some time and she had collected about all the furniture and bric-a-brac that her house would hold. There was not much use in giving her something like candy because she was on a diet and could not eat fancy foods. She had more pictures than she could hang at one time, and as for books, she had a taste above best-sellers and what she could not get from the public library she could buy for herself.

Dr. Foreman

A Lovable Person

HOWEVER, her friends were determined to give her something, for she was a lovable person; so when Christmas time came her table was piled with gay parcels from near and far. Some of the gifts may have been expensive and some not, but all were beautiful.

So she appreciated them, but because she could have bought any of them herself, she did not appreciate any of them quite so much as she did one present that when Christmas morning came could not be seen at all. One could not call it a beautiful present to look at; indeed it was seen only once. But the memory of it lingered for a long time.

This lady had a cook. She was not a very good cook when first she went to work, because she was young and no one had trained her and she did not like to be trained. She was suspicious of any one who tried to show her how to do anything, and she bore a grudge against any one who had more in this world than she had. But the lady was patient, and the girl learned about a home from her; indeed the most and the best she learned was not about cooking at all, as you shall see.

The Invisible Gift

ON the day before Christmas the girl went home early to spend the day with her family. But before dark on Christmas day, in the same hour the kitchen stove went out of order and visitors came to spend the night, and the lady fell ill. Not knowing what to do, she called up the girl, Christmas though it was, and asked her if she could come back and help out for a few hours to get things straight.

So the girl came and made the stove behave and cooked a meal and took care of her friend and made everything as it should be on that day. When it was late and time to go, the lady offered the girl more than her usual pay. But the girl would not take even one coin. She said to her friend: "I like to do something for love."

So when the presents lay opened, on the very top of the pile, visible to the inward eye alone, were the hours of work given because the giver wanted to do something for love.

The True Gift

GIFTS that are sold in the stores, gifts that crowd the post offices, carloads of gifts that pass each other in the night on roaring wheels, the little gifts and the great: which of these are given for love?

Some are sent to return a favor; some because it is the thing to be done; some are sent out of old habit, or in hope of favors to come. Where is the true Christmas gift?

It can never be seen, for it cannot be sold in the stores and the post office does not know the rates on it. It comes silently, and sometimes only the giver and God know about it, and the one who receives it does not suspect. But it shines above all the tinsel and the stars upon the Christmas tree; when the lights are out it glows in the dark. It keeps the night bright for the lonely heart. It is the something done for love.

That is what Christmas means. On the first Christmas Eve, Mary the blessed Mother, was in pain, but it was pain borne in love. You could not have paid her for it. Yes, and the Child that lay in the manger that night was there because God wanted to do something—for love.

WATCH OUT FOR FOG HAZARDS

The best defense motorists have against fog is to stay home. But the Chicago Motor Club says that the following precautions will help reduce the hazard for those who must drive in 'soup'.

Use dim lights. The brights shoot straight ahead into the wall of fog without piercing it. Instead they are reflected back into the drivers eyes. Dim lights will give better illumination because the beams are directed down to the road. The best is that given by fog lights.

A blast of the horn at frequent intervals says Chas. M. Hayes, club president, helps warn other motorists of your presence. In fog-bound areas where the effectiveness of the sense of sight is so reduced, use of the horn is invaluable as a means of alerting approaching motorists.

A car should not try to pass another in fog. But when this is unavoidable, such as in meeting a stalled vehicle, a warning blast should be sounded on the horn. This is preferred to the ordinary night driving device of flashing headlights.

The motor club saves its most important advice till last. And that this is, to avoid the two extremes: too much speed and a sudden stop. When driving in fog, a driver will find that obstacles loom up immediately ahead of the car. If he is driving at 35 miles per hour it will not be possible for his reactions to cope with the danger in the fragment of a second available.

The motorist also invites trouble by stopping on the highway in a fog. If he is fearful of the fog or has lost his way, he should keep moving even though at a very slow pace.

Around the Town

With the Editor

There were 120 St. Joe, Spencerville and Ft. Wayne basketball fans in the "F" and "G" sections of North Side gym in Ft. Wayne last Thursday cheering for Pickles—and one of 'em was lucky. Jack Hollabaugh won a chicken during half-time intermission of the Piston game. Several turkeys, chickens, a live duck and a live goose were given at that time.

For a few minutes in the last quarter I thought Sechler's were going to lose, but they kept possession of the ball the last minute and stayed ahead.

—They HAD to win, or there might have been two ticket sellers run out of St. Joe by 120 ticket buyers.

During the Piston game a couple of players got into a tangle for the ball—it looked like Boag Johnson and Dolph Shayes to me—and Freddie Schaus jumped between them, pushing Shayes away. Evidently Noble Jorgensen thought Freddie was going after Dolph so he grabbed Freddie around the neck from behind. A couple of guys in about the third row couldn't take it any more (someone said they were Piston softball players) and they jumped from their seats onto the group of players. Then the "fun" began. It lasted for a half minute and everything was peaceful again.

The Pistons really had a good defense in the last half. Syracuse just couldn't work the ball in under the basket. The few times they did, the ball rolled off the hoop. It did the same for Pickles in the first game. That south basket must be tilted.

Ed Storer, our postmaster, confessed to me last week that he had been wearing that loud jacket at home for some time before he finally got enough nerve to wear it in public.

Well, it's just about time, with the zero and below weather, that we hear from one of the Hart's in Florida or the Moore family in Arizona telling of the nice warm weather, the flowers in bloom, etc., and all other kind of stuff like that there. I'll bet when they write back to the "good (c)old Hoosier state," they chuckle and gloat-gloat-gloat.

Flowers — seventy degrees temperature — sunshine — phooey. I'm c-c-c-c-cold.

Mrs Nancy Loretta Hull Passes Away

Mrs. Nancy Loretta Hull, a resident nearly all her life of the St. Joe community, died at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, December 17, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lora Leighty, of 302 West Seventh Street, Auburn.

The elderly woman had observed her 87th birthday recently. She was the widow of the late John C. Hull, who operated a barber shop at Auburn Junction nearly 70 years ago and later was a barber at St. Joe for over 50 years.

Her death was attributed to senility and complications. In poor health for the past few years, she was bedfast for 10 days preceding her death. Fourteen months ago, she and her daughter moved from St. Joe to Auburn.

Final rites were conducted at the Gerig Funeral Home on Wednesday of last week. The Rev. C. C. Collins, pastor of the Auburn Methodist Church, of which Mrs. Hull was a member, officiated at the services. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery in St. Joe.

A native of Camden, Mich., Mrs. Hull was born Dec. 12, 1863. She was married to Mr. Hull Feb. 27, 1884, at Spencerville. He preceded her in death 12 years ago. She was also preceded in death by a son, Merritt, who died in 1932 and a brother, J. O. Quance, of Ft. Wayne, formerly of Auburn, who died 21 years ago.

Surviving besides the daughter in Auburn is a sister, Mrs. Ida Walker, of South Bend. Included among the other survivors are two nephews, William Quance of Auburn and Fred Quance of Orlando, Fla., formerly of Auburn, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Hull, of Helena, O. Mrs. Hull assisted in the care of her mother-in-law during her last illness.

Final Rites For Zona Abel

Final rites for a 71-year-old retired school teacher, Mrs. Zona Abel, who was found dead Friday in the kitchen of her home south of Spencerville, were conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The services were held in the Walter Funeral Home in Spencerville. Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the Lutheran Church there, officiated at the services, with burial in White City Cemetery at Spencerville.

The DeKalb County coroner, Dr. C. B. Hathaway of Butler, said the elderly school teacher is believed to have died of a heart attack some time Thursday morning.

She had lived alone on her farm two and a half miles south of Spencerville since the death of her husband, Ross Abel, several years ago.

Her body was discovered lying on the floor in the kitchen of her home by her rural mail carrier, William Erick, of Spencerville. Mr. Erick reported that because of the condition of the roads and Mrs. Abel's health, he had driven up the lane to her home to deliver a Christmas package and her mail to her door Thursday morning. He said he left the mail on the back porch but did not attempt to call Mrs. Abel. Her radio was playing at the time.

About 11 a.m. Friday, when he again delivered the mail to her back porch, he noticed that she had not picked up the previous day's mail. He then knocked on the kitchen door and saw Mrs. Abel's body lying on the floor.

He summoned neighbors who called her physician. The physician and coroner said she apparently had died some time Thursday morning. She had baked Christmas cookies Thursday and she had started to cook her noonday meal when she collapsed. The electric kitchen range was burning when her body was found and had burned through a cooking utensil. The radio was still playing.

The physician reported that she had suffered from a heart ailment for the past six years.

A native of Spencer Township, she was born on the farm where she died. She was a school teacher for 18 years, including several years in the schools at Spencerville. She was a member of the Lutheran Church at Spencerville.

She has no immediate survivors.

TWO 4-H MEMBERS IN DEKALB COUNTY AWARDED PRIZES

Two DeKalb County 4-H members are listed among the approximately 400 winners in the 1950 Indiana 4-H Farm and Home Electric project, Ernest J. Lesiuk, county agent, has announced.

The DeKalb County winners are Van Lee Smith, Fairfield Township youth, and Miss Mary Wilder of Spencer Township.

The Smith youth a resident of near Ashley, was awarded a soldering iron. Miss Wilder, who lives near St. Joe, was awarded a hair dryer.

The pair qualified for competition in the state contest on the basis of awards won in the better methods division in 4-H contests at the last DeKalb free fall fair in Auburn. Miss Wilder was a first place winner while Smith placed second.

The project which is one of the newer ones is designed to develop active interest in electrical methods and equipment used on farms and in homes, and to determine and construct practical improvements for more profitable and enjoyable farm life. Those enrolled also acquire a working knowledge and skill in the most effective and profitable utilization of electricity on the farm and in the home, according to John Banning of the state 4-H club office at Purdue University. He served as director of the electric project.

The sponsor of the project is the Indiana Electric Association. Winners in the advanced division have their choice of a table model radio, single phase 1-3 HP capacitor type electric motor, electric hand drill, 10-inch oscillating electric fan, electric sheet or two-slice automatic electric bread toaster.

The choice of awards in the beginning division included the following electric equipment: 10-inch oscillating fan, hair dryer, 10-watt soldering iron, alarm clock, 150-watt pin-up lamp and 50-foot trouble light extension cord.

DEKALB ROADSIDE COUNCIL TO ELECT FOUR DIRECTORS

Mrs. Clyde Husselman, DeKalb County president of Indiana Roadside Council, Inc., announces that at this meeting four directors will be elected for a term of one year. Directors will be chosen from the voting delegates from affiliated organizations. A recording secretary will be elected at this meeting for a term of one year. No officer or director is to serve more than two consecutive terms in the same office.

Indiana Roadside Council, Inc., was recently organized in DeKalb County. The membership is a very representative one which consists of two voting representatives from any organization that cares to affiliate or any person that is interested may also join.

Dues are $1.00 for any organization and 50c for an individual. Many organizations have already affiliated and more are anticipated. Dues are to be sent to the treasurer, Mrs. Wayland Mutzfeld, of Butler. Delegates names and addresses should accompany payment of dues.

Six public meetings will be held during the year, January 23, March, May, July, September and November. (Dates will be announced later.)

Windy Day For Marksmen

Twenty-one shooters braved the high wind and cold to shoot at the St. Joe Valley Conservation Club grounds Sunday.

Everyone had a good time and seemed to be enjoying themselves to the limit with the possible exception of the "pullers" — "Mutt" complained that his west ear got cold. The new club house has a few cracks in it and the wind did seep in a bit, but it was fairly comfortable inside. A little seam caulking will make it better.

Shooters were present from Hicksville, Defiance, Paulding and Convoy, Ohio, Ft. Wayne, Auburn and Garrett as well as members from St. Joe and Butler. Several spectators were present who did not shoot.

The high wind made the targets erratic as any ringneck that ever flew and the scores were—well, read 'em.

Tigers Win

St. Joe won its second victory of the season last Wednesday evening at the local gym, dropping Scott Center, 54-40.

The Tigers were able to keep the game under their control although they lost Dickman, Tharp and Walters on fouls. Dickman couldn't seem to do anything right as the referees tooted him out on five fouls, all in a few minutes of the second period.

The second team also won its game 46-21.

Pickles Take Two

Sechler's Pickles won their game last Thursday against Defiance in the Zollner tourney at Ft. Wayne. The score was 46-44.

Pickles jumped to an early lead and held it until the last quarter. Defiance kept plugging away and went ahead with just a few minutes to go. St. Joe rallied to lead 46-44 & stalled the last minute of the game by taking the ball out of bounds on Defiance's futile fouling as they attempted to gain possession of the ball.

AG&E research has developed the highest-voltage lines in America. Here's how this enterprise will benefit our customers.

Seven-league boots for Power

You may have heard about the super-high-voltage lines that are being built on the American Gas and Electric System, about the many years of intensive research and development that preceded them.

Over these lines electric power will be sent from power plants at voltages never before put to commercial use in this or any other country.

What's it all about? What does it all mean to you?

It means that more power can be sent over a single line that's less costly to build and maintain than the several lower-voltage lines that would be needed.

And it means that electricity can be economically transmitted over longer distances. Most of the plants in the system are located close to the mines that provide the coal they burn. With the new 315,000-volt lines, the economies of mine-area generation will be extended over greater distances.

The first 63-mile stretch of 315,000-volt "super highway" will soon be in service. More lines like it will follow. Because this company and its six AG&E affiliates are interconnected, the benefits will be felt throughout the whole seven-state area the system serves. They will create savings that will absorb some part of the rising cost of everything that goes into making power. They will make more power available to more of America at a time when America needs it most.

Center of Life

Lesson for December 31, 1950

SCRIPTURE: John 15:1-10; Galatians 2:20, Philippians 3:8-16.
DEVOTIONAL READING: John 15: 1-12.

HOW does a Christian grow? During the past three months this has been our underlying question. Now at the year's end we come back to the point where we began: to Jesus Christ. When all is said and done, the best way to describe a Christian's life is not "religious" or "spiritual" or even "godly," much less "pious." The best way to describe it is to put the fullest possible meaning into the single word "CHRISTIAN."

Dr. Foreman

"I Have Been Captured"

IN your hymnal you may find a hymn by the author of the better-known "O Love that wilt not let me go." It begins with these lines:

"Make me a captive, Lord,
And then I shall be free . . ."

That sounds upside-down. Captive and free are opposites, aren't they? Not when God is the captor! The American translation of Phil. 3:12 says, "I have been captured by Jesus Christ." Paul's word was a strong one; it was the Greek word used when police or soldiers take a man and tie him and lead him off.

People who have gone far in music would understand this. Take two young people, both of whom know something about music, maybe both of them in the same music school. One of them has been captured, so to speak, by music, the other has not. That is to say, in plainer language, music has "got hold" of one of them. There is an irresistible fascination about music for him, every day is too short for the study and practice he wants to do. The other one goes through his lessons, but his heart is not in it.

We need no prophet to tell us which of the two will make a good musician. So it is with the Christian faith. One who has never been captured by Christ may play around with the Christian faith, as the uncaptured music student may play around the music school; but his heart will not be in it.

Name any saint you like in the whole history of Christendom, whether famous like St. Francis or Ballington Booth, or known only to a few, like one of your own family perhaps; you always find that this person, whose Christianity was a living and powerful thing, called Christ Master, and meant it.

"Christ Lives in Me"

THERE is a more intimate way of putting this. It is true, the Christian has been "captured" by Christ. But this would still leave him on the outside. Christ lives in the Christian, as Paul said. For some people this may seem strange and mystical, but it can be understood by any one who wants to know what Christian living can mean.

Christ in the Christian means that in every situation, in every condition, at every turn of the road, in the everyday choices and conversations, the Christian will be as much like Christ as he possibly can. This is one point on which Christians of every name and church agree. Catholic or Protestant, conservative or liberal, our differences evaporate when our hearts are warm, when we try to think what the ideal Christian life is.

High-level Christians from all over Christendom would all come out with the same story that Paul put into classic words: I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me.

"Abide"

"ABIDE in me and I in you," said Jesus. That is a command and a promise. But the command comes first. Whether we think of the Christian as "in" Christ or Christ as "in" the Christian, it should be a long story, not a short one. Is the sunshine in the flower or the flower in the sunshine? Well, both. Put the flower in the sunshine and keep it there, and the sunshine will get into the flower. The sun makes the flower, not the flower the sun. Yet unless the flower stays in the sunshine, the sun can do nothing for it.

Christ never yet battered his way into any one's life. To know him as an occasional visitor is doubtless better than never knowing him at all. But friendship is far better than acquaintance, and to know him best one must know him always.

But the welcoming heart has him always for a guest. What 1951 will bring, no man can tell; but no friend of Christ will be afraid.

JUDGMENT OF ONLY $100 IN $5,000 SUIT

A jury of 11 men and a woman deliberated for five and a half hours Thursday night before awarding a Spencerville man and his wife $100 on their $5,000 suit for damages filed against the estate of the late Albert Beerbower.

Plaintiffs in the action were Roscoe C. Garman and his wife, Eva M. Garman, of Spencerville.

The jury's verdict was read in open court at 9:05 p.m. Thursday by the foreman, Russell Hamman, of Franklin Township. The case was turned over to the jurors at 3:37 p.m.

The plaintiffs sought the $5,000 for alleged damages when they claimed they were denied possession of a farm purchased from the late Mr. Beerbower. They charged they were denied possession from May 29, 1947, to Jan. 1, 1948. They presented evidence they were damaged between $700 and $1,500.

Earlier, in another action, the plaintiffs were awarded $500 damages and immediate possession of the farm. They were awarded the damages in the DeKalb circuit court and later in an appeal to the appellate court the decision in the court at Auburn was upheld.

Special Judge William H. Husselman presided at the two day trial.

"Whitey" Heller of Sechlers, who scored a total of 40 points in the tourney, won the most valuable player award. Pearson of Ronnie's won the good sportsmanship trophy and Sechler's copped the championship trophy.

Consistent, well-balanced scoring helped Pickles in both games they played. Pete Akey was the only one who didn't score in the double figures in the afternoon game, and he and Beck couldn't hit the two-figure mark in the second game, while their mates hit from 10 to 24 points each.

The consolation game went to Huntertown, 46-43, over the Hamilton All-Stars.

Father Kills Son, Self

A 56-year-old farmer and veteran of World War I, Chester T. (Chet) Harner of Rt. 3, Auburn, shot and fatally wounded his son, 21, early Saturday on the eve of the boy's return to army camp following a Christmas furlough at home, and then killed himself.

The son, Pvt. Thomas C. Harner, died at 11:08 a.m. Saturday in the Dr. Bonnell M. Souder hospital in Auburn less than three hours after his father fired a 22 caliber rifle slug into his head. The boy was shot while asleep in his upstairs bedroom.

The father, a farmer and former schoolteacher and employee of the Auburn post office, died several minutes after the shooting enroute to the hospital in the Gerig ambulance of Auburn.

Sheriff Frank Carpenter and Deputy Sheriff George A. Milks said the family reported that the elder Harner suffered a nervous breakdown ten years ago and had been periodically dependent since that time. The family said he had brooded over the return of his son to Fort Benning, Ga., where he was stationed with an infantry unit. The son enlisted in the service last Oct. 19.

The investigating officers also reported that the family stated that Mr. Harner had threatened suicide.

The DeKalb County coroner, Dr. Clayton B. Hathaway, returned a verdict of murder-suicide following an investigation with police and an Auburn physician who was called to the Harner home shortly after the tragedy.

Police said Mr. Harner slipped into the sleeping boy's bedroom and fired the rifle bullet into his right temple. Powder burns on the boy's forehead indicated that he was shot from close range.

The empty cartridge was found near the bed and another cartridge, which had misfired, was found nearby.

After shooting his son, the father returned downstairs, placed the rifle in a corner and picked up his .410 gauge shotgun.

Then he went to the basement of their home and blew off his own head.

The shooting occurred as the elder Harner's wife, Mabel, was outside and a daughter was asleep in a bedroom adjoining her brother's room.

The daughter, Jean, told police that she heard the gun reports but thought the sound came from her father splitting wood. Mrs. Harner, outside the house at the time, heard the shotgun report and hurried inside to find her husband dying at the foot of the basement steps.

She called to her daughter and told her to awaken Tom. Jean went to her brother's bedroom and found him shot.

The family summoned an Auburn physician, the sheriff and Forrest Gerig, a lifelong friend of the family.

A neighbor, Irvin H. Rieke, who resides across from the Harner home on state road 427, was the first person on the scene. He assisted the family until authorities arrived.

After placing the unconscious boy in the ambulance, authorities returned for the elder Harner, who was believed dead. Police said Mr. Harner had recovered from his sprawling position on the basement floor and was crawling on his hands and knees up the stairs.

He died before he reached the hospital. The charge from the shotgun entered beneath his chin and blew off one entire side of his face.

Mrs. Harner said she noticed nothing unusual in the behavior of her husband when they arose Saturday morning. However, a friend of the family disclosed that he had talked to the elder Harner Friday and told him he was coming over to "see Tom before he returned to camp." The friend said he thought the father's answer was strange. Harner reportedly said, "You needn't bother, he won't be home anyway."

The tragedy occurred about 8:15 a.m.

Double funeral services were conducted for the father and son on Tuesday in the Gerig Funeral Home in Auburn. Rev. Joseph Ferguson of east of Auburn, assisted by the Rev. Donald Eperetta, pastor of the Meese Chapel Church, officiated. Burial was in Cedar Chapel Cemetery.

Full military rites were conducted by Legionnaires of the American Legion of Auburn. The father was a former member of the post. The Legion color guard and firing squad conducted the services with Legionnaire pall bearers.

NEWVILLE WOMAN BURIED LAST WEEK

Mrs. Emma Baron, age 90, who had lived all her life in the community near Newville, was buried last Wednesday in the Evergreen Cemetery at Newville. Services were conducted at the Johnson Funeral Home in Butler with Rev. J. R. Shenault of St. Joe officiating.

Mrs. Baron passed away Christmas morning in the George Camp residence in Butler where she was being cared for. Complications of old age were the cause of her death. Mrs. Baron had been under treatment at the Camp residence for nearly two years and had been bed fast for the last few months.

The elderly woman had been ill for approximately seven years and had been in several convalescent homes during that time.

She was born in Defiance County, Ohio, September 26, 1860, the daughter of Peter and Elizabeth Countryman, both now deceased. Mrs. Camp was a widow.

Survivors include a son, Clarence Baron of Newville; two grandchildren and one great-grandchild; two brothers, Willis Countryman of Butler, O., and Ora Countryman of Monticello, Ind., and a sister, Mrs. Lillie Cover of Portland, Ore.

Mrs. Baron was a member of the Christian Church at Newville.

Tentative plans for organizing a club known as the St. Joe (Ind.) Athletic Club were made public this week and the first meeting date was set for January 11. Various activities for raising funds for the club treasury have been outlined and will be given in the coming months. The first and foremost project will be the installation of a lighted ball diamond at St. Joe.

The first meeting of the club will be on Thursday, January 11, at 8 p. m. at the local school. The purposes and activities of the club will be fully outlined and explained. Officers will be elected and installed at a later meeting.

Funds for the club's projects will be raised mainly through local activities.

Any and all persons interested in participating in the club's work are urged to attend the first meeting. The club's aim will be to provide recreation and entertainment facilities for the whole family, at the same time giving the younger set a much-needed outlet for its energies.

Jesus' New Year

Lesson for January 7, 1951

SCRIPTURE: Mark 1:1-30. DEVOTIONAL READING: Isaiah 42: 1-9.

THERE is no room in this one thin column for a commentary on the whole Sunday school lesson each week. If the reader is interested, as it is hoped he will be, he will first study the Bible passages themselves, with whatever aids his own denomination furnishes him. The Sunday school teacher or Bible student who wishes to do really thorough work will need a Bible Dictionary and at least a one-volume commentary on the entire Bible. (Dummelow's [Macmillan Co.] and the Abingdon Commentary [Abingdon Press] are among the best of these.) As a background for the studies of the next three months, the student should read one or more good "Lives" of Christ. Write to your own church bookstore for suggestions.

When Is New Year's Day?

EVERY day is a New Year's Day for somebody. The legal holiday that goes by that name seldom comes at a real turning-point in any one's life.

The real occasion is when some momentous change occurs, so that after that day life never flows in its old channels. In this sense, a very important New Year's Day for Jesus was the day when he was baptised in the Jordan river.

Before that day he lived as a carpenter in one village: after that day, as a public man, indeed THE public Man of all times. The pattern of his life completely changed.

Decisions

NEW YEAR'S is a good time to review three things: your decisions, your life's work, and your friendships.

Have you put off a decision for a long time? Now is the time to face it. Have you been making "unfortunate" decisions, choices you regret? Now is a good time to look into these and see why you have been taking the wrong road too often. Have you any bed-rock principle on which you base all your decisions? — Jesus' New Year was marked by certain decisions made once and for all.

To begin with, there was his baptism. One thing it surely meant: Jesus that day decided deliberately to be counted among those who need repentance rather than among those who think they don't. Not everybody came down to the Jordan to be baptized. Some came only to criticize. Jesus sided with the sinners, not the critics. It was a life-long decision. He became known as the "Friend of sinners."

There were also the further decisions in the wild country where he went through his temptations. Each temptation faced Jesus with a choice; each time his choice was on God's side.

Life's Work

THERE is a great thrill in getting out on the work, one is going to do for the rest of one's natural life. Out of the harbor traffic on to the open sea! Jesus now becomes a preacher, and this was his work for the rest of his life. His carpentry has long since mouldered to dust; his preaching and teaching are immortal.

But suppose Jesus had been a slipshod, inefficient, careless carpenter? Would he have ever become a great teacher and preacher? It is quite true, the products of his shop have vanished, but there was something taking shape in that shop which did not vanish: his character.

Your choice about your future and final life's work may still be in the future; your best work may not yet have been begun. But the way you do what you have to do, today, will help set the pattern for every choice and every work in your life.

Friendships

NEXT after Jesus' life-work came his choice of friends. No doubt he had known Simon and the others before, and Mark simply records in his abrupt way the climax of a long story, in telling how Jesus "called" them.

We cannot imagine Jesus without his disciples. It is not exaggeration to say that even the Son of God would have been a failure, as a man, had he won no friends. There would have been no Christian religion if Jesus had had no friends.

Around New Year's time it is well to ask oneself the question: Am I as careful in selecting my friends as Jesus was in selecting his?

GM Unveils Futuristic Test Car

An experiment in the automotive future is the low, sleek Le Sabre, a custom built sports car General Motors has unveiled in full-size model form. When completed this spring the actual car will be a "laboratory on wheels" to test advanced design and mechanical features for possible future use on production models. Only three-feet high at the cowl, the Le Sabre has a standard 6-inch ground clearance and ample passenger leg and head room. Magnesium and aluminum alloys are substituted for steel on the body and engine of the car, thereby greatly reducing its total weight. Harley J. Earl, GM vice president in charge of styling, shown with the car, said that it has been under development the past four years. The dramatic, sweeping lines of jet aircraft are incorporated in its styling theme.

General Motors, an eye cocked on the future, took the wraps off its "Le Sabre" last week, revealing the nearest thing yet to a jet plane on wheels.

"Swoo-oosh!" is about the best way to describe this three-foot high two-seater convertible that rivals in styling some of Buck Rogers' best.

Harley J. Earl, vice-president in charge of styling, said the car was purely experimental, custom-built "to find out whether some of our futuristic ideas would pay off on the road."

The model was revealed in full-size plaster form by the corporation's styling section.

Here are some of the ideas GM incorporated in the "Le Sabre," French for saber, or streamlined sword.

Engine: 10-to-1 compression ratio V-8 type, with supercharger, which runs on a mixture of premium gas and methyl alcohol. Expected horsepower is more than 300, twice that of the most powerful auto now on the market.

Rear end: twin tail fins in simulated jet style, which house aircraft type 20-gallon rubberized tanks for the two types of fuel.

Front end: sleek futuristic design to swing around two close-set headlights when the front lamps are turned on.

Construction: heat-treated magnesium and aluminum alloys replace conventional steel for a low 3,000 pounds of automobile. GM points out these metals are much too expensive for use in ordinary cars.

Size: body is 36½ inches high, and 50 inches with the convertible top raised. Wheelbase is 115 inches, overall length 200 inches. Overall width is 76½ inches. Ground clearance is six inches.

GM says the car, in developement four years, will be a "laboratory on wheels" for testing new ideas its mechanical experts and stylists dreamed up.

"This is the car of the future only in the sense that some of its designs or mechanical features may appear some day in standard motorcars," Earl said.

GM's preparations for the future include such features as flashing red lights on dashboard gauges to indicate danger points, a jack that can be operated without getting out of the car in case of a flat tire and electric seat warmers.

For convertible owners ever caught in the rain, here's what may be the most interesting feature.

"Le Sabre" has a sensitized spot between the seats which, if hit by rain, automatically starts mechanism that puts up the top and closes the windows.

THIRD OF JAILS IN INDIANA FOUND TO BE "INADEQUATE"

Growing needs of Indiana counties to replace or remodel outmoded institutions were stressed today by a report which classed one-third of the state's 88 county jails as "inadequate."

The Indiana Department of Public Welfare reported fire hazards, unsanitary conditions and lack of facilities to segregate inmates placed the structures in the inadequate class.

Completely new jails have been recommended for Delaware, Dearborn, Jackson, Floyd and Wayne counties, the report said. Steps to meet replacement of remodeling needs have been taken in Jennings, Jefferson, Clinton and Hancock counties, it added.

Other jails in the "inadequate" catagory are Bartholomew, Benton, Carroll, Clay, Dubois, Greene, Hamilton, LaGrange, Marshall, Montgomery, Morgan, Ohio, Parke, Perry, Posey, Ripley, Steuben, Starke, Union and Warrick.

An intermediate rating of fairly satisfactory has been placed on jails in Blackford, Brown, Cass, Daviess, Knox, Decatur, Fayette, Fountain, Gibson, Grant, Henry, Howard, Lawrence, Madison, Marion, Monroe, Owen, Putnam, St. Joseph, Tippecanoe, Vermillion, Wabash, Warren, Franklin, Jasper, Kosciusko, Pike, Randolph, Washington, Tipton, Shelby and Scott counties.

Jails listed as complying with basic essentials were Adams, Allen, Clark, DeKalb, Elkhart, Harrison, Jay, Lake, LaPorte, Newton, Noble, Porter, Rush, Spencer, Vanderburgh, Vigo, Wells, Huntington, Johnson and Miami.

Commissioners Have Busy Day

Monday, New Year's Day, marked a vacation for most people but the DeKalb County board of commissioners spent a busy day at the opening 1951 session.

The board organized for 1951 with the election of Frank Schuster of west of Waterloo as president. Ira Grogg, of southeast of LaOtto, president of the board last year, was named vice-president. The incoming commissioner, Claude Laub of near Spencerville, was selected as secretary. Mr. Laub replaces Lloyd Yeiser, who retired from the board of commissioners this year.

The commissioners at Monday's session also made 1951 appointments for the court house and county highway department. George Mountz was reappointed county attorney at a salary of $400 yearly.

The other appointments and the employee's monthly salary include: George Clouse, court house custodian, $150; Samuel Collins, night man at the court house, $140; William Gaulie, fireman, $130; William Welch, night fireman, $115; Dan Tomlinson, elevator operator, $100; Mrs. Rose Pulver, matron of the court house, $70; and Mrs. Samuel Collins, court house janitress, $25. All employees were reappointed.

The employees appointed to the county highway department and their monthly salaries include: Ray Zimmerman, county highway supervisor, $265; Elmer Johns, assistant supervisor, $240; Mrs. Ida Garman, department bookkeeper and secretary, $150 and Ira Casselman, highway department janitor, $150.

All the employees were reappointed with the excetion of Mr. Casselman who replaces John Speers.

Dr. E. E. Rogers of Auburn was reappointed as DeKalb County health commissioner.

Other business conducted by the commissioners Monday included approval of the bonds filed by county officials who took office Monday or started new terms.

...so some gentlemen wore dirty shirts!

During California's Gold Rush, a clean shirt was worth its weight in gold. Forty-niners gladly paid $1.50 to have a shirt washed . . . and waited four weeks for delivery!

Nowadays, you can wash two tubfuls of shirts — or anything else — for one penny. And in minutes! Easier washdays are just one of the many benefits of electric living.

Think about it for a moment. How many jobs has electricity helped you with during the past 24 hours? How many comforts, conveniences and pleasures has it made possible?

And yet your electric service is the biggest bargain in the average family budget. Its cost? Less than a pack of cigarettes a day! Sound business management of companies like this one made this value possible.

With then end of 1950 we have taken inventory not only of our stock of merchandise but also of what we have accomplished during the last year.

On the assets side we know that we have brought this community the lowest comparative price level that has existed here in years and that by so doing we have greatly increased our own sales volume. To us it seems very reasonable to assume that both the community and ourselves benefited as a result. When we refer to the community we mean to include the entire trading area about St. Joe and also all the other business places of the town as well. Certainly the other stores also benefit too for of all the extra people who now come into our store to trade, at least a few are by the law of averages bound to patronize the other stores. Also on the assets side we are glad to have been able to give a substantial price discount to all church, fraternal and social organizations on their purchases at our store. We have enjoyed being able to furnish a needed service in the community.

Now on the liability side we have made mistakes, of course—sometimes maybe not so much in what we did as in misjudging certain reactions to things which we did. We still think that considering the number of persons in this community who are employed at International Harvester as well as the general farmer acceptance of the I. H. C. brand that International Harvester refrigerators and freezers should be sold in St. Joe, but we sure didn't get much pleasure out of taking on the sale of them. Also on the liability side is the present undesirable condition as regards that part of our building generally known as the drug store. We got possession of this room Jan. 1 and will very soon have the business open. We hope to be able to meet the community's entire needs in the line generally known as package drugs and also to meet the needs of the young people for a gathering place with fountain and lunch service with both tables and chairs and booths. Until we accomplish this, however, the community and ourselves are both the losers on the change. We wonder, however, that if and when we do show that we have changed this business in a manner to much more meet the needs of the community whether or not those who now condemn us will still continue to do so. We hope not. However, at times during the past year we have been cynical enough to feel that certain businesses in this town would rather totally own a dying or standstill town than to share a live and progressive town with other merchants.

Anyhow, on Jan. 1 the ball was given to us and now we must make good. We have done what we thought both right and best and we have no apologies to offer.

Around the Town

With the Editor

If one of John Crothers' pet peeves isn't getting splashed by passing motorists on a wet day, it's a wonder. Last week during the rain and wet weather, he started across the main drag and saw a car approaching. He stepped back, but saw too late that he wasn't back far enough. WHOO-OSH! he got it. To top it off, the car had an insignia on it which indicated that it was a school driver-training car!

Later there was another car that barrelled through town scattering water clear out to the sidewalks. Maybe pedestrians better start carrying squirt guns for defense.

Of course, it's unfortunate that she's hoarse, but Barbara (The Croaker) Ridgway is good for a laugh if you just get her to talk. I went over to Dunten's for an ice cream bar or two Tuesday and there was Phil Smith just standing there listening to her talk—or try to.

Saturday night we were returning to St. Joe from Ft. Wayne. Mike and Dave had visited during the afternoon at their cousins' and Mike was telling us what they had received for Christmas.

Mike was saying, "—and Susie got a sled and a little piano."

"You got a little piano once, too, and broke it," I reminded him.

"But Davey helped me."

"I know, but you still got a piano."

"Oh, you shouldn't talk about that."

EGG SHOW BEING PLANNED IN DEKALB COUNTY THIS YEAR

The DeKalb County Poultry Improvement association has announced plans for an egg show to be conducted in connection with the poultry school this spring.

Plans were made at a meeting of the association in the council rooms of the city hall in Auburn. Elza Jordan of Richland Township is president of the association.

At the meeting in Auburn, a discussion was held on the reorganization of the association. Points discussed were whether such an organization should continue and if so, should it be reorganized to include the DeKalb County Home Economics poultry leaders as members of the board of directors. The decision was made that these leaders become members of such board and that the association should be reorganied to include interested flock owners ot not only chickens but geese, ducks and turkeys. Any flock owner in the county may become a member of this association.

The egg show will be judged on interior quality rather than exterior. Any family having chickens may enter the show with a dozen eggs. Home Economics poultry leaders are to encourage club members to show eggs at this show.

A meeting was set for January 29 at which time local Home Economics poultry leaders and other interested people will formulate a score card for the judging of the show. The meeting will be held at 1 o'clock in the court house assembly room. It was suggested that more prizes be offered and not such large ones to make the show more effective.

Leaders in attendance at the meeting in Auburn were Mrs. Mary Noel of Butler Township, Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick of Concord Township, Mrs. Bernice Miller of Newville Township, Mrs. Marie Christlieb of Union Township, Mrs. Mabel Kiser of Grant Township, Mrs. Vera Dickison of Butler Township, Mrs. Ada Farrington of Richland Township, Elza Jordan of Richland Township, Ernest J. Lesiuk, county agricultural agent, and Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent.

The committee extended a special invitation to interested poultrymen in the county to attend the meeting on January 29.

ABC Criticized In Beer Decision

A permanent injunction against the sale of beer and wine at St. Joe was issued by Judge Donald H. Hunter of the Steuben circuit court at Angola, Saturday.

In his official opinion, Judge Hunter verbally slapped the Indiana Alcoholic Beverage commission for its "arbitrary standard of measurement" in issuing the permit to McIntosh.

The decision by the judge of the Steuben-Lagrange circuit brought an end to a two and a half year battle that has raged in the courts between McIntosh and the members of the St. Mark's Lutheran church at St. Joe. Elders of the church brought the action seeking an injunction against McIntosh after the ABC issued him a permit February 15, 1950.

The complaint for an injunction was venued from the DeKalb circuit court to the court at Angola. A hearing on the injunction proceeding was first held in November and was continued until Thursday, January 4.

Winslow VanHorne of Auburn was counsel for the church members. McIntosh was represented by Raymond S. Perry of Fort Wayne.

Judge Hunter based his decision on the fact that the beer and wine retail store operated by McIntosh under the name "Chuck's Place" is within 200 feet of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church in St. Joe and therefore operating contrary to law.

He said the court was unable to find "any authority justifying any such arbitrary standard of measurement which obviously must have been indulged in by the ABC in issuing this permit to the defendant."

Hunter further stated that the sale of alcoholic beverages is regulated by law and that the state Alcoholic Beverage commission may not "arbitrarily disregard the laws without its acts being subject to judicial review.'

Following is the complete text of the opinion handed down by Judge Hunter.

"Sec. 12-402, Burns' 1942 Replacement, page 771 provides as follows: Provided, no permit of any kind hereunder shall be issued in respect to any premises situated within a distance of 200 feet from any school or church.

"The undisputed evidence is that the defendant was issued a permit on February 15, 1950, for the sale of alcoholic beverages in St. Joe, Indiana, and has since engaged in such sales. Further, the evidence was undisputed both before the Alcoholic Beverages commission and before this court that the edge of the church roof was 199 and a fraction feet from the permit premises and that a stairway on the church was about 195 feet from the permit premises and that the distance from the McIntosh property to the nearest point on the church premises was 175 feet at the time the permit was issued.

"The court further found as a matter of law that such provision of the statute must be construed as having been enacted solely for the benefit of the organization enumerated therein and not for the applicant, and referred to the provision of the statue that states: . . . and all of the provisions of this act shall be liberally construed to the end that the use of intoxicating beverages may be limited and temperance encouraged. . . . (Sec. 2, Chap. 226, Acts of 1935, p. 1056). The court found as a matter of law that such statute should be construed liberally in favor of the institutions it seeks to protect.

"To adopt as a matter of law the construction of the statute urged by the defendant, that the arbitrary standard of measurement set forth by the ABC of measuring from the main wall of the permit premises to the main wall of the church or school building, would be to go beyond even the most liberal construction in favor of the permittee, which in view of the foregoing was not contemplated by the legislature.

"The court further indicated that he had read many cases from other states upon this specific point and that he had been unable to find any authority justifying any such arbitrary standard of measurement which obviously must have been indulged in by the ABC in issuing this permit to the defendant.

No Proof of "Injury

"The defendant by counsel earnestly urged that the church had failed to prove any direct injury by reason of the location of these premises, and the court gave serious consideration to that argument, but in language closely analogous to that used by the Supreme Court of Indiana in the case of Haggart vs Stehlin, 137 Indiana, page 43, the court observed "it is no mere fanciful notion, dictated either by dainty modes or habits of living, that makes churchgoers and the officers of said church protest and object to the methods of an establishment engaged in the sale of alcoholic beverages and all the incidents usually attendant in the operation of such a business in the immediate vicinity of a church.

"The court further commented that since liquor could not be sold on Sunday in any event, the statute was evidently not enacted for the purpose of protecting Sunday worship, but was to prevent the injury to the sensibilities of the church members who object to the invasion of the alcoholic beverage trade into the immediate proximity of the church, and the court cannot say that the conduct of churches and the sale of alcoholic beverages are completely compatible activities.

"While the sale of alcoholic beverages is by law a legal enterprise in the State of Indiana, nevertheless it is well within the province of the legislature to prescribe the methods rules, regulations of such sales, and this court is of the opinion that the ABC may not arbitrarily disregard them without its acts being subject to judicial review."

Spencerville Woman Injured

Betty Jean Mettert, 32, of Spencerville, was seriously injured Thursday night when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a westbound Pennsylvania Railroad freight train at the crossing on U. S. 27 a mile and a half south of Garrett.

State police and Sheriff Frank Carpenter said the driver of the car, Raymond W. Bowles, 27, of Fulton, Ky., escaped with minor injuries. The injured woman was taken to the Sacred Heart hospital in Garrett where she is recovering from a broken right leg and a dislocated right elbow.

The investigating officers said the freight locomotive smashed into the side of the northbound 1950 Dodge. The car was demolished with damage estimated at $1,850. There was also estimated $50 damage to the right front step board of the locomotive on the freight, No. 9076.

Bowles told the officers that he was slowing to turn at the intersection of the U. S. highway with state Road 205. He said he did not see the approaching freight.

The engineer, R. H. Osborne of Butler, said the locomotive whistle was blowing as the freight approached the crossing and when the crash occurred about 7:30 p.m.

Lower Taxes In County

Taxpayers in 35 Indiana counties will pay lower property taxes this year, but the total levy for all 92 counties will be higher than in 1950, the Indiana taxpayers association reports.

The association credited reduced levies to actions of local reviewing boards and the state board of tax commissioners.

"We are approaching what may be the most critical year in the nation's history," the association's report said. "Federal taxes have been increased and will go still higher, and the only place where tax economies can be effected is here at home.

Indiana's overall property tax levy will be $206,009,390 in 1951, an increase of $3.826, 451 over the previous year.

But reductions of $2,294,042 were made in 35 counties. Vanderburgh county made the highest reduction, $785,728. Madison had $279.143, Gibson $130,339 and Knox $126,664.

Other counties where property taxes will be lower included Blackford, DeKalb, Elkhart, Grant, Greene, Harrison, Henry, Huntington, Jefferson, LaGrange, Martin, Miami, Orange, Pike, Posey, Pulaski, Ripley, Scott, Spencer, Steuben, Sullivan, Switzerland, Tipton, Union, Vigo, Warrick and White.

Marion county taxpayers will bear the highest increase, $1,173,417. Lake county's levy was up $651,154 and Allen, $419,985.

Budget reductions were made by reviewing boards in all counties.

NEWVILLE MAN ESCAPES INJURY AT WATERLOO

John Harter of Newville escaped injury late Saturday night when a switching freight train crashed into his automobile at the Center Street crossing of the New York Central Railroad in Waterloo.

Harter reported that he had waited at the crossing for a fast NYC passenger train and then moved forward into the path of the freight car. He said he did not see the freight approaching.

The crew of the switching freight said they signalled the motorist but apparently he did not see their warning signals.

The freight car struck Harter's 1949 Oldsmobile and spun it clear of the track. Considerable damage resulted to the front of the automobile. The accident occurred shortly before 10 p.m. Saturday.

$2,420 Into County Polio Fund

Mrs. Dorothy Shugart of Auburn, chairman of the DeKalb county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, was presented with a check for $2,420 by the national president of the organization, Basil O'Connor, Thursday night.

The check was given to the DeKalb county chapter to take care of a part of the deficit in the local treasury as a result of the large number of polio cases during the past year. At present 22 polio patients are being cared for in whole or in part by the DeKalb county unit.

The presentation was made at a meeting held in the Hotel Van Orman at Fort Wayne, Thursday night at which time Mr. O'Connor touched off Indiana's 1951 March of Dimes campaign to raise funds for the coming year. The national president told the roup that the drive which will start Jan. 15 and continue through Jan. 31 must raise $50.000,-000 to take care of anticipated expenses for the year.

Life of Action

Lesson for January 14, 1951

SCRIPTURE: Mark 1:21-39. DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 145:10-21.

Dr. Foreman

THEY say that in four regions of the United States there are four different questions which are asked of newcomers. In the New England states they ask a stranger "How much do you know?" In the wealthy northern states they ask, "How much have you got?" In the South where pedigrees are so much treasured, they ask: "Who was your granfather?" But out in the wide-open west they have only one question: "What can you do?"

Action in Religion

IT is a fair question. If the answer is "Nothing," then it does not make any difference at all what a man can answer to the other three questions.

To be sure, they look at this differently in the Orient. According to the ancient philosophy of the East, it is only the inferior man who rushes around doing things. The superior man sits and thinks. The West's admiration for action, and the Orient's admiration for contemplation, enter into religion itself. The typical Oriental "saint" may be a man who never turned his hand to a piece of work in all his life. The typical western "saint" is likely to be a very busy and active sort of person.

It is all the more interesting that Jesus combined both the western and the eastern ideas of religion. He was a man of prayer and meditation, yet a man of strenuous life too.

Life of Action

THE Gospel by Mark, reliable tradition claims, actually comes from Simon Peter. During Peter's missionary travels he used to speak often about the life and work of Jesus, and young John Mark would take down notes of what he said. Then later Mark worked up into a connected "gospel" many of those story-sermons. It is easy to believe the tradition, because this gospel sounds so much like what would appeal to Peter, a man of action.

At any rate, in Mark we have very little said about Jesus' teaching, a great deal said about what he did. Jesus does not have a spare minute, not a day off.

What about the rest of us? Suppose some biographer were to write up you who read these lines. Suppose he could use in his story only your actions, not your words or ideas. Would there be enough material for him to write a book?

Words of Power

WHILE Mark almost never tells us what Jesus taught, he does tell us that Jesus was a teacher. In describing the synagogue-service in Capernaum Mark tells us the people were astonished, and even two demon-ridden men were struck down with terror.

What Jesus said that astonished the people and alarmed the demoniacs we do not know. Possibly Peter, who was there, may have been too busy watching people's faces to hear what Jesus was saying. However that may be, Jesus is here introduced to us not only as a doer but as a thinker and teacher.

Life is not all action; it is also thought. Jesus' acts were full of power; so and not less so were his ideas, words, teachings. Look at the rest of us again: We may be full of talk, but how much power is there in our ideas?

Straightway

ONE word is found many times in Mark's stories of Jesus: "Straightway" as the older versions have it,—that is, immediately. It is not just Mark's style. It is his way of bringing out something important about Jesus' life and habits.

There were no blank spaces, no pages unwritten, no empty gaps, no waiting-around, in Jesus' life. In his life one activity followed on the heels of another. He had no time to waste, and he wasted none.

Let the honest reader try to make a realistic budget of his time. At the beginning of a week let him draw up a kind of chart showing how he expects to spend his 16 waking hours each day,—so much for work, recreation, study and so forth. Then at the end of the week let him ask himself: Where did my time go? He will often have to admit that he did not really live the whole day, any day,—only parts of it. Living as a Christian means living one's full time, living one of those 16 hours a day.

Polio Quiz

What do you know about polio? With the 1951 March of Dimes campaign being conducted throughout the nation this month, you may want to test your knowledge concerning the drive and the disease against which this fund-raising appeal is directed. Here is your chance. A score of seven or more correct may be considered excellent.

TWO LEADING QUESTIONS

Q. Does infantile paralysis always cripple those who get the disease?

A. No. At least 50 percent of the patients recover completely without paralysis, about 25 percent are left with minor handicaps not sufficient to interfere with normal activity, approximately 17 percent suffer permanent severe paralysis, about 8 percent usually die.

Q. Who is eligible for help from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis?

A. Anyone who has polio - regardless of age, race, creed or color - who cannot without hardship pay all bills for treatment, including hospitalization, nursing care, respirator, braces, crutches and wheelchair. The National Foundation pays for these things in whole or in part, depending on the need.

MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS

Check one answer for each question.

1. Infantile paralysis, or "polio" for short, is caused by a virus ....; bacteria ..., bad food .....

(Infantile paralysis is caused by a virus which is a disease-producing organism, differing from bacteria in its very small size and the fact that it is a complete parasite and must reproduce in a living cell.)

2. The infantile paralysis virus directly attacks muscles ...., skin ....., blood ..., nerve cells .....

(The infantile paralysis virus directly attacks nerve cells which, in turn, control muscles. If enough nerve cells are killed or damaged by the virus, then muscles may become temporarily or permanently paralyzed.)

3. You can "catch" polio only once ..., more than once .....

(It is possible to get polio more than once because scientists have recently determined that there are at least three kinds of polio viruses which cause the disease, and that infection with one will not produce resistance against either of the other two.)

4. Infantile paralysis is caused by a "family of viruses of which scientists have identified only one group ..., three groups ...., five groups ....

(Scientists have thus far identified three groups of viruses in the family of viruses that cause polio. There may be others, and March of Dimes funds are helping scientists to continue their search for these other groups.)

5. Most polio cases in the United States occur in the 1 to 5 year old group ...., 5 to 14 year old group ...., 15 to 20 year old group ..., over 20 year old group .....

(The majority of polio cases are found in the 5 to 14 year old group, although in recent years an increasing number of older teen-agers and adults are being affected.)

6. Infantile paralysis should be treated at home ...., in special hospitals ...., in general hospitals .....

(Doctors believe that most infantile paralysis patients in the acute stage should be treated in general hospitals, but they feel that under certain circumstances, mild convalescent cases may be cared for subsequently at home.)

7. Epidemics of infantile paralysis can be stopped by closing schools ...., spraying communities with DDT ..... cannot be prevented ... .

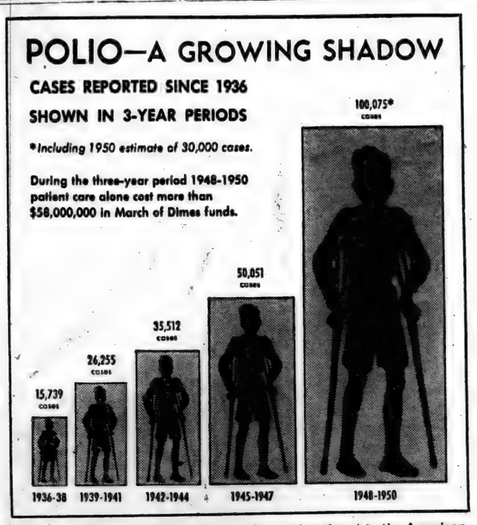
(Authorities agree that closing schools and spraying with DDT have little or no effect in controlling a polio epidemic. There is as yet no way of preventing a polio epidemic. Eliminating hysteria, avoiding new contacts and following simple rules of hygiene may be of help in protecting you against the disease. Copies of these rules may be obtained from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis or your local health authorities.)

8. The local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which is serving my community is composed of volunteers ...., paid employees ...., doctors .....

(The work of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is carried out largely through the efforts of unpaid volunteers. The local chapters especially, directly concerned with the service program of the National Foundation, are almost entirely composed of volunteer workers; occasionally a part time or full time seretary is employed, depending on the size and location of the chapter.)

9. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis gets its money from the Federal government ...., large permanent endowments ...., contributions from the public .....

(All of the work of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis including programs of research, education, epidemic aid and patient care is financed entirely from contributions by the American people to the annual March of Dimes in January.)



The chart above reveals polio's ever-increasing threat to the American people and the enormous cost of patient care borne by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. This year, the forward march of polio presents an especially urgent problem to the March of Dimes: the purchasing value of the dollar has shrunk to 58 cents in comparison with pre-war days, while polio cases have nearly quadrupled.

Harlan Takes Tigers, 70-51

Harlan defeated the St. Joe Tigers at the New Haven gym Tuesday evening by a 70 to 51 score.

Harris dropped in a total of 33 points for the Hawks on 12 field goals and 9 free throws. Tharp was high man for St. Joe with 16 points, followed closely by Walters with 15.

The St. Joe seconds, however, came through with a close 41-38 victory over the Harlan seconds.

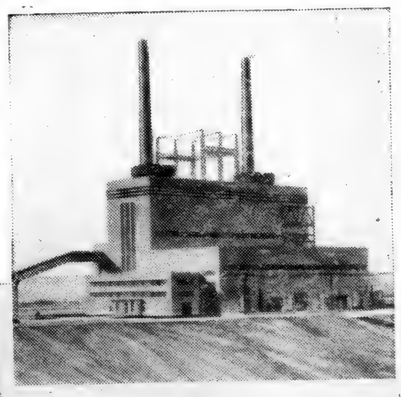
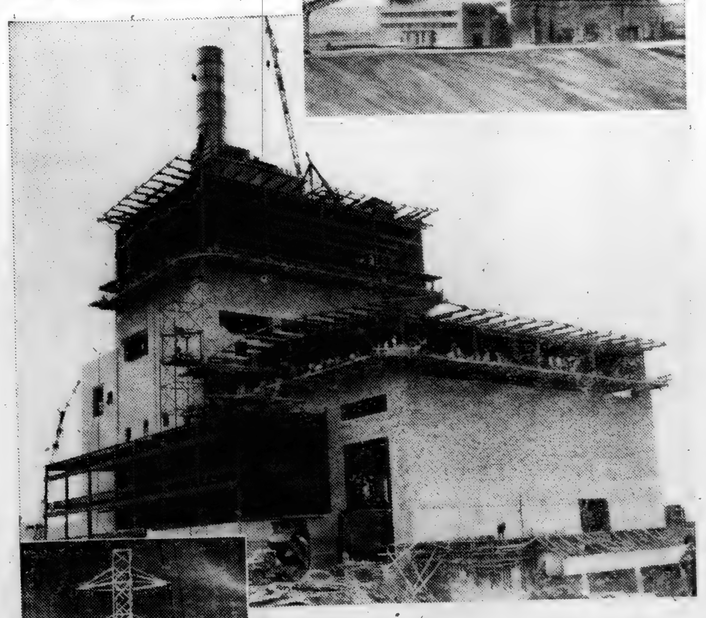
Tanners Creek Plant Under Construction

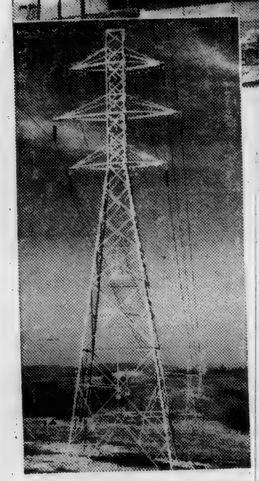
(Below) The first 150,000-kilowatt unit of the Tanners Creek Plant nearing completion. It will be completed in February, 1951. Construction has begun on a second unit of the same size.

(Inset—right) Architect's drawing of the completed 300,000-kilowatt plant as it will appear in June, 1952, with its full capacity in service.

(Bottom) A tower in the 82-mile, 132,000-volt transmission line that will carry power from the Tanners Creek Plant to I&M System's customers.







The new $33,500,000 Tanners Creek Plant of the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company is located 82 miles from the company's load distribution center at the Madison substation south of Anderson. This means daily transmission of millions of kilowatthours over a long distance.

It's only natural to ask why the plant was built so far away from its customers. In the words of J. Calvin Hill, Fort Wayne Division Manager of the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company, "It's simply a matter of economics."

"In the erection of a great steam-electric plant like Tanners Creek, there are several important economic and operational factors involved: (1) favorable site; (2) sufficient water flow; (3) easy accessibility to economical coal supply; (4) coal storage space; (5) proximity to territory served.

Ashley Takes County Tournament

Ashley's Aces triumphed over Spencerville, Waterloo and Garrett in the 1951 DeKalb County Basketball Tourney to win the honor of being county champs.

Spencerville came the closest to upsetting the Ashley-cart in the first game of the tourney. Both teams played a cautious first half before the thrilling second half started. The lead changed hands several times in the last quarter with Ashley's Ladd hitting four buckets in that period.

Play got rough in the last minute as Spencerville tried to gain possession of the ball. In that time Ashley converted four free throws and Spencerville one before the final buzzer.

Butler had little trouble taking the St. Joe Tigers on Friday night, 57-42.

Jr. High Beats Waterloo

The St. Joe Junior High basketball team defeated the Waterloo Junior High at St. Joe Wednesday evening, Jan. 3, by a score of 23-15.

St. Joe led all the way, holding a quarter margin of 8-1 and 14-10 lead at the half. The Waterloo team, even though behind, held the ball throughout the third quarter. St. Joe made a basket just as the last half started and the Waterloo boys then went into their possession game because their big center, Schlosser, had picked up four personals in the first half. The score was 16-10 at the end of the third quarter.

St. Joe then forced play in the final stanza and won rather easily.

St. Joe also took the prelim, 29-10.

Corn Yields Boosted 34 Bushels Per Acre By Better Soil Care

CROP yield profits are being boosted as much as $20 per acre through conservation farming methods, including contour cultivation, large amounts of fertilizer and the return of crop residues on Purdue University's Throckmorton farm, agronomists report.

Yields have risen steadily since 1942, according to the agronomists. The 1949 average net profit per acre was nearly twice that of the average seven years before.

Plowing Up Organic Matter Is Important in Building Up Soil.

In the tests, some fields have been farmed with common practices; others with a conservation system. Both groups have a four-year rotation of corn, soybeans, wheat and mixed legume-grass meadow. Fields receiving the common treatment are straight-row farmed. The conservation fields are farmed on the contour and receive larger amounts of fertilizer, plus crop residues.

Additional supplies of plant food, organic matter and moisture have teamed up to boost crop yields on the conservation fields, the agronomists say. As a result of these benefits, corn yields have averaged 106 bushels per acre on the conservation fields, compared with 72 bushels on the common fields in the 1942-49 period. Soybean yields have averaged 37 bushels per acre compared to 30; wheat, 34 bushels as against 27; and hay yields 2.2 tons per acre compared with 1.2 tons.

The tests are carried on cooperatively by the Research Branch of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the Purdue Agricultural Experiment Station.

Buy Fertilizer Now To Avoid Shortages When Spring Comes

FERTILIZER shortages can be avoided next spring if farmers place their orders now and take delivery early, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing a recent statement by Dr. H. B. Cheney, extension agronomist at Iowa State College.

Cheney points out that railroad car shortages may restrict the movement of fertilizer next spring and it may be impossible to meet farmers' demands if they call for heavy deliveries over a short period of time.

"The outlook for fertilizer production is good this year," he said, "but if fertilizer producers run out of storage space, they will have to slow up production."

As a means of keeping plant food moving steadily, he advises farmers to make immediate arrangements for supplies and to store the plant food until it is time to use it next spring.

Cheney recommends a dry building with a wooden floor as the best storage place. If the fertilizer is stored on a concrete floor, a wooden platform should be built 4 to 8 inches above the floor. This will allow air circulation under the bags, which can be piled 8 to 10 bags high. Space should also be left between the wall of the building and the storage pile to provide for more circulation.

INDIANA'S RAILROADS

Your railroads—the railroads which have served the State of Indiana since 1832—thank you for your patronage and wish for you, our patrons, a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

In peace and in war, your railroads are the economic backbone of our State and Nation. Not only do they provide over-all freight and passenger service which cannot be performed by any other mode of transportation, but the railroads' purchases of equipment and supplies in Indiana are tremendous.

We need your business and you need ours!

The constantly growing state of Indiana, ever-increasing in importance in the industrial progress of our Nation, cannot be properly served without efficient and financially-sound railroads.

America is the last stronghold of free enterprise and, for the good of all, free enterprise must be preserved.

May there be a continuance of the fine spirit of cooperation, which has prevailed for 119 years.

Letters to the Editor

(Harvey Hull passed the following letter on to us which he received from J. C. Coons, formerly pastor of the St. Joe and Concord Methodist churches, now supervisor of the Indiana Methodist Children's Home at Lebanon, Ind., and minister at Advance and Milledgeville, Indiana.)

Dear Harvey:
We received your Christmas greeting with letter. I was indeed delighted to hear from you and to know that you thought of us. I have not seen Jesse since I received your letter. We could not be together on Christmas day but we had our Christmas Dinner on the Sunday a week before. Jesse and his family and Doris and Gladys and their families and myself and wife and two adopted daughters were all together. You may not know that my present wife and I adopted twin girls. They are now eight and a half years old and are identical twins.

Jesse's oldest daughter will graduate from Ball State College this spring and his son will graduate from High School. He has another daughter 10 years old. Gladys has a girl and a boy. The girl is married and has a son about six months old and the boy is out of High School. Doris has a boy 14 years old and a girl eight.

I was glad for the news in your letter to me. I seldom hear from any one up in that section of the state. We are still at the Children's Home. I had reached the age for compulsory retirement at our last Conference and was given the retired relation but am still supplying two churches. I am in my fifty third year as a pastor without a break. If you should ever be passing this way we would be glad for you to stop and see us. Give our regards to any one that remembers us.

Very sincerely,
J. C. Coons

AUTO DRIVEN BY WOMAN TURNS OVER NEAR ST. JOE

The sheriff's deparment reported Wednesday that Mrs. Lula Crawford Allison of Rt. 1, St. Joe escaped with minor injuries Tuesday of last week when she lost control of her automobile and the vehicle crashed on a rural highway five miles east of St. Joe.

Mrs. Allison, wife of Ray Allison, and an employee of the Glenn E. Nicolai & Company on South Wayne street in Auburn, said she lost control of the car when she drove over a hill and the tires struck a patch of ice on the road. The car skidded and upset in a woods bordering the highway.

Police said the car, a 1950 Hudson, was demolished, Mrs. Allison received first aid treatment at a physician's office.

Answer to Question No. 1:

1. The use of hospitals has grown remarkably in recent years. One important reason is the spread of hospitalization insurance, which has eased the financial burden of hospitalization. A more important factor is that the advantages of modern medical practice are often best obtained in hospitals.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. Some people joke about it, saying they're allergic "to work." But real allergy is not funny: it is a physical reaction to a source of irritation. The physical reaction may be sneezing, hives, headaches or other unpleasant symptoms. The source may be any of a thousand things—pollen, down pillows, foods, animals, household dust, clothing and so on. Your doctor can track down the source, do much to relieve symptoms and prevent recurrence.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. Heart disease kills more people today than any other ailment. Frequent check-ups by your doctor are advisable, and especially if you have recurrent or frequent pain in the chest. Chest pains may be caused by many other conditions but only your doctor can determine which is responsible.

Peculiar Ideas

Yes, we have 'em. Maybe right, maybe wrong, or maybe just plain foolish. Anyhow, before we open the former drug store, we wish to mention some of the things which we consider essential to the successful operation of such a business in a small country town.

First, we think that a store selling package drugs and ice cream in addition to operating lunch and fountain service must in a small town be the gathering place or sort of social headquarters for the entire community. This means maintaining an atmosphere which is not obnoxious to male nor female, young nor old, saint nor sinner. We need the patronage of all the community, but we cannot welcome any conduct from one group which would in turn be objectionable to another group. Now how can we attain these objectives? Well, maybe we can't, but at least we can try, so here are some of our ideas.

We welcome nonprofessional loafers but no rough vulgar language nor pipe nor cigar smoking, please. We must avoid a poolroom atmosphere.

We will sell magazines of course, but not with obscene pictures on the covers. We will not have punch boards nor jar deals. We expect to work for and give value received for the money which we take in. No, we are not Puritanical. We simply have observed that punch boards, etc., eventually kill any business in a small town. Our reasoning is this. The only way that we could profit with punch boards, jar deals, etc., would be to beat our customers out of a part at least or maybe all of their money and that just can't make satisfied customers. For fear that we will be misquoted, please notice that we did not say no smoking. We are merely trying to guard against the excesses.

Please give us a break by trying to cooperate.

A GLANCE AT 1950
...and a look ahead

Old Janus, the Roman deity, could look both backward and ahead. In this month that's named for him, your electric company does the same thing—giving our 221,930 customers a glimpse of what we did in 1950* and a glance at what's ahead in '51.

2,515,297,000 KILOWATTHOURS were delivered to our customers during the year, about 21% more than they used in 1949.

8,985 NEW CUSTOMERS were added, about 12% of them in rural areas.

115 MILES of transmission and distribution line were built. Our lines now extend 10,450 miles and reach about 155 communities.

$8,135,000 was paid to our employees last year in wages and we spent many thousands more for materials and supplies. Many people, both in our company and out, were benefited by our spending. Some of the money may well have found its way into your own business or your own pay envelope.

$7,189,540 IN TAXES—Federal, State, and Local—was accrued by this company in 1950 to help pay for schools, roads, police and fire protection.

GOING INTO 1951, this company and the six others associated with it in the American Gas and Electric System have 1,000,000 kilowatts of dependable capacity in new plants under construction. The last unit being built is scheduled for completion in early 1953.

Your power company is meeting greatly increased civilian power demands right now. New capacity for peace needs and defense needs is coming into being at a rapid rate, making more power available at a time when America needs it most.

VOLUME LXVI | ST. JOE (DeKalb Co.), INDIANA | Thursday, January 18, 1951 | NUMBER 3

The News Takes New Appearance With New "Face"

This week's edition of the St. Joe News has taken on a new and more readable appearance. Following the trend of modern newspaper make-up, the column rule between each column of type has been eliminated and replaced with more white space. The dashes formerly used at the end of each item and between the heading and body of the story have also been discontinued except in a few cases where some separation is needed in addition to the white space.

Advertising experts have long realized that white space adds considerably to the readability of advertising, and this realization has extended to the overall make-up of today's newspapers.

The News made a move in that direction a little over a year ago when the 8-point type used for news stories was set on a 9-point slug. It was converted to 8-point on 10-point resulting in more white space between lines and thus, better reading. If you have an older edition of the paper on hand, you can easily make a comparison and see the difference.

The lines also have changed in length. Formerly 13-pica length, they are now 12-pica to allow for the additional white space between columns.

Also new in the News this week is the banner at the top of this page and the type used for the headlines.

With these major improvements in make-up, the News becomes one of the first in this area to make the changes.

Burglary At Spencerville

Burglars broke into Fisher's Corner Market at Spencerville early last Friday morning and stole 20 boxes of cigars but left behind several hundred dollars in cash that was there for the taking.

The thieves gained entrance by smashing a rear west window of the grocery building. Inside they apparently made straight for the cigar counter, picked up 20 boxes of cigars valued at nearly $100 and left.

Behind, untouched, they left an undisclosed but large sum in a safe, cash in the cash register and bills and cash in a cigar box under the cash register. The safe was locked but the cash register was not. Also left behind and not molested was other valuable merchandise.

The owner, Lynn Fisher, said he closed the store about 10 p.m. Thursday. He discovered the burglary when the store was opened at 7:30 Friday morning.

Pickles To Face Famous Five

On next Tuesday night, January 23, St. Joe Pickles will meet the internationally-known Harlem Aces, famous basketball team of negro stars, in an exhibition game at Butler, Indiana.

For nineteen years this club traveled the United States, Canada and Mexico under the "World's Famous Globe Trotter" banner. However, because of so many other road teams using the Globe Trotter name and players and schedules conflicting, it was decided to change to Harlem Aces, which is copyrighted and which promises to be even a greater drawing card. Now on their 21st consecutive tour, these wizards of the hardwoods are out to entertain the fans with an array of sharp shooting, trick shots and ball handling that is seldom seen on the basketball court. Since 1930 more than twenty- four hundred games have been played before over 2,000,000 fans, many of whom have traveled up to 50 miles to see this great quintet in action.

They are tops in Negro sports, winning about 95 percent of their games. They established their most outstanding record last season, winning 158 while losing only 8, the last 74 games straight, including 23 consecutive victories on the Mexican tour in April.

The game will be played at the Butler high school gym and is scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

Admision prices are $1.00 for adults and 50c for students.

$500,000 Fire Damage At Auburn

B. O. Fink, president of the Auburn Foundry, Inc., which was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning, announced late Tuesday afternoon that the plant will be rebuilt. Mr. Fink and his son, Richard Fink, vice-president and general manager, said that the extent of the immediate rebuilding will depend upon the availability of materials for construction.

The disastrous fire, the most costly in the history of Auburn, swept the Foundry about 2:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, gutting the foundry division of the industry, and causing damage estimated at more than $500,000. The loss was revised downward after it was determined that most of the valuable patterns used to make castings by the foundry, were safe. The patterns not being used in production were cached in a fire-proof vault. Patterns which were in the production lines were destroyed.

The estimate on the loss was placed by the president of the company, who said the entire foundry production department was wiped out with the exception of valuable patterns, the office the cupola and part of the company's shower room. The cupola of the foundry was undamaged by the flames but the supporting structures were destroyed.

The origin of the fire remains a mystery. Fire Chief Gilbert Potter of the Auburn Fire Department said the fire could have started in either the compressor room at the south end of the building or the lumber storage building across the alley to the south.

When the fire was discovered, both the compressor room and the lumber storage were ablaze and the flames swept through the machine shop and enveloped the entire building before firemen arrived. There was no heat or electricity in the lumber building. Most of the employees on the night shift had left the factory at 1:30 a.m. and the compressors were shut of at that time.

Auburn, Waterloo and Garrett firemen fought the blaze for more than three hours before it was brought under control. Auburn firemen were still at the scene Tuesday afternoon pouring water on the ruins of the building.

The Toledo-Fort Wayne freight, scheduled to go through Auburn about 5 a.m. over the New York Central Railroad's Fort Wayne-Jackson Division, was held for four and one-half hours during the fire. Firemen were forced to cross the rail line, which passes just west of the foundry building, with several lines of hose.

The rapidly spreading flames endangered nearby residences, the adjoining Rubber Corporation and the Foundry's Stoker division.

Firemen and police notified 15 families to leave their homes as the blaze leaped high into the air. Only a strong west wind saved the Auburn Rubber Corporation plant to the east, just across the railroad tracks, and the Stoker division of the foundry at the north.

The Good Must Fight

Dr. Foreman

YOU WOULD think that if ever there arrived on this planet a really good person, he would be popular with everybody. People are tired of meanness, they are sick of being lied to and cheated. They are tired of the sins of others, even tired of their own. So if a really good person should appear, one in whom was no shadow, completely transparent to the Eternal Light, wouldn't everyone flock to him, wouldn't he have the human race in the palm of his hand, as it were, in a short time?

Agelong War

THE ANSWER is No. It is not well to be too optimistic about human nature. As a matter of fact, some of the best persons history has known met some of the bitterest opposition. Indeed, when One came who was completely good, whose life was all light and no shadow, he was no better treated and no more warmly welcomed than less good persons have been.

Jesus Christ had his enemies, strong and well-organized. The number of those who believed in him was comparatively small; the number who did not believe or ignored him altogether, was enormous.

The history of mankind is the history of a war, the age long war between good and evil, between God and his enemies. The story of Jesus is one chapter in this history, the most important by far, but by no means the first one or the last.

Why Was Jesus Hated?

THE READER should examine the record in the Gospels and try to think for himself who opposed Jesus, and why they did so. One striking fact is that Jesus' enemies were not what we call the "lower classes," much less the "criminal classes." His enemies were rather from out of the top drawer, as we might say. They were the financial, social and religious leaders of his time. They finally got him executed as a criminal.

If there had never been any one to contradict the records of the Sanhedrin, that high court of Jerusalem, and those records had become recognized as the truth, Jesus would have gone down in history, if remembered at all, as a troublemaker, a lawless and worthless man, whose execution was a protection to society.

Why were these leading men, Jesus' "distinguished" contemporaries, so wrong about Jesus?

"As he is, so are we..."

THE READER should think this out for himself. One reason can be mentioned here: It is very easy for wrong to be so long accepted and so strongly entrenched that it is universally taken for right. Then when the right comes along, especially when in the form of an idea suggested by some one not of the upper crust, it actually seems to be wrong. People kept long in a dark room find light painful!

Any one who tries to follow Jesus will find himself up against the same sort of opposition.

Any one who proposes to live as Jesus lived, or to change our accustomed patterns of society in the direction which Jesus pointed out, will be called (as he was) a crackpot, a dreamer, an impractical fellow who does not know enough to go in when it rains.

Our Divine Alliance

CONSIDER one example of this. A Christian who makes up his mind to dedicate his body a "living sacrifice" to God, and therefore not to handicap himself with the drug of alcohol, is certain, in many places, to be considered a sort of crank. It is not that people will laugh at him, though they will: people will be angry with him for his stand. They will do all they can to make him break his pledge.

Instead of admiring a clean and free life, many people are not content unless they can soil that cleanness and break down that freedom. So to stand for Christ in any aspect of life is not easy. But we need to remember we fight no lonely fight; our cause is not forlorn.

Just as Jesus in Galilee was always on the side of those who were beaten and battered by sin and evil, but still fighting, so now the ever-living Christ is always on the side of those who in their hearts desire good and not evil, cleanness and not dirt, truth and not lies.

LOVE 'N STUFF (mostly stuff)

Carolyn, what's the new flame's name?? Could it be Johnny Zimmerman?? Is he from Garrett??

Why are Gloria S. and Bonnie N. so interested in Garrett? Watch it, girls!

Who were you talking to in Ashley's cheering section Saturday, Eddie? Let's watch that stuff! We hear Buchs has a temper.

Raymond C. seems to be interested in Waterloo all of a sudden. What's her name, Ray? Mary Lee?

What is happening to this "steady" fad? Is it finally wearing out? Most of the Junior girls seem to be sporting their own rings again.

Why does Joyce Baker spend all of her noon hour sitting in the assembly with John L.? Is that his ring you're wearing, Joyce?

What about Pat Hook? She looked as if she were surrounded by boys at the tourney. Can't you make up your mind, Pat?

Why does Peggy Romine like Waterloo so well? Is it the environment or is it something (someone) else?

Who is this "Harley" from Garrett that Shirley R. is interested in? A new friend always helps to mend a broken heart!

Ruth B. surely hasn't been lonely since D.L. left town. She's been swamped, but she doen't seem to be taking advantage of it. Don't bother her next week, boys. He's coming home!

We hear that Pat Akey found a Christmas gift on her doorstep Christmas morning. A strawberry milk shake in a milk bottle, no less!!! Was it tasty, Pat?

Ruth F., who is this "one who cares" on "My Favorite Record"? Somebody you know?

Betty Witt, if you would get more sleep at night, you wouldn't have to sleep in lit. class! Oh, these late hours!

Adair R., why is it necessary for you to know all the verses of "My Heart Cries For You"? Is that Jug's favorite song?

How did Peg R. and Bud V. get locked in the typing room Friday? But, more important, how did they get out?

Tell us more about this Ronald Rogers from South Side, Dort! How come you've got his name all over your desk? Is he that important?

By the favorite expressions we see that Mady's back aches and Dale's foot aches. Why don't you two get together? Dale can rub Mady's back and Mady can massage Dale's foot! More fun!

Just who are these four characters; "Topper," "Trigger," "Silver" and "White Wind" who are tearing around the country-side? Have they no stables?

NEWVILLE TWP. HOME EC CLUB

The Newville Twp. Home Ec Club met at the home of Mrs. Delores Inlow at the noon hour January 10. Her assistant hostesses were Hazel Ludwig, Leona Bender, Elva Hook and Leitha Hart.

A basket dinner was served by the losing attendance team of 1950. Following the noon hour the meeting was opened by a brief installation of the new officers by the retiring president, Cynthia Sipe. The new president, Josephine Beree, assumed her duties and conducted the meeting.

The song of the month, "Sweet and Low," was led by Chorister Edna Mickelson. The club creed was repeated in unison. Devotions were given by Mary Platter, followed by an inspiring prayer for the new year. All sang "Brighten the Corner Where You Are." Roll call was answered by "My favorite way to prepare cranberries."

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read by the secretary, Dorothy Meek. There were thirty-three members, eight children and one visitor present.

The secretary gave information concerning county meetings, special lessons and tours of interest for the coming year. Three minute reports were given by the following:

Poultry leader—Bernice Miller.

Garden leader—Grace Robertson.

Literary leader—Lucille Nelson.

Hospital rep.—Dorothy Meek (substituting).

Flower, welfare and birthday collections were taken. Get-well cards were autographed by all and sent to Gladys Impton and Blen Moore. The business meeting was closed by singing the club prayer.

The losing attendance team of 1950 entertained nineteen winners by conducting "Truth or Consequences," prepared by the following committee: Hazel Ludwig, Mary Platter, Edna Mickelson and Katheryn Krieg. A variety of talents were revealed and enjoyed by all.

The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Verna Tustison on Feb. 14. Mary Lenore Moore, county home demonstration agent, will present the lesson, "Good Grooming."

Quick Fudge From Four-Way Mix

For after-skating parties, after school jam sessions or for any old time the gang gets together there must be fudge. Teen agers, both boys and girls, who always love to get out in the kitchen and cook up a batch of fudge, will love the quickness and ease with which they can turn out this perennially popular sweet with a new instant cocoa.

This new sweet cocoa mix eliminates long boiling and testing. The mix, milk and butter are heated together just long enough to dissolve the sugar and boil for a minute. A little mixing with a hand beater or spoon and there you have it. Easy! Walnut or pecan meats may be added or coconut, if desired. Peppermint flavoring may be substituted for vanilla.

Other chocolate favorites—instant cocoa or chocolate milk, quick chocolate frosting and chocolate sauce—are just as easily made with this sweet cocoa mix.

But speaking of fudge as we were a while back, here are the easy directions for making it, using this new product with its 4-in-1 advantages.

QUICK FUDGE

½ cup sweet cocoa mix
1¼ cups sugar
3 tablespoons butter
⅛ cup water

Grease a small shallow loaf pan or small pie pan. Combine ingredients in a small saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until sugar is completely dissolved—about 5 minutes. Bring to a full rolling boil and cook 1 minute without stirring. Remove from heat and beat with rotary egg beater or spoon until mixture begins to thicken.

Beat with spoon until mixture begins to hold shape slightly. Turn at once onto greased pan, spreading ½-inch thick. Cool and cut into 1-inch squares. Makes about 2 dozen pieces.

Salem Center Beats Red Raiders

The Salem Center Cardinals whipped the Spencerville Red Raiders at Salem Center Friday evening by a score of 47 to 39. Salem led all the way.

It was a low scoring game in the first half with the Red Raiders holding the ball for over three minutes with the score 20-16 against them. The first quarter had ended 13-11.

Both teams cut loose in the third, with the Cardinals having the best of the shooting and stretched their lead to 37-25 at the end of the period.

The Cardinals threw up a freak zone defense against Spencerville in trying to throttle big Alf Paschen, but in spite of being guarded from all sides, he dumped in 17 points. Big John Leonard's height was missed by the Raiders. He reinjured his knee in the county tourney.

Whitig was high-scorer for Salem Center with 21 points.

Value Your Health More Than Riches

Some folks think that fine clothes and fine, big houses are the most important things in life, but these things really don't mean too much if a person doesn't feel well enough to enjoy them. Most folks don't realize this, but Mrs. Lucy Braswell, of Route 2, Stone Mountain, Ga., realizes it very well. Mrs. Braswell takes HADACOL, and by taking HADACOL she found she is helping her system overcome deficiencies of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Braswell's own statement: "I have been sick for some time with stomach disturbances. I began taking HADACOL and I have been taking it about six weeks. I am so much better and much stronger. I will continue to take HADACOL. It sure has helped me. I tell my friends about HADACOL. I can't praise HADACOL too much. I am 59 years old."

Around the Town

With the Editor

Monday morning John and Sam Weaver of west of Spencerville were at the Spencerville Elevator to get some feed or something and John was settling with the prop, Bill Weninger, on a couple of bills.

John said, "If we've got a gripe on bills, you want to know right away, don't you, Bill?"

The answer was "yes."

"Well, I've got a gripe on this one," and he handed a bill to Bill, who naturally thought he had made a mistake in addition or charged too much. He studied the slip of paper and couldn't find anything wrong. Finally, John had to tell him that there was an item, amounting to about four dollars, that Bill had forgotten to include on the bill.

I wonder if folks call him "Honest John."

Speaking of money and the Spencerville Elevator, there's a clump of coins, about 85 cents worth melted together somewhat, lying on the counter of the establishment. In 1945 Bill hid a sack containing over $900 in cash and checks in a waste basket. Apparently it was in the winter season since he relates that he started a fire the next morning—using the paper from the waste basket—including the money sack. The clump of coins is all that remains of the hot time he had that day.

The story isn't all sad. He was able to recover the sum of the checks. But there were around $365 in cash lost.

His famous last words—"It sure made a good fire!"

St. Joe Pickles will play their second game of the Zollner Piston tourney at Fort Wayne on Sunday, February 4, against Magnavox of Fort Wayne. The Pistons will face Baltimore in the second contest.

I'll have tickets available at the News Office again and Frank Sechler will have some at the pickle factory.

There's only a week and a half until that game, so put in your order for those tickets.

Kinsey-Souder

Miss Patricia Yvonne Souder became the bride of James M. Kinsey in the Zion Evangelical United Brethren Church near Butler Sunday, January 14.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Souder of Butler. Mr. and Mrs. Glen W. Kinsey of St. Joe are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. J. F. Bright read the vows before an altar banked with pompons, palms and candelabra. Mr. and Mrs. Keith Ulm presented a 30-minute musicale preceding the ceremony.

The bride chose a gown of white satin accented with lace. The full skirt ended in a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was held in place by a crown of white satin and pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a blue orchid. Her only jewelry was a rhinestone necklace, gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Kenneth Jennings attender her sister as matron of honor in a gown of blue crepe. She wore white accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Her pearl necklace was a gift of the bride.

Robyn Kay Ulm, cousin of the bride, and William Souder, brother of the bride, acted as ring bearers.

Lewis Walter of St. Joe served as best man. The guests were seated by the brother-in-law of the bride, Kenneth Jennings, and the brother of the bridegroom, Robert Kinsey.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. Those assisting with the serving were Miss Onalee Knox, Mrs. Duane Willeby, Mrs. Rose Dohner, Mrs. Lloyd McClean and Mrs. Ernest Janke.

The couple will reside at 2223 South Hanna Street, Fort Wayne.

Harlem Aces Edge Pickles 69-67

Before a crowd of approximately 300 persons St. Joe Pickles lost a close exhibition game to the Harlem Aces at the Butler gym Tuesday evening.

The led Aces led throughout the game before Pickles tied it up at 67-all with just a half minute to go. Clark tried to get off a long shot after the Aces scored a bucket, but it was blocked and that was the ball game.

The Aces apparently had a harder time disposing of the local independent stars than they bargained for. They had little opportunity to put on any great amount of fancy ball handling. The lack of such showmanship was partly made up for by the long-shot sniping of Daughtry and Watts who dumped in several long fielders with deadly accuracy.

The locals got a good taste of what pro basketball is like as there were groans eminating from frequent scrambles for the ball. However, they didn't let up, and matched the Aces in aggressiveness. "Whitey" Heller did a fine defensive job on Lancaster, 6' 5" center for the Aces, holding him to but 3 points on free throws while himself picking up 21 points for the evening. Clark was right along in scoring with 21 counters also.

Club Membership Drive In Progress

At the second meeting of the local club being organized for the purpose of installing a lighted softball diamond at St. Joe, it was decided to change the club name from the "St. Joe (Ind.) Athletic Club" to the "St. Joe Valley Recreation Club." The change was made by eleven civic-minded citizens from St. Joe and the surrounding community who attended the meeting last Thursday at the school in St. Joe.

Ted Haberkorn was elected chairman and Franklin Sechler secretary until organization of the club is completed. The chairman was instructed to appoint a membership committee and a by-laws committee. The membership committee is D. B. Ridgway, Lloyd Dunten and Jim Tatlock. The by-laws committee is C. O. Duker, Wayne Wagner and Lester DeLong.

$1.00 was set as the cost of each voting membership.

A membership drive is now in progress. Memberships are available from the membership committee or at the News Office. Prospective members are urged to get their memberships before the next meeting, Feb. 1, or, if more convenient, at the meeting on that night.

At the Feb. 1 meeting, which will start at 7 p.m. at the school in St. Joe, there will be a representative from Leo or Harlan to discuss the problems involved in installing lights and to answer questions relative to that subject.

One of the main reasons public officials have given for the recent scandals involving youths in so-called "clubs" has been the lack of recreational facilities for the young people. The St. Joe Valley Recreation Club is endeavoring to fill that need in this community—with the help of its citizens.

New Application For Beer License

The application for renewal of a beer and wine retail permit by Charles McIntosh of St. Joe will be heard Feb. 7 before the DeKalb county liquor licensing board.

He is applying for a renewal despite the fact that a permanent injuction was issued against him January 6 by Judge Donald H. Hunter in Steuben circuit court at Angola. His present permit expires in February.

The injunction against McIntosh has not been enforced, presumably to permit him to dispose of his stock of beer and wine on hand.

The hearing on McIntosh's renewal application is set for 9:00 a.m. on Wednesday, February 7.

TRAP SHOOT SUNDAY

The St. Joe Valley Conservation Club will hold a trap shoot at their grounds west of St. Joe on Sunday afternoon, January 28.

The Great Teacher

Lesson for January 28, 1951

WE HEAR a lot about a "better world." God pity the poor lout who thinks the world as it is, is all right! And may God stab awake those who are afraid to try to make this world better.

If you want to see a group of people who are not afraid, and are really working at this, go to your nearest Sunday school. There you will find teachers of religion. They may be doing a good job or a poor one; but anyhow they are trying. And when one of these teachers succeeds, even a little, in what they are all trying to do, the world has already been made a little better.

Greatest of Teachers

EVERY Sunday school teacher, or any other sort, for that matter, should study the methods of Jesus to see what good teaching can be. He is and will always be THE Teacher.

His object was not to teach science or history. The only technique he taught was the most important of all—the technique of fine living. His object was to teach "what we are to believe concerning God, and what duties God requires of man."

In short, his subjects were Faith and Life, not separately but welded into one.

Down Where We Live

HIS method was always simple. He did not use long words, he did not "put his hay on such a high shelf that only intellectual giraffes could reach it," as Billy Sunday expressed it. Common people heard him gladly, because he taught in the kind of language they used, he spoke of things that were familiar to them.

So the good teacher today never teaches over the heads of the class. This means he has to have a good imagination; has to make believe to himself that he is one of the class instead of the teacher. He has to remember how the world looked to him when he was a boy, he has to stay young in heart.

Jesus could surely have taught more profoundly than he did. Indeed, he said at the end of his days, "I have many things to say . . . but ye cannot bear them now." However true a thing might be, he would not say it if his hearers were not ready for it.

Truth in Pictures

WHEN Jesus taught in pictures; we call them parables. The best-loved and remembered parts of his teaching are the stories he told. Every one of them was simple; they were about the kinds of people his listeners knew or had often heard of.

The good teacher will always use illustrations. But the best ones will come right out of the experience of the pupils. Jesus never quoted from a book his hearers had not read. He never used illustrations that only a Ph.D. could understand. Furthermore, he never tried to teach two things at once.

A teacher, looking over a Sunday school lesson, may find it full of suggestive ideas; but it is generally better to pick out one truth and illustrate it in several ways, as Jesus did when speaking of the Kingdom of God, than it is to try to bring out everything that could be brought out, and so confusing the class.

Making Them Think

NOW some teachers, trying to be simple, succeed only in being dull. The good teacher must keep the class awake, otherwise no one can learn anything. There is a good motto which might be borrowed by all Sunday school teachers: "Nothing that is not interesting; not everything that is interesting; nothing merely because it is interesting."

Jesus gained attention and interest in various ways. One was the "cryptic" nature of his teaching; that is, it was often puzzling. There was often something that sent listeners away thinking: Now what did he mean by that?

Confucius once remarked: "I give my pupil one corner of an idea, if he cannot get the other three corners for himself, I do not want him for my pupil." So Jesus often gave out one corner of a truth and let his hearers (and ourselves!) wrestle out the other three.

ALL-STAR LINE-UP FOR '51!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

Your first eye-smacking look at the line of lovelies pictured here tells you that they've got what it takes in visual charm.

But the fellow who said a picture speaks louder than a thousand words wasn't talking about these superbly able 1951 Buicks.

Sure, they're smart to look at—smart in style and smart in dress.

But they're also smartly powered—smartly engineered—smartly priced. And it would take a book to describe in full their deep-down goodness.

What's been done for '51 is to take the best automobiles that ever bore the Buick name—and top them.

Come, look them over, and you'll see what we mean.

There's the SPECIAL which can accurately be titled "the newest car in the world"—new in structure, new in power, new in dimensions, new in thrift—and potent in price appeal.

There's the SUPER—that looks and is a smart new edition of its "best seller" forebear.

Then there's the ROADMASTER—that coddles your anatomy on luxurious new fabrics and cloud-soft cushions—pampers your pride with its lordly bearing—shoots a delicious tingle right up your spine by the exuberance of its power and action.

We could go on and on. This is the car that "breathes through its nose." This is the car that sports a brand-new front-end styling. This is the car with new high-visibility instrument dials, more easily read at night. This is the car with glare-and-heat-reducing glass† and a host of other news-making features you can't afford to miss.

So your No. 1 date this week end is with your Buick dealer. It won't take you long to conclude that he's offering the smartest buys of the year.

†Optional at extra cost—available on most models. (Not presently available in California or Massachusetts)

COBURN CORNERS CHURCH NEWS

John Cook preached Sunday morning at Greenfield Mills, a small country church near Orland. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Waggoner assisted the Cook family in the services.

Thirty-seven attended the regular Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday night. It was decided that a debate on dancing will be held February 18 instead of the regular lesson. Betty Witt led the lesson on prayer. Karl and Elsa, the two German youths residing in our county, gave several musical numbers.

The evening message was "The Defense of the Gospel." The German couple gave several numbers and Geraldine Shull sang "The Holy City," accompanied by Lois Strong.

The congregation is sorry to have Mr. and Mrs. Vern Fredericks and family move out of the community.

Several of the young people attended the DeKalb County Youth Rally at the East Creighton Church of Christ at Ft. Wayne Tuesday night.

BASKETBALL NEWS GAD

The Junior High teams went to Auburn last week to absorb 36-32 and 21-13 lickings at the hands of the Auburn Junior High cagers.

Butler's big floor proved too much for the St. Joe Tigers Friday evening and they dropped a 60-48 contest to the Windmills.

The second team also lost to Butler, 42-22, as did the Junior High, 27-24.

The Marines from Hamilton invaded St. Joe Saturday night and took home a close 58-56 victory.

The prelim went to Hamilton, 36-31.

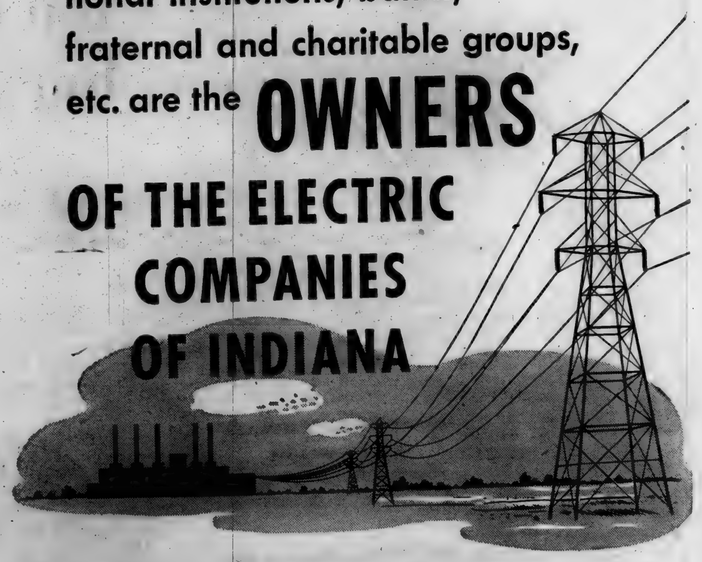
More than 112,000 people, insurance companies, educational institutions, banks, fraternal and charitable groups, etc. are the OWNERS OF THE ELECTRIC COMPANIES OF INDIANA



● Yes, over a hundred thousand people, groups and organizations are direct owners of the Indiana electric companies. They have invested part of their savings in the stocks and bonds of these companies to make it possible for Indiana's electric companies to be built in the first place, and to expand as needed.

Indiana citizens may well be proud of this excellent example of achievement under our envied system of Free Enterprise. Experienced Indiana electric company managements have spared no effort or expense to provide your dependable electric supply. How well they've done their job was proved during World War II when the electric companies of Indiana had the capacity to continue supplying power to all users, without curtailment.

And Indiana's electric companies are continuing to build ahead. They have already doubled the State's power supply . . . added a million kilowatts since 1940! By the end of 1953 still another 600,000 kilowatts will have been added. This greatest expansion program in Indiana electric company history is costing over 500 million dollars—most of which is being provided by the investing public. In addition to direct investors, many insurance and other organizations have substantial investments in the securities of the Indiana electric companies, making millions of other people—probably yourself included—"indirect owners" of these companies.

Around the Town

With the Editor

Last Friday afternoon I stopped at Lester DeLong's place west of town to let him know that he was a member of a committee for the recreation club. He wasn't at home, but the Mrs. was. She was in the process of preparing supper and had something frying in the frying pan that tickled my nostrils and made my mouth water. Whatever it was, it sure smelled good.

There's something about coming in out of the cold weather into a kitchen filled with the goodness of home cooking that whets the appetite to its keenest.

—I almost went back for supper.

Harvey Hull usually stops in on Monday or Tuesday with a few items and the Sunday School attendance record. And he always has a cigarette dangling from his lips. I've often marveled at how short he can smoke them and not burn his fingers. When he drags on a cork tipper, all that's left is — the cork tip, slightly singed.

David McCann's observation when he heard that our family will have an addition—"Did they apply for one?"

He's six.

Don't forget that game Sunday night—Pickles vs. Magnavox at Fort Wayne in the Zollner tourney. Tickets at the News Office or at the pickle factory.

The Tuesday evening, February 6, meeting of the St. Joe Valley Conservation Club promises to be one of the finest of the winter season. Mr. Forest Gerig, well-known sportman, will show one of his many fine films.

Meeting time is 8 p.m. at the K. of P. Hall and all members are urged to attend and support the committee which brought this educational and entertaining program to the club.

The P. T. A. is trying to complete the payment for the public address system recently installed and a free-will offering will be taken.

Your attendance and contributions are urgently needed and will be greatly appreciated.

A warm-up game in preparation for next week's contest was played Tues. night with Spencerville nosing out Holsom, 118-52.

CULTURE CLUB

Mrs. Paul Drerup was hostess to the Ladies Culture Club on January 24 with Mrs. Fred Ulm acting as co-hostess.

The meeting began with the club members standing and reading the club collect. Mrs. Harvey Carr gave for devotions a poem, "Song for Red." The lesson for the evening was given by Mrs. Karl Hart. She chose three topics from the Reader's Digest, "The Big Change," "Read Aloud-It's Fun" and "Disciples in Clay." The special work was an auction with Mrs. Roy Reidenbach acting as the auctioneer.

All twenty-five members present responded to roll call with "A Bargain I Once Had."

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James Tatlock on February 7.

Fox Bounties Near $800

Fox hunters were busy in DeKalb county in 1950 but they still fell short of the bounties collected by hunters in 1949.

Last year, according to County Auditor Guy Myers, the county paid out $793 in bounties. In 1949 a total of $924 was collected by hunters.

The bounties in 1950 were paid on 191 of the elusive animals which were killed by hunters.

In 1949, 111 grown foxs were killed along with 123 pups. The year before 221 foxes, 120 of them pups, were bagged for bounties reaching $865. Bounties of $924 were collected in 1947 on 222 animals killed.

The record bounties were in 1946 when the county paid out a total of $1,162.

Bounty on a grown fox is $5 each and $3 on the pups, which are killed during the early summer months.

Of the 191 animals killed in 1950, 110 of them were grown foxs and the remaining 81 were pups. Bounties of $550 were paid on old foxes and $243 on pups.

May the Biggest Month

The biggest month of the year for hunters was in May when 19 old ones and 60 pups were turned in for bounties totaling $270, $180 for the pups and $95 for the grown foxes. May is the suckling month for pups.

Claims for bounties are turned into the DeKalb county commissioners on the month following receipt of the claim by Mr. Myers.

Claims were filed every month, according to Mr. Myers, but in August only two old foxes were killed and last March and again last August and November, only three were turned in for bounties.

One DeKalb county hunter, Charles Fredericksson of near Auburn, collected more than $150 in bounties to lead all other sportsmen. Delbert Cobbs of near Corunna collected bounties of more than $100.

Following are the number of foxes killed each month in 1950: January, 18 old foxes; February, 17 old; March, three old; April, 16 old and 2 pups; May 19 old and and 60 pups; June six old and 19 pups; July, 2 old; August, 3 old; September, 8 old; October, 8 old; November, 3 old and in December, 7 old foxes.

Cold Weather Hints For Drivers

A dry cloth, if used in the the right places, can save motorists time, inconvenience, embarrassment—and high blood pressure.

At this time of the year when thaws and freezes are common the Chicago Motor Club points out that motorists can protect themselves and their cars from the elements by utilizing these tactics:

1. During wet weather when your car has been outside in the rain wipe the inside edges of your doors at night when you arrive home. If the mercury drops over night you won't be one of the motorists who is unable to get inside his car.

2. In the winter after having your car washed or after passing through a driving rain wipe your door locks dry. Better yet, lubricate them with a graphite grease. Water which trickles into the lock will be repelled so that a freeze-up can't occur.

3. Should your car fail to start in damp weather the chances are that your sparkplugs have been aborted by water seepage. Wipe the sparkplugs and connecting wires with a cloth. In most cases this should solve your dilemma.

One more driving hint which will prove useful involves the use of your emergency brake. Chicago Motor Club technicians advise that instead of using the emergency brake when parking your car, you should leave the car in gear and turn your wheels into the curb. This will prevent the brake shoes from freezing to brake drums overnight.

Power of God

Lesson for February 4, 1951

ONCE UPON a time, miracles were one of the strongest arguments supporting Christianity. In our times, it is quite the reverse; miracles are for many Christians a major embarrassment, and for others a principal reason for not believing what Christians teach. There is no room in one column to debate this question. A very readable recent book on this line by C. S. Lewis, called "Miracles," may help to clear the reader's mind, showing that the common idea that miracles are impossible, is a mistaken idea.

Dr. Foreman

Christ the Power of God

PAUL calls Jesus Christ "the power of God" (I Cor. 1:24). Whether you believe that Jesus could perform miracles or not, whether you find such a belief hard or easy, depends a good deal on what you think of Christ. If you think of him as a main much like yourself, and no more, then you have as hard a time believing that he could work miracles as in believing that you yourself could do so. But if you believe that in some way he was more than simply a man like yourself, but that God was in Christ (as Paul said), that in his mind was the wisdom of God and through him surged the power of God, you will not have much difficulty with the miracles.

But suppose you cannot start with the high faith in Christ as Son of God; at least you can start with historical facts which no one can reasonably doubt. One of these facts is that there lived a person named Jesus of Nazareth. Another fact is that it was believed about him, already in his lifetime, that he could do all sorts of astounding things,—cure hopeless cripples, bring people back from the dead, stop a storm in its tracks, drive demons back to hell.

You will have to admit that this Jesus must have been an extraordinary character to have such things believed of him, even if they were not true. Starting from that point, you may be led to look into this man's story further, and—like many others—may come out at last believing in Christ as the divine Lord.

Motive for Miracle

ONE THING the thoughtful reader will see in these miracles told of Jesus: they were not done to show off. Jesus himself did not brag about them, nor call attention to them, nor talk much about them. He saw people in trouble and he came to their help. It was as simple as that. He is not reported to have stopped all the storms in Galilee, but only one; and that one not to save himself nor even to save any one else from death, but to save them from fear.

He sent the demons tumbling into the lake, not to create a wonder-tale nor to show how much stronger he was than demons, but he did it to help a poor wild madman back to sanity. He did not go around to funerals in Palestine bringing all the corpses back to life and cheating the undertakers for three years running. On the contrary, he went to Jairus's house only when asked.

There is a certain modesty about all these miracles; and there is love in each of them. The great difference between miracle-working power in the hands of Jesus and such power in the hands of ordinary men, is suggested in the remarkable tale by H. G. Wells, "The Man Who Could Work Miracles." It is the tale of a man who found to his dismay that his supernatural powers brought only disaster to the world.

The Most Personal Miracle

SOME YEARS ago there was a young man in Austria who had for a long time put up an unsuccessful struggle with himself. To put it shortly, lust had him in its grip. He had about given himself up as a bad job, when he made the acquaintance of two young priests.

He asked himself: What do these men have that I do not have? And he discovered the answer: Christ. That was how Baron von Hugel, one of the great minds of our century, became a Christian.

He discovered that Christ, now can work a miracle in a man; and one miracle, experienced in one's own life, can be of more value than a hundred miracles recorded on paper.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

Washington, D.C.—In an effort to keep you informed of the legislative actions of your Congress, I am planning a weekly column, similar to this one, to send to the newspapers and interested persons in the Fourth District, during the 82nd Congress. I am hopeful that the comments expressed and information, reported will be "newsworthy" and assist in keeping the people informed of my service as their representative in the House of Representatives.

The opening days of the new Congress have been marked by the receipt of strongly worded letters from my constituents requesting, first of all, the withdrawal of our troops from "Truman's war in Korea," as one writer phrased it. The second major target has been the President's unprecedented peacetime budget of $71.5 billions which calls for "taxing until it hurts," to use the President's own words. Another issue soundly criticized is the Administration's attempt to saddle us with the President's pet schemes of socialized medicine, the Brannan Plan and a socialized economy under the guise of building up our national defense.

The heaviest correspondence has been on the drafting of 18-year-olds, a proposal underwritten by Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, the assistant to General Marshall, Secretary of Defense, who recently faced considerable opposition because of her New Deal leanings, before the Senate confirmed her appointment. Typical of the comment opposing this proposal comes from a Larwill mother, who said:

"I'm greatly opposed to drafting our 17 and 18-year-old boys. I do not believe we can have peace in the world by taking our youth to fight all the time. They are too young to vote or have anything to say in regard to our world affairs or problems, so why draft them?"

Letters have literally poured in to the office from all sections of the District bitterly attacking the Administration's foreign policy and urging the adoption of a sound domestic and foreign program along the lines outlined by former President Hoover and Senator Taft. This letter from Fort Wayne is indicative of the sentiments expressed:

"If there is any valid reason for continuing to fight in Korea, it seems to me that the people of our country ought to know what it is. We are spending ourselves blind and exhausting our resources and vitiating our strength for full scale war, if and when it comes. I certainly agree with those who insist that the Administration be compelled to think of our internal resources and strength and that we do more independent thinking as Americans rather than allowing ourselves to be led and bled by our associates in the UN.

"Above all, Congress should assert itself right now and have something to say to the President before he is perimtted to declare war or to send any more soldiers and materials into either Asia or Europe. The only channel of authority our citizens have is through the Congress. It is the only place they can assert their will. May God help us from being catapaulted into another holocaust."

jd

Watch out. Big government alphabetical soup is on the menu again. It can only mean another upset economy and headache for Americans. I have just received an announcement from the President that 13 new agencies have been created bearing such letter combinations as ESA, NPA, SACB, FCDA, TCA, DTA, PAFD, DSFA, and so forth, with a half million--that's right -- 500,000 new federal employees to be added to the payroll by July 1. Remember: under OPA, it took 600 words to define one particular cut of meat and there were dozens of cuts. Look out, brother.

Nothing Better Than Good Food, Says Ohio Man

If a man isn't able to eat the foods he likes he's in mighty sorry shape—imagine going through life without being able to enjoy a fine big platter of bacon and eggs. That is the way Joseph N. Damillot, 3414 E. 5th Street, Dayton, Ohio, used to be, but since he has been taking HADACOL, he says he feels just fine and is able to enjoy lots and lots of fine foods. Mr. Damillot found that taking HADACOL helped his system overcome a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mr. Damillot's statement: "My first bottle of HADACOL convinced me that HADACOL was what I needed for the gas on my stomach at nights. I could not keep food on my stomache, but after the first bottle I was going great. Now I eat bacon and eggs, and other foods that never would stay with me. I also can sleep well at nights. Thanks to HADACOL. I will never be without it, and can recommend it to all who suffer with the above ailments that I had. I know because I have suffered for quite some time."

TRI TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU

The regular Tri Township Farm Bureau meeting will be held in the music room in the basement of the old building of the Concord Twp. Schools on Tuesday evening, Febraury 6, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be:

Group singing-led by Onan Laughman.

Devotions-Carlton Curie.

Business-conducted by Chairman Lester Anthony.

The remainder of the program, which was planned and will be carried out by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wagner (Spencer Twp. members), representing Wayne Co-ops, will include two motion pictures and an accordian number.

The local Farm Bureau is doing good work but needs the support and attendance of a larger percentage of members to accomplish the most.

Projects, which will be carried out if enough interest is shown, are: organization of a pet and hobby club for children up to ten (to be held during the regular meeting of Farm Bureau), a women's public speaking contest and a Rural Youth public speaking contest. Complete plans for the above, including subjects to be presented are included in the S. & E. and Director's Manual.

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WIAAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

MANY farmers who now use coal or wood fires to heat their brooder houses are missing a chance to save considerable time, labor—and little pigs. Sixty per cent of the high mortality rate of little porkers is traceable to crushing by the sow. The other forty per cent is caused mostly by chilling. Studies show that one out of five pigs die during their first five weeks of life. The mortality from chilling is caused by the inability of all little pigs in a large litter to get close enough to the sow to absorb the necessary body heat.

The use of electric lamps and reflectors to heat the brooder house can save a lot of these unnecessary deaths and at the same time save the farmer a lot of time. With an electrically-heated brooder, he not only can give his pigs, chicks and lambs a faster and healthier start, but also finds he doesn't have so much trouble keeping the brooder house clean.

There are several electrical brooding devices that a farmer can use that are both effective and economical. The most widely used is the standard deep bowl reflector. These can be hung in corners of the brooder house, or for more effective use, can be built into a triangular hover. Anyone with a little surplus lumber lying around the farm can build one or two hovers easily, using his own plan or one that can be obtained from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

For the large-scale poultry raiser, a large 10-lamp fixture is available that's big enough to supply light and radiant heat to a breed of 1,000 chicks. Using R-40 lamps, this fixture supplies enough heat to eliminate pile-up and the resultant smothering of chicks.

Many poultrymen report that electric brooding saves enough on feed costs and the resultant earlier marketing to pay for the cost of lamps and equipment in one season. And there's the added dividend of time and labor saved.

SQUIRREL HUNTED IN WRONG MONTHS?

Hoosier hunters may be hunting squirrels during the wrong months of the year.

A wildlife conservationist says that the squirrel hunting season beginning in August in Indiana reduces the crop of reproducing female squirrels. He bases his observation on 441 examinations of squirrels handled on this particular wildlife project at Purdue University. Information gathered showed that one-third of all adult female squirrels bagged during the open season are in some state of reproduction.

Dr. C. M. Kirkpatrick, conservationist at Purdue who conducted the study, believes that the present open squirrel season, falling as it does in August, Sept. and October, is biologically unsound. That is considering the standpoint of squirrel management for heaviest hunting.

All other Indiana game species are protected from hunters' guns during the critical breeding period, Dr. Kirkpatrick points out.

Place Mats Worth Making

Place mats, so in vogue for table settings today, are not only fashionable but also practical and easily made at home in a variety of fabrics, designs and colors. Crocheted or chrochet-trimmed place mats are excellent. The photographs showing two types are reproduced from the recently issued ten-cent booklet, "Floral Doilies," available in dime and department stores. Particularly interesting is the round linen mat with its matching round napkin. A rich dark blue linen was used here and the crocheted petals of the place-mat border and of the napkin motif are done in varied tones of a lighter blue, while the centers are of soft yellow. In the fillet place mat, on the other hand, the background is nile green and the rose motif is pink. Other excellent color combinations would be dark brown linen with green or beige used for the petals and yellow again for the centers. Purple linen with a yellow-centered mauve-flower treatment, and chartreuse linen with cinnamon brown petals and yellow centers are two other beautiful combinations. Ecru, in either the all-over-crochet place mat or the fabric mats with crochet borders, combines effectively with brown, blue, green and yellow; and white can be used with any color of your choice.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

COLOR BLINDNESS

COLOR blindness is one of several sex-linked hereditary traits passed through females to their children, including hemophilia, anidrosis, which is the inability to perspire, night blindness of a special type, and baldness.

Four out of every 100 males are color blind. It is estimated that approximately six million American males have this defect to some degree. Many color blind individuals are engaged in transportation which uses colored signals, and in other fields in which color is used.

If the mother is normal and the father is color blind, the trait does not appear in any of the children. But a daughter of the normal mother and color blind father will carry the hereditary factor or gene which will cause color blindness in half of the sons of that daughter.

If a color blind woman marries a normal man, all the sons will be color blind and all the daughters will carry the defective genes. If these daughters marry color blind males, half their daughters will be color blind, as well as half of their sons.

In order, then, for a female to be color blind, she must have a color blind father and a mother with the gene or trait for the defect. Fewer than two-tenths of one per cent of women are color blind.

There is no cure for color blindness, although there are many alleged "remedies" on the market.

Teenager Gets Appetite Back; Thanks Hadacol

HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron Which Her System Lacked.

According to Sara Loraine Beck, Box 258, Coker, Alabama, when a person is only 15 years old and feels terrible, can't eat or sleep the way they should, it's mighty bad. That is the way Loraine says she used to feel, but that was, of course, before she started taking HADACOL. Loraine found that taking HADACOL helped her system overcome deficiencies in Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Loraine Beck's own statement: "I was run-down, sick and skinny, and weighed only 90 pounds before I used HADACOL. I would not eat because I had no appetite. Now I weigh 123 pounds and have an appetite. I feel a lot better. I have been taking HADACOL 10 months and am still taking it. I am 15 years old. HADACOL has done me lots of good."

the Railroads RESPECT... the Labor Unions seek to REPUDIATE... this agreement!

What is the TRUTH?

At various states in the present dispute with the brotherhoods of railroad operating employees

... the railroads agreed to arbitrate. The union leaders refused.

... the railroads accepted the recommendations of President Truman's Emergency Board. The union leaders refused.

... the railroads accepted the White House proposal of August 19, 1950. The union leaders refused.

Finally an Agreement was signed at the White House on December 21, 1950. Now the union leaders seek to repudiate the Agreement.

The railroads stand ready to put the terms of this Agreement into effect immediately, with back pay at the rates and date indicated.

The Agreement is given in full below.

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

Washington, D. C.
December 21, 1950

1. Establish 40 hour week for yardmen with increase of 23 cents effective October 1, 1950, and additional 2 cents effective January 1, 1951.

2. Set aside 40 hour week agreement until January 1, 1952, and establish 6 day work week for yardmen. Effective with the first pay roll period after 30 days from the date of execution of the formal agreement, yardmen required by the carrier to work on the 7th day to be paid overtime rates except engineers who shall receive straight time rates for the 7th day. This does not create guarantees where they do not now exist. On and after October 1, 1951, three months' notice to be given of desire to go on 40 hour week. Provide for consideration of availability of manpower and 4 cents per hour if and when the 40 hour week actually becomes effective.

3. Settle rules for 40 hour week and 6 day week.

4. Grant yard conductors and brakemen other rules such as daily earnings minimum, car retarder operators and footboard yardmasters as recommended by Emergency Board No. 81.

5. Settle following rules:
Initial Terminal Delay (Conductors and Trainmen)
Interdivisional Runs
Pooling Cabooses (Conductors and Trainmen)
Reporting for Duty
More than One Class of Service
Switching Limits
Air Hose (Conductors and Trainmen)
Western Differential and Double Header and Tonnage Limitation (Conductors and Trainmen, all Territories)

6. Road men to receive 5 cents per hour increase effective October 1, 1950 and additional 5 cents per hour increase effective January 1, 1951.

7. Quarterly adjustment of wages on basis of cost of living index (1 point to equal 1¢ per hour. First adjustment April 1, 1951. Base to be 176).

8. Agreement embodying principles applicable to yardmasters to be entered into for benefit of yardmasters.

9. Effective October 1, 1950, the basic hours of dining car stewards shall be reduced from 225 to 205 hours per month; no penalty overtime to accrue until 240 hours have been worked, the hours between 205 and 240 to be paid for at the pro rata rate.

Effective February 1, 1951, overtime at time and one-half shall accrue after 220 hours have been worked. The basic monthly salary to be paid for the 205-hour month shall be the same as that now paid for the 225-hour month. Except that four dollars and ten cents ($4.10) shall be added to the present monthly rate effective January 1, 1951.

10. In consideration of above; this agreement to be effective until October 1, 1953, and thereafter until changed or modified under provisions of Railway Labor Act. Moratorium on proposals for changes in wages or rules until October 1, 1953, as follows:

No proposals for changes in rates of pay; rules or working conditions will be initiated or progressed by the employees against any carrier or by any carrier against its employees; parties hereto; within a period of three years from October 1, 1950; except such proposals for changes in rules or working conditions which may have been initiated prior to June 1, 1950. Provided, however; that if as the result of government wage stabilization policy; workers generally have been permitted to receive so-called annual improvement increases; the parties may meet with Doctor Steelman on or after July 1, 1952; to discuss whether or not further wage adjustments for employees covered by this agreement are justified; in addition to increases received under the cost of living formula. At the request of either party for such a meeting Doctor Steelman shall fix the time and place for such meeting. Doctor Steelman and the parties may secure information from the wage stabilization authorities or other government agencies. If the parties are unable to agree at such conferences whether or not further wage adjustments are justified

they shall ask the President of the United States to appoint a referee who shall sit with them and consider all pertinent information, and decide promptly whether further wage increases are justified and, if so, what such increases should be; and the effective date thereof. The carrier representatives shall have one vote, the employee representatives shall have one vote and the referee shall have one vote. ••

11. If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for final decision.

The usual protections for arbitraries, miscellaneous rates; special allowances, and existing money differentials above existing standard daily rates will be included in the formal agreement.

•• The foregoing will not debar management and committees on individual railroads from mutually agreeing upon changes in rates; rules and working conditions of employees covered by this agreement.

News Flashes

by Sen. Willis K. Batchelet

JAN. 22 to JAN. 27

There has been considerable discussion regarding Unemployment and Workmen's Compensation. Same favor it being increased from a maximum of $20.00 per week for 20 weeks to $25.00 per week for 25 weeks to meet present living costs. However, we believe the phrase, "The employee must first seek employment," before being eligible.

An amendment to the occupational disease law increasing benefits and giving the employee the right to select his own physician is now in the hopper in the House. Its prospects for passage at this time are uncertain.

Considerable activity being promoted for investigating the State Public Welfare Department; there being found to date considerable abuses of the real true intent and purposes of the law. In some instances it is being discovered that there are some persons on relief who are not eligible or needy, thus debarring rightful and needy persons their just share of the relief funds. From facts found to date it appears to be operated as a political machine rather than a relief agency.

The usual salary bills are again looming to the front. One bill now pending in committee seeks to mandate all cities including 5th class cities to pay a flat minimum salary to firemen and policemen. It is my opinion that such legislation would destroy home rule government and is entirely against the true principles of American Government. I believe that the functions of the legislature should be to render assistance to the people back home by permissive bills giving them the right to assist themselves locally, as each particular community has different conditions confronting them.

The senate also passed a bill by unanimous vote, 50-0, sponsored by myself and Sen. Baldoni, to license commercial breeders and raisers of pheasants and allow such to be sold on the market if properly tagged and license paid. This should bring additional revenue to the State, both in license fees and additional income from the new businesses that will be forthcoming from such.

At the present time I have two bills pending in the Senate to license and regulate the use of boats and motors upon the lakes of Indiana. We have had several committee hearings upon same. This is a major problem and will have to be worked out to cover the whole state and do such without undue hardship on anyone and at the same time give relief to our present existing conditions. The boat regulations can be compared to the highway traffic code. When automobiles first came into existence there were no traffic regulations upon the highways and in order to make safe travel, every one had to give up some of their unlimited privileges of the past for the use of the highways in order that others could also use and enjoy the privilege of the highways of the state: likewise with our lakes and all other natural resources, we must all give and take in order that all may be able to use and enjoy such privileges.

The resolution of Senator Lucius Somers ratifying the 22nd amendment to the Constitution limiting the term of office of the President to two terms passed the Senate and the House with flying colors. Indiana now has ratified the amendment, thanks to the untiring efforts of Senator Somers who has worked upon this continuously since 1941. Senator Somers lives at Hoagland, Indiana, and is State Senator from Allen and Noble counties. He is a man whom Indiana can be proud to claim as one of its citizens. We are now the 25th state to ratify the amenment. In order to get this amendment started Senator Somers gave freely of his time even to going to Washington to start it in operation.

From all indications, even though this has been a busy week the following weeks until the end of the Session all will increase with work.

23rd PSALM IN GEOMETRY DEDICATED TO THE GROANING GEOMETRY CLASS OF '50-'51

I have a study in which I shall not pass,

It maketh me to expose my ignorance before the class;

It maketh me to draw figures on the board for my grade's sake;

Yea, though I study until midnight I shall gain no Geo.,

For "X's" bother me, and "AB's" sorely trouble me.

It prepareth puzzles for me in the presence of my classmates;

Surely zeros and conditions will follow me all the days of my life,

And I shall dwell in the class of Geometry forever.

ANNOUNCING . . . . .

Candidates for the Basketball Queen Contest which began Jan. 30 are Joan Cook, Mabel Shaftner, Helen Kruse, Madolyn Reid, Cleo Gerig, Nan Vendrely, Pat Hook and Mary Wilder.

LOVE 'N STUFF (mostly stuff)

We're back once again to tell you all about the little things that happen around school, little things that aren't supposed to leak out, but always do.

Cheer up, Madolyn. Just beause Don moved to Chicago doesn't mean you'll never see him again. You haven't forgotten about the 31st, have you? We see he left you his class ring.

Jack Hollabaugh would appreciate it if Alf Paschen and Jug Dwyer would have their eraser fights when he's not around. Either that or take better aim.Some people might get the wrong idea about how you got that black eye, mightn't they, Jack?

Ruth Brace, please don't do your napping in History class. We might get the wrong impression. By the way you never did tell uss what you were dreaming about. It was pretty obvious, though.

Why did Eloise Timmerman seem so happy at the Hicksville game? Didn't you know? It was because she was with Jim Fry from Butler.

Wanted: any information leading to the discovery of the person who put a rotten banana in Pat Akey's history book. (They probably didn't mean any harm, Pat. They just thought you might get hungry!)

Shirley Ritenour has found a new interest in Garrett. He is none other than Harland Quince. Did you have a nice time at the Prom Terrace Wednesday night, Shirley?

Who is this Norman Moore from St. Joe that Pat Timmerman has been losing sleep over? Did you see him at the game Friday night and did he talk to you, Pat?

Have you decided between Dick Furnish and "Ike," Gloria Steward? From the sound of that letter you wrote Dick we take it "Ike" is winning out.

Dale Butler: Why do the girls always smile when they look at me?

Peggy Romine: I suppose it is because they are too polite to laugh.

Joyce Baker: A penny for your thoughts.

John Leonard: I was thinking of going home.

Joyce's dad (at the head of the stairs): Give him a dollar, it's worth it.

AUTO LICENSE PLATES MAY BE USED FOR 3 YARS

Auto license plates may be used for three years in Indiana.

The Indiana House Ways and Means 'A" committee has approved tentatively a plan under which metal strips bearing only the date of the year for which they are issued would be attached to the bottom of each license plate.

A number of states already use this system and Chairman Jess C. Andrew, West Point Republican, declared it would save more than $500,000 for the state in the next two years.

Members of the committee favored the plan generally. While the state has on hand enough steel to make the 1952 plates the prospect of getting enough for 1953 and 1954 is dim.

Clyde Black, director of the Motor Vehicle Bureau, appeared before the committee and asserted that the plan had his approval. Andrew said he understood state police favored the plan in time of steel shortage and especially approved it over the idea of using just one plate.

Tigers Drive To 66-65 Win Over Churubusco

St. Joe's Tigers wouldn't be denied Wednesday evening at the local gym and they pulled a thriller out of the fire from Churubusco 66-65.

Led by Bud Tharp in the first half, the Tigers held a first quarter lead of 19-18. Churubusco held a 37-36 first half lead. Tharp scored 13 points in the first half.

The game remained nip-and-tuck through the third period with St. Joe ahead 55-53 at the three quarter mark. Francis Dulle fouled out but not before contributing 10 points and some aggressive rebounding.

The score was tied 61-up with but a few minutes to go. Churubusco then went ahead 63-62. Don Walters dumped in a long one to make it 64-63 with less than a minute to go. Churubusco lost the ball to St. Joe after the out-of-bounds play and as the visitors pressed for poscession of the ball, Jerry Keener got away for a wide open shot and scored. Bob Richmond fouled on a basket at the end of the game, but Churubusco failed to convert, and that was the ball game.

Ken Walters suffered a severe gash on the head in the last quarter, but was able to return to the game and ended up with 14 points. Richmond and Don Walters each had 10.

Churubusco won the preliminary.

Brother, Can You Spare $368.21?

Citizens of DeKalb County will be required to pay out approximately $9,588,584 as their share of the cost of the Federal spending program for the fiscal year beginning next July 1, if the $71.6 billion budget proposed by President Truman is accepted by Congress, the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce estimated today.

This county's share of proposed Federal cost amounts to approximately $368.21 for each man, woman and child in the county, or an average of $1,472.84 for a family of four persons, the Chamber said.

Federal spending at the rate proposed for next year, if continued for only 3.8 years, would cost the county's taxpayers an amount equal to the entire assessed valuation of all land, buildings, homes, machinery, railroads, public utilities and personal property in the county, the Chamber estimated.

Indiana's total share of the Federal budget costs for next year is estimated at $1,625,000,000, some 60 percent more than the value of all agricultural products raised annually in the state. The state's share of the proposed budget was computed on a basis of Indiana's proportion of the national population, federal tax payments and national income. Indiana county shares in turn were computed on a basis of each county's proportion of the state's population and state gross income tax payments.

"Hoosier citizens will not object to paying their fair share of the costs of national defense," the State Chamber said, "but a great majority of them will oppose unnecessary non-defense spending, including projects falsely labeled as parts of the 'defense effort'."

In the latter group, the Chamber said, were proposals to: Further nationalize electric power; subsidize (and eventually control) local public schools with Federal funds; extend Federal subsidation and control of agriculture (Brannan plan); impose a system of socialized medicine; expand government-owned industrial production facilities; increase the authority of the Department of Labor over State-administered unemployment compensation systems.

The budget also contains proposals to start six new public works projects which will eventually cost the taxpayers at least $1.6 billion, the Chamber concluded.

Jesus Meets Need

Lesson for February 11, 1951

WHAT PEOPLE want would fill many books. What people need is a simpler story. Whatever success Christianity has had, is due to its success in meeting human needs. If Christianity were only an argument, or a system of ideas, it would never have gone as far as it has, nor won so many friends.

Dr. Foreman

Ignorance

THE Church at its best has simply followed in the paths on which Jesus was a pioneer. The gospel stories of Jesus show him as one who "went about doing good" as Peter put it. Seeing a need, he bent himself to meet that need; this has been the ideal for Christians and the church ever since.

One of the first needs of man is to be saved from his ignorance. Jesus saw the human race not as a pack of wolves or a mass of snakes, but as sheep without a shepherd.

So Jesus then, and the church now, set out to teach. A church that does not teach is a poor church. "The church must teach or die," it is true; it is also true that the church must teach or others will die.

Sickness

IT IS not on record that Jesus ever walked by a sick person without making him well. Jesus did not think that sickness and pain are good things in themselves.

When you think of all the loss of time, money and happiness that one miserable little cold can cause, and multiply that by the number of colds in North America alone; when you think of the pain and danger and after-effects of one attack of malaria, and then think of all the cases of malaria in all the warm regions of the wirld; and when you go on adding up all the diseases there are, you really wonder how the human race manages to stagger along.

Now the Christian church has always been doing something about this. Today, in many backward countries, Christian doctors and hospitals have pioneered in health, and indeed are the only effective disease-fighters in the whole region.

Hunger

WHATEVER else can be said of the feeding of the five thousand, one thing is plain: Jesus did not think it was a good thing for people to stay hungry.

So the church, following his example, has fed the hungry wherever it can. The church protests, and will continue to protest, against any society or institution that leaves people hungry. It is on empty stomachs that things like Communism rise.

So when a missionary like Sam Higginbottom in India teaches better ways of farming, or when the Salvation Army adopts the slogan "Soap, soup and salvation," or when heifers are rounded up and sent abroad as a gesture of Christian friendship, when CROP interests the Christian farmers of America in rural reconstruction in war-torns areas of Europe, the church is just following the lead of Jesus.

Slavery

ONE of man's deepest needs is freedom. Jesus did not set free any slaves in his time, it is said; but is this true? There are other kinds of slavery besides that from which Abraham Lincoln freed the Negroes in 1863. Of these other kinds, one of the worst is slavery of the mind. We see Jesus setting his contemporaries free from the heavy chains of taboos and false traditions which the Pharisees had piled on them.

So when the first Christians broke away from the burdens of the old ceremonial laws, or when a Christian missionary in Africa or China or Greenland set men free from the darkness of pagan superstitions, or when the Protestant Reformation came, a great Declaration of Independence in the name of Christ from the traditions and superstitions which had long obscured the truth and burdened the minds even of Christians, the church is only following the example of Christ.

When we stand for a free church in a free land and a government of free men, we stand as Christians ought to stand, enemies of tyrannies in every form.

News Flashes

by Sen. Willis K. Batchelet

JAN. 31 to FEB. 3

Monday started the legislative session with nearly all members present, both in the Senate and House in spite of the icy roads.

Monday the governor and Mrs. Henry F. Schricker gave a reception for the members of the Senate at their home and likewise for the members of the House on Tuesday. The Governor surprised the members of the Senate with his ability to play the piano by playing and singing with the boys some old Hoosier favorites.

I introduced Senate Bill 144 - to relieve cities and towns from liability for injuries or damages resulting from sidewalk injuries within their corporate limits.

A public hearing on Senate Bill 32 - pertaining to cities and towns being granted authority to levy income taxes held - with only two proponents for same - result, this bill no doubt will die in committee, which I hope it will, being opposed to same.

A bill introduced in the House to boost gasoline taxes to six cents will hit rough going, and if passed by the House will not meet with favor in the Senate, we being opposed to same.

Another bill introduced in the House was for selection of judges by a nominating petition - to be voted on with no reference to political party. To my thinking this is taking away from the voters their free independent rights to select their candidates and will be opposed by me.

A movement on the way to legalize gambling in the Senate is meeting with disfavor and if presented either in the House or Senate will or should be killed in committee - we cannot have such in our State.

The Welfare probe by the Senate still in progress and appears to be doing some good; we shall continue to press the issue as I believe it needs exposure in order to correct the evils lurking in the department.

A bill in the House introduced by Lawrence Baker of Kendallville and John R. Feighnor of Marion, both Republicans, following the Senate road investigation, seeks to establish a highway merit system.

I succeeded in removing 5th class cities from Senate Bill 104 - seeking to establish a minimum wage mandate on such cities for policemen's salaries. I do not believe it is the function of the legislature to pass legislation mandating the local communities to do certain acts, that are purely functions of local government. for by so doing we will eventually break down home rule government as established by our founders.

The new Judicial Code introduced in the Senate - which appears to be revolutionary in nature and I believe will receive a cold shoulder. To my mind, it should not be passed at this session, more time being required to study same - it being almost a complete book of itself - one section removes the incohate interest of a wife, thus allowing the husband to mortgage or sell his real estate without the wife joining. I am opposed to such.

Several labor bills introduced in the House - also repeal of compusatory arbitration.

Civil Defense Action in both houses is causing considerable concern and worry to all of us. From facts we have to date, it is quite vital to the State.

The House Friday, without just reason, started making motions to indefinitely postpone bills, causing considerable confusion - until brought under control. I nearly lost my pheasant bill - however managed to get same re-instated and passed.

Senate Bill 94 sponsored by myself and Senator Kendall, which corrects a 1949 act pertaining to non-profit colleges like Tri-State passed Senate 47-0 - no dissenting vote.

The two boat regulation bills sponsored by myself, both reported out of committee for action next week.

To date I have not missed a roll call or vote - and hope to continue this record until the closing of the session.

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

WATCHFULNESS on the part of the poultryman can prevent a costly drop in egg production during these winter months and the resultant loss of farm profits.

There are several ways to anticipate such slumps and avoid them, but primarily it's a matter of keeping a close watch on the birds and being able to foresee an oncoming egg slump before it becomes serious.

One of the first signs to watch for is a decline in feed consumption. This means keeping a close check on how much feed each pen is eating, so that when the feed intake drops off, it will be noticed right away.

Handling a few birds each day is one way a poultryman can tell whether his birds are losing weight. Birds that are losing weight usually slow up in their egg production. If the birds aren't handled, their weight loss and the accompanying loss in production might not be noticed until it has already cost a considerable amount.

That means watching the weight of the birds is necessary to prevent this wintertime threat to keeping egg production as high as possible.

Another thing that can have a bad effect on egg production is a sudden or abrupt change in the way the birds are managed. Changes in their regular feeding routine or the irregular use of artificial lights often have a bad effect on egg production. A cold snap, too, can cause a noticeable drop, unless precautions are taken to keep the birds warm.

Once a slump in egg production is detected, it can usually be prevented by feeding wet mash or pellets. This should step up feed consumption and stop a decrease in body weight.

All these precautions and remedies, of course, hinge on one thing—watchfulness on the part of the poultryman. The old "stitch in time—" saying applies here as well as in any other phase of farming.

CONCORD JR. HOME EC CLUB

The February 5 meeting of the Concord Jr. Home Ec Club was held at the home of Fern Draggoo. The meeting was opened by the president and reading of the club creed in unison. Marcelle Storer read the history of the song of the month, "Oh Susanah," and led the club in singing. Billie Mason gave devotions by reading "At the Foot of the Cross" and "If I Were You."

Miss Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent, gave the lesson on good grooming, using Billie Mason and Rose Means as her subjects. It was a very interesting lesson and many useful tips were given.

The special leaders gave very interesting reports. Florence Miller gave a report on gardening, Marcia Sible gave a report on health, Marcelle Storer gave a report on food preservation and Ellen Fetters gave a report on poultry.

The club decided to give $2.50 to the Heart Fund, and $2.50 to the March of Dimes.

Thirteen members answered roll call by giving their most treasured childhood memory. Eight guests were present: Miss Moore, Louise Church. Roma Baker, Lula Allison, Ann Beebe, Evelyn Walters, Betty Rediger and Sally Draggoo. The club has gained four new members, Ann Beebe, Lula Allison, Evelyn Walters and Betty Rediger.

The meeting closed with the reading of the club collect. The hostess then served a delicious lunch. The date of the March meeting has been changed from the 5th to the 12th. The meeting will be held at the home of Gladys Akey.

to produce for peace and defense

Your supply of Electric Power has been doubled

What will it be? Fedoras or helmets . . . sedans or tanks? And in what quantities?

Nobody really knows right now how much of America's capacity to produce will be devoted to civilian goods in the months ahead, and how much to the materiel of war. But two things are certain:

First, industry—on a war or peacetime basis—makes greater use of electricity today than ever before in history.

Second, the companies of the American Gas and Electric System are in better shape than ever to meet both military and civilian demands for electric power.

Both types of demand were met promptly and adequately by this company and its AG&E affiliates all through the crucial years of World War II. Today—thanks to new plants and additions to older ones—our customers have nearly twice as much electricity available to them as there was at the time of Pearl Harbor, only nine short years ago.

And the System has 1,400,000 kw. of new capacity coming on the line by the summer of 1953. Of this, 450,000 kw. will come into service in 1951, 350,000 in '52 and 600,000 in '53-bringing the System's capacity to 3,734,000 kw. And if more is needed, it will be forthcoming.

Pickles Take 18th, 19th; Go Ahead In Tourney

Sechler's Pickles captured their 18th and 19th victories of the current season the past weekend with wins over the New Haven Merchants at the local gym and Magnavox in the Zollner Piston tournament.

The New Haven aggregation, sporting several former Fort Wayne high school stars with a won-lost record of 25-2, jumped to a 17-15 first quarter lead. Beck, Clark and Heller led a 24-point second quarter and Pickles were ahead 39-35 at the half.

The third quarter ended 54-52 with the locals maintaining the narrow margin. They outscored New Haven by 5 points in the last quarter to gain a 76-69 victory.

After getting off to a slow start Sunday evening at Fort Wayne with a first quarter lead of 8-6, the Pickles found the range and steadily pulled away from the Magnavox five to a 25-15 halftime lead.

They contined to hit the bucket in the 3rd stanza, Akey and Kinsey getting 6 points each. The score was 42-24 at the three-quarter mark. Tom Beck dumped in four baskets in the final period and the final score was 59-40.

Beck led the scoring with 12, followed by Heller with 11 and Akey with 10.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

Washington—Summarizing the past week's activities in the Congress, the most important events were General Eisenhower's speech and the President's demand for new and heavier taxes.

While I was favorably impressed with the General's sincerity and dynamic presentation, he failed to touch on several vital points concerning western Europe's and our mutual defense plans which I believe need explaining. He also omitted any reference to the part England is to play although he indicated the Atlantic Pact nations would cooperate.

President Truman called for vast new taxes which will be a tremendous burden to everyone. Since a major portion of this money will be used in some sort of gigantic "lend-lease," we are certainly entitled to know where our money is being spent and that other nations are bearing their fair share of the load.

I have already criticized the President's budget of $71.5 billions. His demands for $16.5 billions in new taxes with $10 billions immediately are shocking. It was only last October that personal income taxes were raised by 20 percent. Now the President asks for another 25 percent increase and General Eisenhower says we should divert 20 percent of our production to defense purposes. Where are we headed?

Various authorities say the budget can be cut from $7 to $9 billions without impairing mobilization. I shall certainly do everything within my power to cut non-essential spending to the bone. The nation is in no mood to tolerate the continuation of the foolish extravagances of the Administration's socialistic planners.

BAER FIELD REACTIVATION —Another item of interest to the Fourth District is the reactivation of Baer Field. Following a conference in the Pentagon with representatives from Fort Wayne, Senator Capehart and myself, the Air Force authorized a survey to determine commercial and military use of the field. The City expressed its "cooperation" and invited the Air Force back, but wished to continue commercial air line facilities. A decision is expected soon for reopening the field as a medium bomber base with 4,300 personnel.

RECIPROCAL TRADE—Agriculture, labor and business are all keenly interested in H.R. 1612, the bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Agrements for another 3 years. The House started debate, but postponed final action on the bill until February 8.

CASE OF OUSTED TEACHER VENUED TO DEKALB COUNTY

A case involving a former Steuben County school principal who charges that he was not given proper notice when he was relieved of his position, has been venued to the DeKalb Circuit Court in Auburn from the Steuben Circuit Court at Angola.

The action was filed by the state of Indiana on relation of Willis R. Roberts, deposed principal of the Orland school. Roberts charges that the defendant, A. B. Collins, principal of Millgrove Township, in which Orland is situated, failed to give him proper notice that his contract would not be renewed for the present year.

Roberts asked re-instatement.

The case has aroused widespread interest and is regarded as a test case of a law which has been on the statute books for some time regarding teacher contracts.

The action was filed last September 12. Roberts was replaced by Robert Garvue as principal for the 1950-51 school year.

Long-term Investment that pays daily dividends

THESE days thoughtful people turn their minds to the durability of things they purchase.

But it's rare when doing your duty turns out to be the best way to satisfy your heart's desire.

That's what's so marvelous about this '51 Buick.

If you picked a car just for the lift it gives you—your pride in its power—or its generous comfort—you couldn't make a better choice.

But make note of this:

That gleaming new push-bar forefront, which greets your eye with flashing beauty, contains 25 grille bars made of stamped steel, individually mounted to "give" and come back unharmed. Combined with a massive, wrap-around bumper, fortressed by two stalwart "bumper bombs" and two added uprights, it gives unsurpassed protection.

Springs of stout spiraled steel on all four wheels let your wheels curtsey over bumps, while you ride level as a lance. But they also need no servicing, and breakage is virtually unknown.

Buick's great-powered engine is a Fireball, wondrously lively and eager at the mere touch of your toe—but it also wrings extra power from every drop of fuel, and has the mechanical perfection that comes only from years of experience with this basic design.

Dynaflow Drive gives you effortless smoothness of control—but it also eliminates clutch repair bills, saves tires, eases strain on the whole driving mechanism, from engine to differential.

The road-steady gait of a Buick assures relaxed security—and is also evidence that you have a durable, deep-silled, X-braced frame beneath you.

However you check it, you'll discover this: The things that make you yearn for a Buick on first acquaintance, are the very same things that make Buick such a smart long-time buy.

Better see your Buick dealer—soon.

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

Motorists May Claim Deductions

Car owners may claim a number of deductions for their automobiles in preparing their 1950 federal income tax returns. But the Chicago Motor Club says that many motorists will save on taxes by taking the standard deduction of ten percent allowed by law rather than by itemizing specific deductions.

All motorists may claim:

State license fee; city vehicle tax; state gasoline tax (4 cents per gallon in Indiana); sales tax (2 percent in Illinois); personal property tax; driver's license fee; losses from fire, theft, collision or other casualty (if not reimbursed by insurance or otherwise); interest on automobile loans.

For those putting their cars only to private or pleasure use, a greater saving will often be made by taking advantage of the overall 10 percent deduction. Many motorists use their cars for both business and pleasure. In all cases, the individual circumstances will determine which course is more beneficial: taking the 10 percent deduction or listing the expenses allowed every motorist -- as above -- plus the business expenses which will apply.

These are the expenses incurred by cars used directly in business. In general, it would pay to list these on the "long form." They are:

Gasoline, oil and grease; depreciation; insurance premiums; washing; parking charges; tolls for bridges, superhighways and tunnels; towing; chauffer's salary; garage rent; repairs; finance charges (not deductible as interest).

Depreciation may be determined by taking the cost of the automobile, subtracting the estimated salvage value at the end of the car's useful life, and dividing the remainder by the probable number of years the car will be used. Of course, if the entire value of the car has been claimed as depreciation in income tax returns for previous years, no more depreciation may be claimed.

In estimating the percentage of car use devoted to business purposes it is important to note that the Collector of Internal Revenue does not classify driving from home to a fixed place of work as business use. Therefore, the cost of such driving is not deductible as such.

FINAL PREPARATIONS MADE FOR ALERT ON FEB. 10 & 11

The community chief and assistant ground observers of the DeKalb County Civilian Defense organization made final preparations last week for participation in the state-wide mock general alert on Feb. 10 and 11.

The ground deputy director of ground observation, Dean Sigler of Auburn, presided at the meeting and outlined the program for the alert. Observation posts at Auburn, Garrett, Waterloo, Butler, St. Joe-Spencerville and Corunna will be named by observers. The alerts will occur sometime between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on the 10th and 11th.

Mr. Sigler said reports on aircraft detection will be forwarded either to Fort Wayne or to South Bend. The definite relay center will be selected later.

John McIntyre of Auburn, county director of civilian defense, said 35 observers and assistants, representing every community in DeKalb County, attended the meeting.

The army air force is expected to have planes in the air to coordinate the alert.

Technicalities or communications on the alert days were worked out by communication officials of the defense group at a meeting held in conjunction with the ground observer meeting.

The meeting was directed by R. Wayne Smith of Auburn, county deputy communications head. Attending the meeting were W. A. Storey of the Auburn telephone exchange, C. E. Trainer of Garrett, Robert Jones of Butler, Raymond Oster of Corunna, Al Ringenberg of Spencerville, K. P. Sithen of Garrett and Mr. McIntyre.

Liquor Board Splits Vote

The score is tied at 2 for and 2 against in the latest round of the merry-go-round proceedings in which no one seems to know how to measure 200 feet.

The Steuben Circuit Court recently issued an injunction against "Chuck's Place" in St. Joe but the injunction has not been enforced, supposedly to allow the proprietor, Charles McIntosh, to dispose of his stock. The court in its decision issued a verbal lashing at the ABC for its"arbitrary standard of measurement" in issuing the first permit in February of 1950.

At a hearing last Wednesday, February 7, the vote of the DeKalb liquor licensing board ended in a split vote, which leaves the decision directly up to the state Alcoholic Beverage Commission at Indianapolis.

The next apparent step in the case would be for the "protestors" to ask that McIntosh be cited into the Steuben Circuit Court on contempt charges to show cause why he has failed to comply with the injunction order.

McIntosh told the board that his attorney, Raymon S. Perry of Fort Wayne, has filed a motion for a new trial. If the new trial is not granted, the only recourse McIntosh would have is an appeal to a higher court.

J. E. Bond of Fort Wayne, field representative of the ABC, presided at the hearing. He asked Mr. Van Horne, attorney for the opposition, after hearing the latter's summary of the Steuben court's action, to furnish him with a statement of the proceedings.

The local boards do not issue licenses but only recommend either issuance or rejection of permits. Final action is up to the ABC. It was reliably reported following Wednesday's hearing that two members of the board, Arthur Friend and Lee Wise, refused to recommend renewal of the permit. Bond and Harry Rainier, third member of the board, voted in the affirmative.

Heart Fund Drive Underway

A drive is underway in DeKalb County to raise funds for research into the causes of heart disease, the biggest single killer of the American people.

This year, as last, the campaign is under the sponsorship of the DeKalb Women's Federation of Clubs. Mrs. Evadna Covell of Auburn, president of the county organization, is chairman of the campaign committee.

No quota for the campaign, which will extend throughout February, has been announced. Mrs. Covell said co-workers of the clubs in DeKalb County are now distributing the heart-shaped collection boxes.

The complete organization to conduct the drive has not been announced. Appointments made so far include Mrs. William Haefling and Mrs. Leonard Hess as co-chairmen of the campaign in Auburn, Mrs. Arthur Gallatin as Garrett chairman, Mrs. Carl Swank as chairman in Ashley, Mrs. A. M. Bisel as Waterloo chairman and Mrs. Maurice Kline of St. Joe as chairman for the St. Joe-Spencerville community.

No chairman has been announced for the Butler community.

In 1948, the last year for which official statistics are available, heart diseases killed 637,697 persons in the United States. This was 44 percent of all deaths in the country.

An estimated 9,000,000 persons in the U. S. have heart disease and of these, an estimated 500,000 are elementary and high school children.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I wish to thank the community for their past patronage and to explain that my shop will be closed indefinitely due to my taking a job with the Harvester at Fort Wayne.

Thank you, one and all.

County Alert A Success

Nearly 100 men worked as ground observers Saturday and Sunday as DeKalb County participated in the state-wide general alert for civilian defense.

Dean Sigler of Auburn, deputy director for the county of ground observations, said the operation proceeded without a hitch in the three observation post centers in Auburn, St. Joe and Waterloo. He praised the workers at all the centers who in their first attempt bettered records set in the November 4 and 5 alert in which DeKalb County did not participate.

The observation men at the three posts in DeKalb County spotted a total of 119 aircraft during the two-day alert and made a total of 101 telephone calls to Indiana filter center.

Mr. Sigler said observers were on duty from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. In addition to spotting commercial flights, the groups reported air force planes, including P-51 fighter craft and a jet fighter. The jet fighter was spotted by the crew at Waterloo.

Mr. Sigler said the cooperation of telephone operators in the alert was excellent.

The observation post in Auburn was at the Auburn airport. The St. Joe post was in the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tower at the Wabash-B. & O. railroad junction at St. Joe. In Waterloo the community observer, Loren Dunn, and his assistants and observers, established their post in a field off East Maple street near the state highway garage. They operated a field telephone on a 500-foot extension.

In Auburn ground observers made 23 telephone calls Saturday to report 27 aircraft and on Sunday they made 10 calls to report 13 planes.

The fastest call was completed in 30 seconds while the slowest took one minute and two seconds. During the November 4 and 5 alert, the average time was two minutes.

The Waterloo observers made 33 telephone calls Saturday to report 37 aircraft while on Sunday 25 telephone messages reported 25 aircraft. The fastest and slowest calls at Waterloo were identical with the Auburn report.

The observers at St. Joe made seven telephone messages reporting 12 airplanes Saturday and on Sunday made three calls to report five planes. The fastest time for the post was 45 seconds while a delay at the filter center on one call caused the message to take six minutes for clearance. The average was under two minutes, however, according to the community director, Robert Ridgway.

The number of observation posts in DeKalb County will pe increased to four when Butler workers complete filling out prescribed forms, according to the county director of civilian defense, John W. Mcntyre.

Mr. Sigler released Monday the list of observers who served under Elmer DeLucaney, Auburn community director, and his two assistants, Dorsie Likens and Max J. Fee. They included Robert Calvin, Dennis McDarby, Arthur Calvert, Hubert Kinsey, Quentin Mavis, Merrill Cline, Holland Sherck, Howard Meadows, Karl Knapp, John Muhn, Ford Rohm, Howard Wappes, Delvin Armstrong, Russell Ridgway, Dan Berry, Verne Rockwell, Charles Swartout, Adrian Mavis, Richard Holben, Dean Arnold, Roger Kain, Paul McKenzie, Alva Ramsey, Carleton Timbrook, Wilbert Campbell, Barney Cooper and George Wheeler.

Assistants to Mr. Dunn at Waterloo were Walter Haislip and Max Rufner. The observers were Wayne Sebert, John Sherburn, Fern Skelly, Maurice Starkey, Francis Ulm, Delbert Clark, Robert Dove, Estel Bachtel, Clide Boman, James Bricker, Clarence Buesking, George Buss, Francis Carroll, Don Clear, James Duncan, Edwin Dunn, Carl Ebert, Charles Dunn, Albert Hoff, Dale Henderson, Ned McIntosh, Hubert Moughler, Mel Parker, Alfred Pfefferkorn, Lawrence Rathert, Lester Geeting and William Hire.

Assistants to Mr. Ridgway at St. Joe are Hershel Shockley and Garford Smith. The observers are Harold Baker, Robert Coburn, Verne Coburn, Herman Collins, Ray Donat, Lloyd Dunten, Robert Eamick, Albert Ewell, Glen Freeburn, Foster Gee, Richard Freeburn, Charles Harter, Elton Howard, Fred Hall, Ned Keller, Ray Moore, Kenneth Ridgway, Richard Roberts, Zay Sailor, Harry Shuff, Merlin Simanton, Paul Tustison, Lewis Walter, Russell Walter, Andrew Herschberger, George Tustiton and Eugene Baker.

The community directors said several men have volunteered seeking positions as ground observers. They are expected to be added to the groups.

Jesus is Christ

Lesson for February 18, 1951

IT SOUNDS odd to modern ears (or to any ear for the past 18 centuries) to say that Jesus "is" Christ. It sounds like saying Abraham is Lincoln, or Winston is Churchill. "Jesus Christ" has become long since a proper name like any other combination of name and surname. But in the early days of Christianity it took sermons to persuade people that Jesus was indeed the Christ; and if people knew what "Christ" means, they would see that most sermons today are really aimed at convincing people of the same thing: Jesus is Christ. When Peter said to Jesus "You are the Christ," Jesus' reply shows that Peter had not only said something important, but something which up to that time had not dawned on any one else.

Dr. Foreman

Only One Christ

WE shall have to think what the word "Christ" meant as Peter used the word and as Jesus understood it. The Jews of that time were looking with eager excitement for an "anointed one" (the literal meaning of Christ, or Messiah) who would put an end to all the evil of the world and usher in God's New Age. They were not quite clear how this would be done, but they were sure that only the Christ could do it.

Consider three points. First, when Peter said "You are Christ" he meant "You are unique." No Jew looked for two Christs. There is no one else in Jesus' class, there is only one of him. Every human being, to be sure, is different from all others; but Simon Peter did not mean that. What he did mean was that Jesus could not be classed as "a" teacher or "a" prophet or "a" man of God. He was the Teacher and Prophet. He was God's Man as no other man was.

We make a mistake, we get away from the original Christian faith, the faith which Jesus praised, when we put Jesus on the same level with other men, any other men. There is only one Christ.

God Was in Christ

IN the second place, when Peter called Jesus "Christ" he meant that God had anointed him. He was not a man who took a notion to do what he did; he was one whom God had appointed to be and to do as God willed. We cannot understand Jesus apart from God, for his source is God.

Any one who reads the gospel of John will find this very prominent in Jesus' thinking always: "I was sent . . . My meat is to do the will of him that sent me."

Christians later than this saw that the relation between God and Jesus was even closer than that between sender and sent. Jesus is called the Son of God, he is called the Word that was with God and was God. Paul says God was in Christ.

Later generations would develop the doctrine of the Trinity as it is expressed (for instance) in the Nicene Creed. Every century has its own formulas. Peter in the first century does not use the language of the fourth century, still less of the 20th; but all the formulas express in various ways the conviction Peter had: that when Christ confronts us, God confronts us.

Christ Is Lord of All

A THIRD thing Peter meant when he called Jesus "Christ" and that the church means now—is that he has complete authority. All other authority, in the church or out of it, is less than his.

A word often used to express this truth is "Lord." But the word alone is not enough. It really makes less difference what words we use about Jesus than what our attitude to him is. Jesus himself once spoke sternly of people who call him "Lord, Lord," but do not do the things he says to do.

It is one thing to say, in the Creed, that we believe in "Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord;" it is another thing to carry that part of the creed into life. Jesus is our Lord; not the church, not Moses, not Paul, not any hero or saint of the church, but Jesus. Christians take orders from him first of all, for we believe that his mind was the mind of God.

A Christian profession of faith, therefore, is more than a statement of belief; it is an oath of allegiance.

News Flashes

by Sen. Willis K. Batchelet

FEBRUARY 5 TO 10

Monday last day to introduce new bills;; numerous bills both in House and Senate. There is now in House 324 and in Senate 260 bills, a large percentage being what we term screwball bills and will have to be killed.

Senate Bill 32 - being the income tax levy for cities now definitely dead.

Senate passed resolution to make complete investigation of the Auto Bureau - as to costs of operation and delays in issuing licenses.

House has bill to make owners of automobiles carry insurance, also bill in House attempting to make owners liable for injuries to their guests riding in their car. This bill is setting bad precedence and should be opposed.

Senate and House starting probe of gasoline used in state-owned cars for private pleasure. We want to STOP such.

House passed bill to increase retired teachers pensions from $59.00 to $80.00 per month. This I believe is a good measure and should be supported.

Public Defender bill passed Senate. From investigation, this is a necessary bill.

House has bill attempting to change Memorial Day.

House Time Bill seeks to place issue to voters in next election.

Senate passed bill for referendum to voters, making office of County Treasurer, Coroner and Surveyor four year terms - passed vote 44-3.

House bills to abolish Indiana Economic Council, Traffic Safety Commission, Aeronautics Commission, Department of Commerce and Public Relations and the Judicial Council. This is a dangerous step to take without due consideration.

Senate passed 48-0 my bill to increase powers of Aeronautics Commission to publish maps and accept grants for approved airports. This is vital to our Civilian Defense and shows the sentiment of the Senators and the bill to completely abolish the commission will not survive in the Senate.

Senate terminated the new Harmony Commission. Vote 43-2.

My Boat Regulation bill 116 passed the Senate vote 37-10 and sent to the House.

We passed House Bill 6 - authorizing County Commissioners to execute oil and gas leases by competitive bidding - vote 48-0. This applies only to oil territory or Indiana and was in my Committee.

Senate passed Hunting & Fishing license bill amending House bill raising fee to $2.50 sponsored by myself in Senate by vote 43-1.

Gene Stratton Porter Bird Sanctuary resolution passed Senate 38-0.

Too many bills presented in House that by a back door method will surely increase taxes, both locally and in state; for instance, the judges salaries and new courts creating additional judges will have to be met by new taxes - the state without such now running in deficit to the amount of $82,734.08 for such.

Made inquiry of several House members as to why they were passing bills without due consideration of all facts - received reply - we only pass them to get them off our desks and let you boys in the Senate weed them out. What a poor attitude for them to take. It also places a hard burden upon us.

Senate worked Saturday and House adjourned until Monday. We are now ahead of the House.

TOWN BOARD APPROVES DISANNEXATION

Inasmuch as there were no remonstrances filed against the disannexation of certain real estate in Butler, the town board last week passed an ordinance moving the corporation line in the west part of Butler.

The property involved in the disannexation proceedings is the building site of the Universal Tool & Stamping Co., of Spencerville, which is located on the south side of West Main street.

The petition to have the property disannexed was filed by the Butler Chamber of Commerce.

Dear Friends Back Home,

I guess it is about time I wrote and let you know that I'm now a resident of "Truman Island" instead of Spencerville.

I guess at one time the "Mo" was called the "Muddy Mo" but now she is called the moral builder over here now. I have to laugh when I look back at boot days when they said we wouldn't be coming over here for at least 6 months, but we ended up here not quite a month later.

I still think of the good times I've had back home and waiting for the day I'll be back home for a visit and some more good times. Must close.

The Culture Club was held at the home of Mrs. James Tatlock February 7 with Mrs. Clyde Duker as co-hostess.

The president led the members in reading the club collect. Mrs. Frank Monroe was in charge of the devotions. She read a poem, "Our Prayer For Peace," by James J. Metcalf. Mrs. Edna Jenkins had the lesson. She chose two topics from the Readers Digest, "Anna Goes To Washington" and "The Alaska Highway."

The special work for the evening was drama. Mrs. Clyde Duker was the director of a one-act play called "Just Like Sisters." Those who took part in the play were Mrs. Roy Bowser, Mrs. Albert Wade, Mrs. Leslie Meek and Mrs. Lester Anthony.

There were twenty members present who responded to the roll call with "Humor."

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Olen Waltz on Feb. 21.

LOYAL WOMEN'S CLASS MEETS

Mrs. W. H. Baker was hostess at the parsonage for the January meeting of the Loyal Women's Sunday School Class of the Spencerville Lutheran Church.

Notwithstanding very inclement weather fourteen members were able to attend.

Flossie Rhoads, president, presided and the meeting was opened by singing "Tell Me the Story of Jesus."

The program committee, Zelpha Steward and Jennie Walter, used for their devotional theme "Christian Love" from I Cor.

Mrs. Steward read an inspiring article "At Home With God."

Prayer followed.

Mrs. Walter read "A Modern Parable" by Fulton Oursler.

The social part of the evening included an elimination contest and a gift exchange.

Later a bountiful carry-in supper was enjoyed by all.

Everyone appreciated the Christian fellowship extended by Pastor and Mrs. Baker.

New Power Line To Be Constructed

Indian & Michigan Electric Co. announced plans yesterday for the construction of a new 33,000 volt transmission line extending from Auburn to Butler, a distance of approximately ten miles.

Work has already begun on the project with completion scheduled around June 1.

In addition to the new line, switching structures will be erected at each end of the line to tie in with the existing facilities now in operation. The new high voltage line will follow approximately the route of the Vandalia Railroad between Auburn and Butler. The company plans to erect a new switching station at the east side of Auburn, for the termination of the line at that point, and a new switching station in the southwest part of Butler which will ultimately replace the present station in Butler located on Depot Street, and will also allow for the removal of the 33,000 volt line from the present station to the western city limits of Butler. Before completion, the whole project is estimated to cost over $210,000.

"The new line will make a marked difference in the reliability and continuity of service in the Butler, Harlan, St. Joe and Hamilton areas," Frank Korsmeyer, I & M Butler District Manager, pointed out. The present main source of supply serving these areas in I & M's Butler district is a single 33,000 volt line eminating from the company's Robison Park Substation. "This line has had sufficient capacity to take care of the loads in the past," Mr. Korsmeyer said. "However, this source, together with an additional smaller source the company has for serving this area by virtue of a tie with an affiliate utility, the Ohio Power Co., near the St. Joe substation, does not allow for much future expansion. With the addition of this second source of supply, this entire area will be in a good position to meet any predictable growth."

When completed, the new line, together with the existing one, will form a complete loop, meaning that any of the company's substations in this area can be fed from either one of the lines, improving the ability to maintain good voltage and much better continuity than the single line has been able to provide in the past.

In conjunction with this construction program, Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. plans changes in many of its distribution feeders by installing automatic equipment which will better protect the facilities and reduce the possibility of outages which might occur due to lightning strokes hitting the line.

OUTSTANDING CHORUS ON FINAL CONCERT PROGRAM

"A thrilling musical experience. The 35 voice Negro chorus sings with such vitality, understanding and precision as to make it one of the world's great choral groups." So ran the review of a De Paur Infantry Chorus in a recent appearance at Seattle. One of America's foremost music critics, Olin Downes, of the New York Times, wrote of this magnificent choral group: "One of the best trained choral ensembles now before the public. In point of balance, tone quality, rhythmic precision and shading, its singing is exemplary. In the sum of it, a fine body of voices, beautifully balanced and controlled, presented a program of a remarkably varied kind with exceptional technique and musicianship."

The DeKalb County Community Concert Association is proud to present this outstanding ensemble for its final program of this season on Thursday, February 22, at the Court Theatre in Auburn.

Mr. Gilbert Coble of Garrett, president of the local association, states that the demand for the De Paur Chorus in the large cities of our nation was so great that in order to present them to local members it was necessary to contract them nearly a year ago, well in advance of last season's membership drive. This year's membership campaign will get underway with a dinner for workers on Monday, February 26, and the officers will find a real challenge to match the artistry of Elwood Gary, tenor, the beautiful ensemble playing of the Dranoffs, duo pianists, and the last group of artists the De Paur Infantry Chorus.

Our 1950 Taxes Amount to more than $77,000 a Day!

● That's a lot of money. It's nearly 3 times as much as the total taxes paid by the electric companies of Indiana in 1940 . . . reflecting, like your own taxes, the need for more and more money to pay for the rapidly mounting expenses of government and the heavy cost of national defense.

And today our defense requirements must be met. The electric companies of Indiana, like all investor-owned businesses and industries, and like individual taxpayers, are carrying their full share of the tax load. In addition, they're building more and more electric power facilities as rapidly as possible to help our farms, businesses and industries meet the great demands that may soon again be made upon them.

Fortunately, not a day has been lost in the biggest electric expansion program ever undertaken in Indiana. Already our 1940 electric power supply has been DOUBLED. By the end of 1953 ANOTHER 600 thousand kilowatts—over half as much as we had altogether in 1940—will have been added. These huge additions to Indiana's power supply will have cost over $500 million in 13 years . . . dollars well spent to power greater prosperity for everyone in time of peace, but ready now—if need be—to power Indiana's farm and industrial machinery for all-out war!

NOW—Twice the Electric Power AND MORE TO COME!

ARTIFICIAL BREEDERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The DeKalb County Artificial Breeding Association recently held its Annual Meeting at Auburn.

Chairman Richard Crow, president, presided. Secretary's and Treasurer's reports were submitted, showing the association to have made an unusually fine gain in number of cows bred for 1950 as compared with 1949. Financially, the association is in a sound position for the coming year.

Frank De La Croix, Extension Dairyman of Purdue University, discussed development of artificial breeding, causes of non-setfling cow and what dairymen can do to help.

Richard C. Newman, Extension Representative of the Indiana Artifical Breeding Association of Carmi, Indiana, explained the American Breeders Service.

The DeKalb County Artificial Breeding Association closed its Annual meeting with the election of new directors for the new year. New directors elected were: Robert Guthrie, Butler; John Yarde, Keyser; Wayne Benninghoff, Newville: Robert Witt, Spencer; and Allen Hullinger, Stafford.

Spencerville Wins

The Spencerville Red Raiders pulled out a 50-41 victory over Washington Center Friday evening. The Raiders had to go all out to gain their win. Washington Center led at the end of the first period, 15-14, but Alf Paschen led the Raiders into a 25-21 lead at half-time. The Raiders continued to build their margin in the third stanza mainly on the work of Eddie Hook and then maintained their lead to the finish.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

BREAD FOR INDIA—When we reach the people of any nation with understanding of mutual problems and human relationships, I am confident that we can have peace, regardless of the dictation by political leaders. This is one of my reasons for supporting the shipment of grain to India.

While I am not entirely satisfied with the attitude of Nehru and the other leaders of the Indian government, yet I do agree that this grain should be shipped. In my opinion, the government of India has not adopted a proper attitude upon the Chinese question recently before the United Nations. They have been reluctant to support the United States and the great majority of the other nations. Again, their relations with their neighboring state, Pakistan, have not been all that could be desired. If these two states would cooperate and exchange products which each has in surplus, many of their problems would be solved.

However, I am informed that we do have a carry-over of wheat in excess of 300 million bushels, which is about double the amount considered to be safe for our needs. As a result of drought and other factors, the Indian people need food. Therefore, for humanitarian reasons, I agree that the grain they request should be shipped, and I shall do what I can to carry into effect that conclusion. After all, compared to what we have given to many other countries in terms of dollar value, this is a rather small item.

ADMINISTRATION WASTE—The President has dared the Congress to try and cut his unprecedented peacetime budget of $71.5 billions. While the President was making this statement at a press conference, his budget director was testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee on the Administration's request for $10 billions in new taxes. It was pointed out that the Federal Government owned 20,119 passenger vehicles and 14 automobiles were parked around the House Office Building at that moment with chauffers in them and with their motors running. The budget director had no comment. Obviously, the President's budget can be cut.

CONTINUE DRIVE ON SUBVERSIVES—The House voted $200,000 for the House Un-American Activities Committee to carry on its operations this year. It was this committee, and not the President's "loyalty program," which rooted out the Communists and their sympathizers like William W. Remington, former Commerce Department economist, who was convicted of perjury for denying that he was a Red.

CUPID'S COLUMN

Valentine's Day is just around the corner and it seems that cupid has already started shooting his arrows. This is the "casualty list" so far.

A big arrow that seems to be flying around has hit quite a few targets in the last couple of weeks. Joyce Baker and Imy Conley, we believe know about this sudden rush. Could the "Arrow" answer to the name of Harvey???

There seems to be a big, sweetheart box floating around. No, it's not chocolates we're talking about. It's Peggy Romine and she appears to be all tied up with a very handsome ribbon labeled Sonny Mathes. Right Peggy?

Miss Hollabaugh, we would like to know who brought you home from the Spencerville-Salem Center game ?? A word of warning-be careful, targets are being sought for cupid's work!

Our cassanova, Jack Hollabaugh, seems to be back at his usual day dreaming. Cupid put Jack in his bow and shot him straight toward Jo Pratt. Nice going, Jack!

What's what with Helen Kruse and Jack S.? We haven't heard for such a long time. Please inform us more about these kids.

Gene and Jim Dwyer have been making a steady foursome with Adair and Imy. We think they look very cute!

Joe Long, what were you doing on the radiator in Mr. Finger's room the other day? And why did you get down so quickly??

Eddie H. has been expressing his sentiments to Dixie with paper and pen. Be careful, Eddie; say it with flowers, gifts, etc.; but don't say it on paper.

Thanks for the banana, John. I appreciated it very much. Ha! Sincerely yours--Pat.

Dale Butler is wearing a class ring on his litle finger. Whose is it?? Could it be a certain little lady from St. Joe?

Maxine has been singing a happy tune. She wishes to thank cupid for the wonderful target he stabbed for her. We think Amy is cute, too.

Joan, is it that you enjoy riding in convertibles (red ones at that) or is it the drivers that fascinate you????

Attention Sophomore Girls!!!!! Why is it that no one has latched on to that "dream," Frankie Dwyer?? Those blue eyes! Right Dort?

Cleo, were you helping Norman with his foot at the Spencerville-Salem C. game or was it merely a friendly get-together?

Why was Jim L. so embarrassed when he walked into the Home Ec room last week? Do you know, Adair??

SIGHT OF THE WEEK—Normie Weible hopping down stairs on one foot, while the Sophie girls run off with his crutches!!

Mincemeat Waffles

For a delightful mincemeat dessert, spread mincemeat between crisp golden waffles and top with caramel sauce.

Mincemeat waffles are a new mincemeat treat to take a favored place among desserts along with mincemeat pie. The crisp golden waffles, made with enriched flour, are perfect to carry the rich mincemeat flavor. Because of their protein, B-vitamins, and iron enriched waffles may be served as luncheon or supper main dish.

Your friends will praise such a delectable and original dessert as mincemeat waffles, yet they can be an emergency sweet when the pantry is dessert-shy and unexpected callers arrive. Cut the double-deck mincemeat waffles in quarters to serve four, topping each serving with hot rum-caramel or orange sauce.

Serve waffles occasionally as the substantial dessert to end a light meal. An interesting luncheon might include a winter pear and cream cheese salad, mincemeat waffles and coffee.

MINCEMEAT WAFFLES

1 cup sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 cup moist mincemeat

Around the Town

With the Editor

I have to write something this week. Norman Morr gave me the dickens last week because this column hadn't appeared and it's the first thing he looks for, he said. I'll try to do better in the future, but I was so busy last week, etc., etc., etc.

Say, if you're looking for the first indication of the coming of spring—a robin—stop looking. Victor (John) Coburn saw one two weeks ago—saw it too late though. The bird flew in front of his car and was killed.

They'll have to revise that old quotation to, "The early bird gets the works!"

Wondering why I called Victor (John) Coburn Victor (John) Coburn? That's because I have a heck of a time keeping the Coburn family names straight. I asked Derwood Ridgway last week who Robert Coburn was. He said, "That's 'Mutt' down at the corner."

"Oh. Is John the one who was at the recreation club meeting?"

"Yes, but his real name is Victor."

"Yeah, and Orville Coburn is 'Babe'."

"That's right."

"Well then, what's the ol' man's name?"

"Earl—but everybody calls him 'Shorty'."

—?!@! &@???!

Lady Luck smiled on Bill Sible at the St. Joe-Metz ball game at Metz last Friday.

He bought three chances on two cakes the host students were giving away. At half-time they pulled number 165.

Bill hollered, "That's my number!"

He went out and chose the chocolate cake in preference to the green-frosted cake. As he came back and sat down I pulled my pocket knife out and handed it to him so we all could get in on his good luck.

Meanwhile they called out the second winner, number 167.

There was a moment's hesitation as Bill fumbled around—then he yelled, "That's me, too!!"

The St. Joe fans got the chocolate cake and the ball team enjoyed the other one after the game.

There was a St. Joe fan who went clear to Garrett Wednesday for the basketball tourney before discovering that St. Joe was playing at Auburn.

—Guess who.

Spencerville Man Faces Charges

Indiana and Ohio police and the FBI are conferring on the fate of Ralph A. Bice, 31, of Rt. 1, Spencerville, who was arrested in Hicksville Saturday night in a stolen car.

Sheriff Frank Carpenter said Bice stole an automobile Friday night from a lot at the corner of Wayne and Clinton streets in Ft. Wayne. He drove to Butler where early Saturday morning he is alleged to have stolen license plates from a seat in an automobile owned by Cecil Read of Butler.

When he was arrested Saturday at Hicksville, the plates were found on the stolen automobile.

Bice is expected to be returned to Fort Wayne to face charges of second degree burglary unless he is prosecuted by the federal government on violation of the Dyer act governing transportation of a stolen vehicle across a state line.

Fort Wayne police said Bice, under questioning at Hicksville Sunday, admitted breaking into the Doty Lithographing Company, 333 East Lewis street on Feb. 7. Bice said he got $80 from the establishment although employees said at the time of the break-in that the total loss was $101.20.

The DeKalb County sheriff and Fort Wayne police said they plan further questioning of Bice in an effort to determine if he is linked with other burglaries in the area. Police said he probably will be given a lie detector test.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Withering Wind

Here's Our Man

The events of the past several years and, in particular, the past few months, have clearly shown that the "internationalism" policies the United States has been following lead only to "hot water."

This internationalism was advocated in the last two presidential elections by candidates of both major political parties. On each occasion the Republicans, seeking to regain the office long out of their hands, placed Thomas E. Dewey, the so-called "me-too" candidate, up for the voters' approval. On each occasion failure was the result.

After Herbert Hoover expressed his views on our problems recently, public approval of his statements was—and is—overwhelming, approval by the people. But the reaction will not have any influence on the present administration because it has shown its contempt for public opinion before and will not change. Administration leaders are obsessed with the idea that they know what is best for us whether we like it—want it—approve of it—or not.

Through it all there has been one man in the political picture who has been sticking to his guns regardless of criticism, even on the part of his fellow party members—and we must admit that we occasionally agreed with the criticism. He came through an election last fall with flying colors even though the labor bosses in his home state vowed to defeat him and spent millions of dollars in the attempt. He has been named at Republican conventions before as a possible presidential candidate, but was rejected. He has publicly indicated his approval of Mr. Hoover's statements—the statements which the people have accepted—the statements which Mr. Dewey has denounced.

If the Republican party fails to place Senator Robert Taft of Ohio on its ticket in 1952 as candidate for the office of president of the United States, it will commit one of the worst political blunders in history.

Yes, It Does

Is the current bribe scandal in basketball really so surprising?

What can you expect from young men who have been raised in a money-mad era of black markets, 5-percenters, etc.

They aren't the only ones who are looking for easy money. If John Q. Public would answer the following question honestly—"What was one of your first thoughts when the Korean war started"—we'd bet that the majority would answer—"Let's see, how can I make some big money off this one?" —With the accent on the "I".

New York's District Attorney Frank Hogan made a statement which covers the subject very nicely and we pass it on to you for some heavy thinking.

"It makes you wonder what has happened to our moral values."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Mark 9:2-50. DEVOTIONAL READING: Isaiah 61 1-4.

Glory and Service

Lesson for February 25, 1951

THERE ARE two sides of the Christian life that don't seem to mix. One of these we can call Glory. The very word suggests something not of this world; it calls up mystic visions, inner raptures, the light of heaven. We think of saints and angels in glory, for that is where they belong. But we ourselves can have a bit of it here and now.

Dr. Foreman

When Glory Comes

NOT every Christian has an experience of glory in this life. But those who do, usually find that it comes only at rare intervals, when one is alone, after long and perhaps painful prayer.

Sometimes it is an actual experience of something like great and blinding light; sometimes a hearing of voices as from another shore; sometimes a feeling of unutterable peace and joy such as nothing in this world can give. Whatever form it takes, the experience we are calling "glory" is always connected in the mind and heart with the felt presence of God. It may come in church or it may not; it may come on a river at sunset or some golden night beneath the stars.

However it comes, one longs above all things for it to remain. And while it does remain, one wishes to hear no human voice.

When Service Calls

BUT the Christian life is not all glory, by any means. If the glory-side is spiritual, the service-side is material. If the glory cannot be shared, the whole idea of service is sharing. For moments of glory there can be no date nor schedule, no predicted time and place, but acts of service must often be done by calendar and clock.

Glory may not come to every one but service is the duty of all. Yet service, like glory, may come to us from without. At a time when one least expects it, one will be called on for a service one is scarce prepared to give.

Service calls us every day; weariness and pain may at times bar us from glory, but only the last weariness and the most disabling pain will disbar us from service. Glory may be for those far advanced in the spiritual life; service is for these too, but also for the beginners.

The Weaving of Gold and Grey

NOW the trouble is that glory and service seem to get in each other's way. We actually feel like different persons, in glory and in service.

Let us say on a morning in church, when the winter sun is streaming through the windows on the communion bread and wine, and in the silence the solemn words are heard once more: "This is my body, broken for you," one may feel, in Miss Millay's words,

"This moment is the best the world can give,
The tranquil blossom on the tortured stem."

But the next day, when one is teaching a class of mischievous boys, or helping a neighbor fix a flat tire, or baby-sitting, or spading up a garden,—one does not feel like the same person. Can religion, the Christian religion, take in both glory and service?

Some Christians have thought not. Some have gone in for one, some for the other. Some live only for the high hours of worship and rapture, counting all the time between their radiant hours as "dark nights of the soul." Others leave worship to others; they are seldom to be found at communion, but they can always be counted on to help with church suppers or community chest drives.

Jesus showed us the better way. It is not a choice between glory and service; his life included both. He had his high moments, as on the Mount of Transfiguration; but they did not long remain. Presently he found himself down in the valley with disciples who did not understand him, and with demons hard to cast out.

Jesus took both sides of religion and made them one. There was glory in his service and there was service in his glory. (In the very hour of his transfiguration, did he not speak of his death?) The true Christian life, like that of Jesus, weaves the gold and the grey together, the shining gold of life's high moments, and the long-wearing grey of the years of service.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

INTRODUCES BILL--At the request of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, I introduced a bill to amend Veterans Regulation Numbered 1, to authorize for persons who served in the Armed Forces additional compensation on account of disfigurement. The bill was referred to the House Veterans Affairs Committee, of which I am a member. It is H. R. 2460.

The bill specifically provides: "If the disabled person as the result of service-incurred disability has suffered complete or exceptionaaly repugnant deformity of one side of the face or marked or repugnant bilateral disfigurement of the head, face or neck, the monthly compensation shall be $210; provided, that when combined with other disabilities the total amount of compensation payable shall in no event be in excess of $360."

MARSHALL PLAN STEEL--After protesting the dismantling of the German steel plant by the State Department, I received information this week from the 4th District which points to the possibility of a black market in Marshall Plan steel. A local manufacturer, unable to purchase American-made steel selling at a fraction over 4 cents a pound, discovered what appeared to be the same steel shipped from Europe at $201 a ton, or 10 cents a pound. I have asked for an investigation to determine if this is Marshall Plan steel which we have sent to Europe to alleviate their economic distress, and then find it channeled into the black market for resale.

NEWSPRINT SHORTAGE—Publishers in the 4th District have expressed concern over the tight newsprint situation. But there, apparently, will be no shortage of paper for the bureaucratic handouts. The Administration on February 9 ordered paper mills to reserve from 5 to 10 percent of all United States paper production for possible purchase by government agencies.

DISTRICT VISITORS—Recent visitors in the office here included Walter Walb of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Don Spake of Bluffton, Judge C. R. McNabb, Guy Stookey and Perry Williamson, all of Fort Wayne.

DEFENSE CONTRACTS—To facilitate consideration of defense contracts, the National Production Authority announces the opening of a field office at 507 Strauss Building, Fort Wayne.

Hot Muffins For the Menu

Keep muffins warm throughout the meal. Folding a gaily colored napkin over them helps keep them cozy and also makes for attractive service.

Simple lunches of cheese and fruit are extra-good when you serve them with muffins, hot and light. These thrifty quick-breads are so easy to make that even the beginning cook can have professional results.

The main ingredient in muffins, enriched flour, is both thrifty and nutritious. Sift flour before measuring. An easy way to do this is to sift a small amount onto a sheet of wax paper. Measure the flour, put it with other dry ingredients into the sifter, and sift them together into a bowl. Combine liquids and add to flour mixture, stirring only until moistened. This is the important step that makes muffins deliciously tender.

Muffins lend themselves to variety, for you can add berries in season, dates, raisins, nuts, or orange rind to flavor. Dates should be added to dry ingredients so that they won't stick together, but berries, nuts, raisins, orange rind and the like may be added to liquid or stirred in quickly after liquid and dry ingredients are combined.

Time muffins to come out of the oven with the rest of the meal, for they should be served hot. If some are left over, split and toast them for breakfast.

MUFFINS

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat egg. Add milk and melted shortening. Add liquid to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Fill greased muffin pans ⅔ full. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Makes: 16 to 18 small (1¾-inch) muffins or 12 medium sized (2-inch) muffins or 8 large (3-inch) muffins.

Tigers Take Three, Raiders One

The Spencerville Red Raiders polished up their offensive attack against the Woodburn Warriors Friday evening and sent them home with a 62-34 defeat.

Coach Don Long's boys found their small home court to their liking as they ran up a 35-15 score by half-time and then took the best part of the last half to give their reserves work.

Woodburn's heavy scorers, Dick Woebekking and Max Amstutz, were throtled but Smith hit 17 for Woodburn. Ed Hook and Alf Paschen got some good help from Harvey Lahr, 5-6 speedster.

Woodburn took the preliminary in an overtime, 47-44.

The St. Joe Tigers put on a driving finish on Wednesday of last week to take a 56-53 win from the Scott Center Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs, trailing by eight points with about four minutes to go, put on a drive to pull into a 53-all tie on a rebound shot by Al Covell. Don Walters fired one from the side to put the home team in front and also hit a free throw a few seconds later as his team went into a successful possession game to protect their lead.

Scott Center made 23 out of 32 free throw attempts while St. Joe made only 10 out of 25 trys.

The St. Joe seconds handed the visitors' second team a good 60-31 lacing.

The 1950-51 regular basketball season came to a close for the St. Joe Tigers Saturday evening when they ran over the St. Joe Alumni of the past three years, 85-37.

The "oldsters" kept pace just one quarter, which ended 19-12 in favor of the varsity, but the game turned into a rout in the second period, the Tigers rolling up a 37-19 lead at the intermission. It was 55-27 at the third stopping point as the reserves continued to race after the regulars retired.

News Flashes

by Sen. Willis K. Batchelet

FEBRUARY 12 to 17

Saturday, Feb. 10, Senate worked until noon and most of Senators then worked either at their desks or on committee assignments until 4 p.m. The House did not work and adjourned until 10 a.m. Monday Monday opened our session with hot debate on Welfare Bill to open welfare files---one of our Senators being home sick The bill lost 25-24. Upon the return of our sick Senator, John Kendall, the bill was recalled for re-vote and passed 26-24.

Several bills passed on Monday pertaining to dairy improvements both on farm and dairys. These bills if they survive the House will place Indiana back on the approved list for such.

The Hunting and Fishing Liensce Bill now placed in hands of Conference Committee.

No new bills to be presented. We hope to work on the 784 bills in the hopper and eventually weed them out to pass only 225 or less-to my thinking the fewer we pass the better off for the State.

House passed bill to provide for a referendum to the voters on the Time Bill at November 1952 election.

My motorboat regulation bill passed Senate vote 37-5 and sent to House for its action. I now have the two boat bills through the Senate and in the House.

House passed bill to stiffen penalties against convicted drunken drivers-82-10. I believe this is a good measure that should help protect the driving public.

Senate continuing its committee to investigate Auto License Bureau Department and also to investigate the Alcoholic Beverage Commission for its failure to properly enforce the liquor laws. I believe they should be strictly enforced.

There are many bills that are doomed to die due to lack of time for consideration---some perhaps worthy and lots of others that should die.

At present the House already has approved some thirty-nine millions in extra appropriations without providing any new source of revenue or making corresponding cuts in other appropriations. This added to the budget, if not stopped, surely will cause an increase in taxes which heaven knows are too high and which I hope that we can avoid. However, there are too many citizens demanding personal privileges either for themselves or their communities that it is a tough battle to hold the line.

House still wrangling over Labor and Workmen's Compensation Bills--and still holding up Budget Bill--due to such delay it may result in losing numerous bills, some worthy and some not. We in Senate doing everything we can to close on the 61st day.

Senate defeated 36-10 bill that would take away from county commissioners' control and management of all county homes in the State. This surely would destroy home rule.

House passed my pheasant bill and if signed by the governor will become law.

The authors of the Probate Code reversed themselves and called same for vote. After several hours of hot debate, upon which I and several Senators challenged the advisability of passing same at this session, it was passed 34-14. I voted against feeling we should have more time to study it as it contains 248 pages and repeals practically all of the present code. We did succeed in having several amendments, one of which to have the effective date set as of July 1, 1953.

Senate voted immediate payment of bonus to disabled veterans and next of kin.

The fight against power grab and salary increase bills yet to come. There are too many back door salary bills that, if passed, surely will raise taxes both locally and on State level. Some tweny-one million dollars extra on counties and townships and about seventeen million dollars on State government; all this on top of the proposed budget. All these being tax bills originating in the House who further made no provision for appropriating money for paying same. It is my firm belief that a large proportion of these should die in committee, the only danger in so doing is not to lose any that might be worthy. It is a tremendous job and we will try to hold the line---and keep trying.

Answer to Question No. 1:

1. The causes of rheumatic fever are now so effectively treated by new drugs that the rheumatic fever death rate is only one-fifth what it was in 1930. Most of the improvement has been accomplished in the past ten years. But take no chances. It's still very dangerous, especially because of its serious effect on the heart.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. Furnishings, from bib to crib, cost about $300 on a national average and medical care and hospitalization come to about $255, a minimum which varies with local factors. Prepayment insurance like Blue Cross and Blue Shield can reduce the medical cost—at the beginning and throughout the child's life.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. Cytology—the study of living cells—permits early detection of uterine cancer, of which 20,000 women in the United States and Canada die each year. Early detection is the only good bet in the cure of cancer.

Around the Town

With the Editor

SIGNS OF THE TIMES—heard on radio station WKJG during a "homemakers" discussion on economizing: "—in keeping the food budget down to a reasonably appalling figure."

Mr. and Mrs. Al Ringenberg sat next to me at the Lion's Club ladies night shindig Monday. The discussion at the table naturally turned to the basketball tournament and Auburn's amazing feat (?) of getting only one personal foul called against them in the first quarter as against Spencerville's eleven fouls. Just for the fun of it I said, "Aw, Spencerville plays rough anyhow—" and ducked.

But Al kept right on eating his soup—instead of dumping it on my head, which I expected.

If Everett Paschen has a beat-up look, it's because he came to the ladies night and forgot to bring his lady.

Clayton (A.) Baker tried to leave the material for the 50th wedding anniversary write-up of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Yeiser Monday, but I wasn't in the shop when he called. On Wednesday a.m. I asked Harriet Baker if she had the material. No, it was out home but she'd call Clayton and have him bring it in. It turned out that the stuff was in his truck and the truck was with Vernie and Dale Collins.

I took off for the vicinity of Concord, where they were supposed to be going, and turned on the road going west out of that community. If you've been on that road in the last few days, you know what I ran in to—ruts. About a block from Ford Jackson's place I gave up and backed to a suitable place to turn around and come back to town. I learned later that Ben Krafft drives that road each night, even in sloppy weather like last week's. He just shoves the Ford in second and spins 'er through.

—Must be something important out that way.

The write-up? It was stuck in the door when I got back to the shop.

Say, we might have a champ from these parts in the Zollner tournament. Sechlers Pickles will tangle with the Partee aggregation in a semi-final contest on Sunday, March 11, at Fort Wayne. Franklin Sechler says he has 120 tickets for that night. The Pistons will play Philadelphia and there will be another game between Charley Share's All-Stars and another team.

If you're wondering why there never have been any write-ups on Partee's games, it isn't because I was snubbing them. I didn't know they had a team until just a couple of weeks ago. It's a good team, too. They've lost only one or two games, if that many.

Legion Sponsors Fish Fry

Walter Whitehurst American Legion Post 283 of St. Joe is hoping for some good weather this Saturday evening, March 3, when they will serve a fish fry at the post home in St. Joe.

Due to the wet weather and resulting poor ground conditions, the auction sale, originally announced for last week and postponed until this week has been necessarily postponed again, indefiniely.

However, plans have been completed for the fish fry Saturday and serving will begin at 5 p.m. No closing time has been set, that depending on which runs out first, the fish or the crowd.

During the evening a drawing will be held for a mixer. Tickets are available for the drawing from Legion members. It is not necessary to be present when the drawing is held.

CORRECTION

The Tri-Twp. Farm Bureau Program will be given on March 6 instead of March 16, as it appeared in last week's issue.

The program will be given in the music room of the Concord Twp. school and will be especially interesting.

It's The Man Who Pays

An irate Fort Wayne housewife got four men into trouble Sunday afternoon but steered clear of the law herself.

The four men, including the woman's husband, face charges Sheriff Frank Carpenter reported Monday, because the angry housewife threw the keys to her husband's automobile out the window while the pair was on a Sunday afternoon drive.

The sheriff said the quarrel between the man and his wife caused a three-car crash on state road 1 in St. Joe. Arrested by the sheriff and ordered to appear in the Auburn city court Wednesday afternoon for arraignment were James A. Gibson, 25, of Fort Wayne; Charles Bloomer, 19, of St. Joe; L. J. Johnson of Rt. 1, St. Joe, and Alvin Mullins, 21, of Fort Wayne.

Gibson the man who had the fight with his wife was booked on charges of reckless driving. Bloomer was arrested for driving without an operator's permit, Johnson for permitting an unlicensed driver (Bloomer) to drive his car, and Mullins was booked n charges of improper registration. No charges were filed against Gibson's wife.

The sheriff said the accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Gibson, driving south on the highway, said he was arguing with his wife when she suddenly removed the keys from the ignition and threw them out a window. Gibson said he stopped suddenly to retrieve thekeys and his car was struck in the rear by a machine driven by Bloomer. Mullins, also going south, was unable to stop and rammed his car into the rear of the vehicle driven by Bloomer.

Both Mullins and Bloomer said they were unable to stop in time to avoid the crash.

Damage to Gibson's 1949 Pontiac was estimated at $25, to the 1939 Plymouth driven by Bloomer and owned by Johnson, $75, and to Mullins' 1940 Ford, $125.

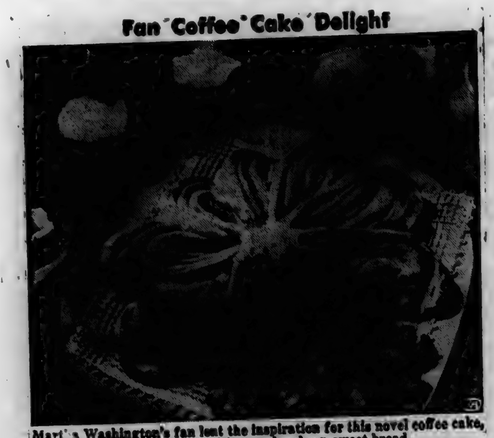
Fan Coffee Cake Delight



Mart's Washington's fan lent the inspiration for this novel coffee cake, designed for breakfast or luncheon sweet bread.

New attraction for the menu is a cinnamon-spiced coffee cake shaped like a fan. It's another of the many variations of a basic sweet yeast dough which provides so many pennywise treats for the family. They are nutritionwise, too, since enriched bread is one of the "Basic 7" foods, providing important B-vitamins, food iron and other food values needed daily.

Coffee cakes are enjoyable treats on the breakfast menu. Have you tried them, too, as combination bread-and-dessert at noontime or dinner? Fan Coffee Cake is served here with casseroles of corned beef hash topped with poached egg. Fresh grapes provide a refreshing accent.

Take the steps in shaping this coffee cake one at a time, and you'll find them easy to follow. Cinnamon and sugar are first layered through the dough so that they will swirl attractively in the fan. Then spokes of the fan are cut from a triangular sheet of dough, and each spoke is laid on its side.

FAN COFFEE CAKE

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
½ cup lukewarm water
½ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind (if desired)
2½ cups sifted enriched flour (about)

¼ cup sugar mixed with
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
Confectioner's sugar icing

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt, and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Add flour to make a thick batter. Mix well. Add softened yeast and eggs. Beat well. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours). When light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll out into square 12 by 12 inches. Brush with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar mixture. Fold in half. Brush top surface with melted butter or margarine, sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar and fold over again to make small square. Roll out into square 12 by 12 inches, brush with butter or margarine, and sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar. Fold over to form a triangle. Put on greased baking sheet. With sharp knife or scissors slash strips tapering from long edge of triangle toward point, leaving uncut near point (about eight slashes). Separate loose ends of strips and lay on side. Brush with melted butter or margarine. Let rise until doubled (about 45 minutes). Bake in moderately hot oven (350 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes. When cool, frost with confectioners' sugar icing and sprinkle with chopped nuts, if desired.

Makes one Fan coffee cake.

BOOKED ON CHARGE OF DRUNK DRIVING

Carl E. Hoover, 23, of Rt. 1, Spencerville, was booked by Sheriff Frank Carpenter early Saturday morning on charges of drunken driving after he was involved in a traffic mishap on state road 1 in Spencerville.

Hoover, brought to the DeKalb county jail in Auburn, was released several hours later under a $200 bond posted pending his appearance in the Auburn city court.

The sheriff said the mishap occurred about 3:10 a.m. Saturday. He said Hoover, driving a 1950 Ford, swung the vehicle into a 1949 Mercury owned by Allen D. Teutsch of near Butler. The Mercury was parked.

According to the sheriff, witnesses said Hoover drove into the town from the north and barely missed two pedestrians before he swung the car into the parking lot.

The sheriff was called to the scene a short time later and said he removed Hoover from the car. The officer stated he was forced to carry Hoover, declaring he was too intoxicated to walk.

Damage to the Ford was set at $200 and to the Mercury, $125.

Interruptions

Lesson for March 4, 1951

PEOPLE KEEP making your life shorter every day. For time is the stuff of which life is made, and you never do have a full 24 hours a day. After taking out what has to be spent in sleep, eating and so on, and taking out what has to be spent on your job, whatever it is, there still ought to be a few hours to call your own. But if you are like most people, you live from one interruption to another. If it isn't the telephone it's the door-bell. The more important you are, the more you are likely to be interrupted. Once there was a teacher who became president of the college where he had taught. In later years he mourned the change. "It seems to me," he said, "I never get a consecutive half-hour any more to think about anything. No day is ever what I planned. Life has become one long series of interruptions."

Unscheduled Stops

THE LIFE of the Master himself, to judge from what we read in the Gospels, was a long series of interruptions. The tenth chapter of Mark is a good example. Jesus himself at this time had one great thing in mind: the Cross. He was going up to Jerusalem not to talk to beggars or to listen to lawyers' arguments or to hold interviews with puzzled young people. He was going to die.

A man on his death-road might be spared interruptions. He could not be blamed if he said to interrupters one and all: "Sorry, I can't be bothered. See my assistants if there is anything you want done."

But Jesus did not say anything of the kind. He did not fume over the unscheduled stops on his life's highway. He took time to clear up misunderstandings; he took time for little children when even his best friends thought he ought not to be disturbed; he took time to answer the question of the rich young man; he did not brush off James and John when they came to him with their ill-considered petition; he even took time to take care of a beggar's need.

Ministries by the Wayside

JESUS DID not always take the initiative in every situation, though indeed he controlled every situation. When the Pharisees asked him about marriage he did not say, "Let's not talk about marriage; let me suggest the topic of salvation instead." When the young man ran up to him, Jesus did not ask: "Did you have an appointment for an interview?" Jesus not only did not resent other people's initiative. He never seems to have resented an interruption in his life.

Does this example of Jesus mean that we ought not to plan our days ahead of time, or that we ought never to try to "budget" our time? Must we never plan any project, but always wait till other people suggest what we are to do?

Not at all. The example of Jesus means that if and when interruptions occur, if we share his spirit we shall not be irritated by them or resent them. For what Jesus did, always, was to make use of the interruption. Each one was turned into a "Wayside Ministry." Indeed, a large part—some would say the larger part—of Jesus' life was made up of just such by-the-way ministries.

Life's By-the-Ways

HOW MANY of Jesus' teachings we would never have had, if no one had interrupted him or asked him questions! How many of his miracles would never have been done if he had refused to perform any but those he planned and scheduled himself! It is what we do "by the way" that makes up life's service, for the most part.

In Jesus' story of the Good Samaritan (no doubt an incident from real life) we are not told what were the original errands of the priest, the Levite and the Samaritan. Very likely the first two were on time for their appointments.

But the priest and the Levite missed a wonderful chance, just because the poor beaten traveler was not, so to speak, on their agenda. The Samaritan was delayed, and maybe bothered, by what he did for the man in trouble. But what he was willing to do by the way, something he had not planned for at all, won him the immortality of the Master's praise.

News Flashes

by Sen. Willis K. Batchelet

FEBRUARY 19th to 24th

This week started with the usual type of work, at this stage of the session, that of screening bills, committee sessions late in the night and early in the morning. While not in session, we have plenty of such to do.

The Senate continuing its probe of Welfare and the Auto License Bureau.

The bill authorizing volunteer firemen to use blue lights passed both houses and nows waits the governor's signature.

A Tax Study Commission being organized to make investigation of ways to reduce governmental costs, together with a proposed Hoover Commission. We hope that some good to the taxpayers will develope from such.

House passed half-million civil defense appropriation, and sent to Senate for action.

A new method of collecting tax on deisel fuel oil used on highway trucks passed Senate and waiting House approval. This should bring in additional revenue.

House approved pay increase for state police and penal and benevolent institutions. From investigation we find such are very poorly paid and hard to find competent employees.

Several resolutions passed, to be sent to Congress, stating the wishes of the states to return more of the federal tax money collected to local governments.

Several arguments on floor of Senate and House regarding the increasing federal tax grabs.

Thirty-four states at this writing have ratified the two term limitation amendment to the Constitution which was originally started by Senator Somers of Hoagland, Indiana. Approval of two more states required.

One day no minister present, I opened Senate with prayer. Also have several of my bills through both houses and waiting signature of the governor. My two boat bills pending in the House. If the House fails to pass same, it will be a disappointment. I feel that such is really needed in this state to protect life and property.

Welfare Workers Win Fight

DeKalb county welfare workers won their suit for a $10 increase in pay, at least temporarily, Tuesday afternoon, when Special Judge William H. Husselman mandated county officials to grant the pay boost.

Mr. Husselman, an Auburn attorney, handed down the decision after he had taken the case under advisement last Saturday following presentation of evidence.

The special judge said the question involved was one of "pure law" and he stated that his decision was based upon the intent of the legislature which he said gave the county welfare boards the power to fix salaries of workers within prescribed limits.

The judge also indicated that he could find no basis for a defense contention that the commissioners could grant, in any one month, only one-twelfth of a salary appropriation.

County officials, after hearing of the decision, indicated that they were not giving up in their fight. Two obvious courses of action are open to the defendants. They may appeal the decision handed down Tuesday or they wait until the present appropriation for salaries is depleted, then refuse an additional appropriation. Such action would again bring the case into court and county officials have indicated that they intend to carry their fight if necessary to the supreme court.

It was considered doubtful that the defendants, County commissioners Frank Schuster, Ira Grogg and Claude Laub, County Auditor Guy Myers and Treasurer Hildred Ensley will appeal Tuesday's decision, but will await a probable court action later against the county council.

If the county councilmen continue their opposition to the increase it is likely they would turn down an additional appropriation when the present fund is depleted next December.

Actually, as the plaintiffs' attorney, H. Clark Springer, said, the petition for mandate would have been filed in the beginning against the council if it has been possible. The fact that there are sufficient funds in the appropriation to handle, at present, the increase in salaries for the five workers, made action against the council useless.

Power of Welfare Board

The decision, in effect, gave the county welfare board the power to override decisions of the county council, long considered the body which has dominant power over county appropriations, and the state tax board.

County Attorney George E. Mountz of Garrett refused to indicate whether or not the decision would be appealed. He said he would wait until a conference among county officials is held to determine a future course of action.

The persons affected by the pay increase are the director, Nora E. Brown, Mrs. Aileen Sherburn and Mrs. Maude Campbell, visitors, Clerk Wilgur Kimmell and Clerk-stenographer, Jean Jackson.

The case, which started quietly enough, mushroomed into a bitter fight after State welfare Administrator Maurice O. Hunt informed County Auditor Guy Myers that the state's share of the salaries was being withheld until the increase in pay were granted.

Irate county officials branded Hunt's action as an attempt of an appointed official to "arbitrarily discipline" the "elected representatives of the people." They said his action, in effect, was "blackmail."

County officials have demanded a legislative investigation of the state welfare department. They indicated they were particularly critical of the fact that welfare workers are receiving higher pay "with less work" than other county employees.

Spencerville High School News

BETA NEWS

An introductory meeting was held on February 20 to explain the principles of the Beta Club to eligible members. Students eligible for membership this semester were: Franklin Dwyer, Madolyn Reid, Adair Reed, Bud Vendrely and Shirley Crothers. Of these, two, Bud Vendrely and Adair Reed have joined.

Miss Reed has replaced Mrs. Jaffre as sponsor of the Beta Club.

BASKETBALL QUEEN CROWNED

Nancy Vendrely was crowned Basketball Queen at the Spencerville-Woodburn game on February 16. Madolyn Reid and Helen Kruse were her attendants. Mr. Paschen crowned the queen and Alf Paschen, as captain of the team, presented the queen and her attendants with arm bouquets or roses and carnations.

LETTER SWEATERS AWARDED

At the Tourney Pep Session held on February 20, letter sweaters were awarded to the following senior boys for their participation in high school sports during the past four years. Those receiving these sweaters were: Alf Paschen, Jack Hollabaugh, James Shilling, Clarence Mathes, Gene Dwyer, Harvey Lahr, Bud Vendrely and John Leonard.

SIGHT OF THE WEEK

All the girls swooning when a senior boy walks by in his red letter sweater!

NOTICE

I wish to thank all the wonderful people who helped support me in the Basketball Queen Contest. I am truly honored to have been chosen your Queen.

LOVE 'N STUFF (mostly stuff)

We hear that Maxine, Bev and Shirley were escorted home by the Butler Police one night last week. Wha' hoppened?

Betty Witt, why were you so blue at the Spencerville-Garrett game? Was someone beating your time with George?

We saw Peggy Koch leaving Jim Long at HIS door Friday night after the Woodburn game. We were under the impression that the boy walked the girl to HER door, Jim. We'll bet all the boys couldn't get away with that!

Who is the boy from Ashley that we've seen with you quite often lately, Pat Hook?

We see Casanova Joe Long has found himself a new interest in Imy Conley. Some people think sitting so close at the Touhney's is uncomfortable, but you don't, do you, Joe?

Correction: Pat, you should have looked twice at Frankie's eyes. They're not blue, but brown.

Norman, who is this girl that makes you wilt? Is she so "electric"?

We see that Mady R. is now interested in a certain player on Garrett's basketball team. Doug Z., no less! We wondered why you were saving that "front row seat" at the tourney Saturday night, Mady.

Normie Weible was really surrounded by girls at the tourney. Boys, guess we'll all have to break our ankles! The girls seem to love playing "nurse maid."

After that "mad rush" for tourney tickets, first place in line and choice seats last week, we hope everyone is ready to get back in the old routine again. (Don't laugh, it isn't supposed to be a joke!)

Any good "juicy" items that you may have for the "Love 'n Stuff" column may be given to the reporter for the week. You will find his or her name on the bulletin board in the Music Room.

Pickles Advance To Semi-Finals

Pickles beat Sand Point at Ft. Wayne Sunday night, 35-26.

The locals were behind 11-9 at the first quarter and led 16-15 at the half. The scoring was low because the contest was abbreviated to five-minute quarters, the whole game taking but 45 minutes.

Pickles missed several easy layups in the third quarter and it appeared they might "blow" the game. But Sand Point could garner only 4 markers in the third period and 7 in the last while St. Joe managed to open the lid on the basket for 19 last-half points.

Jr. Loses 2, Pickles Beat Zollner Team

The Auburn Junior High basketballers took two victories with them Friday night when they beat the St. Joe Junior High team by 45-25 and 28-24.

After being held in check in the first half, the first team broke loose in the third frame to gain a commanding lead which they held to the finish.

The local seconds had a 8-4 first quarter lead and a 17-13 halftime margin. But Auburn made a third period drive to tie it up at 21-all and then made the winning rally in the final period.

After the junior high teams had their fun, Pickles took the floor against the Zollner Piston fastball five and easily beat them 83-57.

The game was rugged and the referees, Charlie Sharp and Vic Kelly, had a good night's work keeping the boys under control.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair

WASHINGTON'S FAREWELL ADDRESS—The ageless words of General Washington's Farewell Address, as he voluntarily retired from the Presidency, after two terms, were again an inspiration as the nation observed the birthday anniversary of the "Father of our Country." On this day Texas became the 33rd state to ratify the amendment to the Constitution limiting the tenure of future Presidents to two terms. In his address General Washington said, "The name of American, which belongs to you in your national capacity, must always exalt the just pride of patriotism, more than any appelation derived from local discriminations."

Washington also said: ". . . the habits of thinking in a free country should inspire caution in those intrusted with its administration, to confine themselves within their respective constitutional spheres, avoiding in the exercise of the powers of one department, to encroach upon another. The spirit of encroachment tends to consolidate the powers of all departments in one, and thus to create, whatever the form of government, a real despotism."

On foreign policy, Washington's admonitions are particularly timely. He said: "Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence, (I conjure you to believe me fellow citizens) the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake; since history and experience prove, that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican government. . the great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them, as little political connection as possible."

It was my great privilege and honor to be designated by Speaker Sam Rayburn to read Washington's Farewell Address before the House at the annual ceremony in tribute to the country's first president.

HARRY'S HIGH COST OF LIVING—Apropos the current dilema on how to make the family budget stretch to cover the high cost of living and taxes brought on by the President's wild spending and inflationary policies, a constituent sent in the following poem:

'Twas the day after payday, but all through the house
Not a dime could we find, neither I nor my spouse.
Our budget we'd watched with meticulous care,
In hopes that we'd find a few nickels to spare;
Still, all of our money, I'm sorry to tell,
Just vanished as fast as a snowball in -- well,
To get to the point without further delay,
I surely could use a slight raise in my pay.

WAR'S TERRIBLE COST—Number of personnel killed in World War I, 126,000; in World War II, 315,000; casualties in Korea, June 27, 1950, until February 15, 1951, killed, wounded and missing in action, approximately 49,000."

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

IT'S that time of year again when millions of amateur farmers—the backyard and half-acre variety—join the ranks of the professionals and start poring over their seed catalogs. So it's a good time for a reminder that you can't pay too much attention to the quality of the seed you're going to start with this spring.

Successful home gardening, like successful farming, requires good seed. And seed is no better than its source. Your seed store or producer is the key to the whole picture.

The seed you use should be true to a good name. If you are a new gardener, a good way to find out where to get good seed is to ask a neighbor—a neighbor, of course, who is having success in his garden!

The first thing that's necessary to good seed is viability—the seed must germinate. Every packet of seed should have printed on it some information about its viability. This is very important. The percentage of germination will be given on the packet along with the date of the germination test. If you want to run your own germination test you can wrap about 100 seeds in wet toweling for about a week. Or, if you're reluctant to use seed on a germination test, you can start 100 seeds in soil outdoors, count the number that come up, and then transplant those to the garden or field.

One mark of good seed is its freedom from chaff. It is also free from disease organisms. The seed of cabbage and crops related to it—and also tomatoes, peppers, and celery, should always be hot water-treated before being planted.

NO SET RULE FOUND FOR HOG MARKETING

Hog raisers who are looking for pointers on marketing hogs in Indiana will find that their judgment and "shopping around" will help determine where to sell. There are no set rules, Clifton B. Cox, agricultural economist at Purdue University, says.

This conclusion is reached after a detailed analysis was made of price quotations at a sample of markets during the period, July 1948 to June 1949. The sample included Indiana markets, Chicago, Cincinnati and Louisville, Ky., markets.

The study pointed out that price is not the only consideration in determining the best weight at which to sell. Farmers may find it more profitable at times to sell at other weights even at discounts. Cost of gain, amount of discount, time of year and trend of prices are some factors to be considered. Therefore, the farmer's telephone, radio, and lead pencil are good aids to his judgment in picking a market.

The economist points out that the seasonal price pattern has changed very little since the prewar period 1930-1939. Prices during September have averaged higher than during any of the other months but in a particular year the peak may occur in July, August or October.

Cox says that a good hog program, for those farmers with enough skill to get the job done, appears to be the two litter system, aimed at marketing about September and February. This means farrowing spring pigs in February or March and Marketing in August or September. Breeding for the fall litter takes place as soon as the pigs are weaned. Farrowing occurs in August or early September and the hogs would be sold in February or March.

A good job of feeding could get these hogs to market weighing around 200 pounds, which seems to be about the weight the market wants. The most profitable weight to sell varies with the price differential for various weights, and with the hog-corn ratio.

How to Take The Work out of Housework

KEEP OUTING FLANNEL AS SOFT AS NEW!
Winter-time flannel nightgowns and p.j.s should NOT be ironed. Instead, brush them thoroughly with a clean clothesbrush. (Cost for ironing the rest of the family wash? Just two cents an hour!)

THERE'S MORE THAN ONE TRICK
with a waffle iron! Use packaged mixes for cornbread waffles . . . for hot gingerbread waffles. And try adding finely chopped ham to regular waffle batter. Delicious! (Takes only one of two cents' worth of electricity to make all the waffles your family can eat!)

TROUBLE SLEEPING?
On cold winter nights, the average person is weighted down by 12 or 15 pounds of blankets! An automatic electric bedcover gives you warmth without weight. (And this luxurious comfort costs you about five cents a night to use!)

WONDER WHERE THE CUP HANDLES GO?
Properly stacked and mechanically washed, you'll have no broken dishes. And they dry by themselves, need less handling! (Saves time and work as well as dishes—and costs so little to use! Only a penny or two a day!)

A Lighted Softball Diamond

VOLUME LXVI — ST. JOE (DeKalb Co.), INDIANA — Thursday, March 8, 1951 — NUMBER 10

Around the Town

With the Editor

I guess I got Clarence Byers of the electric company "in dutch" with his boss. He was incorrectly titled "sales manager" in last week's paper and the boss saw it. It should have read "sales engineer." According to Clarence, his superior wanted to know where he (Clarence) was getting his business cards printed lately.

I might add in passing that the Indiana & Michigan company is giving the St. Joe Valley Recreation Club some welcome suggestions and cooperation in the club's efforts to install a lighted softball diamond.

You can always tell when the ladies are up to something. Several of them were seen in Spencerville and St. Joe Monday chasing around to get things in readines for the O.E.S. style bridge that evening. Lois Fisher was one of them. I could tell because she was scurrying about making those last-minute purchases with her hair pinned up.

Pete Akey got hooked into baby-sitting while on his milk route Monday. He ran into the usual trouble—he told the kids, his daughter, Connie, and Ronnie Lake, to stay in the truck while he got out. But they didn't. He put them back in with the standard quotation of parents: "I though I told you—" etc.

Spring MUST be here—at least from the way they were strolling down the street this week, Bob Richmond and Sue Walers think so.

Lyle McMaken is sporting a patch over his right eye and he didn't run into a door. His niece was pointing out something and his eye got in the way. It was pretty painful and will take a few days to mend.

How about that! Mr. and Mrs. Emory Boyd of Angola won the mixer the Legion gave away at the fish fry Saturday night. They then gave it back to the Legion to auction. It was auctioned off and sold to—Mr. and Mrs. Emory Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pugsley visited Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards at Adrian, Mich., Sunday. Mrs. Pugsley and Mrs. Edwards are sisters. They also visited relatives at Cadmus, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Franke.

Dr. Cecil Miller, wife and daughter of Newville were Sunday dinner guests in the C. C. Woodcox home.

Elizabeth Hart spent Sunday at Hillsdale, Mich., with her brother, George B. Hart. S.-Sgt. George T. Hart and family and Mrs. Kenneth Osborne and son spent the day with them.

The March 12th meeting of the Concord Jr. Home Ec Club will be held at the home of Gladys Akey.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reidenbach and Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Baker were Sunday evening callers in the Harvey Hull home. In the afternoon all were callers at the "open house" celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Yeiser.

Old Bob died Tuesday.

Old Bob was the faithful servant of Jesse Loftus for the past eight years of his fifteen-year horse's life.

He became ill Tuesday morning and appeared to be recovering after treatment by a veterinarian. But he became sick again a short while later and couldn't be saved.

He had become a familiar sight to St. Joe residents the year around as he pulled wagon loads of dirt, pulled the snow plow and other such chores.

Partee Vs. Pickles Sunday Night

A battle-royal is in the offing Sunday night when the two top independent basketball teams from this area, Partee's of Spencerville and Sechler's of St. Joe, tangle in a semi-final game of the Zollner Piston Invitational Tournament at Fort Wayne.

Partee has a won-and-lost record thus far of 25-4, including a 14-point victory over the strong New Haven Merchants. A second tilt between the same teams went to New Haven, also by 14 points.

High scorer on Partee's five this year has been Jack Krouse, although he is not a "big man" as far as basketball size goes. Krouse gained the scoring honors through his deadly long set shots. Six-foot four-inch Jack McBride, who plays center, has been right up along with Krouse in scoring and gives the team its rebounding height. The balance of the squad includes Herb Huguenard, Dave Hipskind (who is player-coach), Louis Roy, Dick Hershberger, Morris Nix, Jack Donovan, Gene Hummel and Dick Klein.

Partee won the Northern Division Championship of the Vim League this year, undefeated in ten starts. Nix was awarded the most-valuable-player trophy in the Vim tournament.

On the other side of the score sheet Sunday night will be the Pickles team from St. Joe. Flooring one of the strongest units in this territory for some time, they have gained 25 victories as against only 2 losses. One of those losses was to the Harlem Aces, traveling professional team, who had to put forth their best efforts to nose out the locals, 69-67, last January.

Waldemar "Whitey" Heller, coach at Leo High School, has been the team's high scorer with Frank Clark, Butler coach, right on his heels. Heller won the most-valuable-player award in the St. Joe American Legion Invitational Tourney this winter. Tom Beck, coach at Akron, Ind., recently was added to the squad and has given considerable rebound strength.

Reserve strength has enabled Coach Franklin Sechler to substitute without losing too much scoring punch, having Bernard "Brodie" Broderick, Hamilton's assistant coach, Jim Kinsey, Pete Akey, "Wimp" Kimes, Gene Deiderich and Bert Campbell to call upon.

Tickets for the Sunday night "triple-header," starting with the Partee-Sechler tilt, followed by Charlie Share's game and then the Piston-Tri-Cities encounter, are available locally from Franklin Sechler, who has secured 120 seats for the convenience of local boosters.

The first game starts at 6:30 p.m. at the North Side gym in Fort Wayne.

Observe 52nd Wedding Anniversary

A family pot-luck dinner was served Sunday at the home of Mary Ridgway in honor of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Armstrong's 52nd wedding anniversary and also their birthday anniversaries.

The main feature of the dinner was a beautifully decorated angel food cake with the words "Sam and Lula '52" on the top. The cake was baked by Mrs. Delvin Armstrong of Auburn.

Those present for the occasion were the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Arden Altman and baby and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ridgway of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ridgway, Beverly Ridgway and William Mansfield of St. Joe.

Fund-Raising Drive In Progress

The St. Joe Valley Recreation Club is currently engaged in a fund-raising campaign under the direction of Ralph Sechler.

A meeting of his committee and workers was held Tuesday evening at which time each one was given a territory to cover in personal contact work. The committee includes William Beebe, C. E. Bond, Andy Monroe, Walter Ervin, Richard Freeburn, Wayne Wagner, Carlos Church, Bill Hurni, John Coburn, Waler Morr and Frank Sechler.

Contributions or pledges are being solicited at this time to get the treasury built up as quickly as possible. The present production situation makes it imperative that lighting equipment be ordered and purchased soon. Approximately $3,500 is needed to pay for the lights, wiring, poles and concession stand. That amount must be raised by the current soliciting, aid from other organizations in this area and activities and programs sponsored by the recreation club itself.

Contributions are being taken in the form of either outright donations or pledges for non-interest bearing bonds which the club will pay off as money becomes available for such repayment. Residents of this community, therefore, have an excellent opportunity to help in its advancement through this community project, and they are urged to help as much as posible so that the purchase of vital equipment will not be delayed further.

A second meeting of the pledge committee will be held next Wednesday at the school.

New Beer License Refused

The State Alcoholic Beverage Commission has denied the newal of the wine and beer retailer's application of Charles (Chuck) McIntosh of St. Joe, it was officially reported last week.

McIntosh's application was for a permit for "Chuck's Place." His old permit expired Feb. 23.

The action by the state commission made enforcement of an injunction issued against McIntosh unnecessary. The injunction was issued in January against him by Judge Donald E. Hunter in the Steuben Circuit Court at Angola.

Denial of the permit for McIntosh ends a dispute which has been going on for the past two years.

The injunction was issued by Judge Hunter on a complaint filed by members of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church at St. Joe. The court held that the retail wine and beer store operated by McIntosh was within less than 200 feet of the Lutheran Church's premises. Judge Hunter also issued a verbal lashing at the ABC for its "arbitrary standard of measurement" in issuing the first permit to McIntosh Feb. 15,1950.

Mrs. Calvin Lessing was hostess for the Ladies Literary Club which met at the home of Mrs. Lela Northrup on Wednesday evening, February 28.

Mrs. Stanley Means, as entertainment chairman, presented the club with two "puzzling puzzles."

The secretary's report was read and approved. Twenty-three members responded to roll call.

Mrs. Frank Shull gave the critic's report followed by a critic's review.

After the old and new business was disposed of, the meeting was adjourned to meet with Mrs. Carl Carpenter on March 14th.

COBURN CORNERS CHURCH NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. John Cook and Mr. and Mrs. John Crothers led the services at Greenfield Mills Sunday morning. The attendance was forty-one.

Tyenty-three attended the Young People's Christian Endeavor Sunday evening. Vice-president Carlton Curie led the business meeting. Shirley Crothers led the lesson, "One Master." She and Joan Cook each gave a reading.

Eighteen were present at the Busy Beavers Christian Endeavor. Rhoda Ulm led the lesson, "Growing Like Jesus in Wisdom and Stature." Talks on "Growing Like Jesus" were given by Janet Jarrett, Betty Mann, Darlene Hamilton, Kent Burkhead, Tom Hart and Jack Hart. A special was given by Kent Burkhead, Tom Hart and Jack Hart, who sang, "Christ For Me."

One hundred and eighty-one attended the Sunday evening Singspiration Service. Special numbers were as follows: Bob Wilder sang a solo, Jack Hart, Kent Burkhead and Tom Hart sang a trio, Shirley Crothers sang a solo, the choir sang an anthem and Mrs. John Cook assisted by Mrs. Ralph Waggoner, Bill and Mary Wilder and Joan Cook, gave a chalk drawing of "The Little Brown Church in the Vale." The chalk drawing had been promised to the person bringing the most people to the services. Mrs. Eva Shull brought twenty-four of her children and grandchildren and their families, who surprised her by bringing in a pot-luck supper in honor of her 80th birthday. The evening message was "The Unpardonable Sin."

After the Sunday evening church service, nineteen of the young people met at the home of John, Bonnie and Betty Witt. The evening was spent in playing games and eating refreshments.

THIS LITTLE BUTTON DOES BIG THINGS!

You wouldn't think this little button could save a life, or give blood, or help a veteran back to health—but it can. Because it's backed by the gifts of all America, these blessings are made possible. This year, the job it must do is even bigger than usual. By What Authority?

Lesson for March 11, 1951

IS IT right or wrong? This is a fair question always. But there is another question to go with it. Who is to say whether it is right or wrong? Who is the authority? "Authority" means more than "orders." It means the final judge, the court of last appeal.

Neither You nor the Crowd

SOME SAY: Nobody can tell me what to do; I do as I please. There is no authority I am bound to recognize. Such a person has an authority, all the same: himself. For him, "what I want" and "what I like" are the only reasons for anything and all the reasons he wants.

Now aside from the fact that such people are a nuisance to all concerned, and the fact that they can't even prentend to be Christians, this point of view won't work. The person who acts as his own authority runs into others who take themselves as their authority, and the result is the awful mess called anarchy. So all sensible people do recognize some authority outside themselves. They want approval from outside, from above.

But whose approval do they want? Under whose jurisdiction, as lawyers would say, do they live? Some recognize only that vast and vague authority known as "Everybody." If everybody does it, it must be right. If nobody does it, it's bound to be wrong.

Well, this is not necessarily so. Fifty million Frenchmen can be wrong, or 150 million Americans for that matter. You can't take a vote and decide what's right and what's wrong by a simple count of Ayes and Noes. Neither you alone, nor a crowd no matter how big, can be the final Authority on Life.

Calendar, Code, Conscience

ANOTHER proposed authority, believe it or not, is the calendar. Some people will not read a book or see a show or wear a dress or listen to music that isn't up to the minute. If it's "dated" it's dead, unless the date is today.

That is silly, on the face of it. But there are other more respectable authorities which are still not THE Authority. One of these is the Law. If it's legal it's right, say some people, and it can't be right unless it's legal.

There is something true in this, of course. We should by all means obey the laws, and also see that good laws are made and bad ones repealed. But law is not the final authority on right and wrong. Lawmakers can make mistakes. What is a good law at one time may be a bad law under other circumstances.

The best laws can never catch up with the morals of the best people. Still other people take as their authority conscience, meaning their own conscience. This is not quite the same as taking your own wishes or pleasure for your guide. Your conscience may lay unwelcome burdens on you. But while every one should of course follow his conscience, still anybody's conscience can be asleep or mistaken.

Some of the worst crimes in history have been committed by some of the most conscientious people.

God's Last Word

WHAT, THEN, is the highest authority for the Christian? Nothing and no one less than Jesus Christ himself. As we were thinking a few weeks ago, the very word "Christ" is a symbol of authority at the highest level.

In Jesus' day there were two supreme symbols of God: the Law and the Temple. Jesus not only assumed superiority to the Law, but (as our Lesson reminds us) of the Temple itself, though he was no priest and had no ecclesiastical position whatever. If there is a difference between Christian and non-Christian today, it is not that Jesus is the authority for one and not for the other; rather it is that the non-Christian refuses to recognize what is, the fact: that for us and for all men, Jesus Christ is God's "last word" to mankind.

And if some say that the law of love is the supreme authority, is there any real difference between the spirit of Jesus and the law of love? For he is God's love incarnate.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair

OBSTACLES IN BUDGET CUTTING—Fourth District citizens are well aware of my position in advocating drastic cuts in the President's budget to preserve our national solvency. Many, however, fail to understand the difficulties facing economy-minded members of the House in reducing governmental spending of the Fair Deal.

Through its majority and seniority membership, the Administration controls the Appropriations Committee in the House. Republicans have attempted to overcome this handicap, but their efforts have been in vain.

It has always been the custom, in order to maintain some degree of fairness, to give the minority membersship on subcommittees in the same ratio that the minority has in the House; that is, is the House was divided 5 to 3 between the Democrats and Republicans, membership on committees and subcommittees would be 5 to 3. But on the present Appropriation Committee, two of the three subcommittees have four Democrats and two Republicans. On the other five, there are five Democrats to two Republicans.

Obviously, Republicans can not accomplish budget cuts against such voting odds.

Chairman Cannon, Democrat, of Missouri, of the House Appropriations Committee made this statement on the floor of the House:

". . . the continued deficit spending of the Congress over the last three decades has so depreciated the value of the American dollar that it will today buy less than half the value in commodities it would have bought a comparatively few years ago . . the national debt now exceedsany obligation ever incurred by any people, in any country, in any period of the world's history. So great, in fact, that it is question of whether it can ever be paid. And certainly so great that accretions incident to a third world war would render inevitable some form or measure of national repudiation."

In view of that statement by the Democratic leader of the Appropriations Committee, wouldn't you think all non-essential government spending should be cut to the bone, as I have insisted? But, we Republicans can not get the job done without assistance from the Democrats. As Minority Leader Martin, of Massachusetts, pointed out, the Appropriations Committee has a Democratic majority of 10. There lies the key to the continuation, or elimination, of the deficit spending policies of the Administration.

PASSION PLAY TO BE PRESENTED SUNDAY AT FORT WAYNE

"The Passion of Our Lord Ac cording to St. Matthew" --Johann Sebastian Bach's great musical work--will be presented by the Fort Wayne Lutheran Choral Society on Passion Sunday, March 11, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Fort Wayne beginning at 7:30 p.m.

This will mark the fourth consecutive year that the Society has presented the oratorio as its traditional contribution to the celebration of the Lenten season. The performance will again be under the eminent direction of George Gerhard Arkebauer and will feature the 100-voice adult choir, several children's choirs and a number of prominent young American soloists.

Based on the 26th and 27th chapters of the Gospel according to St. Matthew, the story of the passion of Christ is one of the great choral works of all time.

"The Passion" was first presented in Fort Wayne in 1948 and it follows the tradition established by the Society in annually presenting Handel's "Messiah" during the Christmas season.

There will be no sale of tickets for the performance. It will be presented without charge, but a free-will offring will be taken to aid in defraying expenses.

She leads a doubble life

Like millions of married women these days, this busy young woman holds down a job with one hand . . . and runs a home with the other. Easy?

Not very! In fact, very few women could lead this double life without electric service.

But as it is . . . a flick of a switch . . . and there's wired help for cleaning, washing, ironing — and many other household chores.

Think how much electric service does to make your housework easier! And then — think how little it costs! About the price of a pack of cigarettes per day! Always willing, always dependable, electricity is just about the biggest bargain in the family budget.

Which is just another way of saying that electricity is any girl's best friend!

LLOYD YEISER AND WIFE REMARRIED ON ANNIVERSARY

Fifty years ago, in the horse and buggy days, Iva C. Baughman and Lloyd W. Yeiser pledged their troth at the Kendallville Evangelical parsonage. They then journeyed to Avilla for a reception at the home of the groom's parents.

The second wedding ceremony took place Sunday at the Newville Evangelical United Brethren Church. As the Sunday School session was drawing to a close, the strains of "Here Comes The Bride" were heard with Mrs. Don Ruhl of near Auburn at the piano. Mrs. Yeiser, accompanied by her two daughters, Mrs. Lileth Kain of Fort Wayne and Mrs. Harriett Baker of St. Joe, came through the east church entrance while the groom, accompanied by his two sons, D. W. Yeiser of St. Joe and Morris Yeiser of Fort Wayne, entered at the west church entrance. They were met at the altar by the pastor, Rev. Albert Swenson, who remarried them using the double ring ceremony.

The remarriage at the church came as a complete surprise to the congregation.

Upon leaving the church, the bride and groom and close relatives went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Baker, one mile north of St. Joe, where the wedding dinner was served.

The reception at the Yeiser home near St. Joe throughout the afternoon was attended by 175 friends. They brought gifts and, most appreciated of all, congratulations and well wishes.

The twice married couple have a wide acquaintance having lived in a number of towns in this section of the state while engaged in the newpsaper business. They spent their first six years of married life at St. Joe. Butler, Avilla, Kendallville, South Whitley and Peru have at one time or another been home to them. During an active life, Mr. Yeiser has found time to serve DeKalb County as a commisioner for six terms. He and Mrs. Yeiser are now enjoying country life to the fullest extent.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

POSTURE AND HEALTH

SCHOOL children are studying the three R's—readin', writin' and 'rithmetic. All of us should study the three S's—sleep tall, sit tall, and stand tall. Being tall is not a requisite in following good posture rules.

A third of our lives is spent in bed, the lying posture being used more than any other. In sleeping tall, our bodies should stretch to the greatest distance possible between the top of the head and the soles of the feet. While a person is sleeping he moves naturally about once in 20 minutes and the postural line through his body should remain straight.

Good posture in lying is best attained on a mattress that is not too soft and a spring that is not too yielding.

It is in the seated position that people show a great tendency toward poor posture, and poor sitting habits often begin in school. Always sit tall and well back in the chair and with the feet resting squarely on the floor or one ankle lightly crossed over the other. A person who maintains good posture while seated is likely to stand and walk with good posture.

Standing tall looks good with the head erect, chin in, and chest out, abdomen in, feet together, toes straight ahead. Poor posture disturbs not only the functions of the heart and lungs, but discourages the best efforts of all organs.

Good posture reduces fatigue and encourages health and efficiency.

Officers Selected For Concert Group

Gilbert A. Kellberg of Auburn, instructor in instrumental music in the Auburn city schools, was elected president of the DeKalb County Community Concert Association at a meeting held Sunday afternoon in the city hall in Auburn.

The meeting was held in the office of Mayor Hal. G. Hoham. Mr. Kellberg replaces Gilbert Coble of Garrett and will serve as president during the 1951-1952 concert season.

Other officers elected at the meeting of the board of directors of the association are: Mrs. Juanita Gray of Garrett, first vice-president; Hal G. Hoham, second vice-president; Mrs. Alice Peckhart of Auburn, secretary; and Mearl Bisel of Waterloo, treasurer.

Mrs. Peckhart, Mr. Hoham and Mrs. Gray were re-elected. Mr. Bisel takes the place of Mrs. Jean Wildermuth of Auburn.

Elected as general chairman of the association was Mrs. Wildermuth, replacing John Smith of near Auburn who was selected as property manager, a newly-created position.

Selection of the four concerts to be presented during the coming season was discussed but a definite decision will be made at a later date, according to the new president.

Publicity chairmen were named for each community at the meeting. They included Mr. Kellberg for Auburn; Mrs. Wayne Voss, Waterloo; Mrs. George Mountz, Garrett; Mrs. C. B. Hathaway, Butler; Mrs. Auber Butler, Spencerville; and Mrs. Harold Arney, Ashley.

Attending the meeting Sunday afternoon were Mrs. Butler of Spencerville, Mrs. Harold Nugen, Miss Mabel Bartels, Mrs. Wildermuth. Mrs. Peckhart, Mr. Smith and Mr. Kellberg, all of Auburn, Mrs. Arney of Ashely, Mr. Bisel, Mrs. Wayne Voss and Mrs. Lester Reinhart, all of Waterloo, Mrs. Hathaway of Butler and John Gordon and Mr. Coble, both of Garrett.

Mrs. Marion Ross, Chicago representative of the Community Concert Association, attended the meeting.

Auxiliary Police Will Be Trained

Preparations are underway by DeKalb County Civilian Defense officers to establish schools to train an estimated 100 auxiliary police officers who will serve in emergencies under the civil defense setup.

John W. McIntyre of Auburn, county civilian defense director, said instructors for the school will be John Nugen of near Auburn and Daniel M. Kreamelmeyer of Auburn. Mr. Nugen, county deputy director of auxiliary police and his assistant, Mr. Kreamelmeyer, attended a school at Purdue University last week sponsored by state police to provide instruction for auxiliary police deputies.

Also attending the school was William E. Hunter of Auburn, state trooper, who attended as representative of officers of the Ligonier state police post.

The date for the schools in DeKalb County has not been set but Mr. Nugen said they will open sometime this month.

At the school last week, state Red Cross instructors and other police instructors, F.B.I. agents, civilian and military instructors participated. The classes were held at the Purdue University airport.

Auxiliary police will be chosen on the basis of fipe to every 1,000 population. They will supplement regular police in emergency work.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

The regular meeting of the Auxiliary of the Walter Whitehurst Post was held February 27.

Mrs. Doris Yeiser was appointed civil defense chairman for this unit.

The Knightstown Home chairman, Mrs. Dale Collins, asked the members to bring cookies or candy to her home for a boy and it will be sent to the home for Easter.

Games and contests were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the entertainment committee, Mrs. Ralph Sechler and Mrs. Leon Kees.

The next meeting will be on Tuesday, March 13. This will be the Legion birthday party and all members of the Legion and their families are invited to a pot-luck supper at 6:30.

Mrs. Bernice Miller is crairman in charge of arrangements for the occasion.

Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

FOR a dairy farmer who wants to stay in the black in his account book, the simple item of cleanliness can't be stressed too much. It's one of the "musts" for a successful dairy farmer and many times it's the deciding factor when the question of premium quality hangs in the balance.

A low bacteria count—a condition that can be translated into dollars and cents when creameries and customers are involved—results from cleanliness. And cleanliness, by and large, results from three things: (1) use of clean milking utensils, (2) proper cooling, and (3) the application of routine sanitary measures in the barn and milk house.

Probably the most important factor in keeping milk cans and other utensils spotlessly clean is hot water—plenty of it. To have it available in the milk house is a convenience that saves many hours of time, and eliminates waste effort in carrying hot water from the farm kitchen.

Electric water heaters used most often by dairymen are of two kinds—pressure and non-pressure of "pour-in" types. The pressure type is identical with that used in the residence. It is used in connection with a pressure water system and provides a supply sufficient for all purposes at the turn of a faucet. The non-pressure heater holds about 10 gallons of water and does not need either water pressure or water piping systems. In operation, hot water is forced out the bottom faucet when cold water is poured in at the top.

The smallest heater which a farmer should consider is one that provides one-fourth more water than is required for any single hour of dairy operations. Some water heater installations combine washing troughs and tanks. Others have attachments for sterilizing utensils after washing.

Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

MARK TWAIN used to say that everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it. Modern farmers are beginning to make Mr. Clemens look like an old-fashioned gloom prophet, and they're making it pay off. They're taking the age-old problem of wintertime condensation by the scruff of the neck, and they're licking it—with the use of ventilation and drying systems.

Winter weather has plagued dairymen in a lot of ways. Cows that are kept indoors during the winter for long periods, for example, exhale about 12 to 18 pounds of moisture and almost as much carbon dioxide each 24 hours. If these undesirable factors aren't taken care of by ventilation, cows become sluggish and drowsy, and their milk production heads downward. Also, badly ventilated and cold stables deteriorate much faster than if they were properly ventilated and heated.

One of the best solutions to this problem, and a solution that is becoming easier for the average farmer to use, is electrical ventilation. Using one or any number of fans, according to the size of the operation, the modern farmer can assure himself that his cows—and his barn—are being kept in the best possible condition during the cold months.

Fans are installed so that they draw air out from a point near the floor. Intakes are provided around the stanchions to deliver air upwards against the ceiling, thus preventing drafts. Fans can operate continuously throughout the winter or may be controlled by thermostats and speed reducers in extremely cold weather. Power suppliers, dealers and extension services should be consulted before ventilation systems are installed. In this way dairymen can be assured that they are getting the correct type of ventilation system, properly engineered. In well-insulated barns, the cost shouldn't amount to more than two kilowatt hours per cow per month.

For Snacktime: Apple Nut Bread

This quick loaf bread, well flavored with apples, cheese and nuts, is as easy to make as it is to eat. Serve it with butter or margarine for snacks, as breakfast sweet bread, or with luncheon salads.

If you work outside your home, and still like to give your family special home baked treats, depend upon quick breads to make meals extra good.

Loaf breads take no longer than a cake to mix, and they can be served for many occasions. Finger sandwiches made with loaf breads perk up a salad assortment and may also serve as simple dessert. Loaf bread sandwiches are good travelers in lunchboxes, too.

One of the most delicious of the loaf bread family, Apple Nut Bread, combines the flavors of freshly chopped apple, grated American cheese and chopped nuts. These foods also add their food values to those of enriched flour to make an important contribution to family health. All enriched breads rank high in essential B-vitamins and food iron. Apple Nut Bread is a delightful way to get your vitamins!

This sandwich bread is good the day that it is baked, though it slices better the following day. Jellies and jams, peanut butter and cream cheese are other good spreads for slices of this sandwich loaf.

APPLE NUT BREAD

2½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
⅓ cup sugar
2 eggs
1¼ cups chopped unpeeled apples

County Officers To Continue Welfare Fight

County Attorney George E. Mountz reported Wednesday of last week that county officials have decided not to appeal the decision by the DeKalb circuit court ordering them to pay $10 weekly salary increases to county welfare workers.

The decision to submit to the decision of the court without an appeal does not mean the "fight is over," county officials emphasized, however.

They said the real test in the case will come when the present salary appropriation for the welfare department is depleted. Then the county council will be asked to approve an additional appropriation which they have stated flatly they will refuse. If the councilmen maintain their present position, the case will again revert to the courts for a decision late next fall.

The county commissioners and two county officials, Auditor Guy Myers and Treasurer Hildred Ensley, were mandated by Special Judge William H. Husselman on February 27 to pay the $10 salary increases approved by the county council and the state board of tax commissioners.

The case received widespread publicity after the state welfare administrator, Maurice O. Hunt, told county officials that the state would withhold its share of the salaries until the county approved payment of the increases. Irate officials here labeled the action "blackmail" and announced they would fight the department's "arbitrary action" to the limit.

The county commissioners, who have 30 days following the Feb. 27 court order to file an appeal continued a "delaying action" Wednesday by refusing to grant the $10 increases. Their refusal in February resulted in the suit. The action Wednesday at the regular March session of the commissioners was only a delaying action with approval of the claims at the April session mandatory under the court order.

Their progress will be indicated above at the "temperature" slots.

Share All-Stars Meet Locals

The once-beaten Charlie Share All-Stars will play the St. Joe Pickles Friday, March 16, at Butler it was announced this week.

St. Joe is one of the strongest independent clubs of Northeaster Indiana in the Piston Invitational Tournament, the preliminary event preceding Zollner Piston games at home.

Current and former pro stars grace the roster of the Share All-Stars. The team is led by six-foot eleven-inch Share, who was an All-American at Bowling Green University. Share played pro ball with Waterloo in the National League before his contract was purchased by the Pistons for play in the National Basketball Association but the board of governors disapproved the deal and Share was a player without a team.

When the Pistons had to shave their roster to 10 men and bought Ken Murray from the Baltimore Bullets, Jim Riffey and Art Burris of the Pistons had to be farmed out and the Share team was organized.

Filling it in were Bob Bolyard, ex-star with Anderson and Sheboygan in the National League, Hans Dienelt, former Piston player, Nick Bloom, Huntertown star who played extensive service ball and later with the House of David, and George Gatton, one of Fort Wayne's outstanding independent players.

The Share team opened its schedule two weeks ago and played Eddie Ehlers club from South Bend. Ehlers starred at Purdue and later with the Boston Celtics. That was the toughest assignment for the Share club and they won, 75-68.

Next victim was the Clark Twin team of Huntington. They were run over by Share's, 56-32. The New York Komedy Kings were as easy. They were beaten, 57-41. Wolcottville followed and the Share club went over 100 for the first time, winning 103-62. They suffered their first loss Sunday night at the hands of the Midwest College All-Stars, 72-66.

Share is leading the team in scoring with 90 points in the first five games. He was the leading scorer in just one game. Jim Riffey led the scoring in the second game and Art Burris has been the leader in the last two.

Riffey's joint total is 85 and Burris' 74. It's a thrilling three-way duel in the individual race.

Share is confident that he will be eligible to play for the Pistons next year and he's considered a top prospect to become the No. 1 successor to George Mikan, Minneapolis' fabulous basketball center.

Game time at the Butler gym will be 8 p.m. A preliminary will involve the junior high teams of St. Joe and Butler.

Admission prices will be seventy-five cents for adults and thirty cents for children and students.

Court Reverses Decision

The United States Appeals court in Chicago has reversed the conviction of Dale C. Wicoff, 32-year-old Spencerville school teacher, on charges of aiding and abetting in misapplication of the funds at the Farmers & Merchants State Bank at Spencerville.

The decision by the court of appeals was a victory for Winslow VanHorne of Auburn and U. S. Representative E. Ross Adair of Fort Wayne, counsel for Wicoff.

The action by the circuit court of appeals for the seventh district remanded the case back to Fort Wayne for a new trial.

In federal court at Fort Wayne last June, Wicoff was found guilty by a federal grand jury of helpinb Clyde Retenwall, cashier at the bank, in the misapplication of funds.

The federal jurors found Wicoff innocent on six of the nine-count indictment, but convicted him on counts seven to nine.

Judges Major, Kerner and Duffey, who heard the appeal, found that the testimony on the first six counts might have prejudiced the rights of the defendant.

In the opinion, written by Judge F. Ryan Duffy, he said the jury's decision at Fort Wayne indicated there was some doubt in the minds of the jurors in that Wicoff was convicted on three counts after being found innocent on the first six.

Wicoff was the only defendant who sought an appeal in the case. The school teacher also made restitution for his overdrafts. He was the only defendant to make restitution. Suits filed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation are pending against the other five men.

Oral arguments in the appeal were heard last January. Mr. Van Horne appeared for the defendant and U. S. District Attorney Gilmore S. Haynie of Fort Wayne for the government.

The Auburn attorney contended in the appeal that Wicoff was convicted on testimony based upon "false bank records."

The decision by the court in Chicago wipes out the 18-months sentence that was imposed on Wicoff last August 18. The sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert.

If Wicoff is brought to trial again in federal court, he will be tried only on the three counts upon which he was convicted.

THE AMERICAN WAY

A Punishment Long Overdue

CRACK-DOWN FOR MORE QUARTERLY GROSS INCOME TAX PAYMENTS

Hoosier taxpayers earning $5,000 a year and upwards will be the subjects of a drive a get tax moneys paid by this group on a quarterly rather than an annual basis, warns Gross Income Tax Director James M. Propst.

The State's current financial embarrassment has necessitated this move, and it is conservatively estimated that less than 50 percent of this tax group have been filing on a quarterly basis as the law requires.

Anyone having Gross Income Tax liability of $10 or more for each 3-month calendar quarter must file and make remittance on or before the last day of the month following the quarter - April 30, July and October 31, respectively. This applies to tax due from gross receipts of sales by the businessman as well as the salaried man or wage-earner.

If you are not sure whether you are subject to quarterly payments, deduct $250 ($750 for merchant's sales at retail plus any other specific business exemption allowed) from quarterly gross earnings, and multiply the net result by your tax rate. If tax due is $10 or more, you are subject to quarterly payments.

Director Propst announces that 1 percent interest per month plus a 10 percent penalty on tax due will be assessed against all taxpayers failing to comply with this provision of the law.

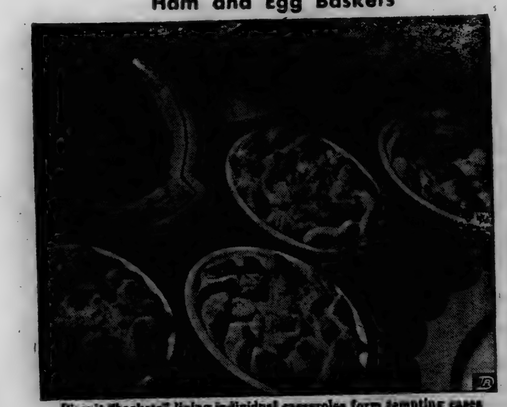
Ham and Egg Baskets



Biscuit "baskets" lining individual casseroles form tempting cases for creamed ham and eggs, extending more expensive protein foods and adding good nutrition at the same time.

One of the breakfasts men like best features pan fried ham with sunny-side eggs and plenty of hot biscuits. Turn this tempting menu into dinner entree with Ham and Egg Baskets, a thrifty "meal-in-one." Cut biscuit rounds made from recipe below or from a mix to line individual casseroles and extend a filling made with bite-size ham, chopped hard-cooked eggs, and cooked snap beans folded into a cream sauce.

With food prices higher than ever before, American homemakers are looking for new ways to make meals thrifty, nutritious and appealing to their families. Each Ham and Egg Basket costs about 25 cents, yet scores high in protein and other food values from meat and egg. The biscuit cases provide extra protein, coupled with essential B-vitamins and food iron.

When a large casserole is used to make the dish, roll biscuit dough out into a circle big enough to extend about an inch over side of casserole. This "inch" can be turned over the filling.

Complete a dinner featuring Ham and Egg Baskets with carrot and pineapple slaw, and extra biscuits for bread. Serve peanut butter cookies and hot coffee for dessert.

HAM AND EGG BASKETS

Biscuit Dough

2 cups sifted enriched flour
4½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
3 to 6 tablespoons shortening
1 to 1½ cups milk

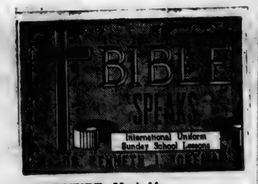
Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently ½ minute. Roll out ¼ inch thick. Cut ⅙ dough with floured 2-inch biscuit cutter. Line bottom of each casserole with remaining ⅙ of dough. Line sides of casseroles by overlapping 10 biscuits around each casserole, setting the biscuits on edge. Press edges of biscuits on sides firmly to edges of biscuit on bottom. Fill casseroles with Ham Egg Filling. Fold biscuit tops over filling. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 20 minutes.

Makes 4 individual baskets.

Ham Egg Filling

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons enriched flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
½ pound cubed cooked ham
1 cup cooked cut green beans
3 sliced hard cooked eggs
3 tablespoons chopped parsley

Melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Add flour, stirring well. Add salt. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. When sauce is medium thick, add ham, green beans, eggs, and parsley. Fill biscuit-lined casseroles with Ham Egg Filling.



SCRIPTURE: Mark 14.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Isaiah 53: 1-6.

Jesus Faces Death

Lesson for March 18, 1951

MANY A STORY has been written around the theme of a man who knows he has only a short while to live. But the best of these is the story of Jesus. It is the best not only because it is true; it is the story of the best man known to history. We Christians go further than that. We believe he was Perfection in all his human life. Jesus' way of facing death is the right way to face it, the way his followers too will choose.

Dr. Foreman

Heart at Leisure

FOR ONE thing, Jesus did not try to conceal from himself or others the fact that he would shortly die. Through all that happened, he was aware of his death. He neither shut his eyes to the inevitable, nor mourned over it.

Now in our sad times, with death so near to all of us, the approach of death is not something to talk about as if it were an event of the 21st century. Death may come to any of us soon; death is very likely to come to many of us soon; and sooner or later, death is certain to come to all of us. Facing death may bring out all a man's hidden selfishness. From the moment he knows his days are limited, he may think of nothing but himself and his "chances" to escape.

Jesus, on the contrary, under no illusions about escape, accepting death quietly, day by day thought of others rather than of himself.

His Friends and God

MANY PERSONS, in the felt presence of death, withdraw into themselves. They cut the ties that have bound them to others, they set their faces "outward bound." Not so with Jesus. While it was still day, he would not act as if it were night. So we find him tightening up the bonds of friendship.

It is an interesting fact that of all Jesus' living days, those which were remembered best were those which came just before his death. Part of the reason for this may be that his friends came closer to him in these days; there was an intimacy, a greater warmth, between him and his old friends than there had ever been. Even when he prayed in Gethsemane he was not content to pray alone. If there was none to watch with him and in some dim way share his agonies, it was because his friends were not awake to his need, not because he in any way turned his back on them.

Again, we find Jesus' prayer-life growing intense in those last days and nights. Nowhere else from Jesus' whole life is such a long prayer recorded as the one John puts into the story Mark tells so briefly of the last supper (John 17). Not in Jesus' whole life before, though he prayed early and often, do we hear of such agony of prayer as that in the garden before Judas came. He not only turned to his friends, and turned to God, but it is plain that he wished of all things most to bring his friends nearer to God.

Yet how many Christians are there who, if they knew death would be coming for them within the week, would think of others' spiritual welfare rather than their own? How many would help to prepare others for God, and not themselves alone?

First, a Good Life

THE CHURCH has always been a bit suspicious about "death-bed repentance." We know it can be real; but over a period of two thousand years it has been noticed that most people who suddenly turn good in the presence of death are likely to be just as bad as ever if death postpones his visit.

Jesus' last days were not those of a scared man trying to make up in a few short days the lost opportunities of a mis-spent lifetime. On the contrary, Jesus' last days were all of a piece with the rest of his life. Prayer, friendships, appreciation and help of others, even sacrifice, were not strange to him.

So with each of us. We all know how we ought to live if death were hovering near. But we shall have a hard time living and acting so, then, unless it is our habit already. It is well to pray for a "good death;" but the best way to have a good death is first to live the good life.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

FOREIGN POLICY STATEMENT--Herewith is a copy of the statement I have sent to the News Sentinel, Fort Wayne, Indiana, clarifying my position on foreign policy, in response to an editorial which appeared in that newspaper on March 8, 1951. The statement follows:

"For the sake of the record I should like to clarify my position with respect to the Truman-Acheson foreign policy. During the campaign, I criticized that foreign policy, saying that it was weak, vacillating, nonrealistic and if continued, would lead us to such foreign entanglements as to destroy those things which we characterize as 'the American way of life.' That is still my view. If anything, since I have been serving in the Congress, I am stronger in my conviction that our present foreign policy is not sound.

"In a recent editorial in the News-Sentinel, it was suggested that because I had not signed a so-called 'declaration of policy,' prepared by Representative Smith of Wisconsin and certain other Republican members of the House, that my ideas with respect to our foreign relations might be changing. As stated above, that is not the case. I have no objection to that declaration and, in fact, expect to sign it. However, I feel that such may not be the best method of achieving desired changes in our foreign policy and for that reason reserved the right to study the matter closely before reaching a final decision.

"At the same time, it has always appeared to me that 'actions speak louder than words.' In this connection, let me recall to your mind a few of the things which I have done since coming to Congress, which would indicate my attitude toward our foreign policy:

1. Protested to the Secretary of State the dismantling of the steel plant at Salzgitter, Germany, and the shipment of some of its facilities to Iron Curtain countries at the time that the Administration is seeking to build up armies and manufactruing potential in the American zone in Germany.

2. Suggested to the Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Sawyer, that there might be in this country a black market of Marshall Plan steel and asked that he cause an investigation to be made, which he has agreed to do.

3. Made complaint to the Secretary of Defense, General Marshall, that in some instances our troops fighting in Korea are without adequate food and clothing while, at the same time, we are shipping supplies to other nations throughout the world.

"These will serve to indicate, I think, my line of reasoning and, what is more important, the actions that I have taken. I trust that they will set at rest any question in your mind as to my attitude upon our foreign policy.

"One other thing should be made clear. There is an implication in the editorial above referred to that I may have been guided by Congressman Halleck in reaching my decision. That is not true. Neither he nor any one else has dictated my thinking or my actions. I welcome, and always will, sincere counsel and advice from any source, but the final decisions as to my actions must rest with me. That was a responsibility which I assumed when I sought the office of Representative, and I do not seek to avoid it.

"It is most important that our government reflect the basic American concepts of Constitutional, representative government, and a free economy. Otherwise, we face socialism, economic bankruptcy and the serious possibility of World War III because of the Administration's bungling of our affairs.

"You may count on my continued efforts to restore common sense and morality to government, eliminate the Communist appeasers in governmental positions and provide a strong, fiscal policy in the interest of maintaining the peace and security of our nation."

To A Taxpayer

Mrs. Frank Bowman stopped in last week to let us know of her agreement with our recent editorial. She also passed on the following paragraphs which she heard over station WBBM in Chicago by Paul Gibson.

"One-score and 16 years ago our fathers brought forth upon this nation a new tax, conceived in desperation and dedicated to the proposition that all men are fair game.

"Now we are engaged in a great mass of calculations, testing whether that taxpayer or any taxpayer so confused and so impoverished can long endure. We are met on Form 1040. We have come to dedicate a large portion of our income to a final resting place with those men who here spend their lives that they may spend our money.

"It is altogether anguish and torture that we should do this. But in the legal sense, we cannot evade - we cannot cheat - we cannot underestimate this tax. The collectors, clever and sly, who computed here, have gone far beyond our power to add and subtract.

"Our creditors will little note nor long remember what we pay here, but the Bureau of Internal Revenue can never forget what we report here. It is for us taxpayers rather to be devoted here to the tax return which the government has thus far so nobly spent. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us . . that from these vanished dollars we take increased devotion to the few remaining; that we here highly resolve that next year will not find us in a higher income tax bracket.

"That this taxpayer, underpaid, shall figure out more deductions, and that taxation of the people, by the Congress and for the government shall not cause our solvency to perish."

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

IMPROVING HEALTH IS DANGEROUS

LABORATORY research work in medicine is a dangerous occupation. A total of 1,334 infections acquired as a result of laboratory work in this country has just been reported, with a death of three per cent, or 39 fatalities.

The laboratory-acquired infections included brucellosis, tuberculosis, tularemia, typhoid fever, streptococcal and fungi infections. There have been notable martyrs to medical science with books and plays and motion picture films produced to tell their stories.

Subjected to definite hazards are laboratory workers and technicians, researchers in medicine, medical students, animal caretakers and janitors, all coming into contact with bacteria, viruses and parasites. Highly trained scientific personnel are involved in 1,005 of the 1,334 infections reported in this first comprehensive survey of infections among laboratory and research workers.

The handling of clinical specimens and infected animals and parasites that live outside the body account for many infections. More than 100 infections are reported as acquired in the autopsy room. Particular danger is attached to the study of tularemia in rabbits, because of the ease of getting the disease from these animals. Regardless of danger, countless laboratory and research workers labor willingly to find causes and cures for man's diseases.

LOVE 'N STUFF (mostly stuff)

We hear that when Peg K. goes down to Jim's, Jim locks brother Joe out of the house. Is he running you competition, Jim?

We are wondering who the girls are that Pete and Norm brought back from the noon tourney last Tuesday.

Who is this person who is continuously calling Shirley C. out of Study Hall the third period in the morning? Kinda early to be calling for dates, isn't it?

Why is Peggy R. so interested in knowing if it is necessary for a girl to be married in order to accompany her "loved one" to camp?? Is Sonny expecting to be called?

We hear that Pat Timmerman's latest flame is Clayton Mitchner. How about that, Pat? By the way, what are you doing next Thursday night?

Nan Furninsh and Barb S., who were those good looking fellows who were driving back and forth in front of the school house last week? They seemed to know you pretty well.

What seems to be the Sophie girls' main interest at the noon tourney? Can you tell us, Ruthie?

Pete Timmie is now sporting a new auto. Rides pretty good, hey Dort?

Norm has now removed that well-autographed cast but hasn't discarded his crutches yet. We think he enjoys them.

Helen Kruse has, at last, decided she likes green. Jack Surfus is now sporting a new green Ford convertible.

Dale Butler, will you please straighten us out about Ruth Brace's "Man" and "Moons'??

Betty Witt and Don S., did you enjoy that back row in English class? Nice way to start off "sweet sixteen!"

Quite a number of students attended the introductory 4-H meeting in the Home Ec. room Wednesday morning, in keeping with National 4-H Week. Miss Moore was in charge of the girls. Mr. Aker, the new assistant county agent, was in charge of the boys.

A few weeks ago someone was wondering why nobody had latched on to Frankie D. Well, we're wondering the same thing about Don Sheefel. He's real "dream stuff!"

All the "steadies" seem to be getting along real well. We haven't had anything to write about them in a long time. Ah! Sweet bliss of "love."

Farm

by EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

DIET is just as important to hogs as it is to humans—and this is especially true at farrowing time. The feeding of the sow after farrowing and during the gestation period determines the speed of the sow's recovery from farrowing and also the success with which she comes into milk and continues to produce milk to raise large, thrifty pigs.

The sow's feed should be changed to a well-balanced, bulky, laxative ration about five days before farrowing. The best time to make this change is when the sow is moved to farrowing quarters. From three to three-and-one-half pounds per head daily should be fed until the day of farrowing.

Although the sow should get all the watering she wants on the day of farrowing, she should receive no feed. On the day after, the amount of feed should be increased until the sow is eating all she'll take by the time the pigs are ten days old.

On the eleventh day, switch to grain and a balanced supplement built to produce plenty of sow's milk. Keep the grain and supplement in a self-feeder at all times. Many hogmen have found that creep feeding is not necessary after following this plan. If the feeder still wants to creep feed, the same rations should be used for the pigs in the creep.

The experts recommend self-feeding of brood sows and pigs from ten days after farrowing until weaning. This is one way to guarantee large, husky pigs at weaning, because if the sow is a good brood animal, she will convert the feed into milk which the little porkers need to grow big and healthy.

If an animal makes fat instead of milk she will probably be sold. The added body weight means the sow is ready for market sooner and requires less feed from weaning to marketing.

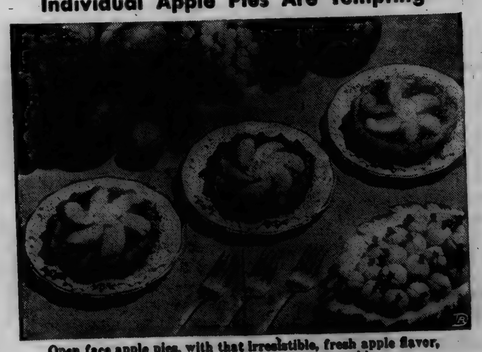
Individual Apple Pies Are Tempting



Open face apple pies, with that irresistible, fresh apple flavor, are served with tiny golden cheese pumpkins.

Juicy, mouth-watering apple pies, tender and spicy, taste better than ever now when you can buy those choice quality, rosy red Winesap apples which hail from Washington State's famous orchards. Perfect for cooking or baking, Winesaps are also excellent for eating as fresh fruit so you'll want to have plenty on hand for all your favorite apple treats. The Winesap is one of the best "keepers" so you can buy in quantity and have them cold and crisp in your refrigerator at all times.

Another good buy is the popular red-skinned Washington Delicious, tops for eating and for use in flavorful, refreshing salads. You'll find regular size Delicious and Winesaps, as well as the smaller, schoolboy sizes, reasonably priced and just right for tucking into lunch boxes and for munching between meals.

INDIVIDUAL APPLE PIE
(serves 4 to 6)

6 Winesap apples
¼ cup granulated or firmly packed brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon or nutmeg
1 to 2 tbsp. flour
½ tsp. grated lemon rind
1 tbsp. lemon juice
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
Pastry

Line individual pie pans with pastry, folding ½ inch of pastry edge under rim of pan and fluting with fingers along edge of pan. Pare and slice apples and fill pie pans. Combine sugar, salt, spice, flour and lemon rind and sprinkle over apples. Sprinkle with lemon juice and dot with butter or margarine. Bake in hot oven (425°) for 15 minutes. Reduce oven to 350F° and bake 30 minutes. To make cheese pumpkins, soften cheddar or any sharp cheese. Mold cheese into balls and ridge with the tines of a fork. Tuck a clove atop each ball to suggest a pumpkin stem.

Death to Life

Lesson for March 25, 1951

THE FLOWERS in the church on Easter morning will not have been there long. Less than 24 hours before, the church was dark and empty. At no time in the year does the church look gloomier than on Easter Eve. In many churches the altar is draped in black. Good Friday commemorates the saddest day in earth's history, Easter the most joyous. Yet they come only 48 hours apart. This reminds all Christians that neither Good Friday nor Easter stands by itself, but each gives meaning to the other.

Dr. Foreman

Cross and Crucifix

THE Protestant churches usually have a cross. That is because Protestants wish to remember that the Cross is empty, that it is not a dead Jesus whom we worship, but a living, risen, reigning Christ.

Even in the churches where crucifixes are numerous, there may be pictures or statues representing the risen Christ. Suppose there had been only Good Friday, suppose that had been the end of Jesus? Then there would have been no particular point in the cross. It would have been the mere instrument of one more violent death, another case of justice gone wrong, another tragic failure.

The Resurrection showed who it was that hung upon the Cross; the Resurrection showed that the Cross was not a scene of failure but of victory. "Death could not keep its prey; He tore the bars away!" But on the other hand, what would the Ressurrection have been without the Cross? Just another miracle,—something to make our eyes pop, but not to make us grateful. The New Testament tells of or hints at many resurrections during the time of Christ; but it is not enthusiastic about any of them, with this one exception.

Victim and Victor

THE New Testament represents the Resurrection in many lights. One of, the most striking is that it was a reward, a reward for the Cross. That is, God "highly exalted" Jesus because of his willingness to die on behalf of others (Isaiah 53:12; Phil. 2:8). The Cross was the battle with the dark powers, and the victory; the Resurrection was the march of triumph.

On the Cross Jesus was both victim and victor; on Easter morning he was all the victor. The Cross was a perfectly natural event; by it Jesus underwent the worst that nature, and human sin, can do. On the Cross Jesus was murdered, for murder it was, however "legal" it was made to seem; and he called down no miracle to save himself.

But at the Resurrection Christ rose above nature, as nature's Lord. The early church preached both Cross and Resurrection; and it has never forgotten either one.

"As He is, so are we . . ."

THERE is another important truth about the Cross and Resurrection. From the very beginning, the church has refused to think of these events as concerned with Jesus alone. The Christian who has begun to work deeply into the meanings of his faith will see farther than the child does. He will see both Cross and Resurrection from the inside.

The church has long taught that on the Cross God was doing something for us, and that through the Resurrection God is doing something in us. Paul expresses the life of a Christian as of one who is "dead with Christ" and "risen with Christ." The Christian life is thought of as one which has undergone both death and resurrection. Death to sin; rising to a new kind of life; death to a kind of existence in which we are slaves to what is worst in us; rising to a kind of life in which we are "more than conquerors."

Not all Christians have understood this, to be sure. Perhaps the greater number of Christians think of their life as one of simply trying (not very hard) to do the best they can, and usually failing. But the really high-level Christians have discovered something more profound: that the Christian actually has access, by faith, to an inner power which is the very same that raised Jesus from the dead. Every Christian can share, now, in the resurrection-life of Christ. And this is the secret of Easter.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

BAER FIELD—From Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, I have received word that the Air Force has decided not to reactivate Baer Field in its "current expansion program."

The Secretary said: "During the consideration of Baer Field for reactivation by the Air Force, certain objections to its use became apparent. Of primary importance, the officials of Fort Wayne endorsed only joint utilization of this field. They further stated their desire that all commercial airline activities now based there should continue. The city would not lease the whole area on the north side of the field with the result that construction by the Air Force of a complete new base area would be necessary. A construction program, of the magnitude required, would be excessively costly, both in time and in funds."

This decision, he added, does not "preclude further consideration of this facility, should requirements materially increase."

GOP DEFENSE POLICY—The Republican Policy Committee of the House has adopted a resolution protesting the commitment of American troops to Europe without authorization by the Congress.

The resolution pointed out the basic issue in the current defense policy is "whether or not the people of the United States---through their duly elected representatives in the Congress--shall participate in a momentous decision vitally affecting their lives and fortunes."

"The Constitution of the United States specifically provides in Article 1, Section 8, that the Congress--the House and Senate jointly--shall have the power 'to provide for the common defense,' 'to raise and support armies,' and 'to declare war.' To deny either body an equal voice in these matters is to do violence to the fundamental law of the land."

RECENT OFFICE VISITORS—Among the recent district visitors to the office were Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, whose whom is in Angola, but who is now in Washington; John S. Sturgeon, Fort Wayne; E. Paul Weaver, Rt. 6, Huntington; Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Donat of Rome City; Clark Kellum, RR, Camby; Lowell E. Mills and Howard S. Mills, RR, Indianapolis; E. P. Hunter, Ossian; William Junk, Fort Wayne; and Walter Kurk, Kendallville.

HINTS ON HEALTH
by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

WE KILL OUR CHILDREN?

ACCIDENTS kill 15 times as many children as die of poliomyelitis in any non-epidemic year. Accidents kill more children between the ages of 1 and 14 than all diseases combined, including polio, scarlet fever, diphtheria, meningitis, diarrhea, measles, pneumonia and whooping cough.

Nationwide interest aroused over poliomyelitis opens millions of charitable hearts and purses. Toward death by accident, there is shocking complacency. Yet more can be done to prevent accidents than can be done to prevent poliomyelitis. Accidents take a heavy toll among both young and old, especially in the home. Approximately a third of all fatal accidents occur in the home.

What has medicine to do with a safety program? Countless lives are lost each year through faulty vision, poor hearing, and other physical impairments. Old people are particularly subject to accidents, because with age come degenerative diseases. Body degeneration produces faulty coordination, bone and muscular debilities, disturbance in the reflexes, emotional changes, in addition to faulty vision and hearing.

Typical home accidents include stumbling over objects on steps, skidding on throw rugs on highly polished floors, slipping in bathtubs, bumping into and falling over furniture in dark passageways.

The next time you drive—think of the children.

Town & Farm

By EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

A BIT of precaution on the part of vegetable growers at this time of year will avoid a lot of trouble with destructive vegetable diseases later in the season. Plant pathologists advise taking steps right at the start to make sure you grow your seedlings in soil that is free from disease-causing organisms. You can do this in two ways: either do your planting in soil that has not grown vegetables for three or four years, or else treat the soil for diseases before planting.

For most vegetables, the three or four-year period without growing vegetables will render soil that is sufficiently disease-free to grow good, healthy plants. Club root of cabbage and related crops, however, will live in the soil for at least seven years. Fungi will grow in sphagnum moss, vermiculite, and sand after they have been contaminated, but usually these soil ingredients are clean.

One of the easiest methods of treating small amounts of soil is to sterilize the soil with formaldehyde solution. This is done by mixing one cup of water with three tablespoons of forty per cent commercial formalin solution. This mixture is then sprinkled over a bushel of soil and mixed thoroughly. After allowing the treated soil to stand in flats for twenty-four hours, you are ready to plant the seed. The flats should be watered as soon as they have been planted.

It should be remembered that formaldehyde is a strong chemical, and should not be used near growing plants. And when transplanting, allow the soil to stand for two weeks after formaldehyde treatment before using it again.

PLAN NOW FOR SUMMER CANNING, FREEZING

This is the time of year for food preservation-minded homemakers to take an inventory of foods and supplies on hand.

Miss Opal Stech, extension nutrition specialist at Purdue University, recommends that homemakers plan their menus now to include the canned or frozen food they have in storage to make room for these grown this summer. Canned foods held over from one year to the next will not be as high in nutritive value as at the time of canning.

After homemakers estimate the amount of food they plan to can or freeze this summer, they can list the supplies needed. Checking this list with the supplies on hand, they will know how to buy now.

The pressure cooker is recommended for canning all non-acid vegetables and meats, and it should be in perfect working order at canning time. Now is a good time for homemakers to have the pressure gauge tested for the correct temperature. If the safety valve is the type which has a steel ball, it should be opened and examined. If it is too badly corroded to be cleaned by scouring, it should be replaced. Any replacement part should be ordered immediately. All openings to the gauge and saftey valve should be open and cleaned. Clean canning supplies stored in one cabinet now will save time and energy later.

Nicked and cracked jars should be discarded. Screw type zinc lids with loose or cracked linings also should be thrown away. When buying lids with rubber composition seal, they should be examined for a thick edge which will hug the sealing edge of the jar.

Homemakers planning to freeze foods should have moisture and vapor proof wrappings and containers on hand. Aluminum foil may not be available but other moisture-vapor proof materials will be.

SOME VEGETABLES GROW BEST IN EARLY SPRING

The planting dates for the cool season vegetables are often times too early or too late. Such vegetables as onion sets, spinach, both head and leaf lettuce and peas will survive a spell of cool weather and produce quality vegetables during the cool, moist spring, says W. B. Ward, garden specialist at Purdue University.

These vegetables should mature before hot weather or they will readily "bolt" or go to seed. However, the commonly considered early vegetables radishes, beets, carrots, early cabbage, cauliflower and early potatoes are only moderately tolerant to chilly nights and frosts. They may be seriously damaged or delayed in maturing once they are frosted down.

A side-dressing of some nitrate fertilizer is often beneficial in making quick growth for the early planted crops. Ward advises that one handful of commercial fertilizer contains from three to twenty percent of nitrogen and is sufficient for 10 to 15 feet of row or may be "ringed" around six to ten transplants. The fertilizer should be kept away from the foliage and distributed around the plant where it will do the most good.

WINS CORN GROWING HONORS

Royal Center, Indiana (Special)—DeKalb Corn King Ellis Shafer, Cass County farmer, won top honors in Indiana with his yield of 157.78 bushels per acre in the 1950 National DeKalb Corn Growing Contest. Horace Stanley (upper right), of McClain County, Oklahoma, won the National Corn Crown in the same contest with a yield of 175.32 bushels per acre. And, Robert Harris (lower right) of Wayne County, Indiana, won the National DeKalb Corn Crown in the Junior division of the 1950 DeKalb Contest.

Shafer's winning crop was produced on a selected 5-acre contest plot that had been in alfalfa the year before. The land was spring plowed, and DeKalb Seed Corn Variety 638 was drilled in rows 36¾ inches apart. No manure was used, but a commercial fertilizer was spread over the field. Shafer's Championship Yield is over 3 times the size of the average corn yield produced in Indiana in 1950, according to U.S.D.A. estimates.

Young Harris grew his winning yield in the junior division on a field that had been in clover the year before. He spring plowed, disked, and dragged; drilling the field with DeKalb Seed Corn Variety 840 in rows 38 inches apart.

Stanley grew his National Championship yield on a field that had been in alfalfa the previous three years. He fall plowed, disked, and harrowed; drilling the field April 1, with DeKalb Seed Corn Variety 1002 in rows 40 inches apart. The average yield for the 3,441 entries in the 1950 DeKalb Contest was 94.95 bushels per acre, all made on selected 5-acre contest plots.

HOW MUCH ELECTRICITY ARE HOOSIERS USING NOW... compared to 1940?

● Use of electric power in Indiana has been growing by leaps and bounds in recent years, spearheaded by the amazing increase in use by the many industries of the State. In 1940, industries served by the electric companies of Indiana used 1,656,910,542 kilowatt-hours of electricity, and during the year 1950 they used over 2½ times as much . . . a total of 4,361,895,246 kilowatt-hours.

It has meant a great deal to every Hoosier worker that the electric companies of Indiana have been able to supply this rapidly growing industrial demand for electric power, as well as fill the fast-increasing needs of all their other customers, including those who depend on us for the power they receive through their REMC's or municipal systems.

But supplying all these electric needs is both our responsibility and our obligation. That is why, since equipment again became available after V-J Day, we have been pushing forward the biggest electric expansion program in Indiana history . . . a 500 million dollar program which will have increased the generating capability of the Indiana Electric Companies from 931,700 kilowatts in 1940 to 2,568,400 kilowatts by the end of 1953.

CONCORD TWP. HOME EC

The Concord Twp. Home Ec Club held its March 16 meeting at the home of Mrs. Doris Yeiser with Mrs. Violet Kline and Mrs. Edna Jenkins as co-hostesses.

Twenty-three members answered to roll call with Irish jokes. Four guests were present including two children.

The creed was read by all. After singing the song of the month, devotions were given by Mrs. Pluma Hamilton. Secretary and treasurer reports were given and reports of all special leaders on garden, poultry, food preservation, health, outlook, literary and hospitality.

Solicitors were appointed for Red Cross calls through the country and a donation of $1 was made.

At a previous meeting the members were requested to memorize the club creed & prayer this year. The project lesson on the preparation of a one-dish meal was given by Mrs. Katie Storer and Mrs. Victoria Means. The finished product was served with the lunch at the close of the meeting.

Penny collection was then taken. Mrs. Lloyd Yeiser read a portion of a letter received from the "Zubers" saying they had purchased a home and were nicely settled. An Easter card was signed by all those present and sent to them.

Mrs. Lula Armstrong and Mrs. Inez Hadsell entertained with contests. Mrs. Katie Storer and Mrs. Belle Keesler won prizes. Mrs. Storer proved to be the "greenhorn" of one contest.

The meeting was dismissed by singing the club prayer.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Washler.

The afternoon meeting opened with a special song, "The Wearing of the Green." The club creed was repeated in unison. Devotions were given by Verna Tustison, followed by all singing, "The Old Rugged Cross."

An interesting and helpful lesson, "One-Dish Meals," was presented by project leaders, Charlotte Kimmel and Delores Inlow.

Following topic roll call reports were given by garden, poultry and literary leaders. Announcements were made concerning the Garden and Poultry School in Auburn March 22 and the hospital benefit rummage sale April 12.

Leitha Hart, Cynthia Sipe and Dorothy Meek were appointed tour committee.

A report was given concerning the township Red Cross drive and the annual club donation made to this cause. Welfare, flower and birthday collections were taken.

Dorothy Meek served as auctioneer for the "white elephant" sale which proved entertaining as well as a boost to the treasury. Further entertainment was conducted by Desse Osman, Grace Robertson and Leona Bender.

The club will meet with Bernice Miller April 11 at 1 o'clock CST. There will be a lesson entitled, "Good Nutrition."

"Perhaps you know why I am here," said the young man.

"I could guess" relpied the businessman. "You've been at our house a good deal lately. Does it concern my daughter?"

"Not this time," sighed the courteous caller. "It's more important than that, sir. It's about a new insurance policy our company has now for executives."

The brand-new Benedict and an older husband were discussing their favorite subject—women.

"Did you ever win an argument with your wife?" the benedict asked.

"Once," the other answered reflectively. "But it was years ago."

"What was the argument about?"

"I don't remember offhand, but I do recall very clearly that we were putting down a new living-room rug at the time and her mouth was full of carpet tacks."

Halitosis is better than no breath at all.

Around the Town

With the Editor

Whoops! ! !

Due to a slight typographical error in the first Spencerville item of last week's paper, I may have to leave town in a hurry.

—It should have read, "Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Baumgartner and Lynn Fisher -" etc.

—When I make a mistake, I make 'em BIG!

When I went into the Fort Wayne Lutheran Hospital office to settle up Saturday afternoon and get the little woman and new son out of hock, the young lady at the desk asked, "Are you the Haberkorn who puts out the St. Joe News?"

I assured her that I was to blame for it, whereupon she informed me that she reads it every week. I asked her name which turned out to be Francis Friedt. She attended school here a few years ago.

Fort Wayne isn't the only town having railroad crossing troubles. Tom Beck got to the Butler gym just in time for a game one evening last week after having been delayed at a Butler crossing. Then on Saturday afternoon "Whitey" Heller was held up and didn't get there until the second quarter of the game. Pickles were behind by 12 points at that time, due mainly to their lack of rebounding strength. They managed to tie the score at 49-all, but couldn't pull out ahead: Magnavox won, 57-52.

If I were a lady and liked to sew, I wouldn't miss the sewing sessions at the hardware on Tuesday evenings. There are only 3 more to go in the series, so don't miss any more. I stopped in Tuesday while the movie was showing, and I think even I could learn to sew—if I liked to sew—if I were a lady.

Two More Burglaries

Burglars were active in St. Joe again last week as break-ins were reported at Dunten's Market, the second there in recent weeks, and also at the Universal Tool factory at Spencerville.

The break-in at the local grocery netted the thieves over $50 as they took money from a change sack and also from a cigar box at the front counter.

The burglars broke a pane of glass in the front door to gain entrance and left by the rear door.

The burglary is believed to have been committed sometime between 3:30 a.m. and 6 a.m. Saturday.

Burglars entered the main office of the Universal Tool & Stamping Co. at Spencerville some time early Sunday morning and stole an estimated $150 in cash from an open safe.

The thieves entered through an office window which was not locked on the south side of the building.

Nothing else was missing in the office of the firm, according to Deputy Sheriff George Milks.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Overtrained

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED—It looks like the President's "dare" that Congress just try and cut his budget is being accepted. Republicans finally received sufficient support from Democrats this week in the House of Representatives to eliminate unjustified expenditures in the Treasury-Post Office Department appropriation.

Further evidence that the President's unprecedented peacetime budget of $71.5 billions can be greatly reduced, as I have consistently pointed out, without jeopardizing the operation of the government, was made by the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report. This report showed how $5.5 billions can be pared from the budget. It says there are at least 16 areas where economies can be effected if the recommendations of the Hoover Report are carried out. The biggest savings are posible in the Defense Department where $3 billions may be cut by revamping the administration of this new agency. Other savings can be made in the State, Interior, Agriculture, Commerce, Labor, Veterans' Bureau and Social Security Agencies.

NEED ECONOMIES IMMEDIATELY—For the safety and welfare of our country, these reductions should be made without delay. Latest report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, March 16, shows that retail food prices have hit a new peak. Our government must halt its inflationary policies and expenditures which threaten to bankrupt the American family.

NO 'RED HERRINGS' THESE—As a result of 13 years of investigation, the House Committee on Un-American Activities has just published a revised list of 800 Communist-dominated and Communist-front organizations. The pamphlet is known as "Guide to Subversive Organizations." The President's diet of eating his words is going to be "meal-monotony."

THE 'SOCIALIST' PLANNERS—Great Britain's socialist-planners are leaving more than a bitter taste in the mouths of the people. They are putting the British on a meatless menu. Protesting the ration of about four ounces of meat a week, 166,000 women have asked the government to get out of the meat business and permit a return to the pre-socialistic system of purchases by the meat trade itself.

Meanwhile, our socialist planners continue their propaganda to socialize our economy. In a public document for sale by the Federal government, a former Hoosier, Oscar Ewing, now Federal Security Administrator, gives the following advice to employees and public assistance agencies: "Social security and public assistance programs are a basic essential for attainment of the socialized state envisaged in democratic ideology, a way of life which so far has been realized only in slight measure."

I SAY LET'S PRESERVE THE TRADITIONAL AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE!

NUISANCE CLUB

The "St. Joe Town Nuisance Club" held its 4th weekly meeting March 22. The March 8 meeting was potsponed because of the Jr. High basketball tourney. The March 15 meeting included election of officers as follows:

Pres.-Jerry Baker
Vice-Pres.-Lee Davis
Sec.-Bill Coburn
Treas.-Leatrice Coburn
Reporter-Virginia Herschberger

The club's new sponsor is Ted Haberkorn.

Chaperon for the meeting was Calvin Lessing. There were eleven members present.

The March 22 meeting was chaperoned by Doris Easley. There were ten members present. The club planned a skating party the 7th of April and a bake sale April 21.

The club would like to have more members. Any one is accepted within the ages of 13 to 23, if not married.

BIBLE SEMINAR FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS IN AUBURN

The Higley Press of Butler, publishers of Sunday School literature for the past 35 years, announces a study seminar for Sunday School teachers and prospective teachers to be held in the Eckhart Public Library in Auburn on five successive Tuesday nights, beginning April 10 and closing May 8. Classes will meet from 7:30 to 9:00 o'clock each evening. The book of Exodus will be the subject for study.

Loyal R. Ringenberg, editor of Sunday School literature at the Higley Press, will conduct the studies. Mr. Ringenberg was formerly a professor of Bible at the Fort Wayne Bible College.

The seminar in Auburn in the book of Erodus will be a sequel to earlier seminars in the book of Genesis conducted for Sunday School teachers in the areas of Butler and Grabill.

A certificate of credit will be issued to those who complete assignments. While the course is designed especially for church school teachers, it is open to all others who wish to attend classes. Approximately half of those attending earlier seminars have earned credit in the field of Christian education.

A free will offering will be received at the last session as a means of financing the seminar.

SCRIPTURE: Genesis 1—3; Psalm 104; John 1:1-3.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 19; 1-6.

God Invented Us

Lesson for April 1, 1951

"GOD INVENTED it," says C. S. Lewis about the universe. It is a 20th-century way of saying what the Bible says about God and the world. There have been whole religions based on the idea that God is good and spirit is good, but anything which is not God or not spirit is bad. If this were true, then our bodies would be bad, and all the physical world about us would be bad; our souls would be prisoners, so to speak, in a vast fortress of evil.

Dr. Foreman

This is not the truth the Bible tells. The story of Creation in Genesis tells us that when God had finished with making the world he saw that it was good, very good. He invented the world, he invented spirit and matter both, he invented us body and soul. Whatever evil is now in the world and in men did not come from God, it is not a mistake of God's. The world, as God invented it and intends it, is good.

The World Did not Happen

THE Christian church has changed some of its ideas about creation, but it has never ceased to believe in creation. Very few churches, if any, now affirm that the world was created in precisely six 24-hour days, and still fewer would be willing to name the dates on which creation took place.

Nevertheless the Christian church has not given up, and will not give up, her belief that God created all things. The doctrine of creation means, first of all, that the one God willed the universe and what is in it.

The universe did not happen, it did not make itself. It was not made by different gods working against one another. Zoroastrianism, for instance, teaches that the world was made by two gods, one of light and one of darkness. Whatever the god of light created, the god of darkness would make something exactly opposite. No, Jews and Christians alike say, there is only one Creator, the infinitely wise and good God.

Nature's Laws

NON-RELIGIOUS philosophers have sometimes said that the world explains itself. But Christian philosophers, not to mention Jewish ones as well, have seen that the world does not explain itself. There is too much evidence of purpose and design running through the patterns of the universe. Definite laws can be discovered and to some degree understood.

The same laws which govern matter on this planet, and indeed the very same elements, the "building-blocks of the universe," are to be discovered in the remotest stars. If the universe were an accident it would not be tied together as it is.

It would not be a universe of law but one in which nothing could be counted on, nothing expected. It would be no universe but a multiverse, a mad world, indeed no world at all but an infinite confusion.

Why Are We Here?

BUT CREATION means something more personal. It means that we ourselves have been called into existence by the Almighty,—not by a god of mere sheer power, but by the one God of infinite and all-powerful Love. Man is not here on this planet by some trick of blind fate, mankind is not a mere fleck of foam tossed up by the restless ocean of the Infinite, soon to be washed away in the ebbing tides. Man—that means also, we ourselves—are God's invention.

We are not now as he intended us, to be sure; sin has changed the picture sadly, as we shall be thinking next week.

Why are we here? We are here because God put us here. This means that life has a meaning; but also that we cannot find that meaning without knowing the will of God. His will is for our welfare; only the Creator knows what is best for his creatures. God intended this world to be used by us, not abused.

When any man or group of men get the notion that this world belongs to them alone; or when one generation misuses the resources of the lands and the waters, leaving to their descendants a wasted earth, then God's will in creation is being defied. But when we take his will as life's guide, we are on the way to fulfilling his purpose in Creation.

Claims Adjuster:"Why didn't you report the robbery at once? Didn't you suspect something when you come home and discovered all of the bureau drawers pulled out with the contents scattered all over?"

Claimant: 'Why, no. I thought that my husband had been looking for a clean shirt."

A nurse was showing a pretty blonde student nurse through the hospital. She warned the blonde: "In this ward are the dangerous cases. They're almost well."

One gal to another: "Why, no, I didn't tell a soul— I didn't know it was a secret"

SIGHTS OF THE WEEK

The Sophies shining their class rings instead of listening in class.

People being blinded by the flash of a gleaming class ring.

LOVE 'N STUFF (mostly stuff)

Nancy F., tell us why you like to go skating on Sunday nights. Is it because of "Orville?"

Speaking of the skating rink, why does Bonnie Witt always "fall" for Dick C.?

We wonder why some Auburn guy is invading Spencerville territory. Would you know anything about it, Lois Kimes?

Something new---Bonnie Noack is very anxious for Davey Doll to get back from the navy. Correct, Bonnie?

Is that unfamiliar rattle caused by Norman's '31 Ford? Come on, girls, let's thumb a ride!

What seems to be the trouble with the Freshman class? Could it be spring fever???

How does Jim S. get his typing done so quickly? Better watch out, Jim. We won't disclose any vital information!

We see that Ashley's Corky Conrad has given his class ring to Maxine H. Nice going, Senie.

We understand that Betty W. has nabbed a man. It couldn't be Norman M. from St. Joe, could it? Oh what that skating rink won't do!

What's this we hear about Bev L. -- something concerning the Tommy Dorsey Show and Charlie? Good luck, Bev.

Larry, we see that you finally got your neighbor to come to school. Mildred, we believe. Larry, we didn't know you cared so!

Shirley, what happened Sunday night? We saw your dry cleaning man at the Silver Moon. Where were you???

Harvey Lahr seems to have a knack for geting the younger girls to fall for him. First it was Peggy K. and now it is Betty Beckman. Of course the older girls like Harvey too. They're jealous!

Why do all the girls want pictures of the ball team? Is it because they're such good players or because they're all so handsome?

What's this we hear about Mady stealing Pat's boy friend? Shame on you, Mady!!

Who is this fellow from Leo that keeps calling Pat Aky? In case any of you other girls are interested, the number is 2540.

Who is this man Bonnie W. has been writing to with S.W.A.K. on the envelope? Could it be Jack Potts?

An old member of the Senior Class is now to be addressed as "Mrs. Lyal Call." Congratulations, Sis!

Say, you know it's been a long time since we've had anything to write about those two old timers, Dot N. and Midge H. What's the latest dirt??

Recreation Club To Collect Scrap Metal Next Saturday

On Saturday, April 14, the Recreation Club will conduct a scrap metal drive. That gives everyone ten days to think about it and get all those old pieces of scrap iron, machinery, bed springs, etc., in mind that the club can have.

You won't have to go to any great effort to get it out for collection--just call the club's secretary, Franklyn Sechler, tell him where it is, and they'll do the work.

MRS. MILDRED KLING DIES AT HOME OF SISTER AT AGE OF 64

Mrs. Mildred Kling, age 64, died at the home of a sister, Mrs. Alvin Walker, of four miles west of Hicksville Monday night. Mrs. Kling, who had been in failing health for some time and critically ill for the past two weeks, was a lifelong resident of Newville Township. The cause of death was a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Kling was born in Newville Township 64 years ago and spent her entire lifetime in that community. She was the widow of the late Henry Kling who passed away a few years ago. He was a farmer.

Surviving relatives include two daughters, Mrs. Lillian Means of Leo and Mrs. Gloria Komanec of Cleveland; a brother, Irving Palmer, of Seattle, Wash.; one other sister, Mrs. Lillian Anderson, of Hicksville; and five grandchildren.

Mrs. Kling was a member of the Newville Home Economics Club.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at the Hicksville E. U. B. Church at 2:30 p.m. EST with the pastor, Rev. Cleo C. Roth officiating. Burial will follow in the Scipio Cemetery, five miles west of Hicksville.

Auxiliary Gets Polio Pak

This machine will be on display at the St. Joe News Office in the near future.

Shortage In Corn Crop, Says PMA

Farmers in DeKalb County were urged today by PMA county committee chairman Ora E. Crooks to take another look at their spring planting program.

There is serious danger that this year's production of corn in Indiana will fall short of the amount needed in the nation's defense program.

March planting intentions showed that Indiana farmers are planning to increase this year's corn acreage, but not enough to maintain the state's livestock production.

The acreage needed in DeKalb County is 113 percent of the acreage planted last year. Figures on farmers' intentions by counties are not available, but in the area which includes DeKalb County the farmers reported in early March their intentions to plant only 102 percent of the 1950 acreage.

Last fall the carryover of corn in the nation was the largest on record. But already we are eating heavily into that reserve.

If the 1951 crop is only around 3 billion bushels, as indicated by the March intentions, farmers will be forced to make drastic reductions in their livestock operations.

SOIL CONSERVATION ON A FARM DOUBLES PRODUCTION OF COUNTY FARMER

The district supervisors of the DeKalb County Soil Conservation District point to the John Walter farm at the east edge of Auburn as one of many examples of the profitable use of a soil conservation plan.

John Walter has more than doubled his farm production in four years and he has figures to prove it.

The supervisors, Walter Richter, Russell Housel, Lewis Ault, Stanley Means and Chester Schultz, report that there are many other farmers in DeKalb County who have increased production and income on a basis comparable to the Walter farm.

Mr. Walter moved on the farm in 1947 from a farm near Ligonier. He had previous assistance from the Soil Conservation Service in Noble County and as soon as he arrived in DeKalb County, he contacted Charles L. (Chuck) Baum of Auburn, farm planner for DeKalb County. Through Mr. Baum and his assistant, Walter got advice on his new farm and its soil capabilities. The farm planner drew up a plan for the Walter farm and it was placed into operation.

In 1947 this place was farmed mainly to corn, oats and wheat with only small amounts of red clover and timothy. Yields at that time were one and one-half tons of hay per acre and 20 bushels of wheat. In 1949 his alfalfa-brome hay yields were 4.2 tons per acre and correspondingly high yields in corn and oats. Approximate yields on oats were 60 bushels per acre. Yields were increased slightly in 1950.

Walter has an 18-head herd of Jersey milk cows and a five-brood sow swine enterprise.

In 1948 his average butterfat production from his Jersey herd was 326 lbs. per head. In 1949 his herd produced 378 lbs. butterfat per head and in 1950 his butterfat production per cow was 406 lbs. Walter states that his increased production was primarily due to improvement of higher yielding, better quality legume-grass forage.

He has made the following permanent improvements on his farm: remodeled his barn, built a corn crib and granary and a milk house. And during this period, the improvements were paid for from increased farm productivity.

MOTORISTS MAY EXPERIENCE SEMI-HYPNOSIS

A motorist traveling a long distance on a smooth comparatively straight highway can be lulled into a state of three-fourths consciousness by the hum of the motor, the tires whirring on the pavement and by the fixation of his attention on the road ahead.

The Chicago Motor Club says that when a car leaves the highway or crashes into another vehicle without leaving skid marks it is usually asumed that the driver dozed off. This can be explained by physical weariness but in many cases, as reported by drivers who caught themselves nodding, it is the monotony of sight, sound and sensation which brings on a feeling of drowsiness.

Three factors unite "highway hypnosis" to the methods used by by a hypnotist to put his subject into a trance. The first is what scientists call 'repetitive stimuli'. It refers to the repeating of words and motions—the hypnotist saying "sleep, sleep" . . over and over while passing his hand back and forth in front of the subjects's eyes. This is designed to dull the subject's sensations by filling them without let-up with only a single object.

In motoring on the open highways this can be compared to that rigid attention given unceasingly to the road ahead also to the monotonous drumming on pavement and the humming of the motor.

Second, the 'power of suggestion'. The hypnotist will say, "you are becoming weary . . you are getting more and more sleepy . . . you want to sleep. . ." On the road, the suggesting is done by the sameness of the sensations received by the driver. But the 'suggestions' received by him are the most dangerous because he actually feels them; the hypnotist must be content with merely trying to make the subject think he is becoming weary, whereas, with the driver, the 'suggestion' is felt physically—he really is getting tired.

The third factor is a combination of the other two. A 'lowered alertness' is brought about in the the hypnotist. By this time his subject by the manipulations of will has been jellied and and he is susceptible to the desires of the other.

With the driver, this is when the danger is acute. His reflexes are sluggish, his eyes are heavy and seness dull.

What are the defenses against "highway hypnosis"? The motor club says that the need is for an outside influence to alert the motorist, to distract him from his reverie. The car radio or windshield wiper can be turned on. There should also be good ventilation so that the warmth of the heater cannot create a stuffy atmosphere in the car.

But the best defense of all, according to the club, is to pull off the road and take a nap.

EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

NOW is the time to start taking measures to control the European corn borer. You have about until May first to complete any steps which you plan to effectively control this pest in this year's crops.

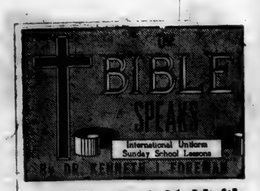
Most important of all, say the experts, is clean spring plowing. This doesn't cost any more to do a good job than it does to do a poor job.

A plowing job that is just average is not good enough. As much as 96 per cent of the borers in the corn are killed by clean plowing, and clean plowing means all stalks and corn refuse are completely covered.

Clean plowing can be done by using jointers and wires with properly hitched and properly adjusted plows. Two No. nine wires each 13 to 14 feet long are attached and allowed to trail in the furrow. These help in turning under the stalks.

Corncobs and used fodder are too often neglected as a source of borers and should be scattered over the fields and also plowed under.

Another thing to remember in the control of corn borers is that community control is the only way to really cut down their numbers. This is because the moths of the corn borers are able to travel up to five miles when they fly at night. This means you should get your neighbors to plow their corn fields cleanly, too.



SCRIPTURE: Genesis 3:1—5:5; 6:8—9:17.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Romans 5:12-17.

How Sin Begins

Lesson for April 8, 1951

NO ONE can believe in sin who does not believe in God. That is, no one can believe that sin is real unless he believes that God is real. For the meaning of sin is religious; it cannot be understood at all, apart from God. For sin means going contrary to the will of God. Sin may not consist of "doing" anything, of course; it may be only wishing or thinking against God; or it may be refusing to do, or neglecting to do, what God wants done.

Dr. Foreman

A thing is not right just because God wills it; he could not, by a mere proclamation, make murder good and mother-love wicked. But God never wills a thing unless it is right, or forbids it unless it is wrong; one reason for this is that he is creator of all, and so knows what is best for every creature. To go against his will is to go against one's own best interest.

• • •

Sin on the Outside

HOW does sin begin?

The Bible says sin has been on this earth as long as people have lived here. But the story of the temptation in the Garden of Eden is also a parable of how sin always begins. As Dr. Brunner says, Adam's other name is Everyman.

Now we can see in this story that sin came into the world because there came a suggestion from the outside. Not everything in this universe is now good; there is anti-God at work, as well as pro-God. There are forces at work that do not wish God's plans to succeed.

If this seems hard to take, at least it cannot be denied that a great many sins would never have been committed without some pull from the outside. A child who goes to school for the first time will pick up, in a few days, habits and language and attitudes that shock the parents. They wonder what's got into the child. Her playmates' meanness has got into her, that's the nub of it.

Sin on the Inside

BUT the fact is, we can't blame the situation as if the situation were the sinner. Not every one who passes a bar-room door feels an urge to go inside. Once in a while a bank clerk skips out with a suitcase full of the bank's money. But the money was there all the time, and no other clerk became a thief.

If it were simply the situation that makes the sin, then every bank clerk would be as dishonest as the worst, and every man who passes a bar would not pass it but go inside and get drunk just like the bums who can't pass a bar-room door.

No, there is something on the inside of us that pushes toward sin. What is it? The story in Genesis may offer a good clue. One of the New Testament writers put it this way: "A man's temptation is due to the pull of his own inward desires, which can be enormously attractive." (James 1:14, J. B. Phillips translation.)

Sin Beforehand

THERE is another sad feature of sin that stands out in the Genesis story and in the story of Everyman. That is, sin almost never looks the same afterwards as it did before.

Before the sin, Eve sees the forbidden fruit as beautiful and desirable; afterwards in shame she hides away from God. Living with herself, with her husband, with God, is no longer the pleasure it had been. However sad or horrible sin may look when we see it in the cold light of Afterwards, when we see it beforehand it always looks attractive.

In the last stages of sin, to be sure, it may be quite different; a man may be caught in the grip of a habit he hates, and no one can call him worse names than he calls himself. But in the beginnings of sin, few if any persons see anything repulsive or bad in what they are about to do.

That is why "I do as I please" is a fatally bad rule for living. If you do as you please, sooner or later you will please wrong, and down you will go. Adam and Eve did exactly as they pleased, and lost their Paradise. But if we take as our rule of life what God pleases, even if we never reach perfection we shall always be pointing in the right direction.

The Clevenger trio of near Avilla presented several musical numbers and a piano selection was given by Marlene Brenneman of Fairfield Township. Anna May Walter of Auburn presented a clarinet solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. L. D. Richardson, also of Auburn.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served from tables which were nicely decorated with pastel covers and spring flowers with Mrs. Leo Noirot, Mrs. Lester Anthony, Mrs. Dean Overholt and Mrs. Ford Walter composing the committee appointed by Mrs. Washington Teeters, county social and educational leader. The following township leaders assisted: Mrs. Reuben Rowe, Mrs. Ray Krafft, Mrs. Leonard Jarrett, Mrs. Lawrence Wagner, Mrs. Rose Gramling, Mrs. Marshal Funk, Mrs. Arthur Rosenberry and Mrs. Paul Ankney.

Fabulous Car to Aid Cancer Fight

Buick's fabulous "Old Vienna" sedan, upholstered in needle point and equipped with gold-plated interior fittings, will go to some lucky person for $1. Buick has donated the Roadmaster Riviera Sedan, along with $1,000 toward taxes, to the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund. It will be awarded to the person submitting $1 and the best safety slogan of 10 words or less. The exquisite beauty of the car is illustrated in this photo showing the needle-point panels designed and executed by Mme. Ida Jolles, one of the world's foremost creators of needle point.

PRISCILLA PRIM 4-H CLUB

The third meeting of the Priscilla Prim 4-H Club was held March 30 at the home of Lois Fisher. There were nine members present.

Pledges were led by Ralph Nusbaum and group singing was led by Pascal Speaks.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were then given by Lois Kimes, followed by a safety report by Jerry Woodring.

A demonstration was given by Mary Beckman on food preparation. Games prepared by Betty Beckman and Ralph Nusbaum were enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served by Pascal Speaks and Lois Kimes. More games were played and then the meeting adjourned.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

There were thirteen members of the Pythian Sisters from St. Joe who motored to Auburn's Red Cross Temple Monday night to attend friendship night there.

Georgia McMaken of St. Joe took the secretary's office during initiatory work.

A very enjoyable time was had by all.

Friendship night was held at the local temple two weeks ago as each officer from here invited an officer from another temple to fill her chair during initiatory work.

These meetings are held to get the members from all the temples closer together. Eighty-seven were present at the meeting in St. Joe.

for each dollar taken in twenty cents goes for taxes

Electricity is one of the biggest bargains of all the things a family buys. It's an even bigger value when you consider what else besides light and power your electric bill money helps pay for. Like roads and schools, for instance . . . like police and fire protection and national defense.

Taxes must pay for all these things —and for 1950 I & M's taxes will run about $6,900,000. Indiana & Michigan Electric Company is one of a group of operating units of the American Gas and Electric Company and these companies too pay large federal, state, and local taxes. Systemwide, all these taxes average twenty cents out of every dollar paid for electric service.

The American Gas and Electric System supplies electricity to over 1,140,000 customers, over thousands of miles of lines, from plants with total generating capacity of 2,440,000 kilowatts.

This great System was bought and paid for by the savings of millions of people, individually or through savings banks and insurance companies. These people are the owners of the System, yet—and this may surprise you—taxes took a bigger slice of the money you paid us than was paid out to all the owners of the System.

Or, put it this way: Of the money you pay us for electricity, more is returned to the public in the things tax money buys than is paid to the people whose savings provide you with adequate, dependable electric service.

SOYBEAN PRODUCTION ADVICE

Farmers should not plow up pastures and sods to meet the government's requests for high production of soybeans and other row crops this year, says George M. Strayer, secretary of the American Soybean Association.

Increasing the yield per acre is a sounder method, according to Strayer. The Soybean Association secretary pointed out that the U. S. Department of Agriculture is asking that last year's national soybean acreage of 13 million acres be maintained; and at the same time is asking for large increases in corn, cotton and wheat.

"But this production effort may have to maintained for many years. Farmers cannot risk ruining their land by abandoning a balanced farming program," says Strayer.

"The national average yield in 1950 was 21.6 bushels per acre. But many farmers have been making 40-bushel yields or over. If all farmers would aim at these figures, the bushelage needed could be reached without plowing up pastures or sod."

The first step toward a 40-bushel yield is a sound crop rotation with soybeans considered one of the soil depleting crops. Many people note the increased yields of crops following soybeans, so believe that soybeans are soil builders, according to Strayer. Actually the increase comes about from the small amount of nitrogen added to the soil by the proper inoculation of the soybean seed, and the improved tilth caused by the soybean root growth.

The second step is a fertilizer program that will maintain the soil at the highest fertility level that is economically sound, Strayer says. Soybeans need a readily available supply of potash and phosphorus. A 40-bushel soybean crop will use the equivalent of 300 pounds of 0-10-20.

Soybeans respond to a direct application of fertilizer on land of low fertility- and mainly those soils low in potash. For soils of medium to high fertility levels it is best to apply the fertilizer to other crops in the rotation. Soybeans do well "at the second table," that is, they benefit from fertilizers applied in generous amounts to other crops in the rotation.

"If you want 40-bushel soybean yields, keep the soil fertility level high," Strayer sums it up.

CHOOSE TOMATO VARIETY BY CHARACTERISTICS

The tomato is more widely grown in the home garden than any other vegetable. The popularity of this vegetable is largely due to the wide range of adaptability and use. The tomato plant will grow under varying soil and temperature conditions but for best results gardeners should provide fertile, moist soils and full sunlight, W. B. Ward, garden specialist at Purdue University, advises. Many of the tomato varieties are suitable for staking and close planting or may be spaced farther apart and left to sprawl over the ground.

The Stokesdale variety has proved successful as an early maturing red tomato that also produces well throughout the season and does well when trained to a single stem and staked. Early Baltimore, Pritchard and Valiant are similar in fruiting habits and about as early as the Stokesdale.

The Improved Indiana Baltimore ripens later than these and is one of the best for general purposes. For the main crop and for soils infected with the fusarium wilt disease, such varieties as Southland, Jefferson, Rutgers and Marglobe, all resistant to wilt, are recommended.

The Sunray, which is resistant to fusarium wilt, and Golden Jubilee are two of the best yellow varieties. Some of the new hybrid tomatos are replacing a few of the old standbys but the difference in the cost of the seed and the lack of uniformity of the fruits place the hybrids on trial, Ward says.

4-H LEADERS ATTEND DISTRICT TRAINING SCHOOL

Twelve DeKalb County 4-H club adult leaders, accompanied by the county home demonstration agent, Mary Lenore Moore, and assistant conuty agent, George F. Aker, attended the district 4-H club adult traning school at Albion March 14.

The all-day meeting was held in the court house in the Noble county seat. Lucheon for the DeKalb County group was sponsored by the Auburn Rotary Club. Other Rotary clubs sponsored the noon luncheon for leaders from their areas. Paul C. Johnson, editor of Prairie Farmer, spoke on the luncheon program.

Eric Holm and Mary Frances Smith of the Purdue 4-H club department led the discussion at the training school.

Attending from DeKalb County in addition to the extension employees were Mrs. Ruth Butler, Concord Twp.;Helen Butler of Auburn; Mrs. Jenny Gushwa of Corunna; Mrs. JoAnne Scattergood of Richland Twp.; Mrs. Mildred Wappes of Butler Twp.; Mrs. Lazeal Boger of Union Twp.; Gale Brown of Waterloo; Mrs. Muriel Snyder of Troy Twp.; Hazel Eckels of Ashley; Mrs. Alma Lung of Wilmington Twp.; Mrs. Dorothy Shugart of Auburn and Robert Witt of Spencer Twp.

CONSERVATION CLUB

A large number of shooters were on hand at the St. Joe Valley Conservation Club grounds to try their hand at busting the elusive clays on Sunday, March 25.

Ye scribe (Ralph Johnson) had too much flu last week to figure up the scores for last week's paper.

Bart Westrick from Defiance won high average with 66x70, which is really good shooting on a windy day. The north wind was making kites out of the targets.

Looking over the scores the first time it was thought that M. Frain had the wrong gun or something, but he did all right later so the boys evidently just sold him some bum shells.

Spicy Cinnamon Drops

These soft molasses cookies wear a spicy coat of cinnamon-sugar, and are delicious with fresh fruit.

"Come one, come all, for there are fresh cookies on the table!" You won't need to call twice, for that's an invitation no one can resist. Good cookies to serve for snacks or desserts are spicy Cinnamon Drops, which accent fruit flavors and are good with milk, coffee, or hot chocolate.

Molasses is behind the tangy flavor of Cinnamon Drops, which are made by a method that is standard for cakes. Drop teaspoonfuls of the dough into cinnamon-sugar for that sweet-and-spicy coat. The cookies flatten slightly into plump drops during baking.

Molasses combines with enriched flour in a nutrition special, too, since both have a generous quota of food iron to offer. Enriched flour also scores for its three B-vitamins. These food values are especially important in desserts which are served often on the family table.

CINNAMON DROPS

2½ cups sifted enriched flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 cup molasses
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup boiling water
¼ cup Cinnamon Sugar

Sift together flour, soda, and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add molasses and egg. Beat thoroughly. Add boiling water. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture gradually, mixing well. Drop by teaspoonfuls into Cinnamon Sugar. Bake on ungreased baking sheets in moderate oven (350°F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen 2-inch cookies.

Cinnamon Sugar

Mix 1½ teaspoons cinnamon with ¼ cup sugar.

HAVE you ever wondered how it would feel to go the limit on power and comfort and quality in an automobile?

Or how it would feel to be lord and master of a car that can take its place with the finest in the "fine-car field"?

Then, sir, this is a call to action.

The first action is yours—the simple action of getting in touch with a Buick dealer and planting yourself behind the wheel of a ROADMASTER.

Then let this great-powered and dazzling performer take over.

There's action in every one of the 152 horsepower in its Fireball engine—more action than most proud owners of this eager beauty will ever use.

There's counter-action in its gentle and sure-gripping brakes, the finest that Buick has ever engineered.

But there's also luxury—the luxury of double-depth Foamtex cushions and custom upholstery—and of ample roadweight magnificently poised on coil springs which individually cushion every wheel.

There's a spacious feeling of room, above and around you—room that is unsurpassed anywhere in the fine-car field.

And to make every mile effortless and relaxed, there's the very exclusive advantage of Dynaflow Drive—not as an "extra," but as a standard ROADMASTER feature.

So why not drop in and satisfy yourself, as our guest, that here indeed is a fine car that goes the limit—in everything but price!

Check for yourself what others ask—and what others offer—and you'll discover ROADMASTER prices a call to action that a wise man can't ignore.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR, ABC Network, every Monday evening.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

INFANT NUTRITION

NEW knowledge of nutrition is contributing to the well-being of babies. It has been proved that good nutrition for the mother before birth affects the health and welfare of the baby. Nutrition research has contributed largely to child health and to the increase of the child's life expectancy.

A baby born in 1900 had an expected life span of a little more than 49 years while one born today has an expectancy of 69 years. Our knowledge of the functions of minerals, vitamins and amino acids is doing much to aid in child health.

Better nutrition is creating a more rapid growth of infants and children. Body length is greater now than it was even 30 years ago. Rickets, scurvy and nutritional anemia, common a few years ago, are comparatively rare today. Vitamin C was unknown 35 years ago and the feeding of orange juice to babies was not routine until some years later.

A condition known as marasmus, a progressive wasting and emaciation in babies, formerly common in our hospital wards, is now rare. The death rate among prematurely born infants has been reduced.

There are new concepts of what constitutes an adequate diet for infants and children. Not only are babies fed more abundantly now than ever before but with more understanding of what they need to give them the best chance for a long and healthy life.

"Oh"—screamed both the talkers and got off the line in a hurry.

Around the Town

With the Editor

It's a good thing that the Young People's Class of the Lutheran Sunday School held its bake sale last Saturday in the News Office or the place might be as dirty now as it was before.

I had some assistance from the class's teacher, Franklyn Sechler, when I was cleaning up the place Friday evening and Saturday morning, but I don't know whether he helped things or not. Ned (Romeo) Keller came in while we were moving things around and dusting. Franklyn picked up some boxes of stationery and blew. The dust made a perfect smoke-screen. Then Art Lyon was in Saturday talking to us as we finished up the job when Franklyn said, "Did you see this place BEFORE?"

—I don't know if he helped or not.

Some of the girls were joking Saturday about ways to get customers in. Nola Ewell and Donna Wagner agreed when Donna suggested that Franklyn "go out and hang on the sign. That ought to drive—". She stopped. Her face turned the color of a tomato in full bloom.

I was looking for some sweet rolls to come in, but didn't see any. I asked if sweet rolls were hard to bake. Carol Billow said, "Not any harder than sour ones.

Well, I asked.

I stopped at Cy Kline's landing strip Saturday to deliver some printing. He was busy sawing the ends off some lengths of pipe. I also saw Roy Bowser busy repairing what looked to me like it might be some kind of a fish box. He said it was a gas tank for an airplane and he was going up for a spin as soon as it was repaired.

Later in St. Joe I was told that you can't get Roy to go up in one of those sky buggies?

Who's pulling whose leg? ?

Fog Causes Pile-up

A Newville man was injured early Tuesday morning in a three car pile-up that occurred in a heavy fog on state road 1 south of St. Joe.

The injured man, Charles Bassett, was treated in the office of a Butler physician for facial cuts and bruises. He was a passenger in an automobile driven by Milo W. Frain, 54, of St. Joe.

State Trooper Howard T. Chrisman of Auburn, the investigating officer, arrester Frain on a charge of driving on the wrong side of the road. Another driver involved in the crash, Victor H. Stevenson, 46, of Newville, was arrested on a charge of driving without an operator's permit.

Both men were arraigned Tuesday morning before Justice of the Peace John Metcalf in Butler. They entered pleas of guilty. Stevenson was fined $1 and costs of $10.75, Frain paid a fine of $1 and $12.25 costs.

The other driver involved in the accident was Harry F. Laux, 41, of Spencerville.

The state trooper said Frain swerved his automobile when he spotted Stevenson's car just ahead of him in the heavy fog and pulled into the path of the oncoming northbound 1951 Mercury driven by Laux. Frain's 1948 Oldsmobile caromed off the Spencerville man's car and crashed into the rear of Stevenson's 1936 Ford.

The Oldsmobile owned by Frain was a total loss. Estimated damage to the 1951 Mercury was over $400 and to the Ford, $25.

The accident occurred a mile south of St. Joe at 5:40 a.m. Tuesday.

FACES PRISON TERM FOR SWINDLE AT SPENCERVILLE

Convicted of fraud in the purchase of war assets supplies and reselling them for a profit, George L. McCulloch of Fort Wayne is facing a possible maximum fine of $10,000 and a posible maximum sentence of ten years imprisonment or both.

McCulloch, a former War Assets Administration employee, alledgedly purchased a high gear tester through the high school at Spencerville for $192 in 1948 and resold it a few months later for $2,250. He was found guilty in U. S. district court at Fort Wayne Monday of making the original purchase under false pretenses

Judge Luther M. Swygert handed down the decision after hearing four hours of testimony, evidence and pleas.

Acting as an agent for the Spencerville school, McCulloch purchased the gear tester from the WAA, claiming that it was needed in industrial and vocational work at the school. Later he sold the equipment to the Fairfield Gear Manufacturing Company of Lafayette.

In making the purchase from the WAA, McCulloch signed a statement swearing that the piece of machinery was needed by the school. He thus was able to purchase it for 5 percent of what regular industrialists would have had to pay for it

Judge Swygert ruled that McCulloch knew when he signed the official WAA statement that there was no possible need for the gear tester at the school and that it couldn't possibly be used in shop work there.

The contract also stipulated that the gear tester would not be resold within one year after purchase without the consent of the WAA.

A number of witnesses appeared for the government, including Vinton L. Miller, former trustee of Spencer Township in which Spencerville is located; Everett Paschen, principal of Spencerville high school; Dudley Horth, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; Alfred J. McAllister, former president of the Fairfield Manufacturing Company; Elmer M. Heinmiller, present president of the company; J. Henry Chappell, director of industrial vocational and adult education in the Fort Wayne public schools and Mrs. Ursla Serafino, an employee of the WAA in Chicago. The defense called no witnesses.

The tesitmony of Miller and Paschen showed that they and William Mayer, Jr., Fort Wayne and Spencerville tool die executive, knew there was no need for the equipment at the school when it was purchased. Miller and Paschen said the plan was to resell the gear tester and other non-usable equipment at a profit at the end of one year and then use the money for school improvements.

In finding McCulloch guilty, Judge Swygert sharply reprimanded Miller and Paschen for their lack of knowledge or laxity "in allowing McCulloch to proceed in the fashion he did."

Chappell and Heinmiller testified that a school the size of Spencerville could not possibly use the gear tester. Heinmiller said it takes hundreds of machines to manufacture gears to be tested by a machine that size.

Paschen said that only 20 to 25 percent of the equipment purchased from the WAA by McCulloch, acting for the Spencerville school, could be used by the school. He also said that the school's shop blew down in 1948, but that McCulloch continued to order equipment suposedly to be used in it.

Much of the equipment was not even shipped to the Spencerville school, Paschen's testimony showed, but was stored in the Mayer Tool & Die storeroom in Fort Wayne. William Mayer, Jr., who introduced McCulloch to Miller and Paschen, is associated with this firm.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Handcuffs That Never Unlock

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING—After four days of debate, the House is expected this week to vote on the Administration's and the Pentagon's plan for universal military training and service. This legislation provides for a revolutionary departure from our time-honored and historic stand in opposition to peacetime conscription.

While I am unable to predict the outcome of the House vote, the debate has been markd by heated controversy and compromises in the Administration's efforts to win approval of its proposal.

The debate brought out several interesting revelations which may have escaped the notice of the public because of the lengthy discussions on the subject.

Highlighting them, for instance, was the statement refuting the argument that it takes an American youth from 2 to 3 years of compulsory military service in order to reduce wartime casualties, General Christiansen of the Army told the House Armed Services Committee that "we found 17 weeks developed the man so that as an individual he could go into combat organization and fight as a part of that combat organization effectively."

According to the Army's own reports on World War II casualties, countries without universal military service suffered far less casualties than countries with universal military service. In World War II, the U.S. suffered 1,068,000 casualties with 392,000 killed. The British Empire suffered 980,000 casualties with 353,000 killed. Germany, with universal military service, suffered 9,500,000 casualties with 2,100,000 killed. Russia, with universal military service, suffered 13,000,000 casualties with 3,500,000 killed. Japan, with 5,750,000 casualties suffered 1,200,000 deaths. China with 3,178,000 casualties had 1,300,000 killed.

Dewey Short, Republican-Missouri, ranking minority member of the House Armed Services Committee, in direct reply to a question, said that the military believes that "now is the only chance in the world for them to get this (the UMT bill) passed."

Short added: "I have talked to General Marshall, General Eisenhower, General Bradley, Admiral Nimitz, Admiral Kincaid and others. I think all of those naval and military men will admit that the thing that won World War II was America's industrial might and production capacity. Certainly the battle front can never be stronger than the home front. The thing we have got to do is to maintain a strong economy, financial solvency and a going industry here in the United States in order to repeal any aggression."

A statement by Erle Cocke, Jr. national commander, the American Legion, which he made on January 2 before the Senate sub committee considering this legislation was cited. Cocke said: "We want to make it clear that the plan before you is not universal military training of the type so long advocated by the American Legion, and supported by the people. The Committee will want to consider this matter with great care."

It was also pointed out that this plan was written by Heinz Guderian who was Hitler's last chief of staff. He wrote it while in an American prison camp at the specific request of our top American staff officers---our military elite. It was circulated in 1949 facilitating the study of the merger of the U.S. Armed Forces, Congressman Werdel, Rep., California, declared.

Farm

EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

IT'S spring housecleaning time again—or almost—and on the well-managed farm, that should mean spring barn-cleaning time, too.

Many costly infections of cattle, such as Brucellosis, Hemorrhagic Septicemia, Calf Scours, to name a few, can be held in check or their spread prevented by the simple practice of cleanliness. And clean barns mean clean herds.

This bit of advice applies doubly in cases where new tenants or new owners are bringing their herds onto farms that were formerly occupied by other cattle which may have been infected.

Farmers can do much to prevent diseases in their herds by taking a few simple precautions. Here are five suggestions for spring barn cleaning:

1. Remove all manure and rubbish from the barn to a place where the livestock will not come in contact with it.
2. Old wooden floors should be replaced where possible with hard-surfaced material.
3. If dirt floors are to be retained, several inches of soil should be removed and the area refilled with fresh gravel or other suitable material.
4. Drain stagnant pools of water and fill the holes with solid material. If drainage is impossible, fence off the wet area.
5. Sweep the barn clean and scrub thoroughly with a lye solution, using one pound to fifteen gallons of water. Scrubbing with a spray of an approved disinfectant, such as cresol, is a good practice to follow.

'We Are His People'

Lesson for April 15, 1951

WHEN A Christian today in church repeats the ancient Psalm, "We are His people," if he knows what he is saying he is associating himself with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. The God of the Bible is not a "great first cause" or a "principle" of any sort. First, last and always He is the God of the Covenant. Over and over again He is called the "God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob."

Dr. Foreman

The stories of these men are not mere campfire tales of legendary ancestors. They are the story of how these men were related to God in a solemn covenant; they were "God's people" in a special way. In the New Testament we find the strange yet stirring declaration that God was "not ashamed to be their God."

The Living God

THE FULL meaning of what the Bible has to tell us about God can be discovered best by coming toward an understanding of what the covenant idea means. What is meant by the Covenant God, one who makes covenants with men?

First of all, it means that God is living. He is not a mere observer of events with which He has nothing to do. If we could put it into modern American language, God does not sit in the bleachers; He plays the game. He does not, as it were, read the newspapers to see how the war against evil goes on; He is out on the field directing the battles.

God is not something to be talked about, a problem, an X; He is not a creation of men's minds. God is not a name for an idea. He is more alive than any one who thinks about Him, He is more real than any who ever doubted Him.

Only Persons Make Covenants

THE GREAT difference between things and people is that people have wills of their own. And God is a person. You will not find in the Bible any statement directly saying that God is personal, or a person; but every time a Covenant between God and man is mentioned, the idea of personality is there.

No one who ever knew God would think of calling Him "It" even with capital letters. If we say "He" about God it is not because we think He is masculine; it would be quite as true to call Him Mother-God as Father-God.

As Dr. Reynolds, Presbyterian missionary to Korea, has pointed out, all the best qualities we associate with motherhood are in the Bible attributed to God. So if we call God "He" what we are emphasizing is that He is personal, that He has intelligence and will of His own, no vague It or That or "All."

Then the Covenant God is one who takes the initiative. The Bible tells of a God who does not wait on a snow clad peak of eternity till lost mankind somehow breaks a trail up the vast ranges to His lofty throne. It tells of a God who walks in the valley of the shadows, seeking men. All religions have gods, some of them very "high and lifted up"; but only the Bible reveals the true God, whose mercy does not have to be bought or coaxed, but a God who approaches man in mercy, a God who is all-giving Love.

God Makes His Own Terms

AT THE same time, God remains God. He is not on a level with man. He takes the initiative, but also He makes His own terms. We cannot dictate to Him. We cannot draw up our own contracts, so to speak. God made promises to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and we are "heirs of the promises."

But these promises are not promiscuous. To put it quite simply: God is not on friendly terms with every one. He is a friend to all who will be His friends. But with those who turn their backs, who go their own ways, who care little or nothing for His great purposes, who do not seek His will, God makes no covenants.

God's will is the welfare of mankind. God's will is the destruction of evil, the creation and triumph of good. God is light and in Him is no darkness at all. If we love darkness rather than light, we have no right to be called His people. We cannot call ourselves His people because we are Americans, or because we belong to some church; we can call ourselves His people only if our hearts are in tune with His.

Letters to the Editor

Phoenix, Arizona
April 3, 1951

Dear Friends Back Home:

Time has slipped away, winter has gone and spring is with us again. It seems as though it has been such a short time since we were living back there and seeing all of you good folks, and visiting with you when you were in the store buying your groceries; but so much has happened in that time. And we are a long way from old St. Joe now; but we love it out here and my health has improved so much that we are very happy to call Arizona our home.

We keep informed about St. Joe and our friends back there through the St. Joe News and from the many letters and cards our families and friends send us. We always look forward to receiving the St. Joe News each week and really missed it when the railroad strike was on.

Today the temperature was 84 degrees but at night around 50 degrees. It is, we think, the nicest time of the year here as it gets very hot later in the summer.

The head lettuce crop is being harvested at present and it is very interesting to follow through and watch it out in the field, hauled to the sheds, packed in ice and shipped east. Head lettuce growing is big business here.

The government is encouraging farmers to raise more cotton this year, and as a result every available tract of land is being put out to cotton. Cotton farming is as common in this valley as corn and soybeans are in the St. Joe Valley.

Yesterday I took a drive west eight miles then north seven miles to the Luke Field Airbase. This is one of the large jet training fields of Arizona. For five miles of that distance palm and orange trees have been set out alternatingly on each side of the road. I think it is one of the beauty spots in this section. There is hardly any time during tre year that there are not oranges on the trees. Soon they will be out in blossom and it is the sweetest perfume I have ever smelled and so heavy. The oranges lay under the trees along the road as pears and apples do back there. It is seldom anyone bothers to pick them up except tourists. Ask Gerald Kraft how they taste.

Each year during April, Phoenix has an old time western rodeo. This year it is April 13-14-15. This is a big event with very elaborate parade all horse drawn. Ask Lela Northrup about it, as she saw it last year when she was here. People come from every state to see it. All schools are closed for the day of the parade and a good many thousand people line the parade route. All school bands play in it and a queen is chosen to lead it and usually rides along side Gene Autry which thrills all the kids.

I guess this is all the news I know at this time so will close hoping that you can all come out and see us sometime.

As ever,

Spring Apple Salads are Appetizing

Fragrant, spicy red Delicious apples team with green peppers for color and delicious flavor contrast.

A refreshing salad that sings of spring and looks like a decorative water lily is made of glossy green peppers and crisp, flavorful red Delicious apples. Cut the peppers petal fashion and remove seeds. Dice unpeeled apples, combine with grapefruit segments, toss lightly with mayonnaise and heap into pepper cups. Or, try this recipe for apples with red or white cabbage, topped with a sweet and sour dressing for extra special good eating.

The secret of success with these recipes is to select tender, flavorful apples and, thanks to an abundant harvest, prices are reasonable on choice quality fruit. When you're shopping, look for the juicy red Washington State Delicious apples which are especially choice for salads. Another good buy in local markets is the red Winesap all-purpose apple, which has a distinctive spicy flavor that's perfect for pies, cakes and puddings as well as for eating as is. The regular Winesap is preferred for cooked dishes and the smaller, economy "schoolboy" sizes are ideal for lunchboxes and after school munching.

SWEET AND SOUR APPLE-CABBAGE SALAD

3 to 4 red Delicious apples
½ cup seedless raisins
4 cups shredded cabbage
⅓ cup evaporated milk
1 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. salt
Pepper
3 tbsps. vinegar

Dice unpeeled apples. Soak raisins in hot water for a few minutes. Rinse in cold water and drain. Add to diced apples and shredded cabbage. Combine milk, sugar, vinegar, salt and pepper and mix well. Pour over salad. Serves 6.

TOTAL OF $213 GIVEN TO HEART FUND

A total of $213.58 was collected in DeKalb County during the recent drive for funds for the heart foundation.

Funds collected in the drive will be turned over to the Indiana Heart Fund and the American Heart Associates, Inc. for research into the causes of heart diseases, the nation's "greatest killer."

WIDOW OF WILLIAM CURIE BURIED AT ST. JOE

Funeral services for Mrs. William Curie, 87, of St. Joe were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday, April 4, at the Johnson Funeral Home in Butler. The Rev. E. D. Imler, pastor of the Methodist Church in Butler, officiated and burial was in the K. of P. Cemetery at St. Joe.

Mrs. Curie suffered a heart attack while under care at the Brouse Nursing Home, north of Butler, on the Monday preceding her death and died shortly afterward at 10 a.m. Before the attack Mrs. Curie was in good health, considering her age.

The deceased was born in DeKalb County on November 27, 1863, to the late Anthony and Margaret Swineford. She spent her entire lifetime in the St. Joe community until three years ago when she was taken to the nursing home. She had lived with her son, Elgin Curie, in St. Joe for a number of years before she went to the nursing home and the son took up residence in Fort Wayne, his present home.

Her husband, William Curie, died about 13 or 14 years ago.

Mrs. Curie was a member of the old Methodist Church at St. Joe.

The dinner was given by James Reed who also awarded a trophy to the high point man for free throws on each team. For the first team Ed Hook carried off the "oscar" and Jim Long of the second team won the second trophy. After the dinner Mr. Reed showed several reels of movies of some of the games played by our team during the past season. Those present were: the first ten of each team (minus Harvey Lahr), coach Don Long, principal Everett Paschen, scorer Milton McGrath, time keeper Virgil Kimes and host, Mr. Reed.

LOVE 'N STUFF (mostly stuff)

Say Shirley R., who took you home from the Beta meeting Tuesday night? Don't hold out on us!

We hear that Eloise T. has lost her flame. Don't feel too badly, Eloise. There are many more fish in the ocean.

Girls aren't such weaklings after all. At least some of them proved their strength after the Beta meeting by pushing Paschen's Packard out of the mud.

Norman, we thought that your girl friend was awfully cute. Especially her Auburn hair.

We hear that some of the Spencerville boys are indebted to Mr. Bowser for a certain window that they accidently broke. Take it a little easy, boys.

Hey, Bonnie Furnish, what's all the excitement about May 6, 1951??? Come on, tell us. We'll find out sooner or later anyway.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

T.B. DEATH RATE DROPS

TUBERCULOSIS is on the way to becoming a minor disease. A long and difficult road lies ahead before this can be accomplished, but the continuous decline in the tuberculosis death rate is heartening. There are 10,000 fewer deaths a year from tuberculosis in the United States today than there were only 10 years ago.

The death rate has dropped steadily and startlingly over the years until now it is below 30 per 100,000 of population, while in 1937 it was 54. The decline in the death rate from tuberculosis since 1946 exceeded the average annual decrease of the preceding quarter century.

Take Indiana for example, 50 years ago the tuberculosis death rate in our state was 187.7 per 100,000 of population and today it is below 20.3! In Indiana today, each community may take advantage of the mobile chest x-ray facilities for the finding of tuberculosis. The conquest of tuberculosis depends on early finding of cases, prompt and adequate treatment, and medical follow-up of arrested cases. These basic measures are vital not only for the welfare of those with tuberculosis, but also for the protection of those who might become infected by people who have active tuberculosis.

One of the greatest needs in the fight against tuberculosis is a sufficient number of beds to hospitalize all active cases. Figures show that in areas where there is a higher ratio of bed capacity, the death rate is lower.

Modern methods of treatment, including surgery and new drugs, are helping to effect cures and shorten the period of disability. Tuberculosis can be conquered!

VOLUME LXVI — ST. JOE (DeKalb Co.), INDIANA — Thursday, April 19, 1951 — NUMBER 16

Around the Town

With the Editor

If it hadn't been for that lousy weather last Saturday evening, more people would have enjoyed the two comedies which were presented by the Spencerville P.T.A. The plays were given for the benefit of the recreation club, which is now about $55 richer as a result.

Everyone gave good performances, but I thought the most nearly perfect job of casting put Don Long, Spencerville coach, in the role of one of the bachelors in "Henry's Mail-Order Wife." That big mustache he wore fit perfectly into his features and actions as he gave as professional a performance as you'd want to see.

An interesting sidelight of the show were the costumes. Dorothy Kimes informed me that the one she wore was a hundred years old, and I understand some of the others were pretty old, too.

An amazing thing happened that evening. I told Mike and Dave to sit down, after they had done a little damage on the stage a litle over an hour before the show started. They begrudgingly walked down and sat on a couple of front row chairs. The next hour was a busy one and I completely forgot about them. I asked Clyde Duker if he had seen them. He said, "Yes, they're right where you put them an hour ago, in the front row." Sure enough, there they were, listening and watching intently as the Spencerville school band played. —And they stayed there another two hours.

—Sometimes they amaze me.

You'll leave your cares and troubles at the door when you attend their gala performance.

Featured on the show will be Glen Gordon, the golden-voiced cowboy singer, Darl Fox, that Paulding County fox hunter, Grandpap, that grand old man of dry wit and humor, Al Pettit, with his accordion, and Pete Smith, the big professor.

The Hoosier Cornhuskers may now be heard daily Monday thru Friday over WKJG in Fort Wayne at 12:15 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. CST. WKJG is located at 1380 on your radio dial.

New Ruling In Court Decision

Winslow VanHorne reported last Friday that the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh District at Chicago has modified its opinion granting a new trial to Dale C. Wicoff to permit the defense to introduce evidence that the defense was not permitted to present at Wicoff's trial in federal court in Fort Wayne.

The Auburn attorney said the petition for rehearing was filed with the appeals court in an effort to gain permission for the defense to introduce witnesses to give evidence necessary to the defense of Wicoff. Permission was denied at the original trial.

In the opinion, handed down Wednesday by the court of appeals modifying the May 6 opinion granting a new trial, the defense was granted permission to introduce the evidence but the petition for rehearing was denied.

Chief Judge Major and Judges Kerner and Duffy heard the petition. Judge Duffy's opinion stated that the defendant asked the appeals court to specifically pass upon the refusal of the trial court to admit certain testimony.

Testimony at the trial disclosed that a considerable number of Wicoff's checks were cashed but were not charged to his account and were found by Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation investigators in a safe in the back of the bank.

Judge Duffy went on to say that other checks of depositors in the bank whose accounts were not overdrawn, were found in the safe and had not been charged to their accounts.

In the opinion, the defense also was given permission at the forthcoming second trial of Wicoff to bring Wayne Newhouser of Leo to the stand. Newhouser was not permitted to testify at Wicoff's first trial that bank records showed that he was overdrawn when actually he had a bank balance.

No date has been set for the new trial.

COBURN CORNERS CHURCH NEWS

Wednesday night, April 11, at a congregation meeting, plans for enlarging the church were discussed. The following committee to receive comments and suggestions from the members has been appointed: Chester Davis, Jr., Ellen Hart, Max Ward and Claude Laub.

The morning attendance at the Bible School and Worship Services was 145 in spite of the fact that 23 of our number, including John Cook (who preaches) and our orchestra were at Greenfield Mills.

The Youth Endeavor boasted of an attendance of 26. A special was given by Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton. John Witt led the lesson, "God Works Through Paul."

The Busy Beavers C. E. was led by Carolyn Morris. Darlene Hamilton gave a saxaphone solo as a special. Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Cook acted as adult sponsors in the absence of Mrs. Jarrett. 21 were present.

107 attended the evening services and heard the orchestra music and the minister's inspiring sermon.

IF SOMEONE IN YOUR FAMILY HAD CANCER, you would do anything . . . everything that would help. And today there is so much that you can do to help.

We need more research, more life-saving education, more training for scientists and physicians, more equipment, more services for those already stricken with the disease. We all must help. Any contribution is welcome, but the fight against this major threat deserves major support: dollars—tens—twenties—hundreds of dollars. Will you help?

God In a Nation

Lesson for April 22, 1951

WHEN IS GOD IN THE LIFE of a nation?

It depends on what you mean by the question. God is the Ruler of all nations, and Judge of them all. But some nations have been far more conscious of the true God and obedient to Him than other nations have.

Dr. Foreman

God's Name on Paper

GOD CAN be mentioned often, yet not count for very much in a nation. For instance, His name can be on the money, it can be in the state ceremonies, it can be in the constitution, or if there is no constitution, the monarch may be said to rule "by divine right."

But such things may be no better than formal. The money can pass from wicked hand to wicked hand, it can be used for godless purposes by men who do not have God in all their thoughts. The name of God in public ceremonies (such as oaths of office) or in the constitution may mean no more than decorative designs on a letter-head. The king ruling by "divine" right may be a cruel and corrupt man.

Religious-sounding songs, such as "God Bless America" or "God Save the King", can be sung by rascals. No, God in a nation's life must be more than a name on paper, green or white.

God in Great Men

GOD BEGINS to get into the life of a nation when He gets into the lives of people. It is not disparaging the common man to point out the plain fact that as between one believer in God who is obscure, and another who is prominent and powerful, the latter means more in the long-run life of a nation.

It was so in the era of Moses. That was a time of religious confusion, just as it is today. Doubtless there were many humble persons at that time who had a living faith, but if it had not been for Moses, the nation of Israel would never have been a nation, but would have shrunk back into the ruck of little no-account tribes, never to be heard from again. When we hear that even Moses' own brother was so stupid or bad as to lead the people in worshipping a gold-plated calf, we can imagine what the masses of the people were like.

If the United States and Canada can be called Christian nations today, it is because we can point to men on both sides of the line who have been not only high-calibre, influential men, but also men not ashamed of their faith in God.

An American congressman who is respected by friends and opponents alike, has said it is more important to him to know what God wants than what his constituents want. Most governors of states profess religion; and some of the best of them practice it. What America would have been without such men, one can only guess; certainly far worse than it is.

God in Laws and Lives

GOD CAN also be in a nation's laws. It is true, we cannot run a modern nation or municipality on the laws of Leviticus, and nobody wants to, not even the preachers and rabbis. Still, the laws of a land either reflect the will of God or they do not. So far as the laws of a nation are in line with the teachings and truth of Christ, so far God is in the life of that nation.

But the question is not finally: What do the laws prescribe, but do the people respect the laws? God does not get deeply into the life of a nation until He gets into the homes of high and low alike.

If the nation of Israel ever became godly, they had Moses to thank; yet he himself was under no illusions as to the people he left behind him. "I know that after my death ye will utterly corrupt yourselves and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you." (Deut. 31: 29.)

It took centuries of toil and patience on the part of God and His prophets to change Israel from a nation mostly indifferent to God, to a people mostly God-fearing; and the change took place only as homes changed.

Is ours a Christian nation today? The answer is not in our constitution, not in our leading men, not in our history or laws or traditions; the answer is in our homes. When the cry goes up "Back to God!" the place to start back, and the place that counts most, is our homes.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

MACARTHUR'S DISMISSAL--The President's dismissal of General MacArthur exploded a bombshell of reaction in the Fourth District and across the nation.

Demands for the impeachment of the President and the removal of Secretary of State Dean Acheson with the other architects of our disastrous Alger Hiss-communist appeasement policy in the Far East were instantaneous and bitter.

Congressional leaders said the angry denunciation of the President was unprecedented in recent history.

Hundreds of communications flooded my office. Typical of the aroused indignation was expressed by a businessman. He wrote:

"Although I am a Democrat, I would nevertheless like to register with you my strenuous protest against the sacking of MacArthur. It seems to me that the 'Chief of Police' has certainly invited your censure, if he has not laid himself open to impeachment."

Republicans in the House and Senate immediately called for:

An investigation of the whole question of the Administration's foreign policy;

An immediate opportunity to hear the complete views of General MacArthur;

The possibility of impeachments.

METHOD OF IMPEACHMENT—Because of the current discussion of the impeachment of President Truman, it is of interest to know how that could be accomplished.

Charges must be brought in the House of Representatives and passed by a majority of that body. This action of the House might be compared to the action of a Grand Jury in determining that charges should be brought against an individual. The charges having been voted, then one or more persons are designated by the House to serve as "prosecutors."

The actual trial takes place before the Senate which sits as a sort of jury. If impeachment charges are being brought against a President of the United States, the Chief Justic of the United States Supreme Court presides. In the case of persons holding lesser offices, the Vice President presides over the Senate as usual. To convict under impeachment proceedings, a two-thirds vote of the Senate is required.

Charges of impeachment have been brought against only one President, and he was not convicted. That was Andrew Johnson. He failed of being convicted by the narrow margin of only one vote. At the time he was tried we are informed he was not present in person before the Senate, but was ably represented by a battery of lawyers.

Weekend Chowder

If Saturday lunches and Sunday night suppers pose a menu problem for you, here's a suggestion that should work into the scheme of things to everyone's enjoyment. A hearty vegetable chowder, studded with crisp bacon, and served with rolled egg sandwiches will prove to be more than just a weekend favorite. Ac'cent, (pure monosodium glutamate) included in the chowder and sandwich fillings will assure you of top-flight taste.

VEGETABLE CHOWDER

2 cups water
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1 package (12 ounce) frozen mixed vegetables
4 strips bacon, diced
1 medium sized onion, diced
3 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon Ac'cent (monosodium glutamate)
¼ to ½ teaspoon pepper

Bring water to boil in covered saucepan; add celery and frozen mixed vegetables. Cover and bring to boil; boil gently until vegetables are tender, about 10 minutes. Saute bacon and onion in heavy pot, stirring frequently until bacon is brown and crisp, 10 to 15 minutes. Add flour and stir until smoothly blended. Stir in milk slowly. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Boil gently for 2 minutes. Add the mixed vegetables with their liquid. Reheat. Makes about 1¾ quarts soup or 5 servings.

Rolled Egg Sandwich Filling

Blend chopped hard-cooked egg with minced celery and mayonnaise. Season with Ac'cent (⅛ teaspoon per four eggs), salt and pepper and prepared mustard. Garnish with watercress.

Letters to tne Editor

10 April 1951

Dear Folks Back Home,

I guess we didn't realize how much we were missing out on things back home until we got a St. Joe newspaper last week. Of course, it was a couple of months old since it was sent to Dick's old address and went via the Korea way but still it was interesting and made us realize that we have been gone for a long time, especially reading about the kids that have grown up and married while we still picture them as barely teen agers.

We are enjoying Japan very much and this being the time of the year for cherry blossoms, there are some very beautiful sights to see. We haven't seen too much of Japan but we have seen a few of their old shrines and castles which are very interesting and I hope to see more of them.

Things in Japan have changed very much in the year that we've been over here. The Japanese have picked up the American customs very fast. They are doing a lot of building now and some of the buildings look strictly Stateside. Also in their clothing, they have changed very much to American style. We still see a lot of them wearing kimoes and their Japanese shoes but most of the younger generation have changed to the American style.

We have nothing to complain about on our living conditions over here. We are living in a housing project where everything seems about like a small town back home. We have the PX, post office, theater, dispensary and chapel situated near the center of the Park and regular busses going to and from the city. We have a six room bungalow furnished very comfortably and have a maid and houseboy so you can imagine how spoiled we're getting and enjoying every bit of it.

Now for the purpose of this letter. Will you please keep sending the St. Joe News to the address given below? We enjoy reading it and it makes us feel a little closer to the folks back home.

Thank you.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Richard Kimes

Runt Hunt Week Starts Monday

Which way does the tail of a healthy pig curl? Clockwise, to the right, or counter-clockwise, to the left?

Clifford Billow, local feed dealer, is asking farmers in this community to cast their votes on the subject all of next week, starting on Monday, in a special "Pig Tail" ballot box he has set up in his store. Each farmer casting a vote will receive a special "lucky pig" pocket piece.

It's all part of a plan to promote a National Runt Hunt, April 23-28, which will focus attention of farmers in this community as well as throughout the nation, on the problem of runt pigs and what to do about them.

Anyone who has ever had any experience with pigs knows that a healthy, hearty, well-doing pig has a well defined, characteristic curl in its tail. If a pig's tail hangs straight, it usually means the pig is unthrifty or runty. But there is a great controversy as to whether more pig tails curl to the right or to the left.

According to Cliff, during Runt Hunt Week, all owners of pigs in this community are urged to carefully observe and inspect their pigs, in order to note any that are not growing rapidly or are unthrifty in any way.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has predicted the 1951 Spring pig crop will be one of the largest on record, about 63½ million head. Swine authorities estimate that generally 10 to 15 per cent of all pigs farrowed in the U. S. may be classified as runts, with 20 to 25 per cent more rated as unthrifty or slow-growers. At this rate there could be 20 to 25 million runty and slow-growing pigs on American farms this spring and summer.

During recent months startling new discoveries in swine nutrition have enabled research workers to develop powerful pig rations that literally "make hogs out of runts." These special feeds, fortified with Vitamin B12, commonly known as APF, Antibiotic Feed Supplement, plus other special high-potency ingredients, have been successful in making thrifty pigs out of more than 80 percent of runts and slow-growers---actually putting a "curl in the tail" of thousands of runts.

If farmers make use of these new discoveries in time, Cliff points out, many millions of pounds of additional pork can be added to the nation's larder from the spring pig crop, which might otherwise be lost. Increasing national pork production this year is especially important to help meet defense and civilian requirements.

Thousands of feed dealers are participating in National Runt Hunt.

Mr. Nugen and Mr. Kreamelmeyer, who attended a special school at Lafayette on auxiliary police instruction, will be aided by other speakers at coming meetings.

Topics to be discussed include casualty effects of atomic bombs and police patrol and first aid instruction by Robert Dove, Waterloo coach.

Judge W. D. Stump of the DeKalb circuit court will appear before the class and discuss martial law, military law and guard duty at a later meeting. The judge has had wide experience in military government.

Charles Overmeyer, superintendent of the Waterloo schools, will address the class April 30.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

Mrs. Henry Lung was hostess for the Ladies Litreary Club at the home of Mrs. Carl Perkins on April 11.

The meeting was called to order by the president and Mrs. Cora Curie read the collect.

The lesson for the evening taken from Holiday magazine was given by Mrs. Glen Cole and Mrs. Don McElroy. Mrs. Cole chose a topic on Indiana and Mrs. McElroy gave a short article on "If Women Are Drafted" and also one entitled "As Others See Us"- giving the foreign visitor's impression of the American people.

Mrs. Frank Shull, as entertainment chairman, presented Gloria Ann Lung, who played two piano solos.

Mrs. Allen Haller gave some pointers on parliamentary procedure followed by the reading of the minutes.

Seventeen members responded to roll call and there was one guest present.

One honorary member, Mrs. Carlos Church, has been reinstated as a regular member of the club.

STORE HOURS

Most of my life has been spent on farms. My father died in 1899. I was four years old. When I was 11 years old, I began working by the month on farms between school terms. I worked one summer near Spencerville, another summer near St. Johns and another near Moores. The memories of the community meetings EVERY summer evening in those towns stayed with me. These small towns were teeming with life, friendliness, good fellowship and I also thought—happiness. Those happy memories had a large part in influencing the selection of our present location in a small country town. I believed that if the businesses of a small town would give the public the same old time hours of friendly service, competitive spirit, selection of merchandise, etc., that these small towns would be just as busy today as in my boyhood days. With that object in mind we hired help to work on staggered or two shift hours so that we could give every evening service and still not work a hardship on any of our workers including our own family. In line with the foregoing, we have done and will continue to do our best to prove that a small country town can still be a real live business center.

VOLUME LXVI | ST. JOE (DeKalb Co.), INDIANA | Thursday. April 26, 1951 | NUMBER 17

Around the Town

With the Editor

You'd have thought "Red" Heyman and DuWayne Goings were riding broncos instead of tractors Tuesday at the school house the way they were bouncing around.

The ground was soggy and "Red" had a little traction trouble at first with his Ford. But he remedied that—for about two feet. After getting up speed he dropped the plows. Just like that the tractor stopped and "Red" bounced up off the seat.

—About the same result as a horse and rider taking a hurdle, only the horse doesn't.

Then DuWayne hooked his tractor to a cable running from a pretty good sized limb of that big tree and tried to pull 'er down. I said tried. His front wheels would raise off the ground or else the tractor would stay put at the cable's length and bounce up and just this.

down like

Some one could have made a fortune this summer by "canning" and selling the worms and night crawlers turned up during the day. There were really some big, fat, juicy ones removed from the tranquility of their domestic abodes. —I've been reading that dictionary again.

One thing is for sure, St. Joe IS going to have a brand spankin' new first class ball diamond.

I was informed by Mrs. Lillian Buckingham this week that I'd better not miss mentioning the painting Frank Leichty is doing on her place. He did some last fall and now is finishing the job.

He stuck his neck out, though—painting the Buckingham property right across the alley from the local hardware—and using Sears-Roebuck paint!

Grading In Progress On New Diamond

Construction work was started Tuesday on St. Joe's lighted softball diamond when many tons of soil were moved by grader and bulldozer on the property west of the Concord Twp. school.

Work was started at 8:30 a.m. when equipment, operated by David Heyman, Donald McCann, Du Wayne Goings and Carl Carpenter broke ground for leveling operations.

Two tractors with plows, a "motor patrol," or grader, and a bulldozer were used through the course of the full day.

The operations were interesting and distracting to students of the school and nearby residents. Classes were disrupted during the morning but regained normalcy for the afternoon session. Several students aided in the work, helping to remove the wire backstop from the old diamond and the larger of two trees on the east side of the new site.

The big machinery was hampered by the soggy ground and repeatedly sank deep into the ground. Although much was accomplished, there remains another day's work or more of grading before the finishing touches can be made to give St. Joe a diamond suitable for use. Due to the unpredictable and wet weather, no definite date has been set for the resumption of operations.

All of the labor and equipment was donated. Mr. Carpenter donated his services and the bulldozer and Mr. McCann operated the motor patrol which was donated by Mr. Lester Baker.

Lions Reorganize Scout Troop

The first organizational meeting of the newly-formed Boy Scout troop for St. Joe and Spencerville was held Monday night at the residence of Bill Weninger just west of Spencerville. The troop has been given the use of Mr. Weninger's garage for their clubhouse.

Thirty boys were present to receive their first instructions on scouting from Jim Haas, who has been selected to serve as scout master.

The troop committee is composed of five members of the St. Joe Lions Club which is sponsoring the troop. The committee includes C. O. Duker, Bill Weinnger, Maurice Kline, Morris Hollabaugh and Ted Haberkorn.

Registration blanks are available from Mr. Haas or Mr. Duker. All boys eleven years of age and up are eligible to participate in Boy Scout work.

The Anthony Wayne Council Boy Scouts of America recently was presented with a check for $15,000 by Mr. Dale McMillen, chairman of the board of the Central Soya Company, on behalf of the McMillen Foundation, Inc.

The gift will be used for the rehabilitation and expansion of facilities at Camp Big Isalnd, Rome City.

E. J. Ford of Fort Wayne, Council President, upon accepting the generous gift, stated: "The gift will enable us to greatly augment and rehabilitate the present facilities at our Big Island camp which will include new troop camp sites, new trucks, 2 transportation boats with 25 horsepower motors, 12 new row boats and 12 canoes, and the modernization of the camp aquatic facilities."

Land of Promise

Lesson for April 29, 1951

A NATION must have a home. Gypsies are not properly called a nation because their only home is where their wagons make a camp. Professors of political science tell us that among other necessities, a nation has to have a definite and defensible territory.

Dr. Foreman

But the ancient Israelites did not need a professor to tell them that much. They knew it very well. When they came out of Egypt they could call their clothes and their tents and their stock their own; but nothing else. Even when Moses had given them laws and religion and an army and an organization, they were still not a nation, for they had no land of their own under their feet.

• • •

No Welcoming Committee

SO IT was that what those people looked forward to, for forty years, was the "Land of Promise," where Abraham had pitched his tent, where these Israelites' forefathers had worshipped God.

But their ancestors had owned very little of the land. Abraham owned just enough for a burial plot; Jacob owned a tract which, so far as we know, he never occupied. Yet it was a good land, so good that others, long before Abraham, had settled there.

It has no unsettled wilderness; it was dotted with high-walled, thickly populated, strongly defended towns. There were no "welcome" signs on the highways. All the cities of Palestine were united by one common hate for the invading Israelites.

Two Centuries of War

SOME of our hymns give a wrong impression of Canaan, the Land of Promise. In some of our hymns this life is compared to the wilderness in which the Israelites lived for forty years, the river Jordan is a symbol of death, and Canaan means heaven ("Canaan's happy shore!").

Well, Canaan was not a happy shore. It was a bloody battlefield for centuries. For the Israelites did not occupy the land all at once. Their fight was not won right away, it was not won in a generation. We do not know for certain the date of Joshua, but a date favored by many scholars is in the 13th century before Christ. The "Land of Promise" was not fully and securely in the Israelites' hands until the tenth century.

The whole story, or such parts of it as we find in the books of Joshua and Judges, shows that it was a long struggle, a weary succession of more or less continual wars, climaxed in the final conquests of the fighting king David.

Some Victories are Deserved

DURING those wars, many cruelties were practiced by both sides. If there had been a United Nations at that time, they would certainly have condemned the Israelites for aggression and for war crimes besides.

We may as well admit that the Israelites did not act in line with the Sermon on the Mount. How could they? They had never heard of it. The fact remains that if you, an impartial, invisible observer, had looked down from the sky at all the long struggle the Israelites had to put up to win a homeland, and if you had been asked: Which will win, the Israelites or the Canaanites? There were times when you would hardly have dared to make a prediction.

But if you had been asked: Which side deserves to win? You would surely have said, The Israelites.

God Saw the Future

ANY one who could have foreseen the future both of Israel and the tribes with whom they fought for centuries, would certainly have hoped for Israel's victory.

Comparing all that Israel would mean to mankind, directly and indirectly, with all that would come from their enemies, you would have voted for the Israelites without hesitation. If for no other reason, the Israelites deserved to win because of their religion.

If you can imagine what might have been the sinister results if Israel had been destroyed, and with them all knowledge of the one and holy God, you can see how God could not afford to let His people lose.

CHILDBIRTH IS SAFE

NEVER in history was childbirth as safe as it is today. For the first time the maternal death rate for a large nation has dropped below one death for each 1,000 births.

In the United States, chances of an expectant mother to survive the diseases of pregnancy and childbirth are now better than 999 out of 1,000. Twenty years ago the maternal death rate in this country was seven times as high as it is now.

The present record is all the more remarkable because it has been made in a population which contains, as a result of immigration, groups with varying health standards and practices.

Chief among the factors in this glorious achievement is the increasing percentage of births taking place in hospitals, although improvement in medical care provided for in home births has been great. Then there is the development of prenatal care which stresses and watches for early symptoms of those conditions which formerly caused death, and also the extraordinary medical progress of recent years with the sulfonamides, antibiotics, whole blood and blood derivatives.

The fact that prospective mothers realize the importance of placing themselves under the care of their physician immediately upon knowledge of their expectancy is perhaps the most important factor in making childbirth safe.

Each of the eighty-two county medical societies in Indiana has a maternal and child health committee whose responsibility it is to conduct postgraduate courses in the field of maternal and child health. It is also their duty to review every maternal death in that county.

The findings of these committees are used as a basis for improving all aspects of maternal care and have been a tremendous factor in reducing the general death rate during childbirth to today's phenomenally low point.

GOOD HEALTH

Answer to Question No. 1:

1. Yes, but statistics can fool you. Increase in chronic disease actually means we are getting healthier in our younger years, strange as that seems. Only one half of the people born in 1900 could expect to die of a chronic disease since so many of them were the victims of childhood diseases for which no cure had been found. Today four out of five persons die of a chronic disease, but at a much more advanced age, simply because we now are healthier in our youth and live longer.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. Gingivitis is an inflammation of the gums caused by faulty diet, irritation or infection. While pyorrhea is more serious, since it means that actual pus is present, it is still important to correct gingivitis and thus prevent pyorrhea.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. There is an old saying, "It takes a lean horse for a long race." If the condition of underweight is not due to illness, such as tuberculosis, thin older people (that is, those over the age of 55 years) live longer than the overweight.

Letters to tne Editor

Dear Editor:

In the past nine months, during the course of the Korean war, we have experienced an ever-increasing tenseness in national and international affairs that led, finally, to one of the outstanding events in American history.

I refer, of course, to the stirring and courageous address to the American people by General Douglas MacArthur.

Throughout this period of tenseness and anxiety among the people of this great nation, expressions of opinions by the people have constantly grown in numbers.

This increasing interest is a great thing for the Nation and is a great help to those of us in Congress who are facing the most difficult legislative problems in the Country's history.

The peak in citizen-expression was reached immediately following President Truman's dismissal of General MacArthur.

In all my experience in the Senate, I have never received expressive communications even approximating the number which has flooded my office since that controversial act by the President.

The letters and telegrams have reached so many thousands that now it is impossible for my limited staff to even count them, much less attempt to reply to them even with a form letter.

General MacArthur's magnificent address and forthright position on a Far East policy loosed another great flood of correspondence which is adding thousands more letters and wires daily to the great piles of mail in my office.

At the end of the seventh day after the dismissal of General MacArthur, my staff and I have segregated an estimated 12,000 letters and wires.

Not a single letter or wire thus far checked supported the President's action. We must still have another 20,000 letters and wires to check.

Most of the communications ask that I do what I can to correct the injustice to General MacArthur.

I can assure those people that I have made that fight to the best of my ability, and I pledge that I will continue that fight.

A great many others have asked in their communications that I move to impeach the President. Such action, under the Constitution, must originate in the House of Representatives and the Senate must sit in adjudication of the House action.

Many have asked my position on various questions raised in the Truman MacArthur controversy over Far East policies.

I have made my position clear at all times. I definitely favor every recommendation of General MacArthur, even to the point of demanding that unless his policies are followed in fighting the Korean war, that we pull our troops out of Korea.

In addition to the thousands of letters on the MacArthur dismissal, I have received an estimated 20,000 replies to the Fulton Lewis, Jr. radio questions. Although Mr. Lewis thoughtfully advised his listeners not to expect replies from us, I would like those writers to know how much their expressions are appreciated.

I also give careful attention at all times to letters written by readers to their newspaper editors and to the editorial expressions of the editors. All these are sources of great help to us in this crisis.

Sincerely,

Homer E. Capehart

THERE'S always a big question that comes up at this time of the year: who's going to eat the most of your vegetable garden this summer—you or the bugs? There's really only one good way to make sure that you get the jump on the insects, and that is to have insecticide all ready before the infestation starts.

Now is the time to figure out how much insecticide will be needed for your garden. It's easy to figure this out, once the plans for your garden are completed. Then you can have the bug-killers on hand ahead of time, waiting for those rascals. Here are some estimates that can be used for the most common crops:

Four rows of potatoes, 50 feet long, will require about one pound of three per cent DDT dust, or two gallons of spray, for each application. During the summer you'll probably need about four applications of this mixture. The same amount applies to borers in sweet corn.

DDT is the best guarantee against potato insects. However, don't be surprised if the increased demand this year causes shortages. There are some good alternatives which may be used. Sulfur and lead arsenate, or sulfur and calcium arsenate mixtures may be used instead, for dust application. Calcium arsenate or lead arsenate mixtures may be used with a bordeaux mixture for spraying purposes. These insect killers, though, are more expensive and less effective than DDT.

Rotenone will take care of insects that attack most other garden crops. It will take about four pounds of one per cent rotenone dust for the average home garden.

The supply of rotenone may be limited this year by shipping space and in that case thosyxhlor can be used in the case of cucumber, squash and melon insects.

By EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

GOOD planning when you are building a poultry range can mean just as much extra profit and time saved as it can mean in any other farm undertaking. There are several things to keep in mind in order to insure a good, healthy, dry range for your flock.

Good drainage, a "must" in any type of farm operation, is your first consideration. The ground where the poultry run should be kept as dry as possible. Another thing you'll want is a thick sod cover—one which will keep the birds out of the mud.

Plenty of green feed of high nutritional value must be supplied over the whole ranging season. To insure this, make sure you have a variety of grasses and legumes underfoot.

The grass should be clipped often, after the range is established, so that sunshine can penetrate the soil. This will help keep the ground dry and help in destroying disease organisms. Natural shade is desirable, but it shouldn't be too dense.

At first glance, the poultryman who has a stream running through his poultry pasture might seem to be very fortunate, with no need for providing running water by artificial means. But diseases and parasites grow in damp soil along streams, making this type of location less desirable than it may seem at first.

Alfalfa, clover and other tall-growing legumes should be clipped early, as they are apt to screen the soil from the rays of the sun.

A young orchard is more desirable than an older orchard, which may provide too much shade overhead. An ideal pasturage for poultry would be an established Ladino clover sod, alone or with bluegrass.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

HEADACHES

A large percentage of the population enters the office of the doctor with the complaint of headache. One in every four of these patients has a headache because of eyestrain.

Most eyes are overused, either from too much use or from use under unsatisfactory conditions. Faulty eye function is experienced by a number of different kinds of persons. A disturbance in eye function is experienced by the girl with a nervous breakdown, an inattentive child, the clock watcher, the student who cannot concentrate and the person who reads in bed.

Eye disorders may require medical exercise, surgical treatment, glasses, or all three. Nearsighted persons do not have headaches or head pain unless the nearsightedness is unequal or severe, or unless the eyes are abused. Farsightedness is sometimes definitely associated with specific types of work, and glasses are used in such cases as treatment, rather than to aid vision.

When there is an inequality in the amount of error in vision in the two eyes, the pain may be severe over one eye and common as a cause of headache. Headaches associated with eye disorders should be referred to an ophthalmologist.

Every child, before entering the first grade, should have his eyes tested so that he can be protected against abusing inadequate or deficient eyes. Your eyes are the only ones you will ever have; it will pay to take good care of them and not to abuse their use.

LEO AUXILIARY NEWS

The regular monthly meeting of the Leo Legion Auxiliary to Jack Brinker Post 409 was held Wednesday, April 11 at the Post home.

Mrs. Robert Tharp presided over the business meeting. The nominating committee has been chosen and announced as follows: Mrs. Park Sebert, Mrs. William Warner, Mrs. Alvan Tharp, Mrs. Arthur Levy and Mrs. Edison Martin. It was announced that a social meeting is being planned by Mrs. Park Sebert, Mrs. Wilbur Shears, Miss Janell Hooper and Miss Delores Widner to be held April 24 at the Post Home. All members and eligible members are invited to attend.

Mrs. Della Kryder, Pan American chairman, and her committee, were in charge of the program which featured the country of Uruguay. A very interesting and educational film was shown by Mr. Henry Schwartz and Mr. Elmer Sordelet concerning the government, industries and way of life in Uruguay.

Miss Marianne Schlatter, Junior Auxiliary chairman, led four members of her Spanish class in several little "skits" on the customs and language of Uruguay. Those members participating with Miss Schlatter were Juday Zahrt, Sally Roth and Tom Ort. All are students of Mrs. R. Nelson Snider. Another feature of the evening was an art exhibit depicting the home life of an Uruguayan.

Guests present at this meeting were Mrs. Franklin Carto, Miss Dorothy Schwartz and Mrs. Helen Schlatter.

Refreshments were served from a gaily decorated table carrying out the Uruguyan theme of the evening.

COOPERATION

For some time we have been accused of failing to cooperate with certain other businesses in town. The complaints were with one exception in the form of anonymous letters mailed to us, unsigned notes shoved under our door, even a poem on our doorstep and as usual in such cases a lot of talk behind our backs. Because of this talk we state the facts.

We have cooperated with the free picture show—having personally secured the new operator with better shows and at less cost.

We have been asked by some business men to curtail store hours. In other words take some service away from the public. We have been asked to discontinue handling certain items, in effect take a choice of merchandise away from the public. Some merchants have asked us to raise certain prices, again to take something away from the public.

Now here is our attitude. We are willing to cooperate in giving the public MORE for their money, a greater selection of merchandise, MORE hours of service, etc., but we sincerely believe that to TAKE THINGS AWAY from the public would only drive business to other shopping centers.

More County 4-H Honors Won

Two DeKalb County high school 4 H club judging teams and a demonstration team won their way into competition in the June state 4-H Roundup by high placings last week in the 4-H district agricultural judging and demonstration contest held at Berne.

The winners from DeKalb County include:

The demonstration team of Bill and Mary Wilder of Spencerville tied for first place with their demonstration of a homemade "Atomic Bomb Shelter." The brother and sister were directed by Robert Witt, Spencerville 4-H leader.

The Auburn high school 4-H poultry judging team won a sixth-place rating. The team, coached by William Deck, vocational agriculture instructor in the Auburn schools, includes Max Grogg, Max Peters, Gordon Wyne and Delano Troyer.

A sixth-place rating also was won by the St. Joe high school 4-H livestock judging team. Team members include Neal Wisler, Joe Wagner, Sam Moor and Junior Westrick. The team coach is A. H. Lawson, vocational agriculture instructor in the St. Joe schools.

In the individual judging, Kenneth Ort of Auburn placed third in grain judging. Eighty-eight contestants were entered in the event.

Only teams in the first six placings are eligible to compete in the roundup in June at Purdue University. Winners in individual judging will not compete in the roundup June 18, 19 and 20.

Something To Think About

There is strong resentment in the minds of our students of Concord Township High School over the dismissal of our coach.

It will do no good to comment on the advisability of making a change. Everyone has, or will have, his own opinion, and argument will not change that opinion.

But there is something which the young people of the school might consider, something which, if practiced in the past, would have done more to keep the coach they like in his positon than any petition or demonstration they might resort to. That something is "respect."

The principal reason for the change of coaches is the desire for more basketball victories, desire evidently more strongly implanted in the minds of the parents than the students. Of lesser importance, but still to be considered, is an overall improvement in the athletic achievements of our school. We speak of the other athletic fields because the track season is in progress and an immediate example of poor respect for our coach is shown by an incident which occurred just a week ago in a track meet. It was necessary to enter boys in events in which they had never participated because the ones who were supposed to compete had left before the meet was over.

The group of students protesting our coach's dismissal includes those athletes. Yet they had no more respect for him or their school than to quit in their hour of need.

A good many of them openly address him by his first name, or even by just his last name, a practice followed in addressing other instructors, also. Times have changed, to be sure—we're living in a modern world. But some things DON'T and CAN'T BE changed—the result would be a demoralized and decayed society. One of those things is "respect," and the coach of any school, regardless of how much of a "good guy" he is (and our coach is just that), is still "Mr." to every student and athlete.

If our students had had the proper respect for their coach and his position in the school and community and had fulfilled their obligations which go along with participation and support of athletic activities, there is but little doubt that he would not have been replaced.

—But don't blame them completely. That respect is gained first—at home.

Kees-Kelly

The rectory of the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Auburn was the scene of the marriage of Miss Betty R. Kelly and James R. Kees at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Father A. M. Quinlisk officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of George M. Kelly of Auburn, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon H. Kees of St. Joe are the parents of the groom.

The bride wore a gown of chantilly lace and nylon net. The molded bodice featured a yoke of the net, outlined by appliqued lace. The long fitted sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt was of lace and extended into the net near the ballerina length hemline.

Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was held by a matching lace cloche and her colonial bouquet was made up of yellow roses surrounded by white carnations.

The sister of the bride, Miss Mary Kelly of Auburn, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of shell pink chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was topped by a matching lace jacket. The full skirt was ballerina length and a matching cloche style like the bride's completed her costume. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue hyacinths surrounded by white carnations.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a navy blue print dress with navy and white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of American Beauty roses.

The best man was Max E. Likens of Auburn.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

Assisting with the reception were the Mesdames George Bennett of Anderson, Kenneth Gonser of Auburn, Fred Henning of Fort Wayne, Bernard Kelly of Auburn, Thomas McKeon of Auburn and the Misses Jeanette Cox and Delores Lemper, both of Auburn.

For traveling the bride chose a light menswear grey tailored suit with black accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses. After a trip north, the newlyweds will make their home at 819 Midway Drive in Auburn.

Shake-Up In Teaching Assignments

Teaching contracts in the Concord Schools have been announced by Trustee Don Keller. Nine teachers will return next year but three contracts will not be renewed.

Those who will return are Clyde Duker, principal and teacher of commercial subjects; A. H. Lawson, agriculture; Calvin Lessing, mathematics; Violet Baker, grades 4 and 5; Frieda Guilford, grades 1 and 2; Mrs. Arthur Rainier, grades 2 and 3; Karl Hart, grades 6, 7 and 8; Elizabeth Shull, grades 6,7 and 8 and Latin. history and physical education, and Ruth Butler, home economics.

The three who will not teach at St. Joe next year are James Tatlock, English, physical education and coach; Helen Stutsman, English and commercial subjects, and John Nettleton, music instructor.

Mr. Keller has several candidates for the assignments but will not accept any replacements as yet. He has two applications for the coaching position.

The contracts of only five teachers in the Spencerville school system have been renewed for next year, according to an announcement by Spencer Township Trustee Ralph R. Hook. Eight instructors, including Principal Everett Paschen who has taught at Spencerville for the past 18 years, will terminate their teaching careers at the end of the present school term.

Don Long, the basketball coach, resigned to accept a similar position at Bunker Hill next year.

Mr. Hook has already secured a new principal to succeed Mr. Paschen. He is Roger Hess, who has been a teacher in the Clear Creek schools in Huntington county for the past four years. He is a native of Avilla and has been residing at Huntington during his Clear Creek assignment. He has never been a principal but was a coach, in addition to teaching commercial subjects.

Mr. Hook has other applications on file for the coaching assignments but has not contracted any except for the principal's position. He is rather definite on one man for the coaching position.

The teachers who were given new contracts are Ida Reed, an English and mathematics teacher with a long period of service; Bernice Wilder, grades 1 and 2; Bina McKay, grades 2 and 3; Richard Wilderson, parts of grades 4, 5 and 6, and Mabel Miller, also parts of grades 4, 5 and 6.

The teachers who will not be rehired, in addition to Mr. Long and Mr. Paschen, are Agnes Paschen, Mr. Paschen's wife and teacher of home economics and biology; Mrs. Fred Zeigler, English; Dale Wicoff, who taught agriculture at night to those who were under the G.I. bill of rights; Paul Finger, industrial arts, and Dorothy Drame, a substitute teacher in commercial subjects.

Another teacher, Carl Zimmerman, may be retained next fall to teach music in both the Spencerville and Concord Township schools if a merger of the music departments of the two schools can be arranged by the trustees.

Any Suggestions?

The town board of St. Joe is facing a problem which challenges many communities today—that problem concerns the operation of a dump for the convenience of the townspeople.

For some time persons have been coming to St. Joe and dumping loads without a legal right to do so, persons who live outside the corporate limits of St. Joe and who do not contribute to its operating expenses.

The facts are:

1. Persons residing outside St. Joe, including some living up to 12 to 15 miles from St. Joe, have taken advantage of the use of the town's dump.

2. The property now used for a dump was purchased by the town for use by its citizens.

3. Operating expenses of the dump are paid by the taxpayers of St. Joe only, and these expenses have been much higher than necessary due to inconsiderate dumping at the edge of the road and at the middle of the present pile-up rather than over the edge. The result is that a bulldozer must be hired several times each year to level off the dumping site.

4. Neither the town board nor its members are authorized to grant dumping privileges to anyone living outside the corporate limits of St. Joe.

5. The dump in St. Joe is small, only 2 acres, and therefore cannot be expected to be maintained for any great length of time at its present rate of filling.

NOTICE OF SCHOOL BUS CONTRACTS

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Ralph R. Hook, trustee of Spencer Twp., DeKalb County, Indiana, will on Monday, May 7, 1951, at 7 p.m. at his office, receive open bids for awards of school bus contracts, routes one, two and three, for the transportation of school children of said township. Said Township Trustee shall have the right to reject any and all bids thereof.

Answer to Question No. 1:

1. Because of the improvement in medical treatment given at the aid stations in World War II, the effects of shock, loss of blood and infection were greatly counteracted. After that, the patient stood an excellent chance of recovery when he reached a hospital. According to the medical military record, 96 out of 100 men who reached hospitals were saved. In World War I, when a lower percentage of wounded reached hospitals, the number was 89 out of 100.

Answer to Question No. 2:

2. Yes, in infancy. When contracted at school age the disease is less dangerous if proper medical care is given. Measles, since it takes epidemic form, runs in cycles with relatively few cases for several years and great number of cases in other years. For example in 1947 there were 221,100 cases whereas in 1949 there were 620,900 cases.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. A 36-mile hike will take off just one pound of fat. In addition, the hiker would lose several pounds of water, which he would replace rapidly. Obviously, walking is not much of a solution for overweight. The age-old answer remains. Just don't eat so much of the wrong foods.

What Is Greatness?

Lesson for May 6, 1951

WHAT is a great man? Some men have been called great who were not so; they were only prominent. Hitler, for example, was certainly prominent enough; but he was not great. Men can truly be called great for various good reasons. Some may be artists, some may be soldiers, others statesmen or prophets. Once in a while a man is born who is great in more ways than one.

Dr. Foreman

David the Ideal King

SUCH a man was David, King of Israel and one of the world's most famous men. The United Kingdom of Israel had a short history, only three kings reigning over it—Saul, David and Solomon. Of the three, David was by all odds the greatest man and greatest king.

Neither Saul nor Solomon was capable of holding for a lifetime to a high ideal. Neither was capable of whole-hearted devotion to God. Neither one could gain and hold the loyalty of the nation.

It was only David who could do these things. It is no accident that forever after, when a Hebrew thought of the ideal king, he would think neither of Israel's first king nor of the wealthiest, but of David the best and most beloved.

Military Genius

DAVID was great, in part because of his power in battle. What no one since Joshua had been able to do, David did: he welded the quarreling, jealous, weak tribes of Israel into a "single sword." The times called for military genius, and David had it. He gave Israel the military might that was essential for their peace and prosperity.

So, often since David's time, there have been great soldiers who have used their military genius not for conquest in itself but in order to win some place in the sun for peace-loving nations. One thinks of Charles Martel, who saved Europe from barbarian conquest; of William of Orange who set the Dutch free from Spanish tyranny; of Washington, "father" of a great nation; and of many others.

The great soldiers of history have been more than professionally skilled and successful killers of men; they have been like David, men whose skill was used to preserve nations, not to destroy them.

Lovable Leadership

IN OUR times Hitler brought the word "Leader" under a shadow, because his leadership was in the wrong direction. But there is such a thing as noble and wise leadership, and David had this quality in a high degree.

It is true, success has something to do with it. Men will flock to a winner who would have nothing to do with him if he were a loser. But still it is a fact that most of the world's great leaders who have come up from obscurity, as David did, have arisen at the head of groups of devoted men who have followed them loyally through the darkest times.

So it was with David. During his years as leader of the "underground" (literally so, since for some time his headquarters were in a great limestone cave), he developed the hard core of the army he commanded at a later time, a core of men who would rather lose with David than win against him.

Leader in Faith

DAVID had yet another quality of greatness, and for this he is perhaps best remembered. He was a man of deep religion. But religion for him was not merely a personal matter; he carried his faith into public life, he made his faith contagious. He did his best to make faith in God central, as it had never been, in the life of his nation.

Religion for him was not a stick with which to beat other people about the head, but a rod and staff to lean upon. It was not a secret locked in his own heart but something he desired to share with all his people. It was not a device to keep his subjects contented; it was an acid test for his own life.

And though he sometimes slipped and terribly fell, he could always rise again, for his religion gave him that rarest of all qualities in great men: humility before God and man.

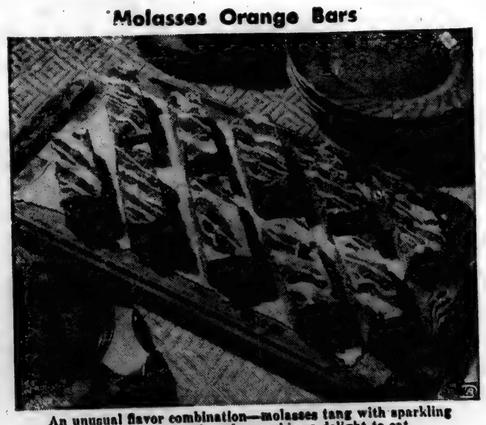
Molasses Orange Bars



An unusual flavor combination—molasses tang with sparkling orange—makes these bar cookies a delight to eat. They're quick to make, too.

If you like to serve snacks and desserts that are nutritious as well as taste-pleasing, plan to make the molasses orange bars pictured today. Both enriched flour and molasses are excellent sources of food iron, and in addition enriched flour contributes essential B-vitamins, protein and food energy.

A new quick-mix method for making these bar cookies enables the home baker to turn them out with a minimum of time and effort. Sift dry ingredients into a bowl, sprinkle with orange sugar, and then add remaining ingredients. Stir to blend, then beat two minutes. It's as easy as that—your cookies are ready for the pan. These "in-a-bowl" cookies make a saving on dishes, too.

A simple topping of sugar mixed with grated orange rind is spread over the cookies before baking. They may be frosted later, if desired.

Molasses orange bars are perfect dessert companions with apricots, apple sauce or other fruits. Or have them with milk, hot chocolate, or coffee.

Tanners Creek Plant In Operation

The new Tanners Creek Generating Plant of Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. is now in commercial operation and appropriate dedication ceremonies are being planned for May 24, according to an announcement made today by J. Calvin Hill, Fort Wayne Division Manager of the company.

Gov. Henry F. Schricker of Indiana and Philip Sporn, president of I&M and the American Gas and Electric Co., will be principal speakers during the dedicatory ceremonies.

Located on the Ohio River just otuside Lawrenceburg, Indiana, this newest addition to the company's generating facilities - as well as the most recent addition to the generating facilities of the state of Indiana - has an initial output of 150,000 kilowatts with one turbo-generator installed. Construction is already underway for installing a second unit of the same capacity at Tanners Creek Plant. This addition is scheduled for completion in June of next year.

The first unit went into commercial service several weeks ago after two and one-half years of construction. The usual finishing operations have been conducted and completed since then. Arrangements are being made to dedicate the plant to public service May 24. At that time federal government officials, state officials from Indiana and Michigan, civic and business leaders in cities, towns and communities served by the company, and company officials will have an opportunity to tour the plant and participate in the dedicatory ceremonies. Approximately 600, including press representatives, will be the guests of I&M that day.

Rated as one of the most efficient electric generating stations in the world, the new Tanners Creek Plant, with its 150,000 kilowatt, boosts the total generating capacity of Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. to 600,000 kilowatts, two times more than what it was at the start of World War II.

I&M serves 228,000 customers located in Indiana and Michigan.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club held the last meeting of the year 1950-51 at the home of Mrs. Weldon Shafer on April 18.

The president called the meeting to order and the collect was read by Mrs. V. R. Monroe.

Mrs. Stanley Means, lesson leader for the evening, introduced Mrs. Gladys Duguid, a teacher in the Auburn high schools, who gave a very interesting lesson on "Poetry"-its forms and history, and a sketch of the lives and works of some of our more outstanding poets of the 19th and 20th centuries. Mrs. Duguid then gave a colorful rendition of some of these poems followed by a recording of Robert Frost's "The Death of the Hired Man," recorded by Robert Frost himself.

Mrs. Cora Curie took charge of entertainment for the evening in the absence of Mrs. Allen Haller, after which the minutes were read and approved.

Twenty members responded to roll call and there were five guests present.

Mrs. Charles Krise gave the report on the work of the Book Committee.

Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser gave the treasurer's yearly report and Mrs. Wayne Storer the secretary's yearly report.

The meeting was then adjourned to meet sometime in June for the mid summer get-together.

There were fourteen members of the Loyal Women's Class of the Spencerville Lutheran Church present at a meeting Wednesday, April 20, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartell. Guests were children and grandchildren of the Bartells and Mrs. Coleman. The program was in charge of Alda Provines and Blanch Culbertson. Following the devotions, each one took part in readings, contests and games. A fine carry-in dinner was served, and there passed another pleasant evening of the Loyal Women's Class.

The light in the "Lab"

In the research laboratories of hospitals, clinics, and medical schools throughout our country, the lights are burning late . . . as scientists strive to halt humanity's greatest enemy—CANCER.

As the lights continue to burn, the hope for such a cure grows brighter . . . and here is the reason why:

CANCER RESEARCH IS PAYING OFF

Through research—which you have helped to support by donating to the American Cancer Society—medical science has new weapons to combat this disease more effectively than ever:

Drugs—there is evidence that a chemical treatment for cancer may be perfected. Certain drugs will prolong the lives of cancer victims . . . and other promising compounds are being tested.

Hormones—treatment with hormones, such as ACTH and Cortisone, has brought about dramatic, although temporary, effects in some types of cancer. Other hormones have helped control advanced cancer of certain organs.

X-rays—the development of more powerful machines promises to make this form of treatment more effective.

Isotopes—radioactive chemicals are becoming increasingly useful in treating certain rare forms of the disease.

Surgery—technics have been improved so much that once hazardous operations can now be performed safely. And progress is being made in the development of tests to detect cancer in its earliest stages when the chances for cure are best.

Research has made these life-saving advances possible. But much more research needs to be done before cancer can be dealt the final blow!

As long as cancer continues to kill some 210,000 men, women, and children in our country each year, we must keep the lights burning in the laboratories!

Your life—the life of everyone you know—is at stake. Give—and give generously—to the 1951 Cancer Crusade!

HINTS ON HEALTH

FARMER—BE CAREFUL

FARMING is still the most hazardous of all work. Last year more persons were killed in the agricultural work group than in any other. A total of 4,300 individuals were killed in agriculture, 15,600 were permanently disabled, and 320,000 experienced temporary disability.

Compare this with the next most dangerous occupational field—manufacturing. A total of 2,600 were killed in manufacturing, as compared with 4,300 in agriculture.

Work injuries in the United States increased last year by about four per cent over the 1949 figures. Increased employment accounted for most of this rise in figures.

The total number of disabling work injuries last year was about 1,952,000, an increase of 82,000 over 1949. An estimated 15,500 persons died as a result of work injuries during 1950. An additional 84,900 suffered some permanent impairment, such as the amputation of an arm or leg or injury to some function of the body. Ninety-five per cent of all injuries, however, resulted in temporary disability from which the injured persons recovered completely.

The total loss from work injuries cannot be accurately figured in money cost, but approximately 40,000,000 man-days were lost last year due to injuries. As the supervisor says, an accident is just statistics, until it happens to you.

It's worthwhile to try to keep accidents that way—as just statistics.

Farm

By EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

A FEW items of the right kind of equipment in your milk house can make the difference between producing high-quality milk and lesser grades. Washing the dairy utensils may take time, but it's very important and can't be neglected.

Here are some items which will save time and help you do the job right: Running hot and cold water, a stall cock, a stop-start switch on the vacuum pump, a table with a stainless steel perforated screen for a top, and preferably a table on wheels. You'll also need a cabinet for supplies, a can and utensil rack, and an electric milk cooler.

According to recent surveys, an outlay of the above equipment can cut your daily time in caring for milk utensils from 16 minutes to 10 minutes.

To make sure these utensils are used properly, here's a quick run-through of the routine that's considered the best for washing and sanitizing the milking equipment: Rinse the equipment in lukewarm water, about 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Then completely dismantle the milking machine. Soak the equipment for one-half hour in an alkaline solution at a temperature of 115 degrees. After soaking, each part should be brushed. Then the equipment should be stored, dry and unassembled until next milking time. The right time to reassemble and sanitize the equipment is right before the next milking.

Well, maybe it does sound like a lot of work, but you'll find that it pays big dividends when you take your milk to the collection station. It's quality that gets the price!

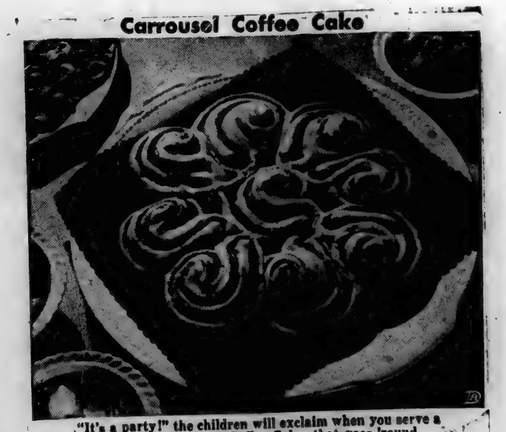
Carrousel Coffee Cake



"It's a party!" the children will exclaim when you serve a frosted Carrousel Coffee Cake that goes 'round and 'round like a merry-go-round.

Menu charmer for spring is a gay Carrousel Coffee Cake, a spicy-sweet bread that you can make at home by varying your cinnamon bun recipe.

This coffee cake has a party-going glamor at a penny-wise price. It can be made for as little as 30 cents. In addition, Carrousel Coffee Cake is a versatile bread or dessert. You'll like its feathery lightness and cinnamon flavor with stewed fresh rhubarb for luncheon dessert or with preserves and coffee for teatime or canasta refreshments. Any left over can be toasted for family breakfast.

Carrousel Coffee Cake is another of the delicious enriched breads that give your family lots of good nourishment—especially protein, essential B-vitamins, and food iron. These food values are important in building strong bodies, good red blood and in maintaining healthy skin, vitality, and general good health.

In fact, you'll find all breads made with enriched white flour have a way of making vitamins taste as good as calories!

CARROUSEL COFFEE CAKE

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
¼ cup lukewarm water
½ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
2½ cups sifted enriched flour (about)
1 egg
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
½ cup sugar mixed with 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
Confectioners' Sugar Icing

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Add flour to make a thick batter. Mix well. Add softened yeast and egg. Beat well. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours). When light, punch down and let rest 10 minutes. Roll out in rectangular sheet 9 x 18-inches. Spread with butter or margarine and sprinkle with cinnamon sugar. Fold over in thirds making sheet 9 x 6-inches. Cut into strips 1 inch wide and 6 inches long. Roll one strip starting at narrow end. Stand on edge in center of greased baking sheet. Roll remaining strips in similar manner, rolling only half of strip, leaving about 2 inch end. Stand these half rolls on edge around center roll with unrolled end toward center. Let rise until doubled (about 45 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 to 25 minutes. When cool, frost with Confectioners' Sugar Icing. Makes 1 coffee cake.

A Lighted Softball Diamond

VOLUME LXVI — ST. JOE (DeKalb Co.), INDIANA — Thursday, May 10, 1951 — NUMBER 19

Around the Town

With the Editor

There was a master craftsman at work Saturday at the site of the new ball diamond.

You missed something if you didn't see "Abie" McCann manipulating the controls of that big heavy duty road grader. It's really wonderful the way he can set up a line of dirt with several runs and then with one final push, have the pile leveled off and the low spots all filled in.

Several times I didn't think he knew what he was doing, but—

Take a look at the school grounds and see for yourself. It doesn't look like the same place.

There still has to be a lot of dirt moved, though. The fall in 175 feet is terrific.

Free Movie time sort of sneaked up on me. They started this week and there wasn't any announcement about it in the paper. Oh well. I guess the kids will "announce" it well enough.

Forrest Harding, who shows the pictures, was in town Tuesday making a few minor repairs on the ropes, pulleys, etc, in readiness for the first big Wednesday night of the summer.

As all little ones do, our kids have a habit of putting things in their mouths which they shouldn't, or drinking out of one another's pop bottle, or taking a lick of each other's fudgsicle. We've tried to explain that they can get sick by doing those things, picking up germs from other people.

Well, it's done some good. But they have their own version of it. When Mike takes a bite of Dave's candy or Davey grabs at Mike's pop bottle, you're bound to hear one or the other exclaim, "Don't do that. You'll get your germs mixed up!"

We wish to express our thanks to the Spencerville Fire Department and friends for their able and efficient services in fighting the fire at our home.

MOTION MADE FOR ACQUITTAL IN FRAUD CASE

Attorneys for George L. McCulloch of Ft. Wayne, convicted of fraud in the purchase of war surplus material through the Spencerville high school, filed a motion requesting a re-argument for a judgment of acquittal in federal court in Fort Wayne Tuesday, of last week. The motion was taken under advisement by Judge Luther M. Swygert at the close of the April session of court. McCulloch was found guilty of buying material from the War Assets Administration and reselling it at a huge profit within a few months after the time of purchase. The WAA contracts had stipulated that the material could not be resold within one year without WAA permission. He had purchased a gear tester, presumably for the Spencerville high school, and during the trial a number of witnesses testified that such a gear tester could not possibly be used at the school.

Another In Series Of Robberies

Burglars robbed the Jiggs' Motor Service garage in St. Joe of merchandise valued at $155 early Saturday morning after diligently "cracking" an office safe and finding it empty.

The burglary is believed to have been committed sometime between 3 a.m. and 4 a.m. Mrs. Blanche Cook, who resides near the garage, reported that she heard an automobile drive away from the rear of the garage during that hour.

The burglary was the fifth in recent months in this community. Recent burglaries have included two other service stations. Police indicated they believed Saturday morning's burglary was the work of a professional safe gang.

Investigating officers said the burglars pried open a near north window of the building and then reached through a metal bar to remove a crossbar which locked the rear door. Inside the office, the burglars rolled the large steel safe into the rear service section of the garage. There they used chisels and a sledge hammer to peel the outer door off the safe. Inside, there were papers but no money, according to owner Ralph Keeler.

The burglars then picked up batteries, a spotlight, sparkplugs, an electric fuel pump and other auto accessories before leaving.

Keeler said the station was closed at about 9:30 p.m. Friday. The burglary was discovered when he opened the station at 7 a.m. Saturday.

Trustee Issues Statement

The following statement was issued Tuesday afternoon by Don Keller, Concord Twp. Trustee, regarding the change in teaching assignments at the Concord Twp. High School:

"A number of people have urged school officials to make a statement regarding the reasons for making some changes in the teaching personell of the Concord Township School. In response to these requests the following statement is released.

"For a number of years the State School Inspectors have indicated that if certain combinations of teaching licenses were secured for our school, application might be made for a higher classification or rating. These subjects are Library Science and Art. By making three changes, officials felt they could secure these combinations; namely, Physical Education and Commerce, English and Library Science and Music and Art.

"These advantages seemed sufficient reason to release enough teachers to make the employment of teachers holding the above licenses possible.

"The officials only want to do that which would improve the school and the service rendered to the community. If, after thoroughly studying this action, the public believes it has not been in the best interest of all concerned, the school officials will carefully consider their wishes."

PREPARE FOOD SORAGE. CABINETS FOR SUMMER

Food storage cabinets prepared now will be ready when needed for canned foods later in the summer. Miss Ruth Hutcheson, extension home management specialist at Purdue University, recommends that these cabinets be in a cool, dark, dry place to retain food value, color and flavor.

Shelf space for canned foods should be sufficient to meet the needs of the family. Each quart jar requires a space of five inches square. Shelves 10 inches deep will provide for two row storage. Deeper shelves for jars are not desirable because of the inconvenience of reaching to the back row. A total of 100 pints on a two row shelf will require 18 feet of shelf space, and 100 quarts will also require this same length of shelf. Good heights between shelves are 10 inches for quarts, 8 inches for pints and 6 inches for jelly glasses and half pints.

Shelves narrower than 10 inches are more convenient for single row storage but take more wall space.

Small stone jars need shelves 18 inches deep and 15 inches in height, while large heavy jars are convenient when placed on platforms constructed of slats made of 2x4 inch planks.

Miss Hutcheson suggests that it is desirable to construct shelves and platforms so that they may [illegible]

A Student's Viewpoint

I'm a student of St. Joe High School and am interested in the running of the school? Are you?

It seems there have been misunderstandings about the teachers. Some of the parents think it is awful silly that the students went to the trustee about it. But don't we want good schools? After all it is the beginning of a good America.

How much do the parents know about the school? Are they interested? How much does the trustee know about school? Is he interested in the betterment of the school? It's easy for someone who doesn't know anything about the school to speak their piece because they heard someone else talking. But did you know there is also gossip in the school as in other things and many times it causes trouble?

The parents want their children to mind in school. But the parents let them do as they please at home. The parents don't like the reckless driving, smoking, drinking and swearing, YET they do it themselves.

When some of the parents heard the students were talking of striking, although they didn't as many labor unions do, they thought it was awful. Many of the parents have, so why shouldn't the students? After all, you can't blame us for following the examples put before us. If the president was fired, many parents would strike. After all, we do have minds of our own.

As for our faculty, we have a swell bunch for instructors. Our schools offer more subjects than some larger schools.

Let's think about our school. Forget what other people are saying. Come and find the answers for yourself. Get to know the teachers. Then you will have a right to judge.

"Whence Inspiration?"

Say folks, I wuz in to town
Last - a - well, 'twas on a Friday
An' a guy I knowed, he says to me
"You coming to see the play?"
"Never seen one! Where?" says I
"In Spencerville," says he, "didn't you know
The Senior Play is on tonight,
I think you aught to go!"

When I went up to the play gym
'Bout seven o'clock that night,
The inside of that building
wuz in sech a blaze of light
And so crowded full of people
I got confused where to go—
A nice young man says "Wanna hear?"
An landed me in the very front row.

After while the curtain riz - no, slid
And showed all the fixins thar
By this time my seat had got so hard
I hankered for that soft-lookin char.
Then in come the gals, all togged up fine
My, but they did look nice!
Blamed if I 'member who they wuz
Tho' I read that programme twice.

Some boys they had a chasing match
And I guess somebody got sore.
Then more folks come in, -spoke, -turned around
An then stomped out t'other door.
The curtain shut. I grabbed my hat
And the people clapped and cheered
And raised the dumbest racket
My ears had ever heered.
I asked my neighbor what they meant
By such a blamed uproar
"That shows they liked it, wait, don't go,
There's going to be some more."

I got so interested in their doings
I plum forgot my chair,
Untangling their mixup in my mind
I ev'n forgot I wuz thar.
I had it figgered out why she dun it
I suspicioned it all along.
And by cracky! When the thing was over
I be DAD-BLAMED if I wasn't wrong!

Later that night by my kitchen fire
I mused of days long long lapsed
Concludin' the younguns of today
War'nt no diffrunt from us back woods chaps.

And I got to wishin' like a prayer from within
That on the eternal stage to come
These same fine younguns would perform
In the New Jerusalum.
And I hope I rate a ticket
Even way back by the door,
To watch them go thro'; in shining garb
Their Heavenly Acts evermore.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

FOOD FOR THOUGHT—Consumers and grocers in the Fourth District are discovering that OPS regulations are only adding to the bookkeeping and irritations of shopping and are not bringing food prices down. Under government regulations, grocers must recalculate prices every Monday. The result is a fresh, weekly chart of price rises and a headache for the grocer and consumer because of government interference and red tape. I have protested this agency's unreasonable controls and restrictions over our economy.

PUBLIC TAKES A BUGGY RIDE—Federal bureaucrats are enjoying a nice ride at the taxpayers' expense. While there is a law to limit the number of Washington officials who can have chauffeured limousines, apparently the bureaucrats aren't going to pay any attention to it. At least six members of the White House staff have chauffeured limousines at their disposal and 25 officials of the Department of Defense have them. Our soldiers in Korea plod along on foot through the mud of Korea. In fact, the Federal government owns 558 passenger automobiles in the District of Columbia. The House of Representatives has one official car which is provided for the speaker.

PINK TEA FOR THE PINKS—How times change. Ten years ago the State Department spent $163,000 for entertainment. For 1951-52, Secretary of State Dean Acheson has asked Congress for a million dollars for the Department to wine, dine and entertain officials of foreign governments. Last year the State Department spent $675,000 on the diplomats for liquor and food, which was "inadequate." So Acheson wants more tax dollars for entertainment for the coming fiscal year.

ECONOMY-DRIVING TIPS

Here's a tip for motorists who want to stretch gas mileage on that long awaited vacation trip. And who doesn't!

The Chicago Motor Club says the methods used by the expert drivers in the 1951 Grand Canyon Economy Run point the way to better mileage for all motorists. In this contest, strictly supervised by the American Automobile Association, ordinary stock cars are driven over a rugged 840-mile course from downtown Los Angeles to Grand Canyon.

This year the cars averaged 24 miles to the gallon. The sweepstakes winner got 25 ½, while some of the lighter cars did 30 or better.

How do they do it? Well, here's what Les Viland, pilot of the sweepstakes-winning car has to say:

"In modern cars, drivers often go up to 70 or 80 miles an hour without realizing it--and there goes your gas mileage!"

Besides maintaining an average speed of 40 miles an hour or so, the economy drivers are careful to get off to a smooth, gentle start that uses a minimum of gas; and when they have to stop, they let up on the accelerator well ahead of time.

Summing up the methods developed in this contest, the Motor Club advises four major ways you can get better fuel efficiency from your own car:

1. Have timing and carburetor adjusted for better performance; even new cars often are not properly set.

2. Don't punch down on the accelerator; a light, steady touch is the way to save gas.

3. Anticipate stops. Let up on your gas pedal early; time your speed to avoid stopping at lights whenever possible.

4. On a steep upgrade, shift promptly to second when the engine starts to labor.

The difference goes more than Skin-Deep

Nobody wonders what you're driving when you roll by in this one.

In the 1951 line-up, its brand-new front-end styling stands out with a beauty all its own.

You're the proud owner of a Buick—

The power is different—eager and sure. Buick's high-compression Fireball engine does wonders with fuel—and no matter what you demand in emergency, there's horsepower to spare.

Handling is different—this car seems to steer itself on straightaway or curve all the tenseness out of driving—responds to your slightest wish with a surging swoop of power.

No doubt about it, what you get in a Buick is far more than just a new car—it's a whole new experience in getting pleasurably from here to there.

The ride is different—level and true. You sit the road with special assurance—because Buick's torque-tube drive keeps rear wheels firmly aligned—soft coil springs on all four wheels soak up the bumps and bobbles—honest weight keeps you on a steady keel.

How Nations Decay

Lesson for May 13, 1951

"THE mortality rate of nations is 100%." So Dr. T. W. Lingle used to put the fact that no nation yet has lived forever. They all die sooner or later. What kills them? The student of history may delve into such books as Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" or Spengler's pessimistic "Decline of the West", or Toynbee's more optimistic six-volume "Study of History."

Dr. Foreman

But when the juice has been squeezed out of these learned and interesting volumes, the Truth's essence turns out to be much the same as what we can find by reading the Old Testament. True, the nations under the Old Testament lens are not big empires like Rome, still less like the British Empire; the kingdom of Israel was only about 100 miles long and 60 miles wide, while the kingdom of Judah was smaller than many an American county.

Promise

WHEN Solomon died, the kingdom he had inherited from David had already shrunk. After his death, what was left immediately split into two kingdoms, the one on the south called Judah and the one in the north called Israel.

The nation of Israel, which lasted more than 200 years, began with great promise. Indeed, one of God's prophets (I Kings 11) had given to Jeroboam, the first king, the same promise which had been given David, of an enduring kingdom on condition of obedience to God.

Everything seemed to be favorable. Israel had more territory than most of her neighbors had, a far more productive soil, and easy access to transportation.

Crash

ISRAEL should have succeeded; but it failed. Only a little more than 200 years afterwards, no very great age as nations go, it crashed completely, never to rise again. When the walls of its "impregnable" capital city of Samaria, after a two-year siege, fell to the battering-rams of the Assyrian army, and over 27,000 leading citizens were deported, that was the end of Israel for good and all.

How did this happen?

The Hebrew historian ties everything into a few words when he says that they wrought wicked things . . . they rejected God's statutes . . . they served idols.

But what were the details? What, in particular, did the nation of Israel do that was wicked?

Reading the prophet Amos will give many of the answers. At the time he preached, by all chamber-of-commerce standards Israel was at the peak of production and prosperity. But he foresaw doom around the corner, and he gave reasons. He called a spade a spade. Reading him, or even reading the balder accounts in Kings, we can see the collapse was no mystery.

Other Gods

ONE thing fundamentally wrong with Israel was idolatry. This was not the simple matter of making carved images; it meant taking some other "god" to be the true God.

We know what the religions of Chemish and Molech and Baal were like; they were thoroughly bad. In the law of the true God, life and purity were regarded as sacred; life and purity under these other gods were held cheap. But one can see from reading Amos that what the people of Israel really worshipped was still another idol to whom no statue was erected: their own pleasures.

Too many citizens didn't care what happened to the country, so long as they could get their liquor. Well, let us not read the Old Testament from mere curiosity. What about our own nation, our own people and times? The United Stewardship Council (now the Joint Department of Stewardship of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.) reports that every year since 1934, excepting 1936, has shown an increase in giving through the churches.

But—the percent of this increase is not so large as the increase of annual income. The increase for contributions through the church of God is less, far less, than the increase in spending for alcoholic liquors, soft drinks, candy, football games, jewelry, and a multitude of other things. We, like Israel, are putting God last!

A Lighted Softball Diamond

VOLUME LXVI | ST. JOE (DeKalb Co.), INDIANA | Thursday, May 24, 1951 | NUMBER 20

Around the Town

With the Editor

You say you didn't get your paper last week? —That's because there wasn't any.

The weather was so good for a couple of days that I made a quick decision to work on the softball diamond and let the paper go for a week. Maybe it's a good thing to miss a week once in a while. Then I can catch up on other things and you appreciate how much you look forward to getting the paper—I hope.

Time's a-gittin' short. A big truck load of lights for the diamond came in Wednesday and the other stuff should be coming soon.

The News received a card a week ago from a Mr. J. J. Dahl of Philadelphia. He wrote, "I am a collector of -" get this - "nationally-known newspapers but lack copies of your famous 'News.' Would you be so kind as to send me a complimentary issue so that I may add to my vast collection."

Nationally-known newspaper. eh—hmmm, if it weren't so true, I'd suspicion that someone was playing the joke.

Carl Carpenter has another invite to appear on the Farm Front Panel broadcast with Roy Battles over WLW. He has appeared before on the program which is heard at 9 a.m. CDST on Sunday. Carl will appear on June 10 to contribute his ideas on "Is It Right for the Cities to Subsidize the Farmer by Paying Taxes That Are Diverted to Rural Areas?"

—Or, "If You Have Friends You Want To Keep, Should You Answer That Question?"

Okay, Herman, okay, okay, okay!

"Herman" is Herman Zuber way out there in California. He's got everybody and his brother around here asking me lately if I'm sending them a paper.

Well, I'll tell you, Herman, it's this way. When I changed your address to 3936 Sutro Avenue, I didn't change it to Los Angeles. So, for a couple of weeks your paper went to Englewood. In the meantime, I threw away the letter with the new address, and when I got your paper back with "No Such Address" on it, I was lost. But everything is under control now.

I know you're at Los Angeles.

Benefit Auction At St. Joe June 1

D. B. Ridgway has been appointed general chairmen of a big public auction to be held on June 1. Proceeds from the auction will go to the lighted softball diamond now being installed in St. Joe.

The sale will be held on the main street of St. Joe on that Friday evening with John Haverstock of Leo giving his services as auctioneer. A committee has been chosen by Mr. Ridgway to contact families in the surrounding communities for items to sell at the auction.

Those who have items which they will give for the auction or sell on consignment are asked to contact Mr. Ridgway now. This is to make possible the publication of a sale bill next week to inform News readers as to the contents of the sale.

The auction is being sponsored by the St. Joe Valley Recreation Club.

Senior Class Makes Big Contribution

The fund-raising campaign of the St. Joe Valley Recreation Club, Inc., was given a boost last week with the announcement by Mr. James Tatlock, sponsor of the Senior Class of Concord Twp. High School, that the class would donate approximately $230, or enough to purchase two poles for the lighted softball diamond now under construction at St. Joe.

This sum, combined with income from non interest bearing bonds now being sold, raises the treasury to approximately twenty three hundred dollars, about 65 percent of the goal of $3500.

The success of the organization thus far is a tribute to the efforts of the members and officers of the club and the people in the surrounding community who have supported its activities. In only a few months (four, to be exact- the club was organized in late January) progress has been made to the point of installing the lights and poles as soon as more equipment arrives. The lighting units and bulbs have all ready been received.

Grading was in progress last week as work continued in leveling the infield. Bad weather has been instrumental in delaying ground moving and scraping operations.

Coach To Be Retained At St. Joe

Don Keller, Concord Twp. trustee, has disclosed that the contract of Jim Tatlock, high school coach and instructor, will be renewed for the 1951-52 school year.

Mr. Keller revealed last week that public sentiment in favor of retaining Mr. Tatlock was instrumental in the decision to rehire the popular coach. A petition circulated by the students of the school apparently roused residents of the township to express their feelings, with the result that the trustee will follow their wishes.

The announcement comes as a climax to the issue which arose when a few persons exerted pressure for a new coach. Dissatisfaction with the won lost record of the basketball team was the principal reason for the complaint, although the team had just completed its most successful season in several years.

After the trustee had announced that a new coach would be acquired, students circulated a petition and gained some two hundred signatures, an overwhelming majority of which favored retaining Mr. Tatlock.

A second factor in the shakeup was the wish of school officials to raise the rating of the school by getting a new combination of courses, including library science. This higher rating may be reached as a result of discussions which ended with the decision to retain Mr. Tatlock.

No contract has yet been signed pending approval of the county superintendent's office.

'Life Of Christ' To Be Shown Friday Night

The St. Joe Valley Recreation Club brings to St. Joe Friday, May 25, an outstanding religious motion picture depicting the life of Jesus Christ.

The picture, even more impressive in full color, will be shown at the St. Joe gym at 8 p.m.

Out of the pages of the Bible and onto the silver screen walk the flesh-and blood characters of the greatest story ever told—Peter, James and John, Mary, the mother of Jesus, Mary of Bethany, Mary Magdelene, and all the familiar names of the sacred record. —And they live and walk and talk as though the pages of the Bible had suddenly become alive.

Because of considerable expense in bringing this remarkable picture to St. Joe, an admission charge will be made at the door, fifty cents for adults and thirty cents for children.

PRISCILLA PRIM 4-H CLUB

Another meeting of the Priscilla Prim 4-H Club was held May 11 at the school house. This meeting was attended by the mothers of the members as well as the members themselves.

To open the meeting Kathleen Anthony played a selection on the piano, Lois Kimes gave a short welcome, followed by songs selected by Pascal Speaks. Pledges were led by Tommy Hollabaugh and Wayne Akey. Ralph Nusbaum then led the mothers and club members in the Lord's Prayer.

The secretary and treasurer reports were read by Lois Kimes. The roll call was answered with "A Place I Would Like To Go If I Were To Leave the United States." A duet was sung by Betty and Mary Beckman, a recitation was given by Lynda Fisher, a horn solo was played by Jerry Woodring, another recitation was given by Judy Coddington, followed by a vocal solo by Mary Wisel.

Several movies were shown. Lois Fisher served delicious refreshments. The meeting was then adjourned.

Spencerville News

Ronald Emenhiser and family were Sunday, May 13, dinner guests in the Cal Laux home. Walter Hopkins of Indianapolis and Otto Hopkins, wife and son of Ft. Wayne and Harry Laux, wife and son were afternoon visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Walter recently visited in Grand Rapids where they attended the Michigan State Funeral Directors' Convention. They also surveyed a district north of Grand Rapids known as Peach Ridge, and found among the large farmer-owned storages a supply of apples in excellent condition and flavor. The farmers of the district have hopes of a good crop of apples and a fair crop of peaches, although damage by girdling was extensive. Their trip also led to placing an order for a new Cadillac combination ambulance and funeral car.

The Loyal Class of the Lutheran Church had a pot-luck dinner in the basement Sunday. There were twenty-two present. A donation was made towards the lighted ball park in St. Joe. Plans were made to build a fire place in the church yard and yard lights for the volley-ball court.

The Misses Betty and Mary Beckman were Sunday dinner and lunch guests at the Virgil Kimes residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Rene Dauplice and family of Fort Wayne were afternoon callers at the Virgil Kimes home Sunday.

Mrs. Valda Brown was taken to the St. Joseph Hospital Friday night and was operated on Saturday morning. She is reported to be in fair condition.

Mrs. Jean Moore, who was a patient at the Sacred Heart Hospital in Garrett, was brought home Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Stemen returned home Sunday afternoon after spending a few days in Fort Wayne with a friend, Mrs. Ruby Husted.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kimes and sons of Leo were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kimes.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rhoads were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Genth of Fort Wayne.

Wear A Poppy- May 25, 26

The memorial poppy which the American Legion Auxiliary asks you to wear on Poppy Day was made by a disabled veteran. It is his badge of courage, a tribute to the war dead from Argonne to Korea.

To many hospitalized veterans, this is their only source of income. Thus the poppy aids in many ways, above all keeping the minds and hands of these veterans occupied.

So accept it gratefully and wear it proudly, as a sign that you remember.

Help our veterans to help themselves!

WEAR A POPPY

(Written by Mrs. James Leonard, Hobart, Indiana.)

Lest we forget those men who fell
Amid the flash of gun and shell:
Pin on a poppy, bright and red,
Reminding us of blood they shed.

Lest we forget their living pain
Who never shall be whole again:
Invest in poppies so they, too,
May gain a chance to build anew.

Lest we forget how much we share,
Each day send up a word of prayer
That speaks our thanks for LIBERTY
And pledges faith to keep us free.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

TOURIST CAPITAL—Washington is not only the nation's capital, it is the tourist capital of the world. Throughout the year hundreds of persons visit the Capitol Building, but in the spring it is a veritable mecca. For the Fourth District this spring, Washington has been a scenic and historic visiting spot for countless tourists.

SCHOOLS SEND STUDENTS—Congressman Adair has met with students-mostly seniors who are enjoying a trip to Washington as a climax to their high school careers-from all sections of the Fourth District. The first group to come to the Capital this year was from Central High School, Fort Wayne. The students, chaperoned by Clifford H. Richards of the Department of Social Science, were here April 2, 3. Orland Seniors were next on May 1.

Clarence L. Bowers, principal of the Waterloo Grant Township Schools, brought his students here May 2. The Liberty Center and Union Center seniors, under the guidance of Lloyd Biberstine and Herman Franty, came on April 25.

One of the highlights of the capital visit for the Jefferson Township seniors of Ossian was to eat in the dining room where General MacArthur was feted on the day he delivered his address to the joint meeting of Congress. J. McLean Renson, principal, was in charge of this group on May 8.

OTHER SCHOOLS COMING—Schools sceduled to visit Washington during May include Hobgland High School on May 23, 24; Harlan on May 22, 23; Albion on May 27 through May 30; Wolf Lake on May 28; Rome City on May 21 through May 24.

Highlights of the trips to Washington are visits to the Capitol to see sessions of the House and Senate; the Supreme Court Building, Library of Congress Washington Monument; Jefferson Memorial and Lincoln Memorial; the Federal Bureau of Investigation; Mt. Vernon; Arlington Cemetery; Tomb of the Unknown Soldier; and the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

TAXES ARE GOING UP—Despite our efforts to reduce government spending, it looks like the Administration is in the saddle and riding hard for increased expenditures and higher taxes. The Democratic - controlled House Ways and Means Committee has tentatively approved a $6 billion increase in your taxes. These increases will take another one-cent bite out of the cost of a pack of cigarettes; new passenger cars will carry an added three per cent tax, raised from 7 to 10 per cent; mangles, dishwashers, electric razors, power lawnmowers, floor polishers, home movie projectors and other electric appliances will bear a 10 percent tax. Last but not least is the increased gasoline tax. It will be raised from one and a half cents per gallon to two cents. Air is still free, but they are thinking of taxing it. So take a deep breath now, before it's too late!

New Power Plant Dedicated

Indiana & Michigan Electric Company's new Tanners Creek power generation plant at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, will be dedicated to public service on Thursday, May 24.

More than 600 guests, including city, state and federal government officials, editors, business and civic leaders representing the communities served by the company in Indiana and Michigan, will attend the dedication ceremonies.

Guests will tour the $33,500,000 plant in the forenoon. Luncheon will be served aboard the excursion boat, "Avalon," of Cincinnati, which will be moored at the plant site.

Principal speakers at the dedication ceremonies following the luncheon will be Gov. Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, and Philip Sporn, president of both I & M and the American Gas and Electric Company.

Mr. Sporn will unveil a tablet dedicating the new plant to the service of the people of Indiana and Michigan.

C. V. Sorenson, vice-president and general manager of the Indiana and Michigan Electric Company, will serve as master of ceremonies.

The plant will produce 300,000 kilowatts of electricity, consisting of two 150,000-kilowatt generating units. The first unit went into commercial service in March after two and a half years of construction work. The second unit is scheduled for completion by mid-1952.

The new plant feeds high-voltage lines which interconnect the Indiana & Michigan system, thus benefitting all of the communities served by the system. The I & M system, in turn, is integrated with the American Gas and Electric system network which supplies electric power to more than 1,100,000 customers in a seven-state area extending from Lake Michigan to the North Carolina border.

Mr. Sorenson said that the plant will be capable of producing enough power to supply more than four times the entire residential electrical needs of Ft. Wayne, South Bend, Marion and Muncie. "We feel," Mr. Sorenson said, "this new plant will make a major contribution to the progress and prosperity of the communities it serves."

The generating unit now in operation at Tanners Creek is one of eight similar units which are being installed as a part of A G & E's accelerated three year expansion program. This three-year 1951-53 program, estimated to cost more than $290,000,000, will add 1,400,000 kilowatts to the A G & E system capacity. The capacity has been doubled since the start of World War II and by the end of 1953, it will have been tripled, Mr. Sorenson said.

By EVERETT MITCHELL

Farm Commentator, heard Monday through Saturday, 6:15-6:45 a. m. on WMAQ, Chicago, 670 on your dial.

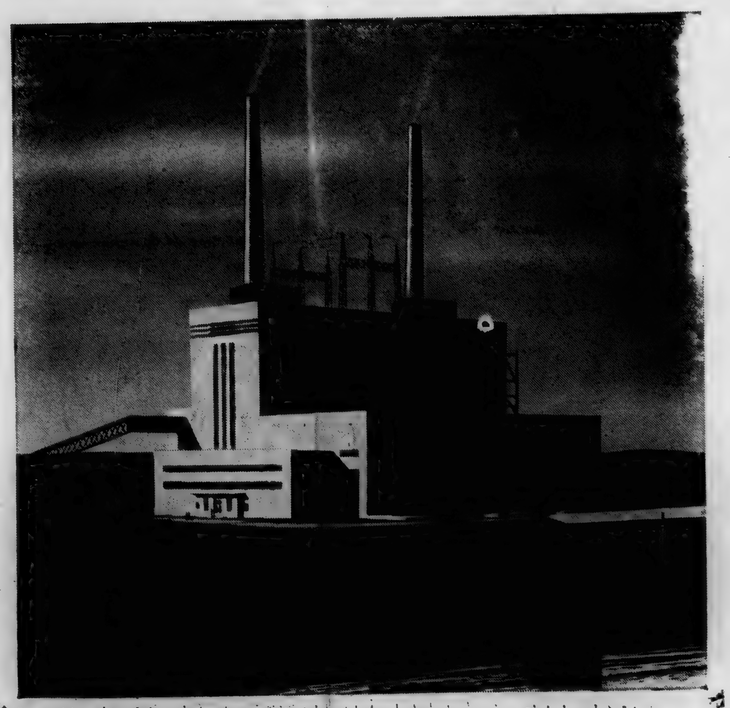
OUR corn and wheat and other farm produce this year will be grown on the most expensive soil in American history. Latest reports from the Department of Agriculture show that farm land prices have taken another jump upward to a point 14 per cent above a year ago and nine per cent higher than ever before.

There are just too many people who want to buy rural land, and too few people who can be talked into selling, so the law of supply and demand has operated to create a land price boom. The boom has been strongest in those parts of the country where farmers expect good income—with the biggest increases in prices showing up in the area from Ohio west to the Dakotas and Nebraska.

Increases in land prices also have been scattered in other parts of the country, notably Florida, Texas, Oklahoma, Wyoming and Arizona. A 20 per cent jump in Florida land values are due to a big demand for citrus orchards and grazing acres. In the far West, acres under irrigation and pasture land have shown the largest price jump, while in the Southeast, pasture and timber acreage has led the price parade.

In some areas, such as Texas and Arizona, the boom was credited to the lack of restrictions on cotton acreage. Maine was the only state reporting a drop in land prices, probably because of the outlook for lower cash returns on the potato crop. Cash deals are the exception in land sales now, with six out of 10 sales on credit. The size of the average farm mortgage is on the increase, too, and is now near $5,000. But the number of farm foreclosures is at an all-time low—about one in a thousand.

power... to extend Freedom everywhere

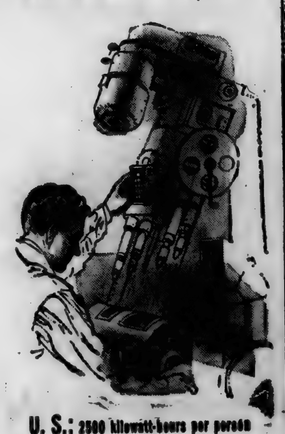


...annual production of Electricity

China: 4 kilowatt-hours per person

Pakistan: 2 kilowatt-hours per person

India: 14 kilowatt-hours per person



U. S.: 2500 kilowatt-hours per person

...and the highest standard of living in the world

All over the world, an infallible indicator of living standards is the amount of electricity a country produces. For electricity increases production, and productivity makes a nation prosperous, happy, strong.

At Lawrenceburg on Tanners Creek—where leatherworkers labored by hand in early days—a great new source of electric energy is being dedicated that, in these critical days, the spiritual descendants of these pioneers may produce both the products of peace and the weapons to defend the ideals for which their predecessors worked and fought and died. Thus will their ideals be preserved—and extended throughout the world wherever men cherish freedom.

Tanners Creek Plant already has one 150,000-kilowatt generating unit in operation. Another 150,000-kilowatt unit, now under construction, will be in service in June 1952. It is interconnected and backed up by the other plants of the American Gas and Electric System, serving 1,175,000 customers in 2,165 communities in seven states.

All told, the System has in service or under construction a total of 3,739,000 kilowatts to produce for peace and defense.

Tanners Creek Plant was built by the savings of individuals, by a private company engaged in public service, to provide more abundant and economical electric service to hundreds of thousands of people of Indiana and of Michigan, to increase the productivity of their industries and farms.

So built, and dedicated as it is to the public's service, the plant itself is a typical product of the way of life it will help substantially to preserve.

"HOT STICK"

it makes your electric service more dependable...

May we present your friend the "hot stick"—or hot line tool, if you prefer a formal name. You've never met before, most likely, but you've probably been spared some inconvenience through the hot stick's skillful use.

The hot stick here is one of many forms. Some hold wires in place, some twist wires together or cut them. Some work like wrenches. Others even have paint brushes and saws at the business ends of their six- or eight-foot insulated poles. They're used by power company crews to make repairs on live, or "hot" lines, without interrupting service.

In the old days it was necessary to turn off the current before even minor repairs could be made. People on the line would be without electric service for a spell. Now, with hot sticks, interruptions are far less frequent. We can handle many kinds of repairs on our highest-voltage lines, safely and quickly. We can replace an insulator, a cross-arm—or even a whole pole—and your lights don't even flicker.

Simple as it looks, a hot stick is a highly specialized contrivance. The men who handle them are highly specialized, too.

We're telling you all this because somehow the hot stick seems to typify so many other special skills and tools we use in our business every day. Little seen, little known, they serve you 'round the clock. They help you use and enjoy your electric service to the fullest.

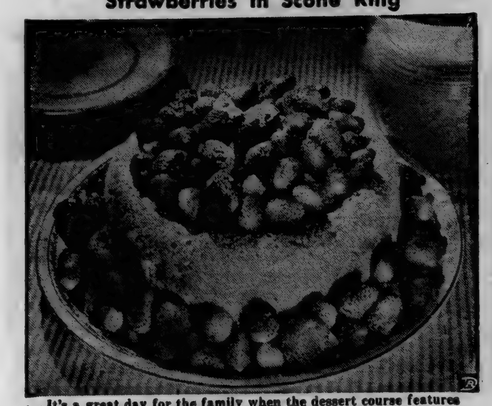
Strawberries in Scone Ring



It's a great day for the family when the dessert course features sugared strawberries heaped high in shortcake scone ring. Pour thick cream over individual servings.

When it's strawberry time, there's nothing like a shortcake to make your family happy.

Buy fluffy unfrosted cake from your baker's to make this national favorite, or make quick biscuit or scone shortcakes. A scone dough is handled just like biscuit dough. In the scone, sugar and eggs have been added for extra richness. Today's handsome scone ring is made from a "drop" scone batter. After stirring liquid into flour mixture only until flour is moistened, spread batter in 9-inch ring mold. The ring mold provides a pretty shell for the plump, red berries.

If you do not have a ring mold, bake batter in round cake pan, then split and serve shortcake style. Use the scone batter as a shortcake base for other fruits or berries in season.

You'll be pleased with the high nutritional value of shortcake desserts. Enriched flour in biscuit or scone supplies essential B-vitamins and food iron, the eggs, milk and fruit topping other important food values. Use enriched flour in home baking and look for the label "enriched" on all breads you buy at your baker's.

STRAWBERRIES IN SCONE RING

3 cups sifted enriched flour
4½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
4½ teaspoons sugar
6 tablespoons shortening
2 eggs
1½ cups milk
1½ quarts strawberries
Sugar for strawberries

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut or rub in shortening. Beat eggs. Add milk to beaten eggs and add all to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Pour batter into greased 9-inch ring mold. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 20 to 25 minutes. When baked, unmold and fill center with sugared crushed strawberries. Garnish top and sides with whole berries. Makes 1 9-inch ring.

Displaced Persons

Lesson for May 27, 1951

"D. P.'s" are no 20th-century novelty. This displaced person has for centuries dotted the international landscape. We can define a displaced person as one who, unwillingly or unintentionally, is a long way from a home which no longer exists. A D.P. would usually go home if he could, but he can't. His home has been bombed out, or perhaps his whole home town destroyed. Perhaps he and his neighbors have been forcibly moved out by a government that wants some one else in their places.

Dr. Foreman

The D.P. is usually at first poor, in the nature of the case; a foreigner where he is, sometimes without even a native land to go back to, to say nothing of a home town. Perhaps the most tremendous uprooting of people in recent times has been in Korea, where war victims have had to move out by the million.

The Innocent With the Guilty

BUT THE story is not a new one. Back in Bible times many of the Hebrews became D.P.'s. After the downfall of Israel and Judah, thousands of Jews were taken to the country along the Euphrates and Tigris rivers, there to fend for themselves as best they could.

The Bible writers always looked on that experience as a punishment of the nation, and so it was. But the experience illustrates a number of things. One is that the innocent often suffer with the guilty.

Not all those who were forced into those long death-marches had been to blame for their country's wrong-doings. Bad decisions of king and council resulted in personal disasters to thousands who had had nothing to do with their king's bad policies or their aristocrats' debauched lives.

D.P.'s Taking Root

ANOTHER thing to be noticed in the Bible story of these Hebrew D.P.'s is the way they took hold, wherever they were, and helped to build up the country and help themselves at the same time. They took root, in short, and even when later on their descendants were free to go "home," relatively few ever went back to Palestine.

From that time to this, the Jews have been scattered over the wide world, living (where it has been possible) as local citizens of whatever lands they call their own. We can still read Jeremiah's letter (ch. 29) to the D.P.'s from Judah, urging them to buy land, to lay out vineyards and plan houses and generally make themselves at home in Babylon.

We read of an Ezekiel, owning a home and settling down in Babylonia. We find Daniel the boy as a page in the royal household of Nebuchadnezzar, and as a man rising to prominence and power. Many of the D.P.'s took their places among the best citizens of their perforce adopted lands.

D.P.'s In American History

SO it has often been since. The United States alone owes a great deal to D.P.'s. The famous statue of Liberty is a welcome-sign to such people. The Pilgrims who came over in the Mayflower were D.P.'s, already twice uprooted. The Huguenot protestants, driven from France by official persecution, became top-level, successful citizens in England and America.

Revolutionary troubles in Europe a hundred years ago brought to American shores Carl Schurz, for example, a fugitive from the police of two countries because he was a revolutionist; here in America becoming a top success in many fields: general of the army, minister to Spain, Secretary of the Interior, prosperous business executive, editor of great city newspapers, writer and orator of international fame.

Not all D.P.'s become famous; but many thousands of them, throughout the troubled ages, have been a blessing to the lands that sheltered them.

So it may be in our time, that as God has before now brought good out of evil, he may in our troubled world bring even from the cruelties of deportation and homelessness again new understandings, fresh beginning, and an interweaving of many strands of humanity into a stronger fabric than before.

The St. Joe News

A Lighted Softball Diamond

VOLUME LXVI | ST. JOE (DeKalb Co.), INDIANA | Thursday, May 31, 1951 | NUMBER 21

News Gets Trimmed, 22-1

Displaying their annual first two innings of buck fever and wildness, the St. Joe News "nine" went down to defeat Friday night at Harlan. The score was 22 to 1.

Francis Dulle, St. Joe's starting pitcher, couldn't find the plate and dished up several walks without retiring a batter in the last half of the first inning. DuWayne Goings relieved him but received poor support from his mates in the first two innings. Harlan tallied 16 runs in that time.

Thereafter the locals steadied and played good ball. But Gustin, Harlan hurler, had too much "stuff" and fanned 18 batters before being relieved in the ninth.

In that inning Pete Akey hit what appeared to be a homer. However, he was nipped at the plate on a relay from the left fielder. The game ended as Haberkorn fanned for the fourth straight time, leaving two runners stranded.

CONCORD JR. HOME EC CLUB

The May 7th meeting was held at the home of Katie Crow. The meeting was opened by reading the club creed in unison. Marcelle Storer gave the history of the song of the month, "For the Beauty of the Earth." The group then sang "Day Is Dying in the West," followed by devotions.

Ellen Fetters gave an interesting lesson on poultry. Rose Means read an article, " Ten Commandments for Homemakers."

Project lessons for the coming year were discussed. Plans for a booth at the county fair were also discussed. The club will hold a bake sale June 16 at the Burgoyne Store in Auburn.

The secretary's report was read and approved and roll call was answered by sixteen members.

The meeting closed by singing the club prayer.

The next meeting will be held June 4th at the St. Joe Lutheran Church. The Corunna Home Ec Club will be guests.

FEW PEOPLE INFECTED BY POLIO VIRUS DEVELOP PARALYTIC SYMTOMS

by LLYOD W. AYCOCK, M. D. Associate Professor of Preventive Medicine, Harvard University Medical School

(Editors Note: This is the first of a series of articles written for laymen by outstanding scientists covering present day knowledge about polio, based upon the last thirteen years of research supported by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.)

The first time the virus of poliomyelitis gains access to the human body, it causes no symptoms of the paralytic disease at all for most people. Instead, most of us develop an immunity that protects us in later contacts with the virus.

If the virus did this for everybody, its extensive spread, about which little can be done in a practical way, might be a good thing. But, unfortunately, the infection does cause paralysis in a few of the many who are exposed to it. Thus it may be even more important that we know why the virus causes paralysis in the few than to know how it spreads to everybody.

Susceptibility In Host

The question of who is susceptible has been studied for some time by scientists supported by grants from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It is now believed that the reason for such a great difference in the result of exposure to the virus is not necessarily in the virus itself, as was once thought but can just as well be explained by conditions of and in the people who are exposed.

Climate Factor Seen

The same virus may attack without paralytic results in one person and bring about extensive paralysis in another. Among the many who now are known to be exposed to the virus, paralysis follows more often in those living in cooler climates than in those living in warmer climates. The reason for this is not understood, but it might well lie in some fault in bodily adaptation to the wider variation in seasons in cooler climates. Infection with the virus seems to cause paralysis somewhat more often in individuals of a certain type than it does in others. The disease in general does not pick those who are "run down" in the ordinary sense. If anything, it seems to pick on those who are "run up." It frequently is seen in the "strongest and healthiest" children-even those bordering on the robust. Repeated cases in the same family line suggest that this "constitutional susceptibility" at times may be a family trait.

Other seemingly predisposing conditions that cause paralysis in individuals who are infected with the virus are: the operation to remove tonsils, excessive exertion or fatigue and, according to very recent studies, possibly such simple things as the injection of vaccines. (The question of innoculations as a predisposing factor has been reported in England and Australia, and is being studied in the United now, without definite findings as yet.) There also is increased susceptibility in women during pregnancy.

Need Test For Susceptibility

Now, of course, all these conditions are very common and not dangerous in themselves. It is only in the exceptional instances, when they coincide with the widespread presence of the the virus in the community, that the conditions play a part in converting what would have been a harmless infection, resulting in increased immunity to later infections, into the paralytic disease.

Even when taken all together, these factors explain only a small proportion of cases of poliomyelitis. Some of them can be taken into account in setting up precautions during epidemics to prevent at least some paralytic cases. But the fact that paralytic polio is found in relatively large numbers of people in cool climates, in people of a certain type, in recently tonsillectomized or overfatigued persons and in pregnant women may be important in suggesting to scientists the kind of subtle changes that take place in the human body affecting its susceptibility to paralysis.

An understanding of the nature of these subtle changes that disturb the delicate balance between resistance and susceptibility would open up entirely new approaches to the prevention of paralysis. If the few people who are susceptible to paralysis could be identified in advance by some test, and their resistance increased, as has been done already with the experimental animal, then the disease with paralysis could be turned for everybody into what it already is in most people, a harmless, immunizing infection.

This is the goal of much arduous and careful work supported by the March of Dimes now going forward in many parts of the country.

SPENCER TWP. HOME EC

The April meeting of the Spencer Twp. Home Ec Club was held at the home of Nellie Allen. The meeting was opened by singing "Love's Old Sweet Song," which was led by Elsie Fisher. Ellen Hart gave the devotions on hospitality. The club repeated the club prayer, then had the secretary's report. Roll call was answered by naming an April flower. Mrs. Robert Witt demonstrated some containers and paper to be used in packaging foods for freezing. The club had the pleasure of having three of the county officers present, Mrs. Mildred Grogg, county president, Mrs. Lucile Nelson, county literary leader, and Mrs. Velma Husselman, county garden leader. The Holland Tulip Festival was held May 16 through 19. A seed and bulb exchange was held followed by a flower contest. Co-hostesses for this meeting were Dorothy Kimes and Irma Allen.

The May meeting was held at the home of Eleanor Crothers. It was opened by singing "For the Beauty of the Earth," led by Miriam Hamilton who also gave the history of the song. THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Ezra 1; 5—6; Nehemiah 2—6; 8—9.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 126.

Out of Ruins

Lesson for June 3, 1951

A GERMAN who came through World War II recently said: "At present there is no country in the world where a man can live more like a man than in Germany. This is because yesterday has been reduced to ruins and rubbish . . . We can thank God that he has blessed us with ruins more than he has others."

Dr. Foreman

This may sound shocking, but it sounds not unlike the Bible. There were Jews in ancient times who lived to thank God for the ruins of Jerusalem.

• • •

At Last They Believed

IF you had asked a resident of that city, at the hour when the enemy army was burning his beloved home, if God's hand was in the catastrophe, most likely he would have said, "No, not by any means. This is Nebuchadnezzar's work, or the devil's—certainly not God's."

Consider what good came out of it. For one thing, it taught the Jews that God is really a God of justice, after all. The nation that sinneth, it shall die; the nation that takes the sword shall perish by the sword. The prophets had been trying to tell them that for many a long year; but no attention had been paid.

The sins the prophets had said God would surely punish, went on and on, and there seemed to be no reckoning and no punishment. The little nation was deluded into thinking it could get by with anything for as long as they pleased. But after the crash of 586 B.C., they all knew the prophets had been telling the truth.

Yesterday Is Dead

FOR another thing, the exile cured the Jews, for a long time, of trying to be a political nation like other nations. God had called them to another kind of existence. So long as they had been an independent nation they had kept fooling around with politics, armies, international intrigue. After all that had been swept into Nebuchadnezzar's dustbin, the people's hearts turned more and more to God and his laws.

Another way in which that city-wide ruin was a blessing was that it "killed yesterday." Before the fatal year 586, the Hebrew kings and people had more or less looked backward. Every king wanted to be a great conqueror like David, a wealthy potentate like Solomon. But they never would look the cold fact in the face, that those days were gone forever.

But when the exiles came back to rebuild the ruins, the younger ones at least looked forward. Yesterday was dead; they built now for tomorrow.

Blessed With Ruins

RUINS can be a blessing in more ways than one. So Chicago and San Francisco and Baltimore were better cities after their big fires; Louisville improved after its great flood; the "New South" of today is blessed as the Old South, for all its glamor, could not have been.

Sometimes a man who has been depending on anything but God for hope and happiness—on his money, on his friends, on his health, on his position—finds these things swept out from under him, and then at last comes back to God.

After a man's childhood faith has been shattered by manhood's disillusionments, it has often come to pass that out of the ruins of the childish beliefs he rears a tower of faith far stronger than anything he has lost.

Let's Not Make Ruins

THIS does not mean, of course, that we ought ever to go out and deliberately make ruins. The best way to improve other nations is not to drop bombs on them; the best way to be improved ourselves is not to act in such ways as to tempt other nations to drop bombs on us.

The best way to build a better faith is not to scrap all the faith we have. The best way to find God is not to go out and find him in a foxhole. The blessings of ruins are not the best God has; but sometimes they are what it takes to bring a man to his senses.

And if the crash does come, and the towers fall, and life lies in rubble around us, we must remember what the Hebrews learned: that even in the ruins we may, better than ever, come to know the living God.

Ham-Apple Casserole Is Delicious, Thrifty

Red apple slices crown this savory casserole which may be made with leftover ham.

The juicy, flavorful combination of ham and crisp, spicy red apples baked in a casserole, is a grand idea for family dinners and makes a delicious meal in itself when served with a mixed green or jellied salad. Both appetizing and nutritious, it's also thrifty now while local markets are featuring choice quality Winesap apples from Washington State at real economy prices.

These tangy red Winesaps are equally good for eating and for use in salads and cooked dishes. The smaller schoolboy sizes are just right to tuck into lunch boxes and, since this apple is a good keeper, you can buy in quantity and have them cold and crisp in your refrigerator.

SAVORY HAM-AND-APPLE CASSEROLE

3 cups cooked ham, ground
6 red Winesap apples
½ tsp. dry mustard
1 tbsp. onion, grated
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 cup bread crumbs
¼ cup brown sugar
2 tbsps. butter or margarine

Combine ham, mustard, onion, egg, milk and bread crumbs and place in greased baking dish. Core apples and cut into ½ inch thick slices. Arrange slices to overlap on top of ham mixture. Sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter or margarine. Bake uncovered in moderate oven (375°) about 40 minutes or until apples are brown and tender. Serves 6.

Report From Your Congress

by Cong. E. Ross Adair
Fourth District, Indiana

MARSHALL PLAN SCANDAL—I have called for an investigation by the Economic Cooperation Administration of charges emanating from the Fourth District that 50,000 tons of pure nickel sent to England under the Marshall Plan have been re-shipped to this continent and are now awaiting shipment into Indiana for processing.

When the possibility of this shocking situation was revealed to me, it was indicated that a former high Indiana public official was assisting in the efforts to have this nickel brought into this country at a stipulated fee of not less than $50,000.

ASK ECA INVESTIGATION—In requesting the ECA immediately to investigate these charges, I submitted the following information which I had received:

"Rumors are persistent that we gave, through the Marshall Plan, to England 50,000 tons of pure nickel. We understand that this nickel has again been reshipped and is now somewhere along the Mexican border awaiting shipment into this country—destination somewhere in Indiana for processing.

"We also have rumors to the effect that a former state official, has been given the task of trying to get this nickel into this country with a stipulated fee of not less than $50,000."

CIVILIAN PAYROLL MOUNTS—Testifying before the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, Robert Ramspeck, former Democratic Congressman, now chairman of the Civil Service Commission, recently declared that the federal government's civilian payroll is $2 billions greater than the military payroll. Ramspeck said: ". . . it might be interesting to the committee to know that at the present time, based upon the latest figures I have, the civilian payroll of the government is running at the rate of slightly less than $8 billions a year. The military pay and allowances is running slightly above $6 billions a year."

CURRENT CAPITAL STORY—Going the rounds of Washington is the following story: Do you know that the four greatest American tragedies are: the Johnstown flood, the Chicago fire of 1871, World War II and the closing of a haberdashery in Kansas City.

New American Sports Car

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Muntz (Joan Barton of motion pictures, radio and television) inspect the latest Muntz Jet after it rolled off the factory assembly line.

EVANSTON, ILL.—Styled and engineered to surpass the most expensive of the European imports, the new "MUNTZ JET" has become America's standard-bearer in the sports-car field and the latest project of TV manufacturer Earl "Madman" Muntz.

Already in full-scale production here, the Jet combines limousine luxury and comfort with traditional sports-car speeds and body design. It seats four; stands just 54 inches high on a 113 inch wheelbase; boasts a score of interior appointment innovations (e.g., ice-boxes) plus a removable metal top; accelerates from 0 to 80 mph in 9 seconds with effortless cruising speeds in excess of 125 mph by virtue of a 156 hp Lincoln V-8 Hydramatic power plant and extreme low weight (3200 lbs.).

New darling of American sports-car enthusiasts, the "Jet" sells for $5500 and is being produced at the rate of one a day. Production is aimed at 1,000 cars per year, to be marketed thru factory-operated showrooms in Los Angeles, Chicago, New York, and several cities yet to be selected.

CULTURE CLUB

The Culture Club entertained the Ladies Literary Club on May 2, 1951, at the Spencerville Lutheran Church. Fifty ladies were present and found partners by matching flower cards.

The tables were decorated with May poles and doll dancers, and candy mint nosegays were at each place. The dinner served at 6:30 consisted of pineapple juice, appetizers, baked ham, scalloped potatoes, frozen lima beans, lime salad, rolls, butter, rosettes with strawberries and whipped cream and coffee.

The program was as follows: Pledge to the Flag, song "America," and Club Collect. Mrs. Lester Anthony gave the welcome and Mrs. Glen Cole responded for the guests.

Mrs. Ray Reasoner gave a poem entitled, "Remembrance," and the group enjoyed several songs in unison. The entertainment highlight was provided by the Sentimental Four of Fort Wayne who sang a number of selections in typical barbershop quartet style. The gentlemen were dressed alike in conventional brown business suits. After a short absence, they returned in costumes reminiscent of the Gay Ninetees - false mustaches, odd hats, outlandish vests and long white aprons. The remainder of the evening was enjoyably spent listening to their fine harmony. Their vocalizing was accompanied by much humor, which brought laughter and applause from the audience.

HINTS ON HEALTH by the INDIANA STATE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

ABDOMINAL PAIN

"DOCTOR, I have a pain in my stomach, what's the trouble?" This might be an easily explainable dilemma on the day following a big holiday feast.

A patient with an acute, sudden pain in the abdomen presents a knotty problem to the physician. The doctor must decide, and decide quickly, the correct diagnosis, considering dozens of conditions which may be causing the pain. A history of the patient and his illnesses, a physical examination and laboratory tests help the doctor make the diagnosis.

ONE THING IS MOST IMPORTANT — IN CASE OF ABDOMINAL PAIN, ADMINISTER NOTHING BY MOUTH, ESPECIALLY A LAXATIVE, AND CALL THE FAMILY DOCTOR.

Pain is the body's warning system to tell you that something is wrong. Pain may indicate a minor functional disturbance or it may be the warning of a serious condition that should receive immediate attention.

Inasmuch as there are many causes of abdominal pain, it is important that self-diagnosis be discarded in favor of an accurate, thorough diagnosis by the most skillful means.

Modern medicine has devised methods of determining the cause and location of abdominal pain. It is important that the physician be given a complete history of this pain, the frequency of occurrence, the relation of the intake of food and liquids to the pain, and past injuries in the region of the pain that might have been taken lightly at the time.

After a thorough examination and a skillful diagnosis, the cause can be properly treated.
